HEARST IS EXPELLED ON VISIT TO FRANCE FOR 'HOSTILE' ACTION

Government Says Move Was Taken Because of Use of Secret Naval Pact.

NOTE PUBLISHED IN 1928

Tardieu Reported to Have Fixed Ban Aug. 9 After American's Talk to German Press.

ORDER IS OBEYED QUICKLY

Paper Owner Asserts in London He Told French He Would "Save" Nation by Going at Once.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Somewhat of a sensation was caused in London today when it was learned that William Randolph Hearst, American newspaper proprietor, who arrived here last night from Paris, had been expelled from France because of the publication of the memorandum on the secret Anglo-French naval pact two years ago in Hearst newspapers.

Mr. Hearst arrived in Paris yesterday morning from the Italian lake district and went to the Hotel Crillon, where he received the expulsion order. He was told the French Cabinet had decided to expel him because his newspapers were "hostile" to France.

Not Molested Month Ago.

Yesterday was not the first time Mr. Hearst had returned to France since the episode of the secret document. He spent some days in Paris a month or so ago on the way to Germany and was not molested then.

When Mr. Hearst reached London last night he told no one here, not even his own representatives who met him at the station, of his expulsion and sudden departure from France. It was learned only this morning when a news agency telephoned to his hotel asking for a statement, after which the American publisher was bombarded by reporters and photographers.

Later today Mr. Hearst, who is remaining in London for a while before going to his 800-year-old castle in Glamorgan, South Wales, issued a statement to the press here in which he defended publication of the secret document because it informed the American people, even though it "upset some international applecarts."

Text of Hearst Statement.

Mr. Hearst's statement follows:

I have no complaint to make. The officials were extremely polite. They said I was an enemy of France and a danger in their midst. They made me feel quite important.

They said I could stay a little while longer if I desired; that they would take a chance on nothing disastrous happening to the republic.

But I told them I did not want to take the responsibility of endangering the great French nation; that America had saved it once during the war and I would save it again by leaving.

Furthermore I was like the man who was told he was going blind and who said he did not mind as he had seen everything anyhow.

Similarly, I had seen everything in France, including some very interesting governmental performances.

Then I asked Mr. Tardieu's emissary to express to Mr. Tardieu my immense admiration at his amazing alertness in protecting France from the peril of invasion, and we parted with quite elaborate politeness.

It was a little bit foolish but extremely French.

The reason for the strained relations—to use the proper diplomatic term—was the publication of the secret Anglo-French treaty two years ago by the Hearst newspapers, which upset some international applecarts but informed the American people, and of course that being the reason, the French Government was entirely right in levelling its attack at me, and quite wrong in its action toward Mr. Horan, who was only my agent.

I think, however, that the general attitude of the Hearst press in opposing the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations

Air and Rail Lines Here Open A Consolidated Ticket Office

Airlines consolidated ticket office was opened yesterday in the lobby of the Hotel Roosevelt by the Airlines Traffic Association. The office will sell tickets for air and air-rail trips on eighteen lines radiating out of the city.

The association opened a similar cooperative ticket bureau in Chicago two years ago with privilege to sell rides on thirty-two lines throughout the country. More such offices will be opened in airplane centres throughout the country soon.

Colonel L. H. Brittin, president of the association, and other officers were present at the formal opening.

HOOVER LAUDS COSTE FOR 'GLORIOUS' FLIGHT

In Cable to Doumergue, the President Calls Exploit of the French Airmen Brilliant.

LINDBERGH HAILS SUCCESS

Own Feat Surpassed, He Says —Byrd, Kimball and Aviation Leaders Add Their Praise.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The successful transatlantic flight of Captain Coste and M. Bellonte was a cause of general rejoicing here where interest in the daring Frenchmen had superseded all other interests.

Word that the fliers had landed was the signal for the dispatch of congratulatory messages by ranking officials of the government, while others informally expressed their gratification at the successful crossing of the Atlantic with words of high praise for the French aviators.

President Hoover, in a message to President Doumergue of France, declared that by the flight France "has established a glorious record." His message follows:

Sept. 2, 1930.

His Excellency Gaston Doumergue,
President of the French Republic,
Paris, France.

I join with the people of the American nation in rejoicing over the brilliant exploit of your distinguished aviators, Captain Dieudonné Coste and M. Maurice Bellonte, in successfully completing for the first time in history a non-stop flight from France to the United States.

France has established a glorious record. I hope that in the future many others of your citizens will come to us in this manner.

I extend to your Excellency and to the people of France my heartiest congratulations.

HERBERT HOOVER.

Message to French People.

The State Department at the same time requested Ambassador Edge at Paris to extend to the Minister for Foreign Affairs, and through him to the people of France, the heartiest congratulations of the United States Government on the magnificent flight.

The department's congratulations to the fliers were contained in a message to Captain Coste from Green Hackworth, solicitor of the State Department, and in the absence of higher officials, the acting Secretary of State.

This message read as follows:

Sept. 2, 1930.

Captain Dieudonné Coste,
Curtiss-Wright Airport,
Valley Stream, Long Island.

Personally, and on behalf of the people of this country, I extend to you and Maurice Bellonte our heartiest congratulations upon your magnificent flight and safe arrival The same splendid courage and undaunted spirit that inspired Nungesser and Coli have at last been rewarded.

GREEN HACKWORTH.

Among other officials who informally voiced their congratulations was Major Gen. J. E. Fechét, chief of the Army Air Corps, who said:

"I consider it a very marvelous flight and wish to congratulate them."

Navy Heads Add Greetings.

Secretary of the Navy Adams sent the following message to Captain Coste:

"The American Navy extends its congratulations to you and your companion, Maurice Bellonte, upon the successful completion of the Paris to New York flight in an airplane. Your courageous feat has aroused the admiration of every of-

COSTE'S OWN STORY TELLS OF FLYING THROUGH MIST

Like Floating Through a Hazy Dream for Hours and Hours—Felt Lucky After Conquering Three Storms Over Atlantic.

ONCE DRIVEN 100 MILES OFF THEIR COURSE

Knew That the Battle Was Over When They Sighted Land at 6 A. M., but Got Into a 'Tight Place' Between Steep Cliffs of a River.

By CAPTAIN DIEUDONNE COSTE.

When we took off from Paris the day before yesterday we knew it was the greatest moment in our lives. It was the culmination of three years of hard effort, not unmixed with many heartbreaking disappointments. If we had not left at that particular minute we might well have faced three more years of delay before accomplishing the first flight from a city of the Old World to the greatest city in the New World.

There were many exciting moments during our trip, and at times I could not be sure from one minute to the next—now that it is all over—which was the greatest thrill. I think, however, that that came after we first sighted the coast of North America. As you know, the coast of Nova Scotia is full of bends and turns, fills and rivers, promontories and little gulfs.

Followed the Winding Coast.

When we reached the coast we were determined not to lose sight of it again. In order to keep it in view we had to follow all these devious turns and that was a job. At the same time we had another problem. The sky was overcast, it was raining and we had to fly below those rain clouds. Sometimes they were extremely low, which made it necessary for us to fly as close to the water as ten meters.

We came to one bend and turned it; we flew on, skirting a precipice. Suddenly there loomed up out of the mist another precipice on our port side. We were caught between the steep banks of a river—what river, I do not know. It was a tight place.

Bellonte was at the controls at that time and he had to think fast. Fortunately, having flown thousands of miles, the ship was light. Bellonte gave her the gas and shot upward.

Decided to Fly by Instrument.

It is not pleasant to think how close we came to those cruel, jagged rocks. We went up fairly high and began to fly steadily by instrument. Some time passed before the clouds and the rain cleared somewhat and then we were over what I believe was the Atlantic off the coast of Maine. We came down a little later through a new bank of fog and headed down the coast until we were over a large city.

We were so interested in trying to determine what city it was that it never occurred to us that this was the first great city we had passed since leaving Paris. Only a few minutes later we passed another city, and now there was no doubt. We identified it as Boston. We continued the flight without further incident before landing at Valley Stream.

The tremendous load of fuel required for this flight, in which we expected to buck prevailing unfavorable winds, gave us the first real thrill of the voyage. Would the ship lift off the ground? That was our great concern. We had 5,200 litres of gasoline on board.

Storms Ahead Cause Concern.

But this great fear passed in a few moments and we found new cause for concern with each passing moment. There were storms ahead. We would have to push our over-weighted ship through them. We ran into the first of these disturbances off the Irish coast. The second gave us some trying moments, not long afterward, over the ocean, but fortunately we were able to escape the worst of it. The third—and probably the worst of all—was the storm we encountered over Nova Scotia.

That it occurred only yesterday morning seems impossible just at this moment. So many things seem to have happened since, that that storm seems remote—something that happened long, long ago.

Driven 100 Miles Off Course.

We had to find the best route to Nova Scotia, and that in short order, if we were to avoid the hazards that faced the Bremen when it ran into fog and storm of a similar nature and was forced down hundreds of miles from its goal.

In seeking to avoid this storm we were obliged to fly 100 miles out of our way to the south. We did not find land, as we had expected, so we turned northward again, flying another 100 miles. Time was swiftly passing. Each minute meant the loss of more of our precious fuel. Again we turned.

It occurred to us that three is a lucky number. We had faced three storms—were we now to be defeated? We were sure that we would not be.

Land Sighted in Early Morning.

After three hours of searching we computed that we must be very near the coast of Nova Scotia. At 3 A. M. (French time)—for we had not changed our clock—we sighted land. At the same moment it became obvious that the winds were abating. Naturally we were very happy—very happy. The only thing that could stop us now, we thought, would be failure of our motor.

It had carried us already from France to North America and we knew that it would not fail us now. We had perfect confidence in its stanch heart and that confidence was justified. The motor was wonderful. It did all that we had hoped it would.

Weather conditions, on the whole, were very favorable—at least the winds were on our side. On the other hand, almost the entire route was clouded over and we went hour after hour over that watery waste through a thick white mist. We could not see what lay ahead, below or above. It was like floating in a dream. There was something unreal about it—unreal and awesome. We were two, but we seemed so all alone.

Up and Down to Find Clear Way.

Most of the time I was at the controls, and there was plenty to keep my mind busy. There was no time for dreaming. Constantly I had to shift my course to find a way out of the haze. Sometimes we dropped the plane down to less than 300 feet from the waves. At other times we were up to 2,500 feet. We seldom went above that mark, and never very much above it.

But we had our reward. Although my mind was taken up with the News of Safe Landing Here Shouted Joyfully by Great Throngs in Streets.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—"Vive Coste!" "Vive Bellonte!" "Vive la France!" All over Paris these cries have roused the midnight hours. There is no one in the city who does not know that Coste and Bellonte have crossed safely from Paris to New York by air; crossed between breakfast time on one day and supper time on the next.

"They have done it," has been cried up every street, and every one knew who "they" were and what they had done. And so to bed, with immense, tremendous happiness, contentment and pride.

From Curtiss Field to the Place de la Concorde came the voice of Graham McNamee: "He's taxiing down the field!" The rest was interrupted by the clamor of those who did not understand. Then a French voice broke in: "Coste has landed!"

It was that way that Paris learned that the great adventure of east-to-west crossing of the Atlantic had been accomplished, that Nungesser and Coli and so many others had been avenged, that Lindbergh's great flight had been complemented and that the link between Paris and New York had been forged on both sides by air.

By tremendous handclapping Captain Coste was acclaimed, and there was an immense sigh of relief.

The great historic place, the Place de la Concorde, had been crowded. Even its immense acreage could scarcely hold those who came. It was impossible to count the multitude. For that was a rendezvous of all Paris. It was there that it had been arranged all news should be broadcast from the roof of the automobile club. Only that great space, it was certain, could hold the crowd of those who all day had been asking, "Where are they now; when will they arrive?"

Crowd Sure of Success.

There never was any doubt in any one's mind all day—not in that of Mme. Coste or of Mme. Bellonte; not in that of taxi drivers, who would ask their fares for the latest news; not in that of concierges who exchanged their views with passers-by. It was a day of most extraordinary cama-

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., Sept. 2.—As the red biplane of Captain Dieudonné Coste and Maurice Bellonte swung out of the northeast at dusk and circled low over the Curtiss Airport here a cheer of welcome roared from the throats of 10,000 persons massed in rows behind a wire fence and strung out in a long line in front of the field's six hangars.

A large part of the crowd had waited all afternoon through a heavy rainstorm and, though most of the spectators were held behind the fence and got no more than a fleeting glimpe of the red plane, they were as vociferous in their welcome as if they had been a part of the crowd that helped to carry the two fliers off the field in triumph.

Crowd Breaks Police Lines.

As the plane glided to a graceful landing and started to taxi toward the grand stand on the west side of the field, the crowd inside the fence broke through the police lines and ran shouting and dodging policemen toward the craft. Coste, realizing the danger of the whirling propeller, cut the switch, and the metal blade swung slowly to a stop. A score of policemen and mechanics joined hands and, forming a circle about the plane, tried with scant success to hold back the crowd. At least seventy-five persons broke through the cordon and swarmed about the plane. Coste, looking hot and tired, stepped out of the plane into a seething mob, which kissed him, pummeled him, wrung his hands and all but knocked him from his feet.

"Splendid!" "Magnifique!" "Felicitations!" French as well as American voices screamed. French girls embraced the fliers, kissing them time and again, and Frenchmen followed suit. An announcer for the National Broadcasting Company, holding a microphone high above his head, was lost in the struggling throng, and gasped in the microphone:

"We seem to be having a little difficulty here at Valley Stream."

Elinor Smith, girl aviator, was in the midst of the crowd, but did not get a chance to greet the fliers until later.

A delegation of French war veterans, carrying the French tricolor and the American flag, struggled inside the police cordon, but had but

'A Great Flight,' He Says, Gripping Hand of Ace Amid Tumult at Curtiss Field—France Hears the Fliers on Radio—They Will Fly On to Texas.

By JOSEPH SHAPLEN.

Special to The New York Times.

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., Sept. 2.—Captain Dieudonné Coste and his co-pilot, Maurice Bellonte, completed tonight the first direct flight from Paris to New York when they landed at the Curtiss airport at 7:12:30 P. M., after a journey of 37 hours 18 minutes 30 seconds. They covered 6,500 kilometers, or about 4,100 miles, and when they landed had 100 gallons of gasoline left, sufficient for nearly three hours more of flight.

Their achievement marked the first non-stop crossing from Europe to the American metropolis. What others have tried to do and failed Captain Coste and M. Bellonte accomplished. In doing so they triumphed magnificently over the elements which sent Nungesser and Coli, the first two Frenchmen to try the westward trip, to death, and took their revenge upon Neptune for the loss of other valiant aviators who sought to achieve the westward flight.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's time for the eastward crossing was better. It took him only thirty-three hours and a half to fly from Roosevelt Field to Le Bourget to pay the visit which Coste and Bellonte repaid tonight. The Spirit of St. Louis rose from earth and started on its historic flight at 7:52 A. M., May 20, 1927. Lindbergh brought it to earth just outside of Paris at 10:24 Continental Time (5:24 P. M., New York Time), on May 21.

Ten thousand throats yelled a wild greeting to the two French masters of the air as their airplane, the scarlet, enigmatic Question Mark, bearing upon her sides the written record of a dozen odysseys of the sky, came down smoothly and gracefully on the east side of the field and taxied rapidly toward the hangars on the west side. Here among the first to greet Captain Coste and M. Bellonte was Colonel Lindbergh, whose visit to Paris had now been returned.

"Great Flight," Colonel Lindbergh Declares.

"It's a great flight," was the enthusiastic comment of Colonel Lindbergh after he had finally managed, with the assistance of policemen, to make his way to the French airmen, following their rescue from the cheering crowds, whose enthusiasm exceeded all bounds. Never before in the history of aviation in this country, according to veterans of the air, have any flying men received the reception accorded tonight to Captain Coste and his companion.

Soon after the Question Mark landed, the fliers were informed that Colonel W. E. Easterwood of Dallas, Texas, had offered $25,000 to Captain Coste and M. Bellonte if they would fly their ship to Dallas. Captain Coste said he would be glad to make the trip because it would give him an opportunity for a cross-country flight, and said he would probably take off Thursday morning, after the plane has been tuned up and tightened.

Asked if he had any plans for the future, which might include a trip around the world via the poles, as one interviewer suggested, Captain Costes replied he had no plans beyond the flight to Dallas.

It was 7:10 P. M. when the Question Mark, easily distinguished by her color and peculiar design, appeared in the sky over the airport, escorted by three Curtiss fledglings from the Naval Reserve aviation field here and flanked by a score of other airplanes which had taken off shortly before to extend a welcome to the French fliers.

After circling the field, the Question Mark came down, making a perfect landing. Veering quickly in the direction of the hangars the French victors of the Atlantic raced toward the hangars, obviously anxious to avoid the onrush of the crowds. But in vain. The moment Captain Coste and M. Bellonte raised their heads out of the cockpit and stepped over the fuselage they were picked up on the shoulders of several of their compatriots and carried to Hangar 2, while a small army of policemen struggled desperately to protect them against what seemed imminent injury from the ever-increasing pressure of the throng of admirers. "Vive la France," "Vive Coste et Bellonte," came the resounding, ever-mounting cries from the hundreds of Frenchmen who formed a prominent part of the surging crowds.

Police Battle Crowds in Great Rush of Welcome.

Above the unrestrained, joyous clamor of voices the boom of a hundred flashlights accompanied the triumphant procession across the field to the hangar, where the police hoped they could isolate the fliers. Here the police had to fight a veritable battle to get Coste and Bellonte to safety, but even in the hangar they found no refuge, for before the police and airport employes could close and bolt the rolling doors hundreds forced their way in, besieging the fliers, eager to shake their hands, uncontrollable in their determination to get as close as possible to the airmen. With their faces dripping perspiration, their backs against a wall, Coste and Bellonte stood speechless for nearly ten minutes, wondering what would be the end of this mad scene which appeared beyond the powers of the police to master, until, in phalanx formation, the guards rushed the crowd back far enough to clear an exit.

With the greatest difficulty, Coste and Bellonte were finally rushed to a room upstairs, to which only a small group of their friends, members of the Nassau County and the Mayor's reception committees and representatives of the French Government made their way in the vain hope of getting a few words with the airmen.

Lindbergh Greets Fliers Returning His Visit.

Here, too, came Colonel Lindbergh, smiling with joy at the success of the flight and rushing forward to congratulate first Coste and then Bellonte.

Captain Coste's eyes flashed as he grasped the hand of the young man who more than any one else had captured the imagination of the world by his solo flight to Le Bourget, the starting point of the Question Mark.

Firmly the two heroes of the air shook hands as thousands outside, standing in the glare of scores of magnesium flares, broke into the wildest outburst of cheering that marked the arrival.

"Comment ca va?" asked Captain Coste.

"I congratulate you, I congratulate you," said Colonel Lindbergh, again pressing the Frenchman's hand and apparently so overcome by the event that he was unable to say much more. Colonel Lindbergh then shook hands with Bellonte, repeating his congratulations.

Later, to newspapermen, Colonel Lindbergh said, "It was a great flight."

Ignoring the clamor of the crowd to come to the window and share in the applause for Coste and Bellonte, Colonel Lindbergh quickly withdrew to a corner of the room. After a few words in French to the crowd, Coste and Bellonte were escorted downstairs to the radio broadcasting room by their manager, Rene Racover, where they greeted the millions of their countrymen in France over a transatlantic hook up.

"I want to go to bed, I want to go to sleep," murmured Captain Coste on the way to the microphone. "Good bye, good bye, I thank you," he added, turning to Colonel Lindbergh.

"We have arrived after a flight of considerable difficulty," he said into the microphone. "Needless to say we are very happy to have arrived."

This was all he could say, as he turned pleadingly to M. Racover, anxious to terminate the ordeal and be on his way to New York.

"We were retarded slightly by bad weather, but nevertheless we are here and we are pleased to be here," Bellonte added to Coste's message to France.

"We are very glad to have negotiated the passage. We were hampered for a time by bad weather conditions, but we got here sooner than we expected."

With a car waiting to rush him to the Ritz Tower in New York, Captain Coste spoke very briefly of the flight to newspaper men, confining himself to a sketchy description.

"The time of our departure from Paris was decided upon at the very last moment," he said. "We chose the time because it presented very marvelous weather conditions. At any hour, of course, one takes a route that presents risks. You have to go by way of the north, where there are always rain and stormy weather. We knew what was awaiting us. After we left Ireland we ran into dirty weather and had to fly higher than we wished. Later, however, we were able to come down in a low pressure area, where we found a favorable tail wind. It took us thirty-seven hours to reach here, which we consider very good time. The engine worked well all the way."

In conclusion, Captain Coste took a pencil and roughly sketched the route he had traversed, marking various points along it "high pressure" and "low pressure," and indicating that the last leg of the journey, centring on Halifax, was one of the worst of the whole flight.

Following the brief interview and without further delay, Captain Coste and M. Bellonte were rushed in an automobile to New York by M. Racover.

As they seated themselves, dazed and exhausted, in the machine, they took a last glance at the field, bathed in flood lights, conscious that they had written another glorious chapter into the history of aviation.

The delegation of Frenchmen who greeted the fliers was headed by Jules Henry, French Chargé d'Affaires in Washington; the Mayor's committee for reception of distinguished guests was represented by George F. Mand, while William E. Ennequist headed a group representing the Nassau County reception committee. Members of these committees had great difficulty in reaching the fliers in the wild mêlée that marked the reception. M. Henry was pushed about rather violently by policemen until he managed to reveal his identity and prevail upon them to escort him to the fliers.

Mr. Mand and Mr. Ennequist eventually succeeded in reaching the fliers after they, too, in common with newspaper men, had to fight their way to Coste and Bellonte.

By 10 o'clock tonight Curtiss Field was pretty well deserted of visitors who gave the police what was described as the hardest day of their lives.

The Question Mark rested safely in Hangar 1, carefully guarded against curiosity and souvenir seekers.

When Captain Coste and M. Bellonte departed for New York they left behind a feeling of disappointment that their arrival and stay on the field was so brief—the entire event did not take much more than a half hour—that it was impossible for the eager watchers to learn all they wanted to know of the great feat. It was taken for granted, however, that their flight will reveal many valuable lessons to the benefit of transatlantic aviation.

Great Gains for Aviation Science Seen.

Experts at the field declared that the technical, navigational and meteorological value of the trip was beyond measure and would be utilized by aviators to surmount the difficulties inherent in the westward crossing of the Atlantic, one of the problems which has baffled heavier-than-air machines.

Despite the successes achieved by some aviators in crossing the Atlantic, although never before in a direct flight to New York, it was felt that the flight of Coste and Bellonte marked the real first successful attempt of this kind on a large scale, equaling in every way the flight of Lindbergh to Le Bourget. Not since that famous flight has the public seemed to react with the same electric response to a feat of aviation as was evidenced today.

In the frenzy of the milling crowd, with every one of the many thousands eager to touch the hands of the French airmen. was expressed the reaction of men to one of those rare feats which lift them above the ordinary affairs of life, while the presence of Lindbergh on the scene served to unite two great moments in aviation history—the moment when he descended over the field at Le Bourget and the moment of the arrival of Coste and Bellonte over Curtiss Field.

Mrs. Lindbergh, who accompanied her husband to the field, kept in the background during the reception. With her husband and all others on the field she shared the enthusiasm of the occasion.

Perhaps the most disappointed on the field following the departure of the French fliers was a group of French journalists who, in the wild scenes marking the arrival, were unable to get close to their triumphant countrymen. In this, however, they were not alone. The disappointment of the Frenchmen and that of thousands of others who cheered Coste and Bellonte, but were unable to greet them personally, did not mar the general impression that another memorable deed had been performed.

10,000 STORM FIELD TO WELCOME FLIERS

little success in extending a personal welcome to the fliers.

Though most of the crowd was massed in mile-long rows behind the fence and scattered through the ranks of parked automobiles, a large group was allowed inside the fence in front of the hangars. The official welcoming parties from the city and from Nassau County, reinforced by scores of New York's French colony and representatives from Washington and other cities, newspaper men and photographers, mechanics and others made up quite a formidable array. As the Question Mark was sighted the 140 policemen on duty were taxed to the limit.

At last Coste was hoisted to the shoulders of a policeman and a mechanic. Other eager hands lifted Bellonte shoulder-high. With policemen plowing a route through the crowd, the two fliers were carried toward the wire fence and across the road into Hangar 1, where they found temporary relief from the crowd.

The landing had come just before dusk, and before the fliers stepped from their plane the great aviation beacon lights and the red warning lights outlining the roofs of the hangar had been turned on. A half moon shone over the field, and the flash of photographers' flashlights and the glare of magnesium torches lit up the triumphant finale of the first east-to-west crossing of the Atlantic. It was the wildest welcome Curtiss Field had ever seen.

The crowd reached its peak slowly, and the heavy rainstorm of the afternoon undoubtedly cut down the number of welcomers. As the day drew to an end, however, swarms of homeward-bound motorists turned off the Sunrise Highway at the airport gates and added thousands to the two or three thousand spectators who had stayed through the storm.

While the Question Mark was still winging down the American coast, hours from its New York goal, crowds began swarming through the airport here prepared to greet Captain Coste and his fellow-flier, Maurice Bellonte.

As early as 11 A. M. streams of cars swung off from the Sunrise Highway and poured through the gates into the flying field. By early afternoon about 1,500 cars and approximately 6,000 persons had gathered behind a wire fence around the edge of the flying field.

When a black thunder cloud spread over the sky shortly after 3 and a heavy rainstorm pelted the spectators almost half of the crowd left and those remaining sought shelter in the parked automobiles. The Sky Harbor Inn, the flying field's restaurant, was jammed with drenched watchers, while the hangars near the southern end of the field gave shelter to the official reception committee, scores of newspaper men and reporters and visiting celebrities.

As the storm swept over and the sun again shone through a bank of clouds the number of spectators again increased and by 5:30 had reached almost 5,000.

A large sign chalked at the entrance to the airport on the busy Sunrise Highway attracted the attention of passing motorists and helped to swell the growing crowd.

"Captain Coste," it read, "who took off from Le Bourget Field, will arrive here at ——"

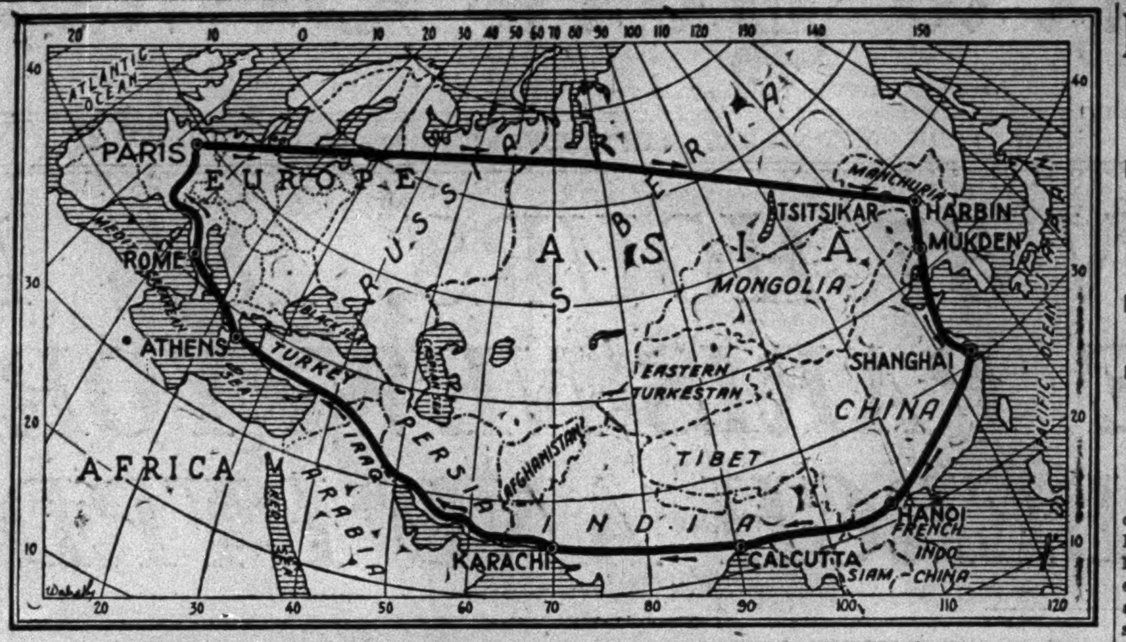
As each successive bulletin came to the field's operations office telling of the fliers' progress down the coast the expected hour of arrival was corrected on the bulletin board.

Umbrellas and newspapers were in great demand later in the afternoon when a light, persistent rain fell for about an hour following the passing of the thunderstorm.

Before the rainstorm the air above the field was like a flying circus, with many planes in the air entertaining the waiting crowd. The rain stopped all aerial activities for a time, but later in the afternoon, as the field dried off, the planes again took off, many of them heading northeast to meet the transatlantic plane. About 5:45 three Curtiss fledglings from the Naval Reserve air station here took off from the field and disappeared beyond the horizon to pick up the speeding French plane and escort it to the airport. They were commanded by Lieutenant Richard Whitehead, U. S. N., commanding officer of the naval air station.

An ofifcial delegation representing the United States Government in the form of customs inspectors and immigration and health officers was at the field early to carry out the routine of their respective departments.

W. Roth, the customs inspector, assisted by D. J. Quinn, appraiser, inspected a dress brought over in the Question Mark. John Wallace, the immigration officer, brought with him an oficial crew list, prepared for the signature of Captain Coste, and Dr. W. M. K. Chattle, quarantine health officer, prepared the quarantine declaration.



COSTE'S RECORD-BREAKING FLIGHT TO MANCHURIA.

Captain Dieudonné Coste, with Maurice Bellonte, broke the world's cross-country distance record last year when he flew the Question Mark from Paris to Tsitsihar, Manchuria, an airplane distance of 4,940 miles, returning by way of Shanghai, Calcutta, Karachi and Athens.

COSTE AT LANDFALL, ST. PIERRE, AT 6 A. M.

Colonists There Regard Flight Over Them as Gallant Gesture of Fellow-Countryman.

LAST LEG MADE IN 13 HOURS

Plane, Speeding Down Coast, Lost Touch by Radio but Was Sighted in Many Places on Way.

Captain Coste and Maurice Bellonte passed over St. Pierre just before 6 o'clock yesterday morning and headed down the American coast on the last leg of their direct flight from Paris to New York, encountering fog and static. Radio stations large and small, both short wave and long wave, tried unsuccessfully all day to establish direct communication with the Question Mark.

"The static was awful. It made it impossible to get into communication with even the larger stations, much less the little transmitter of the Question Mark," said an officer of Naval Communications.

First word of the arrival of the French transatlantic fliers on this side of the Atlantic was received indirectly from the fliers by the Radio Corporation station at Chatham, Mass., which was in communication with the Western Union cable-laying ship Lord Kelvin, reporting that she had just been in touch with the Question Mark, passing Halifax, at 11:25 A. M. Eastern Daylight Time.

Loses Touch With Stations.

From that hour on it seemed as if the little transmitter of the French fliers had gone out of commission, for several hours later the world was unable to establish any direct contact with them.

The landau of the Question Mark was regarded by the French colonists of St. Pierre asa gallant gesture of fellow-countrymen. Coste radioed that he was passing the southern Miquelon Island group, that he was proceeding toward New York via Canso and that all was well aboard.

To reach St. Pierre he had traveled an airline distance of approximately 2,325 miles from Le Bourget Field in 25 hours 6 minutes, according to The Associated Press, which pointed out that the distance probably was several hundred miles longer on account of the wide southern detour that Coste made around a storm area.

The Question Mark, clearly visible and heading southwest, passed over Canso, N. S., at 9:35 A. M. Elsewhere along the Nova Scotian coast dense fog had been reported.

The radio operator at Chebucto Head, at the entrance to Halifax Harbor, reported that an airplane of the description of the Question Mark was passing the station at 11:25 A. M. and following the Nova Scotian coast westward.

At Bar Harbor at 2:55 P. M.

Coste and Bellonte flew over Great Wass Island off Bar Harbor, Me., and were heading westward along the Maine coast at 2:55 P. M., according to advices received by the Coast Guard in Boston from the Great Wass Island Station. Up to that time the radio station at Chatham had tried unsuccessfully to establish communication with the plane and from that time on the naval radio station at Cape Elizabeth, near Portland, Me., made futile efforts to pick up messages from the French fliers. The operator at the Portland station from time to time heard French ships trying to make radio communication with the Question Mark but heard no replies.

At 4:35 P. M., the gray biplane with the red wings, swooped down out of the haze over Old Orchard Beach, where preparations had been made for Coste and Bellonte to land if they wished to do so. The Question Mark dipped over the beach at an altitude of only 300 feet and sped away. Watchers for the French fliers at first believed that the biplane was one from the Portland Airport. They supposed it would land when it flew so low.

Residents of Norwich, Conn., reported that they had sighted a plane they believed to be the Question Mark at 5:50 P. M.

Landing at Roosevelt Field at 7:12 P. M., the Question Mark completed the last leg of the historic flight—St. Pierre to New York—in 13 hours, 12 minutes.

Hoover Telegraphs to Coste He Thrilled Entire Nation

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—President Hoover sent the following telegram of congratulation tonight to Captain Dieudonné Coste:

The White House,
Washington, Sept. 2.

Captain Dieudonné Coste, New York City.

The news of your successful flight thrills the people of the entire American nation, and upon their behalf and my own I send to you and your gallant compatriot, M. Maurice Bellonte, our heartiest congratulations. We shall be delighted to honor the heroic compatriots of other brave Frenchmen whose undaunted efforts foreshadowed this triumph. Our people's welcome to you is whole-hearted and universal.

President HOOVER.

MAYOR TO WELCOME CAPT. COSTE TODAY

City Hall Reception Delayed to Give Coste and Bellonte Time to Recuperate.

NO PARADE UP BROADWAY

French Colony in Doubt as to Plans—War Veterans Go to Field to Greet Him.

When Captain Coste and M. Bellonte were first reported as nearing the coast of the United States, and the success of their venture seemed assured, New York City began to lay plans to make its official welcome equal in enthusiasm the now famous reception of Colonel Lindbergh by the city of Paris. The fellow-countrymen in New York of the two fliers, while preparing to rush to Curtiss Field to greet them, hurriedly formulated projects for a more extended reception.

Early in the afternoon Mayor Walker announced that the city's official welcome would be extended to the fliers at City Hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mayor Walker's announcement was made after he had received news that Captain Coste and M. Bellonte were making their way along the American coast and were expected to arrive safely in New York in a few hours. The plan for the reception, the Mayor said, would be subject to change if the fliers should desire a different date. Every effort would be made, he added, to make the reception committee's plans conform to the comfort and convenience of the aviators.

No parade up Broadway is planned to precede the ceremony at City Hall, the reception being planned as an informal one. The fliers will be received by the Mayor in the Aldermanic Chamber.

The Mayor had no comment to make yesterday afternoon on the flight, saying that he preferred to wait until the fliers reached New York before expressing his admiration.

Before going to City Hall the fliers will be the guests of honor at a luncheon in the Advertising Club of New York at 23 Park Avenue. They are expected there at 1 P. M. Charles E. Murphy, president of the club, announced last night that Grover A. Whalen, former Police Commissioner, is to act as chairman.

Prominent fliers, city officials and members of the French Consulate will join the members of the Advertising Club in greeting Captain Coste and M. Bellonte, and arrangements are to be made for broadcasting the speeches.

The plans of the local French colony to welcome the first of their countrymen to reach New York in an airplane flight from Europe were somewhat confused because of the absence from the city of many of the officers of the leading French organizations and the departure of the remainder for Curtiss Field. Many of the organizations said that they would await announcement of the plans brought from Washington by Jules Henry, Chargé d'Affaires of France and diplomatic representative of his country in the absence of Ambassador Claudel.

The French Chamber of Commerce announced at its headquarters at 4 East Fifty-second Street that no plans had been made because of the absence of its officers.

Representatives of the Fédération des Vétérans Français de la Grande Guerre left for Curtiss Field to talk with the representatives of Captain Coste. Captain Coste, who received the rating of an ace in the war, will receive a rousing greeting from his fellow veterans. The French Institute of the United States also plans a tribute to the French fliers.

HOTEL CROWDS GIVE A NOISY WELCOME

Hundreds at Ritz Towers Mill About Arriving Fliers as Flashlights Boom.

FRENCHMEN GREET THEM

Prominent Officials and Visitors From Homeland Usher Pair to Dinner and Rest.

Captain Coste and M. Bellonte arrived at the Ritz Towers, Park Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street, where they will stay while in New York, at 8:45 last evening after a forty-minute motor trip from the Curtiss-Wright airport at Valley Stream. A crowd of several hundred enthusiasts was waiting outside the hotel to greet them.

As the fliers' car, emblazoned with the French and American flags and preceded by an automobile escort, drew up at the Park Avenue entrance of the hotel, the crowd burst into cheers, while the booming of news photographers' flashlights resembled a cannonade in its intensity.

Captain Coste, his face flushed and his hair disheveled, smiled an acknowledgment of the welcome as a squad of police formed a hollow square about the fliers to make a passage for them through the throng. In the lobby of the hotel the fliers were applauded again by guests who had waited to see them.

Cheered by Guests.

Captain Coste and M. Bellonte were taken at once to a suite which had been reserved for them on the seventh floor of the hotel. There they bathed and dined and later they were taken to another suite on the thirtieth floor, where they spent the night.

They were accompanied to the hotel by a welcoming committee which included Jules Henry, Chargé d'Affaires of the French Embassy; M. Carreau Dombasle, commercial attaché; Commandant Thenault, air attaché; Maxime Mongendre, French Consul General in this city; George F. Mand, representing Mayor Walker; M. Tillier, general manager of the French Line, and J. De Sieyes, president of the French-American Banking Corporation.

Jean Borotra, the tennis star, also was on the welcoming committee, as were P. Des Pasquier, president of the Havre Chamber of Commerce; Alain Gerbault, George London, correspondent of Le Journal of Paris; M. Remy of the Havas Agency and M. Des Noyers of Le Petit Parisien.

Grateful for Reception.

Shortly before 11 o'clock more than forty reporters and photographers who had been waiting down stairs since before the fliers' arrival were escorted to their suite. They found Bellonte sound asleep in one twin bed but Captain Coste, clad in striped pajamas, sitting upright in the other.

"Before you go any further I want to tell you how kind was the reception we have received in America," said Captain Coste. "I particularly appreciated the action of Colonel Lindbergh in coming to meet me and being at the field with me."

An interpreter then read a statement which had been prepared by Captain Coste. It read:

"Will you boys on the newspapers, who represent this great American country, tell everybody how happy we are to be here among friends.

"Bellonte and I want to say that the happiest moment of our lives was when we landed at that field and saw the American and French flags waving to us.

"I was never so affected in my life as when our plane touched Curtiss Field. I hope you boys will excuse two very sleepy men tonight. Look, Bellonte is already asleep and, boys, that looks so good to us."

"Have you had any sleep at all?" a reporter asked in French.

Captain Coste replied that he had had none but that Bellonte had snatched a little. They had had nothing to eat, he said in answer to another question. He said that he and Bellonte will not fly back to Paris but added enigmatically "Some one else will."

Jules Henry, Chargé d'Affaires at the French Embassy, gave out the following statement:

"One hundred and fifty years ago a distinguished compatriot of mine made a certain trip to this country which was to have immense consequence regarding the relationship of our people.

"In the dark hours of 1917 his visit was well repaid when General Pershing arrived in Paris, followed by the American troops, and said: 'Lafayette, we are here.' In 1927 the Lone Eagle suddenly and beautifully flashed across the Atlantic and one night, among an enthusiastic French people, landed at Le Bourget. Not only did he accomplish a magnificent feat but he also did more for solidifying the relationship of our two countries than had been done in the last decade.

"Today France is able to repay Lindbergh's visit. With indomitable courage and splendid determination, Coste and Bellonte have succeeded in a most daring adventure of aviation. The whole of France rejoices this evening. The French people here, as well as Americans in France, also rejoice with the same feeling of enthusiasm toward these two splendid aviators who accomplished the crossing of the Atlantic in thirty-seven hours today."

FLIERS GREET PARIS IN RADIO SPEECHES

International Facilities Carry News of Landing to Major Part of the World.

FRANCE HEARS CLEARLY

Program Distributed to Group of Stations There—Two Chains Here Span Continent.

With the drone of motors and the cries of the great crowd at Curtiss Field, international radio facilities last night told an international audience that Captain Dieudonné Coste and Maurice Bellonte had arrived safely in America after crossing the Atlantic from Le Bourget airport.

Listeners in New York and vicinity heard the greeting to the French fliers as brought to them over WEAF, WJZ, WOR, WNYC and WABC. Two coast-to-coast radio chains, totaling more than 100 broadcasters, carried the word picture of the event and the brief addresses of the airmen from Maine to Texas and from Florida to the State of Washington.

Stations in the Dominion af Canada were associated with the American chains. In addition, various international short-wave transmitters, including those of the General Electric Company, Westinghouse and the Radio Corporation of America at Schenectady, Pittsburgh and Bound Brook, N. J., respectively, carried the shouts of the Long Island throng throughout the major part of the world.

Paris Throngs Hear Fliers.

As soon as the excited throng could be penetrated the fliers were brought before the microphone of the National Broadcasting Company, accompanied by Colonel Charles A. Linidbergh, in Hangar No. 2, and sent their greeting back to France via the short-wave transmitters. A battery of loudspeakers had been held in readiness at the Place de la Concorde, Paris, and around it were throngs eagerly awaiting news of the arrival of the airmen aboard the Question Mark. Soon after the broadcast was completed a long-distance radio telephone call from the French radio system at Paris told the NBC engineers that great throngs in the French capital heard the word-picture and the speakers with "exceptional clarity and with great enthusiasm." The American short-wave stations were intercepted at the French station called "Radio Paris," which in turn distributed the program to a group of French stations.

The Columbia Broadcasting System carried only the description of the landing of the plane at the Valley Stream airport, but later went on the air with a detailed account of the flight and the achievements of the fliers, given from the WABC studio by an announcer.

Various reports throughout yesterday afternoon had placed the Question Mark near New York, but the radio set at the command of the fliers had been strangely silent for a number of hours. Officials of broadcasting facilities were not sure just when the fliers could be expected at the field, although they were prepared to broadcast at a moment's notice. Then in the midst of a popular program which is broadcast nightly over a coast-to-coast chain the facilities were switched suddenly to the Curtis Field microphone. The listening public was immediately greeted by cheers and an announcer who said the Question Mark was to be seen in the sky over the airport, surrounded by a large escort of aircraft. At 7:12 o'clock Elinor Smith, aviatrix, told the listeners that the French machine was nearing the earth, and a half-minute later that it had made a "beautiful three-point landing" and was coming to a stop at the further end of the field. Cheers from the airport crowd, which had suddenly subsided to a whisper as the actual landing was made, broke forth again in deafening proportions.

Tells French of Success.

A half-minute after the flight was over Kelvin Keech, NBC announcer, speaking in French, told the French people over the international hook-up that the flight was ended, and with great success. A great shout was raised when the Frenchmen were sighted peeping from the door of the plane. Soon the radio announcer told that Captain Coste had been coaxed from his cockpit and was being carried on the shoulders of the crowd out into the field. The pleading entreaties of the announcers with the milling throngs made it plain to the radio audience that only with great difficulty would the fliers be brought before the microphone to speak. As Curt Peterson, another announcer, scrambled under the Question Mark with a microphone, hoping to reach Captain Coste, the crowd, unaware of his purpose, surged in between the flier and the device which would bridge the thousands of miles to Paris and carry his words back home.

Various radio announcers alternated at the microphones, some speaking in French for the benefit of the French people, others speaking in English for listeners in America, England and other parts of the world. One of those who spoke in French was John Almonte, an official of the NBC. This speaking was carried on inside Hangar No. 2 while the fliers themselves were being awaited. The radio announcer said that it would be with great difficulty that they could come before the microphone because of the crowd which would not be denied another view of the airmen. At last Coste and Bellonte, accompanied by Colonel Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh, came from a room over the hangar. It was announced that they had outwitted the crowd by passing over the hangar roof. Prolonged cheers greeted them.

Approaching the microphone, after his introduction, Captain Coste said in French, as translated by the announcer:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are indeed happy to be here. The tiring hours in the air are behind us, and we want to thank everybody for the marvelous reception that we received and are receiving. We made the trip in less time than we had anticipated despite weather that was not too favorable. Thank you."

M. Bellonte said in English:

"We are pleased to be here now, and across the Atlantic."

Following this he added a few words in French for the benefit of his listeners in France.

The crowd cheered as the addresses were finished. Even over the radio networks enthusiasm seemed to be carried unabated from the Valley Stream airport hangar. Among the gathering were many celebrities, the radio announcer said, beside Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, George B. Mann, head of Mayor Walker's committee on receptions, greeted the fliers in the name of the Mayor and the city, and spoke briefly over the radio system. The ceremony ended at 7:55 P. M., with the playing of the Marseillaise in the NBC studio.

Question Mark Sighted.

The Question Mark was reported first sighted by observers flying in the vicinity of Glen Cove in the Fokker monoplane, Miss R. C. A., owned by the Radiomarine Corporation. Lee Manley of the R. C. A. was aboard it as observer, J. H. J. Maher, past president of the Veteran Wireless Operators' Association, acted as radio announcer in the flying laboratory, and E. M. Pickerell, pilot, was at the controls. A short-wave fifty-watt telephone set aboard the airplane transmitted the news that the Question Mark had been located "flying about 500 feet high and heading in the general direction of the airport." Mr. Maher said he reported the finding by radio immediately to the ground authorities at Valley Stream. The Question Mark was reported sighted by the Miss R. C. A.'s observers at 6:55 P. M., Eastern Daylight Time. A committee of the Veteran Wireless men was considering an award for valor to be given Maurice Bellonte for his work at the wireless key of the Question Mark, Mr. Maher said.

The following cablegram, acknowledging and describing the rebroadcast of the fliers' reception, was received last night by the National Broadcasting Company from Paris:

"Transmission excellent. Reception perfect. Great effect produced. Radio Paris (which has radio rights) cordially thanks the National Broadcasting Company and offers own regard to its director and operator. (Signed) Platrier, director general."

NOTIFIES PARIS OF ARRIVAL.

Second Secretary of French Embassy Cables Air Ministry.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP).—An exhausted young Second Secretary of the French Embassy, only official representative of his government in the capital, grinned happily today when news of the landing of the French fliers in New York was relayed to him by newspaper men.

Raymond Bousquet had kept a vigil beside the telephone in the embassy chancery since 4 o'clock this morning. Waiting only for official confirmation by the Navy Department, he immediately cabled official notification to the French Air Ministry of the fliers' safe arrival.

Hundreds of telephone calls from Americans and Frenchmen, bringing inquiries direct from as far away as Chicago, had added to the strain of waiting for news.

M. Bousquet was left in charge when M. Jules Henry, Chargé d'Affaires, and Major Georges Thenault, assistant military attaché for aeronautics, went to New York to welcome Dieudonné Coste and Maurice Bellonte. Ambassador and Mme. Claudel are in France.

PARIS, Sept. 2 (AP).—Ambassador Edge sent the following cablegram tonight to Captain Coste, in care of the French Consul General at New York:

Heartiest congratulations to you and Bellonte upon completing the first east to west flight from France to the United States. Your pluck, daring and incomparable airmanship in welding the link in the Franco-American air chain begun by Colonel Lindbergh call forth the enthusiastic admiration and respect of all citizens of our two countries. May I, as the representative of my country in yours, greet you as courageous ambassadors of the friendship which forever binds France to the United States and the United States to France?

COSTE PLANE STOOD LONG FLIGHT WELL

100 Gallons of Gasoline in Its Tank Would Have Kept Craft in Air Nearly 3 Hours Longer.

FEW REPAIRS ARE NEEDED

Experts Call Instrument Board the Most Complete in the World—Record Painted on Wing

Special to The New York Times.

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., Sept. 2.—When the red biplane Question Mark glided down to the end of its long flight at the Curtiss Airport this evening there was still left in its tank 100 gallons of gasoline, enough to have kept the big plane in the air another two and a half hours.

The Hispano-Suiza motor, which had been "hitting" on all its twelve cylinders perfectly for the 4,100-mile trip, was in good condition, except for the expected wear and tear. The engine will need rocker arm grease, new oil and general tightening, according to James Maher, Curtiss-Wright engine expert, who examined the plane after it was berthed in No. 1 hangar. After his preliminary examination Maher praised the condition of the engine, a 650-horsepower motor of a type which has just been developed in the last two years.

The plane itself is a two-placed biplane of large wing span, and when it left Le Bourget Airport in Paris it carried in its huge tanks 1,370 gallons of gasoline. As Coste pulled back on the stick to make his landing, the vivid markings on the fuselage were plainly visible to the crowd. A flying stork etched in white on the red background of the fuselage was especially noticed. It was the war insignia of the flying squadron in which Coste served. Forward in a tri-colored band beneath the upper wing is lettered the famous plane's records and the names of the cities to which she has been flown by her owner-pilot.

The cities written in French spelling were "Paris, Acores, Paris, Tsihikan, Karbine, Shangai, Hanoi, Calcutta, Karachi, Alep, Athenes, Rome, Paris."

Further aft in French were lettered the plane's records:

"Paris-Acores-Paris — 5,000 kms, Paris-Tsihikan-Record du monde—7,905 kms; Hanoi-Paris—11,400 kms, 4 jours 12 heures; avec 500 kos decharge-duree, 23 h 22 m 42s; Vitesse 214 kms--553; record du monde avec 1,000 kos de charge distance 3,530 kms, duree 10 h 01 m 20s."

On one rudder is a Tricolor flag inscribed with the words "Avion Breguet gr moteur." On the lower part of the rudder is the name of the plane's motor—"Hispano-Suiza."

On the other side of the rudder is written "Louis Breguet-Paris."

The cowling of the plane, from the propeller aft to the fuselage, is painted a light silver, a marked contrast to the dark scarlet of the fuselage.

After Maher had examined the plane he described its instrument board as "the most complete one he had ever seen." George D. Ream, Department of Commerce inspector for the metropolitan area, agreed with Maher, as did many other pilots who examined it. Mr. Ream said the plane carried every conceivable instrument, and that the "average American flier wouldn't know what it was all about" because the board is so complete and complex.

Some of the instruments carried include an artificial horizon of French manufacture, three inclinometers, a bank and turn indicator, an instrument to record the revolutions per minute of the propellor, two altimeters, a periodic compass, a magnetic compass, an anemometer and complete radio equipment. The inclinometers are used to show the angle of the plane when climbing or descending, the altimeters show the altitude and the anemometer the relative wind speed.

This instrument board was practically duplicated in both the front and rear cockpits, thus presenting to the average pilot a bewildering array.

Maher found that Coste and Bellonte were well equipped as far as provisions were concerned. In the front cockpit, Coste's post for thirty-seven hours, were meat sandwiches and a quantity of jelly. In the rear cockpit, Bellonte had left untouched a whole roast chicken, some bread and a package containing a dress addressed to a New York store.

Admiral Byrd's altimeter, a relic of the old plane America, in which the Admiral crossed the Atlantic and which was lost in the sea when the America crashed at Ver-sur-Mer on the French coast, was one of the instruments carried in the Question Mark. The altimeter was recovered by a fisherman and taken to Paris, and Captain Coste requested the privilege of returning it to Admiral Byrd.

Flourish at End of Coste Name Is Not an 'S', Just Uncertainty

Autograph collectors who succeed in reaching Captain Coste will observe a curious little scrawl at the end of his signature. The explanation is simple. Not certain as to whether his name should be spelled "Coste" or "Costes," the aviator strikes a compromise with a little flourish of the pen.

The French name is variously spelled by those who bear it, but with or without the final "s" it is pronounced as one syllable. To guard against mispronunciation, the aviator prefers "Coste" to "Costes."

SPEED AND POWER SEEN AS COSTE KEY

Aeronautical Engineers Say Head Winds in North Atlantic Make Formidable Opposition.

FLIGHT TEACHES LESSON

Aircraft That Have Made Some Good Records Would Fail on East-West Trip, Is Belief.

The one striking lesson to be learned from the conquest of the North Atlantic by Coste and Bellonte is that speed and power are prerequisites, aeronautical engineers agreed last night.

When Coste and Le Brix flew the South Atlantic, making the first non-stop flight from the coast of Africa to South America, it was pointed out, they used a Breguet powered with a Hispano-Suiza motor that developed 600 horsepower. On the record-breaking distance flight to the edge of Manchuria from Paris, Coste and Bellonte used the same type engine with about the same horsepower.

Last year, when they attempted the westward transatlantic flight and courageously turned back at the Azores, they again used the 600-horsepower Hisso, but this time Captain Coste demanded and received a new engine of greater power by 50 units.

Power meant speed, and speed he had to have as insurance against the head winds he encountered. Power also meant greater load but the two factors require the nicest calculation in relation to each other. The higher powers require more fuel each hour, hence greater load is necessary.

"It is easy here to start a vicious circle," one commentator said, "but the engineers who built the Breguet and its big motor knew and agreed with Captain Coste that he must have the speed that would enable him to make good headway against winds approaching forty miles an hour."

High Speed of 160 Miles an Hour.

The plane with the new motor turning up 650 horsepower has a high speed close to 160 miles an hour, faster than any other machine to make the ocean crossing.

Colonel Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis was a 125-mile-an-hour machine that could be forced up to about 130 and which cruised at a little more than 100. Chamberlin's Bellanca could easily attain 129 and cruised at 115. Admiral Byrd's America and Major Kingsford-Smith's Southern Cross cruised most economically at 85 to 90 miles, and the Southern Cross, a little the faster of the two, could be pushed up to 120.

If any of these planes had tried the western crossing from Paris it is unlikely that they would have reached New York. The Bremen, another slow machine, had great range because of its lift, but it is doubtful that it could have flown against head winds as the Breguet did.

An analysis of Captain Coste's flight shows what speed did for him. With helping winds he attained an average speed of close to 140 miles for the first 600 miles. He probably had a wind of fifteen-mile velocity and that, plus his air speed of 125 miles with the big load, gave him a splendid start.

Toward the end of the flight the Question Mark slowed down so much that the average for the distance flown when calibrated is not likely to exceed 100 miles an hour. If Coste had had only 100 miles cruising speed it is unlikely that he would have reached New York in a single hop.

Coste Waited for the Weather.

Captain Coste did one other thing that has been rare in westward transatlantic attempts. He waited for the weather. He waited for unusual weather and did not let public opinion, pressure or the enthusiasm of friends or his own patriotism push him off before the meteorologists said the word.

The red Breguet on its record is one of the most efficient airplanes in the world, and yet it had no pay load. It carried merely the men necessary for the flight, the radio, fuel and oil.

"I'm glad Coste has a radio in his plane," Kingsford-Smith said in discussing his own round-the-world flight and the chances of the French aviator. "Radio, I am firmly convinced, is the one big factor of safety in any ocean flight."

Air transport over the ocean in heavier-than-air machines, one engineer said, is certainly on the way, but he added that Captain Coste's flight, successful as it has been, proved definitely that transoceanic air transport by plane is a long way off unless frequent landing places for refueling can be provided. The Coste plane was loaded, he said, far beyond the safety mark and much must be done in the way of research, the perfection of new materials for lighter structures and the development of greater power units with less weight before transatlantic flying is as an economic factor.

"It is the story of transport and mechanical transport especially, from the beginning," he said. "Man has always demanded when it comes to fast travel more of himself, his animals and his machines than he has any right to expect, but through this continual striving he reaches attainment. The ocean has at last been conquered from west to east, and that alone is a step toward the goal."

2,373 Phone Times to Ask Progress of French Fliers

Widespread interest in the transatlantic flight of the Question Mark was shown in the number of telephone calls received through the switchboard of THE NEW YORK TIMES from early yesterday morning until late last night inquiring as to the progress of the fliers. From 8 o'clock in the morning until shortly after 10 o'clock last night 2,373 calls were received.

The greatest number were answered in the hour between 4 and 5 o'clock, when it was generally expected that Coste and Bellonte would arrive. In that period 403 calls were handled. Between 6 and 7 o'clock last night was the second heaviest period, operators answering 301 calls. Many who asked for information said that they were at points distant from New York.

ficer and man in the naval service."

Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, Chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, made the following statement:

"I wish to add naval aviation's congratulations to these two gallant Frenchmen. This east to west flight across the Atlantic—the first non-stop trip of heavier-than-air aircraft in this direction—is a milestone in aviation. It proves that the world is progressing in the comparatively new art of the air. The navy led the way in this transatlantic flying, and we are glad that aviation is progressing to such a point that many of the aids we used in 1919 are not considered necessary today."

Masterpiece of Skillful Flying.

Special to The New York Times.

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., Sept. 2.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the first man to span the ocean between New York and Paris, hailed the return flight of Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte here today as a masterpiece of skillful flying and a feat more difficult than his own epochal achievement.

Colonel Lindbergh, accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, motored to the Curtiss Airport here this afternoon to greet the French fliers and there probably was no more interested spectator of Coste's landing than the famous American aviator, who knew better than any one else on the field the perils they had conquered to get here.

Colonel Lindbergh did not go down on the field, but waited with Mrs. Lindbergh in one of the offices. When Captain Coste was led out on the balcony of one of the hangars Colonel Lindbergh pushed through the crowd to his side. Captain Coste recognized him instantly and greeted him with a hearty "Comment ca va?" "How do you do?"

Colonel Lindbergh shook hands with him warmly and exclaimed: "That's good. That's fine. That was a splendid flight."

M. Bellonte came up just then, and Colonel Lindbergh shook hands and congratulated him. The Colonel turned to go, but was persuaded to stand in a window to be photographed with the French aviators.

Colonel Lindbergh then bade them farewell.

"I want to sleep," murmured Coste. "Good-bye. Thank you very much."

Evidently Colonel Lindbergh was aware that the voyage of the French fliers was, in a sense, a return of his own visit to Paris by air, but he would not say a word about his own flight because he regarded it as "Coste's day."

The American flier was most impressed by the painstaking preparation and the perfect technical skill shown in the achievement of the Frenchmen and by the fact that they had left nothing to luck.

Praises Attention to Detail.

"Captain Coste in his preparation for this flight has gone into every detail which would make for its success," said Colonel Lindbergh. "Coste is one of the most experienced long-distance fliers in the world, and I know of no man who would have been more capable of making a success of the Paris-New York flight than he. If any one could do it is Captain Coste.

"I have every confidence of his ability to make a complete success of any trip he undertakes."

Colonel Lindbergh was asked how the problem of flying the Atlantic from Paris to New York compared with that of flying it from west to east.

"The westward flight is considerably more difficult," he responded, "due to the head winds and the fact that the worst weather conditions are encountered toward the end of the flight."

He expressed his admiration of the fact that Captain Coste had demonstrated time and again that he would not undertake anything that he could not accomplish. He did not refer in any manner in his conversation with newspaper men to Coste's unsuccessful flight toward America when he encountered such bad weather conditions that he turned back. But he spoke approvingly of Captain Coste's judgment in that case in answer to a question from Jean Borotra, French tennis champion, who met Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh on their arrival here and chatted briefly with them.

M. Borotra asked Colonel Lindbergh if he did not think it was an excellent idea for Coste to turn back, as he had done, when he reached the Azores.

"Yes, indeed, excellent," was the emphatic reply.

Lindbergh's greeting to the French aviator was in the nature of a renewal of an old acquaintance, for the American aviator had met him briefly twice before. The first time was after Lindbergh's arrival in Paris, and later he met Coste at Le Bourget when the Frenchman was preparing to take off on a long flight.

Their second meeting was two and a half years ago in Panama, when Colonel Lindbergh was making his good-will flight through Central America and Coste was completing his South Atlantic flight to the Americas.

Great Achievement, Says Byrd.

Fliers and leaders in the industry of aviation were enthusiastic last night in their praise of the achievement of Captain Coste and his companion, Bellonte. It was hailed as the outstanding spectacular feat in the records of aviation. Improvement in the motive power and in plane construction, making the flight possible, were also stressed.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, speaking at the New York State Fair at Syracuse, on hearing Coste had reached America, said:

"I am delighted at this great news and I congratulate sincerely my good friend Captain Coste. It is a great achievement for aviation, a personal victory for Coste and a great triumph for France to be the first to span the Atlantic on the westward lap.

"I know how hard the French have worked for many years and what great sacrifices they have made in lives in their efforts to be the first across. I can well imagine their great joy today when they hear of Coste's safe landing at New York City.

"I regret that I cannot be one of the first to extend my hand to Coste as he alights from his ship, but I have asked my second in command, Larry Gould, on the long-distance telephone, to tell him for all the members of the Byrd Expedition of their rejoicing at his great success."

He also sent this message by telephone to Captain Coste through Professor Lawrence M. Gould of the Byrd expedition:

"It's a very great flight, old fellow. Welcome back to the States again. You have covered yourself with glory. Heartiest good wishes from all members of the Byrd expedition. I am delighted this honor has come to you. We all congratulate France on your achievement."

Other comment follows:

Dr. James H. Kimball, Meteorologist and Flight Weather Expert—They waited a long time for this flight, displaying an amount of patience not frequently found in men who have determined upon chancing the hazards of a transatlantic crossing. Flying weather over the Atlantic, particularly on the east-to-west passage, is at best none too good. To begin such a flight in the face of adverse weather reports is foolhardy. Captain Coste played his game well. He took advantage of every opportunity, reduced the element of risk and won out splendidly. The flight of the Question Mark brings to a close a definite epoch in transatlantic flight history. Colonel Lindbergh accomplished his west-to-east flight with skill and daring. Captain Coste and M. Bellonte, in making a flight which undeniably is more difficult, succeeded because they could, and did, utilize the knowledge placed at their disposal by the United States Weather Bureau and the French Meteorological Bureau. This factor, together with their ability and bravery, a modern airplane and modern methods of communication, carried their flight to a highly successful close.

Captain E. V. Rickenbacker, vice president Fokker Aircraft Corporation—It is the outstanding flight of aviation. And by this I mean of all flights, including those made by our own pilots. The obstacles to be overcome are so much greater than those of a flight from west to east that it becomes a doubly important achievement. It goes to show what knowledge and the organization of an effort can do. The flight goes to show, too, the development in motors and in load-carrying capacity of planes.

F. B. Rentschler, president United Aircraft Corporation—After the glorious attempt of Nungesser and Coli, it is so fitting that two other brave Frenchmen should be the first to achieve success in the westward passage from Paris to New York. I am sure the entire industry joins me in extending our heartiest and sincerest congratulations.

C. M. Keys, president Curtiss-Wright Corporation—It was a splendid flight—an adventure worthy of the time and effort put into the advance preparations and an outstanding example of the courage of the two Frenchmen who landed safely today.

Charles H. Colvin, president Pioneer Instrument Company—In successfully filling the ambition of many years, Captain Coste and his able companion, M. Bellonte, have proven once again that courage and careful planning, plus a good airplane, shrink time and distance in a way that makes history.

Juan T. Trippe, president Pan-American Airways—The transatlantic westward flight of Coste and Bellonte is a very vivid demonstration of the kindly feeling of France toward this country. It is another pioneer flight which must be considered a stepping stone in the development of international air transport service, which is rapidly becoming a reality. The flight is a tribute to Coste's courage, ability and preliminary training.

Graham B. Grosvenor, vice chairman Aviation Corporation—Coste and Bellonte performed a remarkable feat in spite of colossal difficulties and in the face of numerous failures. Hearty congratulations to these brave Frenchmen, whose victory over tremendous odds is evidence of painstaking scientific preparation.

General John F. O'Ryan, vice president American Airways—A great achievement, when we consider the casualties resulting from previous attempts. Slowly but surely the old ocean is being robbed of its terrors. Courage and science are the means employed.

Alfred J. Williams, racing pilot—Congratulations to the gallant Frenchmen. The result gives evidence of their complete preparations and of their skill and courage. It is another milestone in the progress of aviation.

C. S. (Casey) Jones, president Curtiss Flying Service—Coste's is the most wonderful flight since Lindbergh's, and more remarkable because along the east to west course the head winds invariably encountered make the flight far more difficult. Coste has made himself the premier long-distance flier of the world.

Bert Hinkler, Australian Flier—"It is truly a wonderful performance, well done by perhaps the most competent pilot to do it. With Coste's previous long-distance flights in the same machine, one had an immediate feeling of even greater confidence in his proposed Atlantic flight. This feeling of confidence seems to have been well justified, as the flight has occurred with almost exact fidelity to prearranged schedule. Aviation must benefit by the lessons he has learned. His magnificent achievement is one which all other pilots will join in whole-heartedly applauding."

Among the many messages received by the fliers was one from the Canadian Club of New York. It said: "The members of the Canadian Club of New York, and particularly the French members, extend greetings and congratulations to you and Mr. Bellonte on your splendid transatlantic trip." It was signed by Edwin Scott, president of the club.

Another message came from the parents of Clarence Chamberlin, who flew from New York to Germany. It was sent from Denison, Iowa, and said: "Hearty congratulations from the mother and father of Clarence Chamberlin." It was addressed to "The French Fliers, Ritz Towers, N. Y."

COSTE'S OWN STORY TELLS OF FLYING THROUGH MIST

By CAPTAIN DIEUDONNE COSTE.

details of navigation and the business of control, with my eyes constantly on the instrument panel, I could not help but feel some satisfaction as we passed over the first signs of human habitation. It was a great relief after riding the mists.

Later, as we came down your coast and saw below us great centres of population—widespread blocks of homes—some of the thrill was gone. Of course it was a great satisfaction, but after all the battle had been the flight across the sea, the war with the elements over the ocean. We had arrived in America, and now our only thoughts were for Curtiss Field, our final objective.

When at last we arrived over Long Island we were tremendously happy. Of course, when we left we had gone with the greatest confidence that we would make it. And when we did we were greatly moved, not only by accomplishing the flight, but even more so by the great reception which was given me here yesterday evening.

Adequacy of Preparation Stressed.

After all, it was not the flight itself as much as the preparations that counted. Any one can get in a plane and attempt to fly across the Atlantic, but it is the preparation which determines success or failure. We did not hesitate to make our decision to try to leave not later than Sept. 1 because we knew that we had done all that any one could do for the trip. We had overlooked nothing.

Meteorological conditions were not as perfect for the flight as we had been led to expect. There were extensive areas of low pressure carrying favorable winds, but not along the entire route. The conditions in France were far from good. There was considerable fog in the northern part of my country and we ran into dense banks of it again in the south of England. However, we had made up our minds to leave on Sept. 5, come what might. We reached this decision on Sunday.

We met some trouble getting ready for the flight because there was the Sunday holiday and not many men were available.

Finally, we did the best we could with an emergency crew, hastily mobilized, and on Sunday night the plane was taken from the airdrome of Villacoublay to the airdrome at Le Bourget, where it was put in the care of expert mechanics.

The food we were to carry was contained in two small aluminum boxes.

Waited Impatiently for Dawn.

We waited for the dawn with great impatience. The fog at that time was so thick that we could not see further than two kilometers. The landscape was a gray blur and the air was wet with the mists. That made us restless. We could not leave and the hours began to drag. We simply had to wait for that fog to lift.

With the aid of our friend Viau, the meteorologist, we made a weather map, based on telephone reports from every point on the English Channel, to learn if there was some little loophole in that blanket of fog through which we might steal our way. From American sources as well as from the French weather bureaus we knew that except for the fog near us conditions were uniquely in favor of a westward flight.

No Opening in the Mists.

We had to find that loophole if we were to get the advantage of those conditions. We telephoned to Nantes, to Brest, to Cherbourg, to Havre, to Dieppe, and even to Calais, but all the doors were closed and we had to wait. About 10:30, however, there was a slight improvement. Twenty-four minutes later we took the chance. We took off in the face of the mists.

Our struggle with the elements had begun. We felt certain that if we could get out of France we would reach New York before the following night. Sixty square meters of cloth fabric had to lift 6,300 kilos, our total weight, and had to carry that tremendous load through valleys, over hills, past all kinds of projections and towering heights.

But we forged ahead, most carefully. Our weight was too great to ascend to a really safe altitude. Finally, we reached the English Channel, just north of Rouen. At the same time that we left the dangerous stretch of territory behind and got out of the fog, over the water, the air began to clear. Now we could fly above the clouds.

We went up to 700 meters, then to 800 meters, but this did not last for long. We encountered a threatening storm area, black and menacing, that barred our way and we were forced to drop again. It was a game of hide and seek—the storms reached for us and we dodged out of their way—until we reached the coast of Ireland.

Sky Clearer at Sea.

Here the sky was a bit clearer, and to the north of us, beyond Cape Valencia, our speed, in spite of temporary adverse winds, was more than 200 kilometres an hour. We then saw the Atlantic rolling under us. We were leaving the Old World behind. We went on, hour after hour.

A few hundred miles west of the Irish Coast we ran into a bank of cirrus clouds, indicative of more storms to come. We were ready for a fight with ocean winds. The visibility lowered and we had to swing further northward than we had planned. For a time it seemed as though we might have to go to Iceland and go inland there. That was not a pleasant prospect.

Again we started playing hide-and-seek. I shifted our course to the north, then I shifted it southward. Everywhere the clouds marshaled their forces to block our way. Finally, after innumerable changes of direction, we found a clear path. Not only did we escape the storms for a while, but found favorable winds, too, to carry us beyond. This good fortune lasted most of that day and into the night.

Ocean Swift-Blanketed by Fog.

Of the night there is little to be said. The fog blanketed the ocean with startling swiftness. We could not see the water beneath, nor the stars above. Never have I known darkness so complete. It became monotonous. Only the song of the motor and the tedious watch of the instruments. We yearned for daylight, and relief came to us when we saw it.

We computed our position as 35 deg. N., 46 W., at the coming of the dawn. This indicated to us how capricious the weather had caused us to make our path. Our next objective was Nova Scotia.

And again we had to search for a clear path around new storms. We dodged through areas of cloud, seeking out favorable winds. We did not know whether the last of the journey would be smooth. We knew that we must find the best route to Nova Scotia. That was one of the danger points.

It was then that we began the long dodge of 100 miles to get into clear weather, and when at last we had found it the merry motor seemed to rejoice. We tore along the coast at top speed, certain then that we had conquered the Atlantic.

This is the second time that I have been in New York, and although my first reception here was very warm it could not, of course, compare in any way with the reception I received tonight. It touched me greatly. I was also very much touched to find that Colonel Lindbergh had come to greet me with Mrs. Lindbergh.

Subsequent articles by Captain Coste in THE NEW YORK TIMES will discuss other phases of the flight.

Cry on Radio, 'Coste Has Landed!' Thrills France

COSTE'S WIFE PLANS TO JOIN HIM HERE

Is Determined to Follow to New York Despite Contract for Talking Picture.

KNEW HE WOULD MAKE IT

Never Doubted Success, She Says After Long Vigil—Bellonte's Wife Weeps Happily.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The servant girl employed in the modest Paris apartment of Captain Dieudonné Coste and his pretty little actress wife vainly implored her mistress today to leave the incessantly active telephone just long enough for a bite of something to eat. But Mary Coste was interested only in the telephone, by means of which her husband's newspaper friends and admiring officials at the French Air Ministry were vying all day long for the privilege of communicating to her the latest reports on the progress of the great Paris-to-New York flight.

Later, when messengers excitedly brought news of the Question Mark's successful landing at its destination and confirmation was received by telephone, Mme. Coste thanked those who bombarded her with felicitations.

"It never occurred to me for a moment that it would be otherwise," she said. "I am extremely happy, but I was confident from the start of the flight yesterday morning that Doo Doo would get there. He really is a different person as soon as he is in the cockpit. He is almost superhuman."

So tirelessly eager had she been during the day for any and all news that the maid was not allowed even to answer the doorbell unless Mme. Coste was actually engaged at the telephone. All callers were welcome, but she had very little time to converse with them between telephone calls. Once this evening she turned around to a small group of American newspaper correspondents and announced with shining eyes that "He is over Newfoundland now and they expect him to arrive at New York between 8 and 9 o'clock our time tonight."

She added: "I have absolute confidence in the Air Ministry's reports and they are being so kind to me. Of course, I shall go to New York, although I have a contract to begin making a French talking picture almost immediately. I think they will let me go just for a week or two, however. I have never seen America and I am sure it will be very thrilling for me. I have long hoped to get a chance to do a picture in Hollywood some day, but I must learn English first, of course."

Of all those in Paris tonight, none was happier at the safe arrival of the fliers than Bellonte's wife, a little English girl whom he met when he was a mechanic on the Paris-Croydon airline. With tears in her eyes and her curly hair falling round her pretty face, she could do nothing but murmur, "Merci, Merci," to all those who showered their congratulations on her.

"There have been so many flights in these five years since we got married," she said, "but there never was any that seemed to mean so much as this. This morning I telephoned to our little daughter, who is on a holiday at Toulon and she told me, "Don't worry, mummy, and be sure to telephone me when they arrive."

Captain Coste's first action after he reached the Ritz Towers last night was to call his wife by transatlantic telephone and assure her of his safe arrival, the flier revealed in an interview later. He deftly avoided questions as to the nature of their conversation.

Coste's Plane Is 14th to Cross North Atlantic And 5th to Make Perilous Westward Flight

The crossing of the Question Mark is the fourteenth conquest of the North Atlantic by airplane, the fifth westward flight and the first non-stop plane trip from Europe to the United States.

The westward flights were:

- August, 1924—Lieutenants Eric Nelson and Lowell Smith, with crews, by way of Iceland, Greenland, Labrador, Newfoundland and Nova Scotia to New York.
- March, 1928—Catain Herman Koehl, Major James Fitzmaurice and Baron von Huenfeld, Ireland to Greenely Island, off the Labrador Coast.
- June, 1930—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, E. Van Dyk, Catain J. Patrick Saul and J. W. Stannage, Ireland to Newfoundland to Roosevelt Field.
- August, 1930—Catain Wolfgang von Gronau, Edward Zimmer, Franz Hack and Fritz Albrecht, Germany to New York Harbor, with stops at Faroe Islands, Iceland, Greenland and Nova Scotia.
- September, 1930—Coste and Bellonte, non-stop Paris to Valley Stream, 37 hours 18 minutes and 30 seconds.

The eastward flights were:

- May, 1919—The NC-4 United States Navy flying boat, under Commander Read, Newfoundland to Portugal with a stop at the Azores.
- June, 1919—Alcock and Brown, non-stop Newfoundland to Ireland in 16 hours and 12 minutes. This still stands as the speed record across the Atlantic.
- May, 1927—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, non-stop, Roosevelt Field to Paris, 33 hours 29 minutes.
- June, 1927—Clarence D. Chamberlin with Charles A. Levine, non-stop, Roosevelt Field to Iseleben, Germany, a world's distance record, 3,911 miles, 42 hours.
- June, 1927—Admiral Byrd, Bernt Balchen, Bert Acosta and George Noville, Roosevelt Field to Ver sur Mer, France, non-stop.
- August, 1927—William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, New York to Newfoundland to England and thence to Japan.
- June, 1928—Wilmer Stultz, Lou Gordon and Amelia Earhart, Newfoundland to Wales, non-stop.
- June, 1929—Jean Assolant, Armeno Loti and René LeFevre, Old Orchard Beach, Me., to Spain, non-stop.
- July, 1929—Roger Q. Williams and Lewis Yancey, Old Orchard to Spain, non-stop, and the next day to Rome.

COSTE ACCEPTS BID TO FLY TO TEXAS

Expects to Take Off Soon on Flight to Dallas for Prize of $25,000.

Captain Coste and Maurice Bellonte will accept the offer of $25,000 for a flight to Dallas, Texas, made by Colonel W. E. Easterwood of that city. Captain Coste said last night that he is not certain when he will make the flight, but he expects to start Thursday morning.

Heavy-lidded for lack of sleep, the French pilot, just before going off to bed in the Hotel Ritz Tower, said that he would be glad to accept the offer, because it would give him an opportunity for a cross-country trip in the Question Mark.

"We are tired tonight—Bellonte and I—and we are in no condition to discuss arrangements for the flight to Texas," Captain Coste said, "but you may say for us that we will be glad to accept Colonel Easterwood's offer. I might say, offhand, that we will start from New York the day after tomorrow.

"Tell Colonel Easterwood that we will be glad to visit Dallas and that we think his offer is extremely kind. Tomorrow, when Bellonte and I have had some rest, we will talk over the details and make all arrangements for the flight. We will start as soon as the ship is completely overhauled. You know, we could not hop off without making whatever repairs may be necessary after our long ocean flight."

Captain Coste said the Easterwood offer paves the way for what he feels will be a very interesting trip.

"It will carry me over country that I have always wanted to see, and it will give the people of Dallas a chance to see the Question Mark," he declared. "I imagine they are more interested in her than in anything else—and they have a right to be. She is a splendid thing with a great heart."

Captain Coste said that as soon as he had an opportunity to look over all the details of Colonel Easterwood's offer he would lay his course for Texas and announce just what cities he will pass on his way. He was not certain last night whether the hop would be a non-stop journey, but said that the Question Mark could make the trip without effort if a non-stop flight is decided upon.

"I am almost certain that the ship will need little attention," said Captain Coste. "She never faltered once during our long flight from Paris and I imagine all she will need for the flight to Dallas will be a tuning up and, perhaps, a tightening here and there. She bucked some hard winds on the way."

By this time Captain Coste's eyes were almost ready to shut down completely. Friends led him away.

EASTERWOOD IS HAPPY.

Donor of Paris-Dallas Flight Prize Expects Coste to Win It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Colonel W. E. Easterwood of Dallas, Texas, donor of the $25,000 prize for the first Paris-Dallas flight, was jubilant tonight that Coste had reached New York safely. He is now confident that after three days' rest the French airman can make a non-stop flight to Texas and win the prize.

"I had every confidence in Coste from the start," said Mr. Easterwood in Edinburgh, where he is staying. "I knew he would accomplish his object, and my one regret is that I was not in Paris to see him off. Coste and Bellonte never doubted the capabilities of their machine and I never doubted the efficiency of the men. Their flight was a magnificent achievement. I am overjoyed at their success."

ALL PARIS ACCLAIMS TRIUMPH BY COSTE

By P. J. PHILIP.

raderie. There was nothing in any one's mind but these fliers. No one could talk of anything else, think of anything else.

Yet there was no excitement. Coste's coolness and self-control seemed to be shared by his countrymen. He had, too, given them his confidence. There was none of that feverishness of that dreadful day when the city went first wild with excitement and then fierce with rage over the reports and truth of Nungesser's and Coli's tragic adventure. It seemed almost as if every one was waiting to hear that the Question Mark had arrived before he should let his emotions have scope.

That was how it was, too, in the Place de la Concorde all evening. From 8 o'clock the crowd began to gather. By 9 it had swelled to such proportions that all traffic had to be stopped. By 10 o'clock every lamp post and all the statues of citizens of France which decorate the square were draped with youngsters, while Paris of all classes and kinds stood waiting. The Champs Elysée and all roads leading to the square were packed with cars. It was impossible to move out or in except on foot. Yet there was no noise, no excitement. When about 9 o'clock it was announced that the Question Mark had been signalled near Boston there were cheers. When later it was reported as being over Southampton these cheers grew warmer.

Enthusiasm Still Withheld.

But there was still no tempest of enthusiasm. That was being bottled up for later. It seemed almost as if all these people would not dare risk excitement in case it should be premature. There have been so many failures to achieve a perfect flight. Better wait until one was sure they had arrived.

Then came the message near 11 o'clock of fog and storm. The radio announcer tried his best to reassure the crowd. It might mean delay, but only delay. So eager was every one for a perfect, for another Lindbergh landing that the news fell like a fog itself on the multitude. There was a feeling of fierce resentment in every one's mind. Even if they landed that would not be enough. They must reach Curtiss Field.

Those with children and household cares began to melt away, for it was 11 o'clock. Others bethought themselves of the nearest cafe, for the Frenchman is practical. Most, however, remained waiting patiently, very decorously for their great moment.

Crowd Yields at Last to Joy.

It came at last near 11:45, when from the roof a voice announced that the Question Mark had been over Norwich, Conn. and that it might be expected at Curtiss Field in half an hour. Then, but not until then, did these French people's cheering have any warmth, their handclapping expressing their joy. They were sure at last. Twenty-five minutes later all their pent-up emotion let itself loose. In snatches, but sufficiently clear, came from Curtiss Field sentences in English which told that the great moment had come; that the two Frenchmen who left Paris yesterday morning after breakfast had landed in New York. Realization of the fact came slowly.

"More details!" the crowd kept shouting, drowning by its cries what detaials were being given.

Then it cared nothing for details. The fact was enough. Victory had been won. "Vive Coste!" they shouted in thousands, and the cry began to grow and grow. It surged out into Place de la Concorde, along Rue Royal into the boulevards. Around the Matin and Intransigeant offices other crowds of thousands had heard the news. It spread from mouth to mouth, from house to house, from street to street. In half an hour everybody knew it.

Taximen shouted it to each other as they flashed past. People leaning from windows cried down to passers-by asking and repeating what they had heard. There were many who embraced, many who clapped and cheered. Yet, not any great demonstration. That will be reserved for that day when Coste and Bellonte come home. Along boulevards youngsters formed in groups, shouting, "vive Coste" and vive la France," and here and there the "Marseillaise" was sung as people stood with bared heads. It was all rather a solemn moment in Paris than one for demonstration.

France to Honor Coste.

PARIS, Sept. 3 (Wednesday) (AP).—The government announced early this morning that it would make Captain Dieudonné Coste a Commander of the Legion of Honor in recognition of his achievement in flying from Paris to the United States.

The news of the landing reached Paris three minutes after Coste set his wheels down at Curtiss Field, or fifteen minutes after midnight, Paris time.

The height of enthusiasm was reached at the Place de la Concorde when the voice of Coste himself, speaking in a microphone at Curtiss Field, was heard by 25,000 Frenchmen.

The victorious aviator in modest tones told the crowd in its native tongue of his trip. His voice was hoarse and husky, rather difficult to understand in comparison with the earlier reception, but the crowd caught the drift of his remarks and cheered until the voice of the aviator was drowned in the terrific din. Coste spoke only two minutes, but the cheering continued uninterrupted for fully seven minutes.

At Le Bourget Airfield, whence the fliers took off on their transatlantic journey, practically all flying activities were halted after word had been received in the afternoon that Coste had made landfall on the North American continent. Aviators doffed their flying togs to sit in restaurants or stay on the field and chart the route of the ocean fliers as reports came in.

One newspaper bore the headline "Coste Has Answered the Question Mark." The newspaper adds "the question now should be changed to an exclamation of joy and admiration."

The cheering in the streets rose to a mighty roar when it was announced by a broadcaster that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh would be on hand in New York to welcome the Frenchmen to America. The throngs shouted "Vive Lindbergh" and "Vive Coste."

later, but each told his wife they would make the South American flight.

Their main object, they said, was the Paris-New York crossing. Coste in particular, however, told his wife he wanted to return to South America, where he had a triumphal reception on his round-the-world trip with Joseph Lebrix.

Bellonte also is eager to go to South America and asked his wife to join him in New York before the flight south. He told her that it probably would be about a month after his present transatlantic flight, but his plans remained indefinite when he left. Friends and relatives said only Coste and Bellonte know exactly what they are going to do.

When the mother of Nungesser was informed of Coste's success she broke into tears of joy.

"Since the departure of those brave men [Coste and Bellonte] I have shared the anguish of all and have lived again those dolorous hours of three years ago," she said.

"I rejoice in their achievement. Their flight was admirably prepared, and I am certain that my dear son would have succeeded if as much care had been devoted to the preparation.

"I welcome the triumph of Coste and Bellonte with all the joy of a mother."

MARVEL IN ENGLAND AT FRENCHMEN'S SPEED

But Newspapers Insist Alcock and Brown Made the Fastest Atlantic Crossing.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—British airmen rubbed their eyes in wonder tonight when they read that Dieudonné Coste and Maurice Bellonte had landed in New York after crossing from Ireland to Newfoundland in seventeen hours, as estimated here.

"Magnificent," "wonderful" are almost the only words used to describe the flight, which not only shattered all east-west records, but came within an hour of smashing the Alcock-Brown record the British have guarded so jealously for eleven years. The newspapers tonight still insist the "fastest Atlantic crossing" was achieved by the two Englishmen in 1919, but they admit Coste's performances must put all other Atlantic flights in the shade.

The suggestion is even made in The Morning Post that the Question Mark might more appropriately be named "Exclamation Mark."

"With the assistance of the new engine," says the newspaper, "the famous airplane has triumphantly carried its pilots almost as far west as it carried them east last year on the 4,900-mile non-stop flight to Manchuria. That flight was made after the machine had jibbed at strong headwinds when attempting the Atlantic passage via the Azores. Coste has learned the secret of humoring his steed, and we congratulate France on possessing so courageous a rider and so thoroughbred a mount."

LINDBERGH SHARES CHEERS FOR COSTE

But Colonel Refuses to Come to Window of Hangar to Accept Tribute.

FLIERS SUFFER FROM HEAT

Doff Heavy Leather Coats Quickly When They Escape Crowd—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Greets Them.

Special to The New York Times.

CURTISS FIELD, L. I., Sept. 2.—Colonel Lindbergh's visit to Valley Stream today to participate in welcoming the French fliers was the first occasion upon which any transatlantic flier has been so honored. Heretofore Colonel Lindbergh has extended his congratulations to successful fliers at their hotels, either in person or by telegram. Colonel Lindbergh came early and stayed late. He was in the crowd at the field for about four hours. He motored out from Englewood with his wife, and when the crowd recognized him he was tumultuously greeted.

Mrs. Lindbergh, shortly after her arrival, was escorted to the roof of hangar 2, where she watched with interest the formation flying of three Curtiss fledglings from the Naval Reserve Aviation Field and saw the landing of the Question Mark.

After the fliers had landed and while they were getting a breathing spell in the pilots' room on the second floor of hangar 2, Colonel Lindbergh pushed his way up the stairs to grasp the hand of Coste and to welcome the co-pilot, Bellonte. As the Colonel shook the hands of the French fliers the crowds massed below the windows caught a glimpse of him in the wavering glare of the magnesium lights and redoubled their cheers. Coste urged Colonel Lindbergh to come to the window with him, but Colonel Lindbergh, smiling, declined.

When Colonel Lindbergh had finished his greeting, and as he turned to go, Coste remarked in French—"Je veux Dormir," and then, "Good-bye and thank you very much."

While Coste and Bellonte were still receiving the cheers of several hundred struggling persons jammed into an open space below the pilots' room, the police cleared a way up the steps for Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., the wife of the Governor of Porto Rico, who pressed through the crowd in the little room to shake hands with the fliers. With Mrs. Roosevelt were her two small sons, who shyly shook hands with Coste and the somewhat bewildered Bellonte, and a little girl, the daughter of Mrs. Richard Derby.

When the fliers clambered over the side of the fuselage to step on American soil they were both clad in flying suits with leather helmets. Underneath the flying suits Coste wore a yellow sleeveless sweater and around his neck were knotted several scarfs. When the two men were escorted into the pilots rooms, still wearing their flying regalia, they were hot and perspiring from their struggle through the mob, and both of them hastened to take off their heavy leather coats and the sweaters. Bellonte wore a white fleece-lined sweater and two other light sweaters beneath it and his neck was also swathed in scarves.

Jean Borotra, French tennis star, was effusive in his greeting of Coste.

"It was a wonderful flight, superb!" he said.

"You play tennis better than I fly," graciously responded the pilot, who glanced at immigration officials and custom men who arrived to inspect the plane as soon as it had come to a stop. They passed all of the contents with the exception of a silk dress, on which Coste had to pay duty. He did so at once and was handed an official O. K. slip by the custom men.

One of Coste's compatriots, a Frenchman, equipped with an "official guest" badge of Curtiss Airport, who was listed among the important welcomers, was somewhat severely handled by the police when he lost his badge in the crush about the plane. The dignitary was pushed and shoved and was about to be summarily escorted from the field when he saved himself by helping to hoist Coste shoulder high. Satisfied, the dignitary participated in the triumphal procession to No. 1 hangar.

William L. Enequist, chairman of the Nassau County official reception committee, was lost in the rush when the biplane landed and was never able to get near enough to greet the fliers until they finally made their way to the radio broadcasting room in 2 hangar.

In the middle of the radio broadcast when Coste was speaking over the microphone to an international radio audience, the crush of the crowd thronging about the windows on the outside of the room, which is on the ground floor of the No. 2 hangar, broke a glass pane. The glass fell with a loud crash and the cries of the crowd and the struggles of policemen at the door to keep out the throngs almost interrupted the broadcast.

More than 100,000 words describing the landing of the Question Mark were filed by more than fifty reporters. About 10,000 words of this were cable copy to France and other countries. Motion picture representatives were scattered around the field in large numbers, but the cumbersome trucks with the sound equipment were never able to get very close to the plane and had to content themselves with long distance "shots" and of pictures of the crowds. Several sound motion picture machine operators were disappointed when the two French fliers left the field and started for New York without posing for them.

After the Question Mark had been wheeled into her hangar and while mechanics were busy examining the plane the lone customs officer and his appraiser were very vigilant. One of the mechanics found a stale French biscuit in the cockpit and picked it up and laughing threw it to a friend. "Here's something from France," he called.

"Put that back in the ship," the customs officer called conscientiously. The French biscuit went back in the cockpit of the plane.

After the Question Mark was berthed it was heavily guarded to prevent souvenir hunters from cutting pieces of fabric. Half a dozen Nassau County policemen and three detectives assisted by mechanics from the Curtiss-Wright airport surrounded the plane, but despite their vigilance several persons succeeded in scribbling their names and addresses on the fuselage.

VON GRONAU LAUDS COSTE.

German Flier Calls Feat "Unusual"—Guest at Dinner Here Tonight.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2 (AP).—Captain Wolfgang von Gronau, German transatlantic flier who just completed an ocean hop, said tonight that the flight of Dieudonné Coste and Maurice Bellonte was "very unusual."

Captain von Gronau flew his transatlantic Dornier Wahl plane here from Chicago today and was spending the night here preparatory to hop off for New York. He said Coste's flight was unusual because of the element of danger which had previously prevented a nonstop flight from Paris to New York and because this was Coste's second trip across. The odds, the German flier said, are very much against a man making such a flight twice.

Captain Wolfgang von Gronau and his companions, who flew from Germany to New York in the Dornier-Wal seaplane D 1422, will be the guests of honor tonight at a reception and dinner given by the German-American Conference at the Hotel Roosevelt. Mayor Walker and Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the Mayor's committee for the reception of distinguished guests, are expected to attend.

The conference comprises twenty-five German-American associations in Greater New York and has a membership of 250,000 Americans of German descent. Joseph E. Ridder will be toastmaster, and the speakers will include Captain von Gronau and his companions and Dr. Gotthard E. Seyffarth, president of the Northeastern Singers' Association of the United States. Other fliers invited include Miss Antonie Strassman, Baron von Koenig-Warthausen and Fritz Loose.

BOYD FLIGHT HALTS, HIS PLANE ATTACHED

The Columbia, Ready for Transatlantic Hop, Seized at St. Hubert Airport.

LEVINE NAMED A DEFENDANT

Roger Q. Williams Sues on Claim That Promoter and Airways Company Owe Him $801.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—Further setback to the proposed flight of Captain J. Erroll Boyd, Canadian aviator, who was scheduled to leave on a solo flight across the Atlantic Ocean from St. Hubert Airport to London, has occurred as a result of a seizure for $801 wages alleged due, instituted by Roger Q. Williams against Columbia Airways, Inc., and Charles A. Levine, owners of the Bellanca monoplane Columbia and the amphibian plane Triad. The suit brings to light other details in connection with the undertaking.

A cablegram addressed to Captain J. Erroll Boyd from Charles A. Levine in Paris, a few days ago, intimated that the sale of the Columbia was projected prior to the take-off. It read as follows:

"Surely you can raise $10,000 amongst your relatives and friends. This amount small compared actual value Columbia. Please inform Canadian customs officials Triad will be exported Europe Sept. 15."

Papers will be signed tomorrow morning by Captain Boyd and Lieutenant Harry P. Connor, a reserve officer of the United States Navy, for a dual flight across the Atlantic.

Connor to Be Navigator.

Commenting on this change in the plans, John A. O'Brien, manager of the flight, said: "The undertaking will now be known as the Boyd-Connor flight, with Lieutenant Connor acting as navigator.

"This action is deemed advisable to eliminate the last possible hazard, increasing the safety factor to a great extent. Captain Boyd and Lieutenant Connor will apply the same scientific methods as were used so successfully on the non-stop return flight to Bermuda recently."

Regarding the seizure of the Columbia and the Triad at St. Hubert Airport, Mr. O'Brien said:

"We cannot understand why action of this sort should be taken on both planes. Either plane would give Mr. Williams ample security for his arrears in salary from the company.

"This action will cause an unavoidable delay, but we are hopeful that satisfactory arrangements can be made for the release of the Columbia, lent to us by Charles A. Levine.

O'Brien Expects to Settle Affair.

"Mr. Williams, we are sure, would not deprive Captain Boyd and Lieutenant Connor of their opportunity after all the diligent work of planning and financing."

Mr. O'Brien expressed the belief that the matter would be cleared as far as they were concerned within a day or two.

"The amount in question, $801," he declared, "will be covered by the posting of a bond on behalf of Captain Boyd and myself.

"Meanwhile, I have cabled to Mr. Levine in Paris advising him of the latest developments. Before taking action we should like to have his advice in the matter.

"We consider the happening as 'just another obstacle' to be surmounted.

"Captain Boyd and I have shouldered the entire burden of expense in connection with the flight, and we intend to bring it to a successful conclusion."

CLIPS HAVANA TRIP 3 HOURS

Morro Castle Gets Here in 58 Hours —Mrs. Marlote's Mother on Board.

The new Ward Line steamship Morro Castle arrived here yesterday on her first round voyage from Havana, breaking by three hours nine minutes the former record of sixty-one hours nine minutes, held by the company's steamship Orizaba. The Morro Castle made the passage to New York in fifty-eight hours and set a mark for the regular service to Havana of fifty-eight hours forty minutes.

The new record was for steamships in the regular Havana service only. During the Winter special cruising steamships like the Mauretania have made better time, it was said.

Passengers who arrived on the ship from Havana included Mrs. Emma G. Lane, mother of Mrs. Martha Lane Marlote, the American woman freed of a treason charge by the Cuban Government on Monday, and Mrs. Marlote's two children, Roger and Martha. They will go to Long Meadow, Mass., where they will be joined by the children's mother, who arrived at Miami by plane yesterday.

COLGATE LANDMARK BURNS.

West Hall, Built in 1827, Believed Set Afire by Lightning.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Fire believed to have been caused by lightning last night destroyed the interior of West Hall, the first building constructed at Colgate University, with a loss of $50,000 to $100,000.

Discovered at 10:30 P. M., the fire had already made great headway in the top story. Firemen fought two hours before getting the blaze under control.

West Hall, built in 1827, once housed the chapel and museum. In 1910 it was made over into a dormitory to house seventy-five students. Preparations are being made to care ofr students who had rented rooms in the building for the coming academic year.

BOYD PAYS TRIBUTE.

Canadian Aviator Declares Coste's Was a Great Feat.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Sept. 2 (By the Canadian Press).—Captain Errol Boyd, Canadian aviator and his navigator, Lieutenant Harry Connor, of the U. S. Navy, who have been awaiting favorable weather conditions for their projected non-stop flight from St. Hubert to London, added their tribute tonight to the achievement of Captain Dieudonné Coste and Maurice Bellonte.

"It was a great feat," Captain Boyd declared, "and we want to congratulate the French fliers on their successful flight to New York City."

VAN ORMAN WINS IN BALLOON RACE

Lands at Canton, Mass., South of Boston, to Capture Bennett Trophy Again.

OUTDISTANCES FIVE OTHERS

Belgian Aide Jumps to Gain Few Miles at Adams, Mass.—3 Land in New York, One in Ontario.

CANTON, Mass., Sept. 2 (AP).—The Goodyear VIII, piloted by Ward T. Van Orman, landed safely in a 100-foot square pasture here at 10:15 o'clock, Eastern Daylight Time, tonight, after driving from Cleveland, Ohio, in the international Gordon Bennett balloon race.

The balloon, which had been sailing very low over Thompsonville, Conn., and Webster and Uxbridge, Mass., barely missed the Neponset Woolen Mill's smokestack here just before it came to earth in the pasture ten feet from a fence.

Van Orman, who won the 1929 Bennett race, and his aide, Allan MacCracken, said they knew they were approaching the Atlantic and would have to land soon anyway from lack of altitude, so they chose the first available spot they saw. They set to work immediately folding up their balloon and ordered a truck to take it to Boston. Canton is eighteen miles south of Boston.

They could not immediately give any estimate of the distance which they had drifted, but Canton is about 600 miles by direct air line from Cleveland.

Five Others Had Reported.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2 (AP).—Officials of the nineteenth annual Gordon Bennett International Balloon Race here believed tonight that the United States had won the event with the Goodyear VIII when they received an Associated Press report that Ward T. Van Orman of Akron had landed at Canton, Mass, outdistancing the five others in the race who had previously reported their landings.

The Belgian entry, Belgica, piloted by Ernest De Muyter, winner in 1920, 1922, 1923 and 1924, came down near Adams, Mass., late in the afternoon, after gaining a few miles when De Muyter's aide, Leon Coeckebaerg, jumped from the basket to lighten the craft.

After completing an estimated course of 360 miles, the City of Cleveland, piloted by Roland J. Blair with his aide, F. A. Trotter, who won the 1930 national race in the Goodyear entry, struck a tree late in the day as it dropped from a high altitude to search for favorable wind. It landed south of Copenhagen, N. Y. The bag was torn and disqualified as a contestant.

The Barmen, entered by Germany, was forced to land at Pittsfield, N. Y., about 360 miles from the starting point. It was piloted by Dr. Hugh Kaulen Jr. and Carl Goetze Jr.

The City of Detroit managed to fly 430 miles before it landed. It came down in the rear of a brickyard at Coneymans, twelve miles south of Albany, N. Y., soon after 2 P. M. The pilot was E. J. Hill and his aide Arthur Schlosser.

The Pierre Fishbach, entered by France, descended at Smithville, Ont., soon after noon. It had carried Albert Boitard, the pilot, and Jean Herbe, his aide, both of Paris, about 175 miles from the Cleveland airport.

Belgian Jumps to Lighten Bag.

ADAMS, Mass., Sept. 2 (AP).—The balloon Belgica landed safely at the foot of Greylock Mountain here at 5 P. M., Eastern Daylight Time, today, about twenty-four hours after it had taken off from Cleveland in the international Gordon Bennett race.

Captain Ernest De Muyter and his aide, Leon Coeckelbaerg, fought off lightning, snow and loss of altitude to fly this far. The supreme effort was made on the western side of Greylock, when Coeckelbaerg slid down the drag rope and dropped off on the tree tops as the basket was about to catch in the branches.

De Muyter said later that the balloon shot high enough to clear Greylock after his aide dropped off, but then lost altitude again so fast that, although he threw out everything movable from the basket, he could not go on. It took Coeckelbaerg four hours to find his way on foot over the mountain.

He estimated that the balloon sailed almost 1,000 miles on its trip here from Cleveland, although the direct flying distance is something less than 500 miles. The wind took him over Painesville, Ohio, and Lake Erie, then Lake Ontario, whose shore he followed after leaving Dunkirk, N. Y., until the balloon swung over Central New York, passing over Albany, N. Y., and Pittsfield, Mass.

Over Lake Ontario a thunderstorm struck the Belgica. Captain De Muyter lightened his load and the balloon shot up 15,000 feet. There it struck a blinding snowstorm. The pilot said he had encountered every possible kind of weather on the trip.

PARACHUTE FOR PLANE LANDS CRAFT SAFELY

Detroit Flier Tests Device in 6,500-Foot Drop—Slight Damage on Grounding.

Special to The New York Times.

DETOIT, Sept. 2.—The first public demonstration of the airplane parachute developed by James M. Russell was given this forenoon at the Grosse Isle Airport before representatives of air transport companies pilots and leaders in the aviation industry of Detroit.

Vance Breese, a Detroit Aircraft Corporation pilot, released the parachute at an altitude of 6,500 feet, after shutting off his motor and going into a spin. Although the 'chute opened instantly when released from the tail of the plane, the craft, a biplane, performed various gyrations as it descended.

The damage when the plane hit the ground was slighter than observers had believed possible. A gust of wind caught the craft sidewise, and the lower wings were cracked and the landing gear supports crushed. Breese stepped from the cockpit as if he had made a normal landing.

Further tests probably will be made at fields throughout the country for airline operators, flying schools and army officials.

The pilot parachute, which opens as the release is pulled, is designed to automatically right the plane from any manoeuvres before the main sixty-foot parachute opens, to ease the craft to the ground.

The apparatus is entirely automatic in operation, no attention to the 'chute or controls being necessary after the release cord is pulled. For future tests a device has been provided to cut off the motor.

The plane 'chute is the result of five years' experimental work by Mr. Russell, chief engineer of the Russell Parachute Company, working with engineers of the Detroit Aircraft Corporation.

The plane used in the experiment was a Parks two-place OX-5, weighing about 2,300 pounds. Officials of the Detroit Aircraft Corporation said that the apparatus could be adapted to the largest transport planes. On the experimental installation the entire equipment weighed less than 100 pounds. It is estimated that the device can be built into larger craft with a total increase in weight of from 130 to 160 pounds.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—Peter Troop of Montreal, flying a Bellanca, won the Efficiency Cup and first prize of $2,500 in the Canadian National Exhibition commercial cabin seaplane races here today. C. E. Kelly, Toronto, in a Fairchild, took second prize of $1,000 and C. G. Lumsden of Montreal, with his Stinson, was third, winning $500.

MULROONEY IS MADE TONG WAR ARBITER

Seven Chinese Organizations Sign Peace Treaty to Put End to All Hostilities.

DEPORTATION THREAT FELT

Arbitration Committee to Decide Disputes, With Appeal to Police Chief Provided.

Stirred by the threat of wholesale deportation unless warfare ceased, representatives of seven Chinese tongs, accompanied by their lawyers and Occidental bodyguards, met yesterday in the office of Federal Attorney Tuttle and ratified a new peace treaty, by the terms of which Edward P. Mulrooney, Police Commissioner, becomes virtually the arbiter of all disputes.

Under the agreement, not the first to be made since June 3, when hostilities were renewed in New York and other cities, all warfare between the tongs is to be ended. Henceforth, if the treaty is observed, an arbitration board will supplant hatchet men in settling controversies.

If the board, headed by J. S. Tow, acting Consul General of China, and made up of representatives of the tongs, fails to arrive at decisions that are unanimously accepted, Commissioner Mulrooney, the treaty provides, is to act as arbiter, his word being final.

Commissioner Mulrooney, who attended the conference, accepted the post that makes him, it was said, the Will Hays of Chinatown. He said he thought he was in a good position to serve as dictator of the tongs, because if hostilities are renewed, he could tell tong chiefs which of their men were responsible for outbreaks.

Chinatown Opposed Tong Wars.

The treaty, it was said, was signed by the representatives under pressure of public feeling in Chinatown, which since the latest killings and threats of deportation, has opposed continuance of tong feuds, which have been perpetuated by the embattled On Leongs and Hip Sings.

George J. Mintzer, Assistant United States Attorney, who held preliminary conferences and conducted an investigation recently, called the meeting that produced an agreement after other conferences had failed. Signers of the treaty and the tongs they represented were Paul Yee, On Leong; Eddie Gong, Hip Sing; Yan Wo, Li Fong; Lin Yim, Tai Look; Joe On, Tai Pang; One Won, Tong On, and Ching Yat Lee, president of the Consolidated Chinese Benevolent Society.

After the treaty, containing twenty articles, had been signed, a Chinese copyist proceeded to set it down in Chinese script on cerise paper. Copies were to be sent to tongs throughout the United States. In addition to Mr. Tuttle, the acting consul, Commissioner Mulrooney and the signatories, the conference was attended by Albert Unger, Assistant District Attorney; Howard Amell, Federal Attorney in Brooklyn; John Sullivan, deputy chief inspector, and Joseph Manning, chief narcotic agent.

The signatories not only agree to abide by the judgment of the arbitration committee in case of disputes, subject to their right to appeal to Commissioner Mulrooney, but to "declare the right and justice" in a dispute and fix the fault if acts of hostility occur.

Federal Attorney Tuttle said last night that he thought the treaty would work out more successfully than one adopted last June and violated later.

He pointed out that the Consolidated Chinese Benevolent Association, which had had the responsibility of enforcing peace terms in the past, would now be helped by the committee and Commissioner Mulrooney.

"At all events," he said, "this will be the last opportunity the tongs will have to make peace. There will be no dilly-dallying in the future."

Provisions of Treaty.

Concerning the procedure of the committee, the treaty provides:

"The said committee shall be authorized to adopt by majority vote rules of procedure governing the means and methods of arbitration and the course and procedure of the committee, and such rules, when adopted, shall have the same force and effect as if they were incorporated in this agreement.

"For the purpose of facilitating the purpose of this agreement any tong or association feeling itself aggrieved may, by written complaint to the said committee, present its grievance and thereupon the said committee shall notify the tong or association against which such complaint is lodged and shall also notify the other associations and shall proceed to a hearing expeditiously, according to the aforesaid rules of procedure."

Minutes of the committee, it is provided, shall be available at any time for inspection of the Police Commissioner and the Commissioner at his discretion may ask the committee to meet to pass on tong matters that do not involve civil rights or rights of property.

'BLACK SHIRTS' UNDER FIRE

Federal Grand Jury Investigates 'Fascist' Body in Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 2 (AP).—The Atlanta Journal today said that activities of the "American Fascist Association, an order of black shirts," was investigated by a Federal grand jury which met here yesterday.

The Journal says the Federal grand jury "will attempt to determine if the political rights of any one have been violated by the organization."

A temporary restraining order to withhold the organization's application for a charter has been granted in Fulton County Superior Court.

Government officials, the newspaper said, were considering asking Department of Justice agents to conduct the investigation.

The organization, in applying for incorporation under Georgia laws, said one of its purposes is the maintenance of "white supremacy." Charges have been made that the "black shirts" have attempted to induce employers in several Georgia cities to replace Negro workers with white employes.

NAMES FIVE MEN IN LAUNDRY RACKET

Mrs. Whitney Tells Brooklyn Prosecutor of Gangsters Who Prey on Owners.

SUBPOENAS SENT TO ALL

Sixteen Seized in Round-Up Face Charges—Brower Retorts to Professor Surpless.

Continuing his drive against racketeering in Brooklyn, District Attorney George E. Brower announced yesterday after a conference with Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney, head of the Neighborhood Laundry Owners Association of Brooklyn, that she had given him the names of at least five gangsters who she has "heard" have been intimidating Brooklyn laundry owners.

Mr. Brower further announced that he questioned sixteen men rounded up by the police over the week-end and that charges of burglary, robbery and violation of the Sullivan law have been preferred against them. He also made public his reply to a letter written to him by Professor Abner L. Surpless, Republican candidate for District Attorney, criticizing Mr. Brower in connection with his campaign against Brooklyn criminals.

"Mrs. Whitney appeared in my office with her attorney," Mr. Brower said. "I think that she is performing a very commendable public service. She is to be encouraged. She has given me the names of five men who, she believes, are preying on the laundry industry. I am sending subpoenas to these men tonight asking them to appear in my office for questioning."

Asked as to the identify of the five men, Mr. Brower said he could not reveal their names, but he admitted that he "has heard their names before." He expressed satisfaction at the results obtained by the police in rounding up criminals.

In replying to Professor Surpless who criticized the District Attorney for what Professor Surpless called the prosecutor's Tammany affiliations and who stated that gambling still flourished at Coney Island despite his drive against criminals, Mr. Brower said:

"This letter was brought to my attention by newspapermen to whom he sent it before I received his copy. This leads me to believe that the professor is insincere in his criticism and that the letter was written for the purpose of belittling, delaying and impeding an earnest effort on my part to make the homes, business places and streets of our borough safer and more secure from the activities of the gangsters.

"Mr. Surpless must be misinformed as to what has been going on in Brooklyn, for every man, woman and child in the borough who reads the newspapers knows that I have been waging a relentless war against criminals since I have been District Attorney. I regret that I am not to remain in this office to carry on the fight, but I will leave the office of District Attorney with the consciousness that the war on criminals will be energetically carried on by William F. X. Geoghan, who I am confident will succeed me. As a lawyer, Professor Surpless should know that if he has any legal evidence of a crime, it is his duty to place the evidence of the existence of the crime before the District Attorney."

Whether they come out of England, Scotland or France, Paris lays down the law as to pattern, color and weave. This new season Paris utilizes —woolens of deep coloring, browns, greens, reds, purples and black

—woolens that have a noticeable regularity of pattern, very conservative —woolens flecked with white
—tweeds with hairy surfaces

As to weaves—even the heavy tweeds and the fine French woolens patiently conform to a higher ruling which says, "Let's leave the bizarre alone".

MORGAN YACHT HITS MAINE COAST ROCK

Breaking Up of New $2,500,000 Corsair Feared With 11-Foot Drop of Penobscot Bay Tide.

TUG FAILS TO BUDGE CRAFT

But Junius Morgan, Financier's Son, and Wife Stay Aboard All Night at Gilkey's Harbor.

Special to The New York Times.

DARK HARBOR, Me., Sept. 2.—The $2,500,000 steam yacht Corsair, which was completed for J. P. Morgan only last Spring, ran aground late this afternoon on a rock ledge in Gilkey's Harbor, Penobscot Bay. As there is an eleven-foot tide in the channel and the palatial craft ran aground at high tide, fears were felt that she might break in two at low tide about 2 A. M.

Late tonight the yacht lay with the normal waterline along her bow extending almost six feet above the surface of the waves. At the first shock of the crash, when the huge craft ran almost half her length onto the ledge, the bow was thrust four feet upward and as the tide began to run out she began to list to port.

Junius Morgan, son of the New York financier, and his wife were aboard at the time of the grounding. Although in response to a radio appeal for help the Corsair was quickly surrounded by small craft, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan decided to spend the night aboard the yacht and declined offers to take them ashore.

Buoy Mistaken by Helmsman.

The Corsair was proceeding into the harbor here when, it is believed, the helmsman mistook a buoy marking the port side of the channel, which is narrow and dangerous, for one on the starboard side. She struck sharply on the ledge which extends from the north end of Minot's Island, on which Frederick R. Kellogg of New York has a Summer residence.

When the full power of her own engines was unable to wrest the 343-foot yacht from the ledge, word was sent to Rockland for assistance. The ocean-going tug Wyoming promptly responded, but the combined efforts of the tug and the yacht's engines served only to part a ten-inch hawser without budging the Corsair.

The attempt to haul her off finally had to be abandoned for fear that the yacht's hull would be seriously damaged by being scraped along the rocks. The Wyoming and five other tugs were standing by tonight, but it was said that they would not try to get the Corsair off until the morning full tide.

Pontoons Likely to Be Needed.

Local mariners unhesitatingly prophesied that they would be unable to move the Corsair at that time. They explained that the morning tide is considerably lower than the evening one, which was at its height when the yacht struck the ledge. Captain George Rolerson of Dark Harbor, after viewing the yacht's position, said that he did not believe she could be floated without pontoons and divers.

The Corsair, the fourth to bear that name and to fly the Morgan pennant, is the largest and possibly the most costly private yacht ever constructed. Her length over-all is 343 feet and on the waterline 280 feet. She has a beam of 42 feet 6 inches, a draft of 18 feet, and her tonnage is 3,080.

The yacht is an oil burner with an electro-turbine plant which develops 6,000 horsepower and was designed to send the clipper-like ship through the water at eighteen knots. She had a cruising radius of 25,000 miles. She was launched at Bath, Me., on April 10 and was placed in commission on May 28.

Crossed Ocean on Maiden Voyage.

The Corsair made her maiden voyage across the Atlantic this Summer, sailing from Glen Cove, L. I., to Southampton in eight and a quarter days, carrying Mr. Morgan, his family and four friends to the Morgan estate in Hertfordshire. The Corsair then returned here to be available during the trial races to pick a defender for the America's Cup.

In accordance with the appearance of her forerunners of the same name, the Corsair is low and rakish in her lines, with a black hull contrasting with her white superstructure. She has but one funnel, with masts fore and aft it. The superstructure covers about 200 feet of the over-all length, thus leaving unusually long open decks.

The yacht is finished in the most costly materials. All exposed woodwork is of teak, imported from India. The paneling, beamwork, and decking is of the same material, except in the crew's quarters which are finished in mahogany. The built-in cabinets and lockers are of walnut and teak.

Two sets of quarters are provided for the owner. The chief of these, on the main deck, extends the beam of the boat and consists of a stateroom, writing room, bath, and large cedar-lined closet. The other is on the boat deck, forward and immediately below the pilot house.

There are also five staterooms for guests or members of Mr. Morgan's family, all on the starboard side. On the port side are the pantry, galley and laundry. Forward of these and extending the entire beam of the yacht is the lounge, with beamed ceiling, paneled walls, and an open fireplace.

The Corsair is manned by a crew of fifty-eight.

NEW "3X" LETTER RECEIVED

It Says Queens Slayer Will Return to Save Country From Reds.

A letter purporting to be from "3X," the mysterious individual who in earlier epistles gave details which convinced the police that he was the slayer of Noel Sowley and Joseph Mosinski in Queens, was received yesterday by an evening newspaper and turned oved to Police Commissioner Mulrooney.

The letter, which announced that its mysterious sender would shortly return here to have this country from a Red plot, was turned over by the Commissioner to Inspector John J. Gallagher, in charge of detectives in Queens. It will be compared with the earlier letters by handwriting experts to determine if the same individual sent it.

FREEDOM OF THE AIR DEBATED AT HAGUE

Aeronautical Congress Finds Concept in Conflict With That of State Sovereignty.

AIRPORTS ARE DISCUSSED

Uniform Field Rules and Standard Ground Equipment Proposed—Pilot Tests Taken Up.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 2.—The International Aeronautical Congress devoted its session today largely to technical work.

In the first section airports were the subject of discussion. A paper on the ground organization required for air transport was read by Mr. Mealing of the British Air Ministry. Herr von der Goltz, director of the Hamburg airport, sketched the conditions an airport should fulfill.

Reports were read from the United States Department of Commerce on uniform field rules for airports and on radio research, the latter in connection with a discussion of radio and telephoto apparatus, their value and their limitations.

In the technical section, fourteen papers were read treating questions of aerodynamics, such as the influence of the profile of the body and wings of an aircraft on the flow of air adjacent to its surface and the effect of a hinged flap on the characteristics of the air foil.

Pilots' Tests Discussed.

Physicians heard several lectures on tests for professional pilots, on the value of psychometric experiments and on airsickness. In the latter the importance of low placed windows in passenger cabins for ample ventilation was generally recognized.

The most interesting discussions for the general public were those in the juridical section on neutrality in air war and the right to fly over foreign territory in peace time. On the first subject the Italian delegate, Major Sandford, read a paper in which he pointed out that neither the neutrality laws of land war nor those of sea war could be applied to air war. Air war should have its own rules, he said, based on the same principles that are the bases of neutrality rights in land and sea war.

"Is sovereignty in the air above a nation's territory absolute?" Major Sandford asked. "And what should then be the limit of the extension of this neutrality on the sea along the coast?" He suggested that ten miles be the latter maximum, but he pointed out that passage through this air zone could not be regarded as passage through territorial waters.

Signor Giannini, Under-Secretary of the Italian Air Ministry recalled a resolution passed at the International Codification Law Conference at The Hague last Spring, and the present Congress confirmed his view that this Hague resolution should be the starting point for a further study of the question.

Freedom of Air Debated.

There was a lively discussion of the passage of non-military aircraft in peace time over foreign territory. Two principles were found to be in conflict: the sovereignty of States and liberty of the air, neither prevailing absolutely. Signor Giannini laid emphasis on State sovereignty and did not want to compromise it more than was absolutely necessary. Professor Verzyl of Utrecht University, a Dutch delegate, stressed the necessity of vindicating freedom of the air within the unavoidable limits of the sovereignty of States.

M. Kaftal of Poland and Senhor Miranda of Brazil tried to conciliate these contentions, proposing that passage should be allowed without alighting and along defined routes. The majority of the Congress supported the latter contention. The Dutch, English and Danish delegates supported the views of Professor Verzyl.

Tonight the government received the Congress at the suburb of Scheveningen.

FAMILY SEES MAN SLAIN.

Richmond Taxi Operator Shot by Unknown Assassin Near Home.

Stefano Rovossa, 35 years old, a taxicab operator, was shot and fatally wounded in the presence of his wife and four small children in the front yard of his home at 103 Bradley Avenue, West New Brighton, S. I., early yesterday morning. He died six hours later in St. Vincent's Hospital.

Rovossa was working on his automobile when his assassin opened fire on him. He fell with wounds in his arm, leg and abdomen. A neighbor who heard the shots notified the police.

At the hospital Rovossa told Inspector Ernest L. Van Wagner he knew of no reason why any one should want to shoot him. He refused to give any information to the police that might lead to the arrest of his assailant. The police say he has a record, having served terms in the New York County Penitentiary and also a term at Atlanta for counterfeiting.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Sept. 2.—Arrested as he stepped from the home of Harold B. Thorne at 83 High Street here early yesterday morning, Theodore Garner, a Negro, of 19 Charles Street, Montclair, has confessed that he robbed eleven Montclair homes during the last three months, according to the police. Articles which, the police say, were taken from the Thorne home, were found on Garner's person.

Among the homes which Garner is said to have admitted he robbed is that of Nicholas Roberts, 87 High Street, president of S. W. Straus & Co., New York investment bankers. Most of the alleged loot found in Garner's home was jewelry.

PAY RISE ENDS STRIKE OF RAINCOAT MAKERS

Peace Conferences Are Set for Today in Children's Dress Trade Walkouts.

Twelve hundred striking raincoat makers settled with their employers late yesterday, winning a victory after a week's strike. The employers withdrew demands for 10 per cent wage cut and abolition of three and a half legal holidays and restored the 5 per cent taken from wages last Spring during the depression.

While the raincoat strikers were ratifying the new agreements at Irving Plaza Hotel, Fifteenth Street and Irving Place, at a mass meeting addressed by Heywood Broun, Socialist Congressional candidate, union officials and employers in the children's dress trade, where 7,000 men and women are on strike, set in motion machinery for peace conferences today which are expected to end the strike within the next forty-eight hours.

The compact in the raincoat industry was signed late yesterday afternoon at the Hotel New Yorker. Organized children's dress manufacturers met last night in a closed session at the offices of the R. & K. Regulation Dress Company, 520 Eighth Avenue, to consider the union ultimatum calling for a settlement. Strike officials had threatened to conclude individual agreements with independent employers unless the organized group, known as the Infants', Children's and Junior Dress Association, would confer after the Labor Day week-end with the union on the basis of the union demands.

The union demands include the five-day forty-two-hour week, abolition of sweatshop conditions, minimum wage scales, $2 weekly wage increase and 10 per cent increases for piece workers and the establishment of imparial machinery for the settlement of disputes.

Mr. Broun expressed his regret that the strike was over before he could appear on the picket line.

KAMARUJUK, Greenland, Aug. 17, via Verlin, Sept. 2.—Drs. Georgi and Weicken and four Greenlanders, with six dog sleds, reached the centre of the island on July 31. The point reached is 250 miles from either coast. Dr. Georgi remained alone to carry out observations.

A second expedition set out for the centre on Aug. 6, comprising eight dog sleds under Dr. Loewe.

We have finally succeeded in getting motor sledges onto the inland ice field at a height of 2,800 feet, where they will be assembled.

Aug. 27—Dr. Loewe reached the centre with five Greenlanders on Aug. 18 and found Dr. Georgi in good health. About a ton of provisions was delivered.

Observations are in full swing. The lowest temperature has been 31 below zero Fahrenheit.

The path markers, consisting of black flags every 500 yards, which Dr. Georgi set out, have stood up excellently.

Professor Wegener and a party of German scientists sailed in April for Greenland. They planned to establish three observation stations on the inland ice field in connection with meteorological and geological work and a projected transarctic air route, staying eighteen months.

A message from the western group of the expedition at Kamarujuk, dated July 15, announced that Drs. Georgi, Loewe and Weiken, with nine Greenlanders, twelve sleighs and ninety-four dogs, had started for the centre with the first dog team transport. Dr. Loewe was to return after reaching 125 miles. The Winter house at the centre has been installed at an altitude of 10,000 feet and Dr. Georgi will remain throughout the Winter to take observations.

Both the party based at Kamarujuk and the eastern section of the expedition at Scoresby Sound have been held up by bad ice conditions, the eastern section temporarily giving up an attempt to push through to the head of the sound and filling in its time with the construction of an aerological station at Scoresby.

Ex-Kaiser's Realty Is Worth $6,476,633, Spokesman Says

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Former Kaiser Wilhelm's real property in Germany is valued at $6,476,633, according to figures issued today by the majordomo's office of the Prussian royal household in answer to assertions which have appeared in the newspapers recently in connection with the election campaign. The assertions in the press say the ex-Kaiser is still one of the richest men in Germany.

The former Emperor's majordomo asserts the figure of $6,476,633 is for all the real property belonging to sixteen branches of the former royal house, including forty-nine persons. The statement characterizes as false the report that the ex-Kaiser is a heavy speculator in German and French currency or that he is a holder of any considerable amount of foreign bonds.

Mexican Eagle Company Route Over 135 Miles Expected to Revolutionize Distribution.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—One of the most important projects in the development of the Mexican petroleum industry is a contract recently concluded by the Mexican Eagle Oil Company, Ltd., for a pipe line from Palma Sola, State of Vera Cruz, to this city.

The length of the line will be 215 kilometers [about 135 miles] and the work has been entrusted to a Mexican subsidiary of the James F. Martin Corporation of New York. The scheme will revolutionize the distribution of oil in that the heaviest railroad haul will be avoided and Mexico City will become a main centre.

The district from which the oil will be pumped is probably the greatest producer in this country, and both the Mexican Eagle and the Huasteca Company hold extensive producing fields there.

The project will cost, from an engineering viewpoint alone, more than 4,250,000 pesos [$2,125,000] and will take twelve months for completion. It will entail pumping the oil to a height of 2,000 meters [about 6,560 feet] within 100 kilometers [about 62 miles] from the starting point and prior to reaching the highest point on the journey six pumping stations will be constructed. From the peak the oil will run down to the city to an immense distributing centre to be established.

The pipe line will be 10 inches in diameter inside and portions will be laid down over some of the roughest country in the world. Extensive blasting operations will be necessary and more than 2,000 men will be employed.

WAR MINISTER QUITS ARGENTINE CABINET

Succeeded by Minister of the Interior After Conflict on Troop Movements.

IRIGOYEN ILL OF INFLUENZA

Aides Said to Want Him to Resign or Take Long Vacation—Peso Falls to 128 for $100.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 2.—From the welter of rumors and confusion which has reigned here since last midnight the following facts stood out tonight:

Minister of War Dellepiane resigned from the Cabinet this afternoon because of a conflict of opinion with the Minister of the Interior, Elpidio Gonzalez, regarding the precautions the government has taken against the expected revolutionary movement. Late tonight President Irigoyen accepted the resignation, and it was announced that Señor Gonzalez, who has the rank of Captain in the army, would be War Minister for the time being.

The arrival of two more warships today makes thirteen anchored at the Buenos Aires docks.

The troops in the capital were reinforced by the arrival of the Eighth Cavalry from Campo de Mayo this morning.

Two hundred sailors were landed from the squadron early this morning with fixed bayonets and full campaign equipment, ready for an emergency which was then momentarily expected.

Irigoyen Reported Ill.

President Irigoyen has not left his residence since Thursday and is reported ill with influenza.

All troops are being rigorously confined to their barracks and the guards around the Government House and President Irigoyen's residence have been heavily increased.

The heavy demand on drafts on London and New York by companies and individuals shipping funds out of Argentina caused the peso to reach a quotation of 128 for $100 today, the lowest quotation since President Irigoyen's first administration. The situation, which had been tensely nervous, became alarming when it was learned at 2 o'clock this morning that orders had been given to land sailors from the warships, prepared for eventualities. The entire personnel of all the vessels paraded in full equipment and the Minister of the Navy inspected part of them between 2 and 3 o'clock, while the commandants of the first and second divisions were inspecting the barracks of the troops garrisoned in Buenos Aires.

It developed later in the day that the landing order had been issued by the Minister of the Interior on information that a regiment of cavalry was moving toward Buenos Aires in auto trucks. He was unable to get in touch with the Minister of War, who could not be located.

Cavalry Arrives in Trucks.

Shortly after 2 A. M. trucks carrying troops of the Eighth Cavalry reached the city limits. When halted their commander displayed telegraphic orders from the Minister of War to bring his troops to Buenos Aires and take possession of the roads connecting the capital with the military academy at San Martin, the Minister of War having been informed the cadet corps was on the verge of revolt.

The Ministers of War and the Interior had been in disagreement for several days and their lack of contact had brought about alarm. Shortly after noon the Minister of War resigned. Señor Gonzalez, the Minister of the Interior, who replaces him, was Minister of War during President Irigoyen's previous administration. It is reported that Honorio Pueyrredon, former Ambassador at Washington, will be the new Minister of the Interior.

When orders were sent out shortly after midnight for all troops to remain in their barracks the order was extended to the fire brigade, the members of which, armed with Mausers, are used for guard duty. The firemen refused to obey, saying they were a civilian organization and not military and that they were organized to put out fires and not to act as soldiers. In view of their attitude the order was withdrawn.

Among many rumors persistent tonight is one that a group of President Irigoyen's friends has decided to try to persuade him to resign or at least take a long vacation, turning the executive power over to the Vice President, Dr. Enrique Martinez, who has studiously remained aloof from the President and Cabinet Ministers during the last week. The government's precautions have produced intense nervousness on the part of the public and some of President Irigoyen's friends are said to feel that the present situation cannot long continue without danger to public order.

Thinks Others Will Quit.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 2 (AP).—La Nacion's political expert believed tonight that the War Minister's resignation would be followed by those of other members of the Cabinet. Among those the writer expected to resign were José Abalos, Minister of Public Works; Vice Admiral Tomas Zurueta, Minister of Marine, and possibly others.

President Irigoyen's illness continued today and his temperature remained fairly high. When the President absented himself entirely from his office yesterday he was said to have suffered an attack of influenza on Sunday night and to have been confined to bed with a temperature of 101.3.

Rumors of his removal from the Presidential residence followed an apparent relaxation of police and military activity in that neighborhood.

Police raided the University Popular [the People's University] and searched for firearms, but without success. The raid caused general surprise and intensified rumors of student activity in political circles. None of the students was arrested, however.

ARGENTINE FAILURES DROP.

But Number of Private Settlements in August Continues Heavy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 2.—The extent of commercial failures in Argentina during August totaled 12,658,516 pesos [$5,374,805], which was 5,000,000 pesos less than the July failures and 1,000,000 less than in August of last year.

The figures do not, however, indicate an improved business situation, as might be expected, as they are counterbalanced by the large number of private arrangements during the month. The total involved in private arrangements cannot be determined as it is known only to the banks affected, and they are not anxious to reveal it. Bankers interviewed by your correspondent today, however, said that the August private arrangements showed no decline from other recent months, in which such arrangements have been heavy.

The total of failures for eight months of 1930 is larger than for the first eight months of last year or 1928.

DISCUSSES SOUTH AMERICA.

Spanish Cabinet Decides Upon Instructions to Envoys.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Sept. 2.—Premier Berenguer's government tonight discussed at length the South American situation, the object being to decide upon instructions to Ambassadors.

The recent successful revolutions, demonsrtating that governments ruled by one man who tries to sustain power too long are apt to be swept away, are regarded somewhat unpleasantly here.

General Berenguer announced the press censorship would be lifted "very soon," indicating the electioneering period would open in the near future.

BRITISH UNION MEN BACK EMPIRE TRADE

Trades Congress Adopts Report of Council on Need for Economic Bond.

LIBERALS CONDEMN TARIFF

Party Chiefs Say General Cut Is as Necessary to World as Reduction in Armaments.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Britain's trade unionists strayed far from their traditional socialism today when by an ample majority their congress at Nottingham adopted the now famous report of the General Council on economic groups and imperial trade development.

The memorandum, which created a sensation when it was first published, recommended that "in the light of tendencies toward greater economic solidarity among certain groups of nations we should be well advised to develop as far as possible such economic relations between the constituent parts of the British commonwealth as will be to our mutual advantage." It insisted that such action would in no way alter Labor's avowed internationalist policy except that Great Britain would be able to negotiate and discuss "as a commonwealth instead of a single nation."

Ernest Bevin Sways Votes.

The debate, which raged for four hours, often assumed the aspect of a fight between imperialism and internationalism and revealed a strong, determined group of trade unionists who are no longer clinging to a free trade attitude. In the end the advocates of empire development won by a card vote of 1,878,000 to 1,401,000, largely because of the speeches of Ernest Bevin, author of the General Council's resolution.

"I am not an imperialist," Mr. Bevin began, but he immediately began to argue the importance of the British Empire to the trade and prosperity of the world.

"A free trade empire established upon tariff arrangements is a crazy idea," he said, referring to the agitation of Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Rothermere for a tariff wall around the empire, "but an inflexible attitude on free trade is not consistent with socialism. In fact the application of socialism in the public ownership of industry might require the defense of a tariff."

Mr. Bevin paid much attention to the economic rivalry of the United States, which he called an "empire like Great Britain."

"If we are to use Canadian wheat, Canada must learn that it is impossible to get paid for it with American motor cars," he continued.

Later, retorting to the free traders' attacks, Mr. Bevin insisted that the free trade system had "jammed" and that it was entirely proper for trade unionists to recommend closer economic integration of the empire.

"Why leave all discussions of these subjects to bankers, financiers and capitalists?" he demanded.

Liberal's Declaration of Policy.

The Executive Committee of the Liberal party issued today a declaration of policy which is to be discussed at the party conference in October. It concentrates on various proposals for a change in the country's fiscal policy which are expected to be discussed next month at the Imperial Conference as possible expedients for improving commercial relations within the empire.

"Protection cannot diminish unemployment," says the report, "as the experience of protectionist countries already shows. It must increase the cost of living, especially if it includes food taxes. We cannot improve our position by discouraging trade with foreign countries and concentrating on trade within the empire, especially as there is no prospect that the Dominions and India will remove their tariffs against British exports.

"A general reduction in tariffs is as necessary for the peace and prosperity of the world as a general reduction in armaments. England's true policy is to take the lead with other free-trade and low-tariff countries in a movement in this direction."

CALLS THEOFEL SMITH FOE.

Coyle Says Opponent Did Not Support Presidential Nominee.

Thomas P. Coyle, candidate for member of the Democratic State Committee in the Third Queens Assembly District, charged yesterday that his opponent, John Theofel, Democratic county leader, failed to support former Governor Smith in his campaign for President in 1928. Mr. Coyle alleged that Mr. Theofel worked with other Queens Democratic leaders against Mr. Smith and failed to display a Smith banner on the clubhouse of the Jefferson Democratic Club, of which he was executive member.

"We all know what happened to Heflin in Alabama because he opposed Smith in the Presidential campaign," Mr. Coyle said. "We know what happened to other so-called Democrats who opposed the election of Smith and turned their votes over to the opposition. They are political outcasts."

Ontario Constable Shot Dead.

WELLAND, Ont., Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—Constable J. C. McNicoll of the Crowland Police Department was slain here tonight by John Kovah, 45, whom the constable was about to arrest for carrying firearms. McNicoll received the full charge of a double-barreled 12-gauge shotgun in the face. His assailant was later found in his home and was arrested, charged with murder.

Causes of Human Life Failure

Infections, Injuries and Poisonings, Gradually Break Down the Human Machine

At an annual meeting a few years ago of the Life Insurance Presidents' Association, Dr. Charles H. Mayo delivered an illuminating address in which he pictured the causes of human life failure and premature death. In striking terms he pictured the condition of the human body when critically studied after death and the scars of repeated injuries and infections that were found in all cases, showing how repeated infections, injuries and poisonings gradually break down the human machine.

Dr. Mayo emphasized the importance of periodic examinations to detect the presence of such influences in time to check or cure them, and concluded his address as follows:

"I say that medicine has done all it can for the mass diseases that are now practically gone and that used to destroy and frighten the public. The condition now exists that each man is dying his individual death and it is up to us to see if we can't reach him in some manner and persuade him that it is worth while when he is forty to go in and be looked over to see if he can't be helped and to keep his machinery from going to pieces from neglect."

Dr. Mayo speaks of men forty years of age, but the same counsel applies to men under forty and over forty, and to women as well.

Perhaps the most convincing testimony as to the value of such examinations is the attitude of great business organizations, like life insurance companies, that have the largest financial interests at stake. More than forty of these companies offer to about 7,000,000 policyholders the health examinations of the Life Extension Institute. In this welfare work every detail of the service is entirely confidential between the Institute and the policyholder.

Eliminates an Old Grouch

One of these insurance companies has recently issued a new and attractive circular describing the conditions under which the Institute's service is available to its policyholders. Under the title "They Have Tried It" this company reprints comments from policyholders who have been examined, and one, entitled "Eliminates an Old Grouch," reads as follows: "I think," writes an Illinois executive, "that the Life Extension Institute deserves credit for eliminating an old grouch. I made things unpleasant, all too frequently, for my wife and for the people who work for me; but I haven't lost my temper now in many months. The change is due, I am convinced, to my better health."

Another comment tells of an executive of a New York City financial institution who took the examination because he "thought it was a good thing to do." The Institute found a condition developing which might have cost his life. He corrected the condition, and later he wrote to the Institute: "Yours really is Life Extension work. I was in luck when I went to you, otherwise who knows what might have happened? Formerly the words 'life extension' in your name meant very little to me. Now I know, only too well, what they mean."

These Life Extension examinations are available to you as an individual subscriber in any part of the United States and Canada, as the Institute has 10,000 medical examiners in these two countries.

The Sixteen Rules of Health

If you are interested in a protective service of this kind for yourself or any member of your family, send in the coupon below for further information and for the free booklets "How to Live Long" and "Hygiene at Middle Life." The Institute will also send you a card giving the "Sixteen Rules of Health."

At its Home Office in New York City the Institute has assembled every scientific facility necessary to the making of these thorough, fact-finding examinations. In addition to a critical health survey you will receive the best scientific information on the right kind of living habits.

NOTE—Only registered and ethically accredited physicians, highly trained and experienced in this work, are selected by the Institute to examine its subscribers. The Institute's work is confined to the preclinical field, that is, the field of prevention. It is carrying on a nation-wide campaign to teach people the value of periodic examinations either by the family physician, in connection with the health services of the Institute, or at any other approved scientific center. No medical treatment is given by the Institute and there is no purpose to disturb the relationship of individuals with the family physician but rather to bring the Institute's subscribers to the family physician or specialist at a time when his counsel and treatment can be most helpful.

PEACE EMISSARIES MEET GANDHI TODAY

They Still Appear Hopeful, but Rest of India Fears Parleys Have Definitely Failed.

ARMORY RAIDERS CAPTURED

Supposed Leaders of Chittagong Outrage in April Offer Stiff Resistance in French Territory.

POONA, India, Sept. 2 (AP).—Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar, peace emissaries, arrived here tonight and announced they would confer in Yerovda jail with Mahatma Gandhi tomorrow morning.

When they left the train, there was handed to them an urgent telegram from Sir Frederick Sykes, Governor of Bombay Presidency, asking them to see him immediately. They conferred with the Governor for fifteen minutes.

ALLAHABAD, Sept. 2 (AP).—A very definite impression prevailed among members of the All-India Congress today that attempts to make peace between the government and the civil disobedience followers of Mahatma Gandhi had failed.

There are unconfirmed rumors that the Congress leaders have agreed to suspend the civil disobedience campaign on two conditions.

First, that the Governor General give an undertaking in support of India's claims for dominion status and other advancement at the London round-table conference; second, that a general amnesty be granted to political prisoners but that the Nationalist propaganda be permitted to continue.

Apparently the two emissaries of peace felt more optimistic than their followers, for they appeared light-hearted as they set out for Poona, despite the prevalent feelings, growing hourly, that the week-end would see a complete breakdown of the negotiations.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CALCUTTA, Sept. 2.—With the sanction of the French authorities, Bengal and Calcutta police today surrounded a house in Chandernagore jungle in which several Chittagong terrorists were hiding. After a sharp revolver fight in the dead of the night one of the besieged Bengals was killed and four were arrested on charges of participation in the raid on the Chittagong arsenal last April 18.

The suspected house, which is in French territory, was surrounded just before 3 A. M. The house is isolated in jungle growths through which the police made their way with torches, finally jumping a low wall surrounding the house. As they leaped this barrier several men ran out of the house firing revolvers. The police returned the fire with revolvers and sawed-off shotguns.

The prisoners are being detained at Chandern-Agore pending extradition on charges of murder and conspiracy.

BOMBAY, Sept. 2 (AP).—Mrs. Hansa Mohta, president of the Bombay "war council" of the All India National Congress, and members of the Congress working committee today were sentenced to three months' simple imprisonment on a charge of publishing the Congress bulletin.

Mr. Lele, vice president of the council, was sentenced to five months' rigorous imprisonment for a similar offense.

KARACHI, Sept. 2 (AP).—Twenty Nationalist volunteers and several police were injured in rioting here this afternoon.

MANY STRIKES IN SPAIN.

Fisherman Wounded by San Sebastian Police in Granada.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Sept. 2.—San Sebastian policemen fired on striking fishermen who attempted to attack policemen who were guarding cars bearing fish. One of the strikers was wounded.

The police forcibly dispersed striking bread workers in Granada and soldiers are now making the bread there.

Almeria town councillors were among those arrested in republican disturbances in the town hall. At Barcelona extra police guarded quarters where striking construction workers had gathered. The police resorting to extreme means to prevent crowds from forming in several points of the country where strikes have broken out.

A man who said he was a correspondent for the newspaper La Nacion of Buenos Aires was fined for what the government held to be an exaggerated account of the Coruna incidents yesterday.

RUMANIA TO ALTER ARMY.

Supreme Council Discusses Cut in Large Number of Generals.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, Sept. 2.—The Supreme Army Council of Rumania met today under the presidency of Prince Nicolas to draft a bill for reorganization of the army. The question of a reduction in the large number of Rumanian Generals also was considered. Rumania has a world's record in the number of Generals in proportion to the number in the army.

Minister of Finance Popovici is going to Paris to negotiate with the Schneider-Creusot concern which, with the Skoda Works, is considering taking over the State iron works and all State arms factories. Negotiations have been in progress for a long time and now are approaching conclusion.

CLASH IN ANTI-RED DRIVE.

Finnish Communist Councillors Fire at Foes—Socialist Kidnapped.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HELSINGFORS, Sept. 2.—The anti-Communist campaign to rid municipal councils of Communist members is resulting in violent affrays in many places in Finland. Yesterday several Communist members of the council at Heinavesi fired shots at citizens who had arrived to demand their withdrawal.

Police arrested the Socialist chairman of the council, who had also used a weapon, but outside the building persons unidentified overpowered the police, kidnapped the chairman and, it is believed, carried him across the Russian frontier. No one was injured in the affray.

Fascists abducted a Communist teacher who had barricaded himself in his school.

TUKA GOES TO PRISON; SLOVAKS ARE AROUSED

Aged Professor, Convicted of Treason Against Czechoslovakia, Says He Is Treated as Criminal.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, Sept. 2.—Great indignation was expressed among Slovaks today for alleged indignities to their former leader, Professor Voitetch Tuka of Bratislava University, who was sentenced last year to fifteen years of penal servitude by Czech courts for alleged high treason to the Czechoslovakian State in the interests of Hungary.

Professor Tuka has always maintained vigorously that he did nothing but act as a Slovak patriot by seeking the autonomy of his people within the Czechoslovakian State. He denies he had any idea of aiding Hungary.

Yesterday he and Karl Snacky, who organized the Slovak Fascist militia and was sentenced to five years in prison, were secretly transferred, following the rejection of Professor Tuka's final appeal, to the prison. They were heavily guarded on the journey. Professor Tuka requested before being taken to prison that he be allowed to speak with his wife and his counsel, but the request was refused.

The distinguished white-haired scholar, who is said to be going blind and whose health otherwise is breaking, said he was horrified by the treatment he was receiving, despite the fact that his alleged offense is purely political.

"I am being treated exactly as if I were a common criminal, as if I had murdered some one," he said.

Professor Tuka recently presented a petition for clemency to President Masaryk through the latter's daughter, Miss Alice Masaryk. It was confidently expected in Slovakia that the President would pardon him or commute his sentence to exile.

RED DAY PLAN BARED BY BUDAPEST POLICE

They Will Fire Without Warning at Demonstrators Saturday—City Quiet After Clashes.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 2.—Police raids in Communist areas today brought to light quantities of propaganda, from which it was apparent that the Communists had been planning a demonstration of their own for Saturday, to be called Red Day. The newspapers state the police have decided to fire without warning at any persons attempting street demonstrations on that day, following yesterday's clashes attendant upon the Socialist unemployment protest.

To profess communism is a punishable offense in Hungary, hence all organizers of this Communist demonstration, distinct from yesterday's Socialist protest, would of necessity be members of illegal organizations, and the police will recommence extra precautions Friday morning.

No serious attempts have been made to renew yesterday's rioting. The night passed quietly and this morning the period of emergency ended and the gendarmerie and troops were dismissed to their customary stations.

At midday some hundreds of unemployed who attempted to demonstrate in Hunyadi Square, demanding government relief, were instantly dispersed by the police, twenty-three being arrested.

In addition to prosecuting those arrested yesterday, the police are taking proceedings against all 270 of the wounded who were taken to hospitals. Five of the wounded were reported dying tonight.

The press was filled with recriminations today on the subject of the responsibility for yesterday's bloodshed. The conservative newspapers generally condemn the Socialists, whose action in holding the demonstration, which they doubtless intended to be perfectly peaceful, despite a police prohibition gave the Communists their opportunity.

Even the semi-official Pester Lloyd, however, admits the police aggravated the trouble by first hesitating and then intervening with brutality.

VIOLENCE ON RISE IN INDIA.

United Provinces Warn Congress and Strengthen Police Forces.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOMBAY, Sept. 2.—The government of the Central Provinces today issued a warning against "the increasing tendency toward violence" among those participating in the civil disobedience movement. Additional police have been quartered in three rural districts where preaching by Nationalist agents has excited the primitive villagers to violence against the small police forces.

Two policemen were killed in the Betul district and others injured. In Raipur an excited crowd refused to allow prisoners to be marched to jail and stoned the police, causing several injuries. The police had to charge the villagers with wooden staves before the prisoners could be moved.

In Chanda a crowd hurled stones at the police. In Shegaon villagers attacked and beat a group of police and customs officers searching for illicit liquor.

In the Jubbulpore district an attempt was made at the instigation of Nationalist agents to make a breach in the embankment of the government irrigation reservoir. If it had not been thwarted the attempt probably would have resulted in a serious loss of life and widespread destruction over the countryside.

Nearer Bombay, in the Surat area, there was an outbreak today when the Congress party attempted to prevent polling in local elections. A crowd blocked streets leading to the voting station and the police had to charge, making 100 arrests before the polling could proceed. Later the police were stoned and made another charge at the mob.

BUDGET BRINGS CRISIS IN AUSTRALIAN CABINET

Prime Minister Scullin May Be Recalled Unless Solution Is Reached Friday.

CANBERRA, Australia, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—A crisis has developed within the Federal Cabinet. The Ministers are divided over the proposed plans to balance the Commonwealth budget, and the recall of Prime Minister Scullin, now on his way to England for the Imperial Conference, looms as a strong possibility.

J. E. Fenton, Minister of Commerce and Acting Premier, and J. A. Lyons, Postmaster General, have taken the stand that all the pledges given to Sir Otto Niemeyer, the Bank of England expert who acted as Australia's financial doctor, must be redeemed. The pledges include the reduction of the civil service in numbers and salaries, and on this point the two leading Ministers have met opposition from the rest of the Cabinet.

The other Ministers declare the reduction of the civil service would prove futile is they believe it impossible to balance the budget and make up deficits in view of a probable customs deficit of £9,000,000 (about $43,000,000).

The majority of the Cabinet, however, oppose the proposal that Parliament should be summoned to deal with the alarming situation. The Cabinet will meet again on Friday.

It is unlikely that Prime Minister Scullin will be recalled in the meantime, but should no solution to the crisis be found at Friday's meeting, Mr. Scullin will probably be recalled from Aden, at which point the Orama, on which he is traveling, will touch late on Friday.

ABOARD SALVAGE SHIP OFF CAPE FINISTERRE, France, Wednesday, Sept. 3.—The Italian divers made their first attempts yesterday to rescue the treasure which lies in the sunken steamship Egypt, 400 feet below the surface of the Atlantic. Access to the bullion room is not yet possible but the safe in the Captain's room with money and valuable papers, would have been in their grasp if it had not been for a hair-raising adventure of one of the divers.

They are beginning to feel quite at home aboard the Egypt. They have made sure of her exact position and corrected their first impressions accordingly. The Egypt lies Northeast to Southeast, with her bows pointing on the same southwest course she was following before the collision in 1922. What was at first taken for the forepart of the ship turns out to be her stern.

The divers have explored the forecastle and found it intact, with anchors and other fittings in their places. The Egypt sank stern first, not bow first, and her stern is wrecked.

Having triumphantly hauled up a hydraulic crane which now lies on the Artiglio's deck, the divers turned their attention to more valuable booty. The captain's cabin is in an accessible position on the boat deck and contains the safe in which, presumably, some of the sunken treasure can be found. The divers decided to begin by getting up this safe if possible.

Grappling Hooks Remove Roof.

To do this they had to get into the captain's cabin and the only way in was through the roof of the deck house, which is not very robust, especially after eight years under water. The Artiglio removed it by the simple process of tearing it off with grapnel.

A three-pronged hook, painted white to make it visible, was lowered and directed by divers was caught under the edge of the cabin roof. The Artiglio took the strain on her derrick and heeled over twenty-five degrees. There was a slight vibration and the structure gave way, the Artiglio rolled heavily and the roof of the captain's cabin disappeared over the Egypt's side into blacker depths below.

Young Alberto Bargellini, who located the wreck Monday, promptly spotted the safe and the grapnel was lowered. It made about twenty shots at the safe and caught it several times, but the safe was fixed to the wall and would not move.

At last the grapel was obliged to give up the safe for a moment and came to the surface with a mouthful—about ten feet by eight—of the Egypt's boat deck instead.

Bargellini went town again later to try for the safe. This time the Atlantic saw fit to remind this impudent explorer it is not to be played with and Bargellini came to the surface a chastened man.

Anchors on Diving Shells.

The diver's turret-shaped observation shell has in its hollow base a plate anchor fastened to a light cable on a drum. With this the diver can, if he likes, anchor himself to the bottom, float up to the end of the small cable and be undisturbed by movements—which may be the rising and falling of a swell. If he ever lets the anchor go altogether, as he can, he will come to the surface by his own flotation, and this is his only hope if the main cable breaks.

Bargellini's anchor came adrift from its cable and dropped clear. The shell began to rise at once. Bargellini saw a loop of the cable fall past his window and thought the ship had let down too much. He shouted to it to heave taut. The Artiglio heaved and the cable came up flat and twisted, since the diver was already rising.

Gianni, on deck, snatched the telephone. The great thing was to prevent the man at the bottom of the sea from losing his head. Divers have more nerve than most men and these deep sea divers breath raw oxygen at their work, which may stimulate their courage, but even they are fond of life and may give way to panic when death comes nearer than usual. So Gianni laughed—a hollow laugh—into the trumpet: "Oh, Bargellini! Your cable is broken, but no matter! Let your anchor go and come up by yourself. You are quite safe!"

Knew He Was Not Safe.

Bargellini knew very well he was anything but safe. He tugged at the anchor gear but the anchor already had gone and its unweighted cable jammed. He now gave himself up for lost and called desperately over the telephone while far above him men raced to vantage points to watch for the free shell to appear. Others stared helplessly down into the dark water. And then Bargellini saw the light outside the shell growing brighter; the world of water turned from green to gold; little swimming crabs and bits of seaweed shot downward past his glass and he knew at last he was rising.

He glanced at the depth gauge and remarked calmly through the telephone:

"A lot of fuss about nothing."

He broke the surface thirty yards ahead of the Artiglio and was hauled in gingerly with the tangled cable. He emerged from the shell laughing rather shakily, and looking for once as nearly pale as a brawny, sunburnt Italian can.

Dynamite and Magnets Arrive.

BREST, France, Sept. 2 (AP).—Divers today succeeded in getting nearer to the $6,000,000 in gold and silver coins aboard the sunken liner Egypt.

In a calm sea the divers penetrated to the top deck of the ship, 400 feet beneath the waves, and prepared to salvage the gold which lies under the third deck, 19 feet below. They said upon emerging that, should the present fine weather continue, they may be able to place explosives around the purser's room before the end of the week and blow it apart to gain access to the precious metal.

The Egypt, a Peninsular and Oriental liner, went down in 1922. The Italian salvage experts striving to recover the gold are trying to complete the task before the September storms.

Early this morning the Italian tug Raffio stood alongside the salvage vessel Artiglio bringing dynamite and powerful electric magnets to break through the steamship's steel decks, so that divers might penetrate to the purser's strong room.

The operation of retrieving the sunken treasure is expected to be a long and delicate one. Swift tidal currents and confused eddies make the work of the divers dangerous.

BUCHAREST GETS A LAUGH.

Cuza, Anti-Semite, 'Proclaims' Himself Ready to Be Dictator.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, Sept. 2.—The possibility of a Rumanian dictatorship took on a ridiculous appearance this morning when citizens of Bucharest arose to find the streets placarded with a "proclamation" drawn up by Professor Cuza, notorious anti-Semitic leader, and bearing his photograph.

The proclamation declared the only hope of economic and political salvation for Rumania lay in an anti-Semitic Fascist dictatorship. It contained the usual incitements against Jews as being responsible for every ill to which Rumanians are heir, and with his usual modesty Professor Cuza did not hesitate to point out that he was the fittest person to become dictator.

The posters created more amusement than alarm.

CARIBBEAN STORM MISSES PORTO RICO

Hurricane Passes to South of Island—Haiti Believed Likely to Escape Also.

PLANE TWICE FORCED DOWN

Craft Carrying Brazilian Delegate to Conference at Washington Is Buffeted by Waves.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JUAN, P. R., Sept. 2.—A tropical storm in the Caribbean Sea which passed to the south of Porto Rico today forced down a New York-Rio-Buenos Aires plane with its crew and four passengers near Antigua this morning, threatening its destruction for two and one-half hours. Decio de Paula Machado of Sao Paulo, en route from Rio de Janeiro to Washington as the Brazilian delegate to the inter-American Agricultural Conference, was among the passengers.

Senhor de Paula said the big plane was tossed by high seas and regained the air with difficulty after many attempts. Previously the same storm had forced the plane into St. Lucia, British West Indies, after the craft left Trinidad Monday morning. Weather permitting, the plane will leave tomorrow for Miami. Senhor de Paula said his last meal was Sunday with Sir Claude Hollis, Governor of Trinidad.

An official warning issued yesterday characterized the storm as the worst since the San Felipe hurricane of Sept. 13, 1928, and caused much uneasiness. Today it was officially announced the storm had passed to the south of Porto Rico.

Heavy rains were reported today from many towns and were much needed. On the instructions of Governor Roosevelt, the police, National Guard, Red Cross and other units prepared for a storm emergency.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Sept. 2.—Moving toward the centre of the Caribbean Sea with the same intensity which marked its pace seventy-two hours ago, the first hurricane seriously threatening Cuba this year at 11 o'clock tonight was slightly east of Paso de la Mona, the channel separating Cuba from Jamaica, according to a bulletin by Father Lanza at the Belen Observatory. The centre of the storm has kept ninety miles at sea, causing no damage to any of the islands forming the Lesser and Greater Antilles.

The steamer Heredia of the United Fruit Line sailed sixteen hours ahead of schedule tonight en route to Cristobal to escape the storm. The steamer Turrialba from Porto Cortez and the Ulua from Panama for Havana reported speeding up tonight in order to reach Havana ahead of the hurricane.

If the hurricane maintains its present intensity and course, it should pass through the middle of the Caribbean immediately south of Cuba some time tomorrow night, continuing into the Yucatan Channel, Father Lanza said. There is still the menace that the hurricane may shift while passing south of Cuba and turn north.

HAVANA, Sept. 2 (AP).—The Cuban National Observatory shortly before noon today issued the following statement:

"The hurricane on the Atlantic has not passed at this hour the meridian of San Juan, Porto Rico. It continues with high intensity and its movement seems to be more nearly northwest with less speed than it had at 11 o'clock last night. At the present moment it is a menace to the Dominican Republic and Haiti and possibly may affect the southwest end of Porto Rico."

The Belen University Observatory in a statement today said:

"Yesterday afternoon a disturbance was affecting the Lesser Antilles, principally Dominica and Guadaloupe. This morning the disturbance still was not far from the Lesser Antilles and the centre seems to be due south or southeast of Porto Rico. Latest observations made today indicate it doubtful if the disturbance will adhere to a west-northwest course. It has hurricane intensity."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP).—The Weather Bureau today issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 10 A. M. a tropical disturbance which is of hurricane intensity is moving west-northwestward about 400 miles per day over the Eastern Caribbean Sea, with its centre this morning apparently about 100 miles south of Porto Rico. Its centre will likely pass south of the island of Haiti tonight. Caution is advised by all vessels near the path of the hurricane.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 2 (AP).—The Pan-American Airways, Inc. today announced receipt of radio messages from San Juan, Porto Rico, that a tropical disturbance was reported south of the island this morning.

The messages said that the Southern part of Porto Rico was affected today by a wind estimated at forty miles an hour, while a wind estimated at twenty-five miles an hour was blowing at St. Thomas. The messages said the storm was believed in Porto Rico to be of small area and not of great intensity.

CZECHS HOLD NEW YORKER.

Charge He Insulted Country After Knocking Down Passerby.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, Sept. 2.—Leo Scharf, an American citizen described as a merchant of New York, was arrested here today after a street altercation and charged with a breach of "the law for the protection of the country."

According to the Prague newspapers, Scharf became involved in Wenceslaus Square with a passer-by who had ordered him not to sound his auto horn so frequently. The language the man employed and his threatening attitude so aroused Scharf that he got out of his car and knocked the man down with one blow.

The police declare Scharf then made uncomplimentary remarks concerning the Szech State, on account of which they arrested him. He described himself as a member of the New York Automobile Club making a circular business trip in his car.

DIAMOND A PUZZLE TO GERMAN POLICE

Convinced Prisoner Is New York Gangster, Captors Don't Know What to Do With Him.

NO ONE SEEMS TO WANT HIM

Our Berlin Embassy Says It Merely Gave Usual Courtesy Warning of His Character and Record.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Who wants Jack Diamond? The German police do not want him, although they arrested him; nor does the American Embassy in Berlin, nor the American Consulate at Cologne, nor even the New York police, apparently. So there he sits in the police station in the border town of Aix-la-Chapelle, waiting for somebody to claim him or to set him free.

The unwanted prisoner, moreover, claims that he, John Diamond, has no connection whatsoever with the New York gangster. At a late hour this evening he was still claiming this, although the Aix-la-Chapelle police had compared his fingerprints with a set of those of the famous "Legs" Diamond, which are on record at the Berlin headquarters and found them identical.

Diamond was arrested at Aix-la-Chapelle by the criminal police at the request of the Berlin police. Berlin authorities state that they, in turn, had been requested by the American Embassy here to apprehend him. The American Embassy insists, however, that it never asked for Diamond's arrest, but merely out of courtesy passed along to the Berlin police the warning received from American diplomatic authorities in Belgium that an undesirable person was on his way to Germany. The American diplomatic officials in Belgium, it is understood, acted on a cable from the New York police requesting them to warn the Belgian police of Diamond's character and record.

Extradition Not Asked.

It is reliably learned that the New York police cable stated that no question of extradition proceedings was involved, as New York did not ask for Diamond's return. The American Embassy in Berlin believes it added this clause in its statement to the Berlin police, but the latter appear not to have grasped that point.

The German criminal police, both at Berlin and at Aix-la-Chapelle declared this evening that if New York does not want Diamond the affair is out of their jurisdiction and he must be turned over to the alien division. It has been learned by telephone from the alien authorities at Aix-la-Chapelle that Diamond will be barred from Germany as an undesirable alien. Since he has no other visa than the German and since there is small likelihood he will be admitted to any neighboring State, the only recourse that remains is to place him aboard the liner Hamburg bound for New York. This, it is believed, will be done within the next few days.

The American consul at Cologne, at Diamond's request, will visit him at Aix-la-Chapelle tomorrow, but it is not believed the visit will affect the course of events. Diamond was removed from the Ostend-Vienna Express at midnight last night and questioned until 2:30 A. M., when he was placed in a cell.

"It's all lies," Diamond shouted today when a reporter, who was permitted to interview him a few minutes after a second police questioning, asked about the accounts from New York of Diamond's alleged activities. "The New York police pester me all the time. They arrested me twenty-two times in the last few years and always had to let me go for lack of evidence. I came to Europe to seek quiet. I want to go to Vichy and Wiesbaden to take the cure. My stomach is bothering me," he concluded, clutching his abdomen violently and contorting his face painfully.

Mulrooney Dispels Doubts.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney said yesterday that Jack (Legs) Diamond is not wanted by the New York Police Department. He added that the police had known "about a week before" when Diamond was to sail for Europe and on what ship. No effort to prevent his sailing had been made, the Commissioner said, because there is no charge against Diamond here.

It is the custom of the State Department to inform the police when a man of Diamond's reputation asks for a passport, the Commissioner explained. "They gave him a clean bill of health after we said we didn't want him," he said. The local police, however, he said, as a matter of courtesy, informed Scotland Yard of Diamond's whereabouts when he was on the high seas.

Klein Linked With Hold-up.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 2 (AP).—According to word received here tonight, Harry Klein, held at Catskill on an automobile theft charge in connection with the Jack (Legs) Diamond investigation, has been identified as one of the participants in the $4,700 Caetanea Dairy payroll hold-up here in August, 1928.

Three residents went to Catskill today to make the identification after seeing Klein's picture in the newspapers. An attempt will be made to have Klein extradited to face the hold-up charge.

300 BABIES ENROLLED FOR CONEY'S PARADE

Special Police Arrangements Being Made for Annual Mardi Gras From Sept. 8 to 14.

With more than 300 children, ranging from 2 to 10 years of age, entered in the baby parade, the stellar feature of Coney Island's annual Mardi Gras gives promise of being the most successful in the resort's history, it was said yesterday by Samuel W. Gumpertz, chairman of the baby parade committee. The carnival will run from Sept. 8 to 14 with the children's procession on Saturday, Sept. 13, at 2 P. M.

Prizes to the value of $2,000 will be awarded to winners in the baby parade. Among the judges named by Mr. Gumpertz are Dr. Crisman Scherf, superintendent of the Coney Island Hospital; Mrs. Henry Adler, president of the Coney Island Centre; John Savarese, secretary to Borough President Henry Hesterberg of Brooklyn, and Miss Mary E. Dillon, president of the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company.

Police arrangements are now being made for the carnival by Inspector Joseph P. Thompson and Captain James H. Gillen, who are in command of Coney Island's police, acting in cooperation with George F. Kister, president of the Coney Island Carnival Company, sponsor of the celebration. More than 300 patrolmen will augment the regular force of 200 at the resort. Vendors have been notified not to sell mixed-colored confetti as a measure to prevent the vendors and others from picking up the bits of paper from the sidewalk and using them again.

Nightly pageants, featuring processions of floats, bands of music, groups of civic, fraternal and social organizations, and of masqueraders, will be held from Monday to Friday evening, inclusive. The grand marshal of the parades will be Constantine Hilbert, who is also chairman of the music committee.

Entry blanks for the baby parade may be obtained at the entrance to Luna Park from 2 to 10 P. M. daily, according to Mr. Gumpertz.

J. R. ROBINSON DIES AT CAPRI AFTER FALL

CAPRI, Italy, Sept. 2 (AP).—John Randolph Robinson, 26 years old, of New York, American vice consul at Naples, died at 7 o'clock this morning, from the effects of a fall from a window of the Hotel Quisisana, on the island of Capri. He fell several stories onto a cement pavement. He was taken to a hospital suffering from many bone fractures and internal injuries.

Mr. Robinson was the son of a prominent attorney living in Paris. He was born in Paris and educated in French, Swiss and English schools, later attending St. George's School at Newport, R. I. He was graduated fro mHarvard College in 1927.

He joined the United States foreign service in August, 1927, and was vice consul in Calcutta, Madra and Nice.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The State Department was notified today of the death of John Randolph Robinson at Capri, Italy, as the result of what was said to have been an accidental fall. He was prominent among the younger members of the foreign service and was widely known socially here.

He had been a member of the staff of the Consulate General at Naples since Nov. 1, 1929.

BOYS SEIZED AS THIEVES.

Footprints Cause Arrest of Two as Postoffice Burglars.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 2.—Footprints discovered near a broken window at the Laurel Postoffice on Aug. 19 led to the arrest of Frank Kwatkoski, 16 years old, of Laurel, and Edward Kovalski, 14, of Pequebeck, Conn., here today. The boys are charged with burglary in the second degree, which is juvenile delinquency for Kovalski, and are specifically named as the persons who entered the postoffice.

Investigators in the Suffolk County District Attorney's office say they have obtained a statement from Kwatkoski that he and Kovalski had planned to blackjack the postmaster, John Fleischman, who is in the habit of taking the day's postal receipts home with him. Kwatkoski is said to have told the detectives that they missed the postmaster and decided to enter the postoffice in search of the day's receipts. The incriminating footprints were found on a dusty packing case.

"LOST" CHILDREN FOUND.

Three Absent From Home Two Days Discovered Asleep in Auto.

Patrolman John Clarke flashed his pocket lamp into the tonneau of a parked car in front of 315 West Fifty-fourth Street early this morning and the beam revealed three children fast asleep in a huddled group on the back seat. They were Ellen Korten, 12 years old, her brother, Edward 11, and her sister, Rose, 9. Clarke took them to the police station.

"We went to Central Park on Monday," explained Ellen between bites at a sandwich, "and we got lost. It got dark and we went to sleep in the grass. Then we were afraid to go home because we had stayed out all night. Yesterday we walked all around and we were hungry and when it got dark again we saw that automobile and we went to sleep in it." Charles Korten, the children's father, called for them at 2 A. M.

LENA COMPANY GETS $65,000,000 AWARD

Soviet Ordered by Arbitration Court to Pay Sum for Violating Concession Terms.

CONTRACT IS TERMINATED

British Concessionaire Prevented From Carrying Out Agreement —Payment Improbable.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—An arbitration court composed of one Englishman and one German today ordered the Soviet Government to pay $65,000,000 to the Lena Goldfields, Ltd., because in the court's opinion the Soviet prevented the company from carrying out the terms of its concession.

The Soviet Government refused to appoint a member to the court, although the Soviet was represented at the preliminary hearings held in Germany. The decision today was handed down by Sir Leslie Scott, lawyer appointed by the Lena Goldfields company, and Dr. Otto Stutzer of Freiburg University, who was elected by both parties.

If the Russian Government refuses to pay the claim—as is considered most probable—the case is expected to be taken up by the British Foreign Office and the governments of other countries whose citizens are affected by the ending of the concession. In any event the matter will provide a new argument for the Conservatives of England, who still oppose the Labor Government's resumption of diplomatic relations with Russia.

The Lena concession, which is one of the biggest in Russia, was declared dissolved in Moscow months ago, but not until today was the agreement formally declared ended. About $17,500,000 has been invested by the company in Siberia and the Urals, and between 14,000 and 15,000 persons employed in its far-flung enterprises.

The court's decision today contrasted the friendliness of the Soviet Government in 1925 under the New Economic Policy with the implacable hostility it has shown to the Lena company, beginning last year, under the five-year plan. If the 1925 policy had been continued, in the court's opinion, "the Lena company would by now have been far advanced on the road to very great prosperity." Relentless class war, imposed by the five-year plan, made any such capitalist company as the Lena "radically incongruous" in Soviet Russia, the court held.

"Open markets ceased to exist," said the court. "The government became the only buyer of the company's production. The government became the only seller of the company's supplies—and the Lena company under its contract had to feed and clothe all its employes and workmen. Difficulties with labor organizations and authorities became incessant and the Lena company's workmen became, in the words of its counsel, 'untouchables.'

"Banking exchange facilities were denied it. Difficulties with government departments and local authorities multiplied in intensity. The end was inevitable."

The court thus charged the Soviet Government with a breach of contract, relieved the Lena company of any further obligations under the concession, and based its award on the principle of unjust enrichment. It explained that the sum of $65,000,000 represented the future profits the company would have made and which the Soviet Government can now make on the assumption of good commercial management and the best technical skill and up-to-date equipment."

CHIANG TO BE ASKED BY MUKDEN TO QUIT

'Peace Manifesto' Drafted by Chang Hsueh-liang Said to Demand Retirement.

BUT NANKING PLANS WAR

400,000 Troops to Be Used in Great Push in Honan Despite the Attitude of Manchuria.

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 2.—Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian war lord, is preparing a "peace manifesto," according to advices from Mukden, which will call upon Chiang Kai-shek to resign as President of the Nanking Government and leave China in order to save the Chinese people from the horrors of further warfare.

The Manchurian leader's state paper is said to open with a declaration that his troops are occupying the Peking-Tientsin zone pursuant to the requests of both factions in the civil war, but that he is convinced the time has arrived for a compromise, which he holds to be impossible unless Chiang Kai-shek resigns.

The document is said to conclude with the assertion that if Chiang Kai-shek refuses to get out, thereby protracting the war, communism is bound to sweep Southern and Central China and grow so strong that nobody will be able to exterminate it.

The Northern coalition apparently is confident of Manchurian support, as the coalition continues the organization of the government at Peking. All is quiet on the war fronts, although Nanking is making tremendous shifts of troops and makes no secret of its plans to throw 400,000 men against Feng Yu-hsiang's Lunghai and Peking-Hankow railway lines.

Peking reports declare that Chang Hsueh-liang has agreed to Yen Hsi-shan's request for five additional divisions of Manchurian troops to hold the Tientsin-Pukow Railway north of Tientsin, while all Shansi troops have been shifted to the Lunghai front to reinforce Feng Yu-hsiang, but the belief persists in well-informed circles that Mukden will try to avoid an armed clash with Nanking in the hope of saving the central government by simply applying political pressure to force Chiang Kai-shek to retire. Then the government would be reorganized.

South New Jersey Men Are Charged With Selling Liquor.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 2.—Four persons charged with illegal sale and possession of intoxicating liquors were arraigned before United States Commissioner Herbert R. Vorhees here today. All were seized in raids by prohibition officers last night. They were held for the Federal grand jury in $1,000 bail.

Those arrested are Elias Brodessa, 50 years old, proprietor of the Anglesea Fishing Club at North Wildwood; Robert Moore, 36, an employe at the same place; Andrew Applegate, 36, owner of the Angle Inn at North Wildwood, and William Bestman, 45, proprietor of the Sea Gull Cafe at Margate.

PARAGUAY WITHDRAWS BOLIVIAN RAID CHARGE

War Ministry Now Says Indians Attacked Fort, but Savages Came From Bolivia.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 2.—The Ministry of War announced today that the attack on Fort Falcon on Aug. 22 was made by about 100 Indians belonging to the Chulupi tribe. It had been announced previously that the attack had been made by Bolivian troops.

The communiqué calls the attackers Bolivian Indians but the Indians in this region of Chaco acknowledge allegiance to nobody and are no more Bolivian than they are French or Germany. They often attack Bolivian forts. Their hostility is that of savages toward white men, not that of one nationality against another.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 2.—The Bolivian Legation published today a telegram from the military junta at La Paz saying the attack of Indians on Fort Falcon was to avenge the death of an Indian at the hands of Paraguayan soldiers and that the Bolivian Government was anxious to maintain cordial relations with Paraguay. The junta said it had not authorized any troop movements in Chaco and that in case of any accidental clash between Bolivian and Paraguayan patrols there explanations will be made which will protect the honor and territory of both countries.

BALZAR AHEAD IN NEVADA.

Tops Republican Poll for Governor, While Richards Leads Democratic.

RENO, Nev., Sept. 2 (AP).—A lack of issues brought out a light vote in the Nevada primary today, the interest centring on the five contests for Gubernatorial nomination, three in the Republican party and two in the Democratic.

For the Republican nomination returns from ten scattered precincts out of the 238 in the State gave: Governor Fred B. Balzar, 646; State Senator R. H. Cowles, 208, and Mayor E. E. Roberts of Reno, 285.

For the Democratic nomination returns from the same precincts gave: Former Representative Charles L. Richards, 362, and H. A. Agee, 350.

Judge George A. Bartlett, Reno's divorce judge, running for relection, had three opponents.

For the first time in the State's history two women were opposing each other, Mrs. Ethel McGuire, former legislator, and Mrs. Carrie Devine seeking the Democratic nomination for State Treasurer.

Young Michael's Wife Will File Divorce Action in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2 (AP).—Muriel Cudahy, 20, known on the screen as Muriel Evans, announced tonight she would file suit tomorrow for divorce from Michael Cudahy 3d, youthful grandson of the founder of the Cudahy Packing Company.

A complaint prepared by an attorney for Mrs. Cudahy charges cruelty and incompatibility.

TWO SLAIN IN ITALY IN YUGOSLAV CLASH

Attack on Fascisti Follows Opening of Trial of 18 for Alleged Terrorism.

FIGHT IS NEAR BORDER

Burning of Schools, Asylum, Munition Dumps and Plants Laid to Prisoners Now Before Court.

TRIESTE, Italy, Sept. 2 (AP).—Two men were killed and one wounded in a pistol battle near the Yugoslav border today between a group of Fascisti and two sympathizers of eighteen alleged terrorists on trial here. The men on trial are of Yugoslav origin.

One of the men killed was a Fascist named Moise and the other was one of the Fascist's opponents. The wounded man is a Fascist named Caminada. The other sympathizer of the alleged terrorists fled and is still at large.

Each of the sympathizers was armed with two pistols. The one who was killed had a pair of binoculars, maps and anti-Fascist pamphlets.

In a court room heavily guarded by carabinieri and blackshirts, the trial of the alleged terrorists, charged with thirteen murders and many other crimes, opened yesterday before a special tribunal for the defense of the State.

With the prospect that their conviction might bring a sentence of death at the hands of a firing squad, seventeen defendants sat in steel cages and listened impassively to the recital by the government of the long list of subversive acts with which they are charged. The eighteenth, Sofia Korze, a woman, was permitted to sit with her counsel.

Sitting in a wheel chair, waiting to testify for the State, was Marcello Bolle of the editorial staff of the Ponolo di Trieste. Signor Bolle is recovering from injuries received when the editorial rooms of the newspaper were blown up last February. Guido Neri, a reporter, was killed in the explosion.

Most of the day's session was devoted to the reading of the scores of pages detailing the accusations. There are ninety-three specific charges, including the slaying of thirteen Fascisti, policemen and officials, and plotting to turn over Venezia Giulia to Yugoslavia through a revolution.

The second day of the trial of the alleged terrorists was taken up mainly with testimony to the affect that the defendants were carrying on an extensive publicity campaign against the Italian Government.

In the enumeration of the acts of terrorism laid to the prisoners are instances of burning schools, asylums, military magazines and munition-manufacturing plants, eight terrorist attempts, four spying attempts and thirty-one assaults on Fascist officials.

All of the subversive attempts occurred on Fascist anniversary days. Numerous outrages occurred during the week devoted to celebrating the wedding of Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie José.

HOOVER SEES MARCH OF 15,000 VETERANS

Greeted by Baltimore Crowds as He Takes Salute of Men of Foreign Wars.

CHATS LONG WITH RITCHIE

MAYOR LATE FOR WELCOME

Misses Meeting His Guest at City Limit—Hoover Makes No Address—Returns in Rain.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 2.—Tens of thousands of persons turned out today to greet President Hoover, who came from Washington to review the annual parade of the Veterans of Foreign Wars as the guest of Mayor William F. Broening, Republican candidate for Governor.

The crowds, with a liberal proportion of women and children, lined the curbs along the streets through which the Presidential motor caravan entered the city; others gathered in front of the Maryland Club, where the President had luncheon with Mayor Broening, Governor Ritchie and other officials, and still other thousands were banked across the street from where the official party reviewed the parade.

Men who have fought this country's battles all over the world—in France, Cuba, the Philippines, China and Nicaragua—marched before President Hoover and other dignitaries. The parade was nearly two hours in passing and the line was a glittering array of war units and peace-time organizations, the latter bedecked in colorful garb and regalia.

In the line were representatives from practically every branch of the army, several hundred bluejackets from the battleship Florida and five destroyers anchored in Baltimore Harbor, a regiment of marines from the base at Quantico, Va., and a contingent of Coast Guardsmen.

Hoovers' Rescuer Is Present.

Major Gen. Smedley D. Butler, commandant of the Quantico (Va.) marine station and one of the officers who commanded a detachment that rescued Mr. and Mrs. Hoover in Tientsin, China, during the Boxer Rebellion, was sitting near the President in the reviewing stand.

President Hoover arrived about noon from Washington. He was supposed to be met at the city limits by Mayor Broening and escorted by him to the Maryland Club, but the Mayor was only leaving the City Hall when President Hoover and his party arrived at the club.

Charles D. Gaither, Police Commissioner, and George G. Henry, Chief Inspector, stepped into the breach, however.

At the Maryland Club the President was greeted by Senator Goldsborough, Governor Ritchie, General Butler, Admiral Billard of the Coast Guard and other political chieftains and State officials.

Ritchie and Hoover Chat.

Governor Ritchie, who recently criticized the President for failure to include Maryland in his early drought plans, and who has been a frequent critic of the administration's prohibition policy, and Mr. Hoover greeted each other cordially. They exchanged pleasantries as they sat and chatted in the club after luncheon, rode side by side to the reviewing stand and sat together during the parade. They talked frequently and laughed much, and when shouts came from the thousands banked across the street, "Hurrah for Ritchie, we're all wet," Mr. Hoover looked at the Governor and smiled. The Governor laughed.

The parade was said to have been one of the most elaborate and colorful ever staged by the veterans' organization. Unit after unit passed before the stand, interspersed with many bands and drum and bugle corps.

Hoover Honors Crippled Veteran.

Mr. Hoover stood, his silk hat placed over his heart as each flag passed, and he rose to his feet again when a unit passed led by a one-legged veteran hobbling along on crutches.

More than 15,000 were in the parade, counting several hundred women who brought up the rear. Most of these were members of auxiliary units of the Veterans of Foreign Wars posts throughout the country and all were dressed in colored and glittering caps. Some wore bright steel helmets and all marched like soldiers.

Just as the last unit was passing, a heavy shower started. The President and his party were standing under a canvass covering, but he called for his automobile, stepped in and was whisked away toward Washington, leaving the making of speeches to Mayor Broening, Governor Ritchie and others.

Talking picture equipment which had ben set up before his place was taken down soon after he arrived here. The President reached the White House shortly before 6 o'clock.

Anti-Red Demonstrations Urged.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2 (AP).—The veterans at their first business session yesterday were urged by Hezekiah N. Duff, their president, to hold May-day demonstrations counter to those held on that day under Communist auspices.

Perry E. Piper of Sumner, Ill., adjudged this year by the National Scout Council to be the outstanding Boy Scout in the United States, will be the first recipient of a V. F. W. scholarship, it was announced. He will enter the University of Illinois.

BORGLUM TO RESUME WORK

Atlanta Citizens Will Take Over Stone Monument Memorial.

ATLANTA, Sept. 2 (AP).—The Journal today said that negotiations which may lead to the return here of Gutzon Borglum, original sculptor of the Confederate memorial on Stone Mountain, have been virtually completed and that work on the memorial "will soon be resumed on a grander scale than ever before."

The Journal said a comittee of sixteen leading Atlanta citizens is now being formed to carry on the details of an agreement made today between the Venable family, owners of the mountian, and the city whereby the city of Atlanta is to take over the site.

G. F. Willis, president of the Stone Mountain Monumental Association, said his organization "will not stand in the way of the contemplated renewal of work under Borglum."

Mr. Borglum was asked by James L. Key, Mayor-elect, to return here to survey the memorial site, with a view toward resuming the work where he left off in 1925, when the project was taken over by Augustus Lukeman.

Mr. Borglum said new plans include making the Stone Mountain memorial the central development of a gigantic park system, including Kenesaw Mountain and the Peachtree Creek battlefield of Atlanta.

TO MAP TAXI REPORT.

Mayor's Commission Will Meet Tomorrow for Discussion.

Mayor Walker's commission on taxicabs will hold an executive meeting in the offices of Frank P. Walsh, chairman, tomorrow afternoon to discuss a preliminary draft of its formal report. Because of the absence of Lenor F. Loree, railroad executive, who will not return from Europe until the end of this month, it is possible that the final report will not be submitted to Mayor Walker for several weeks.

If the commission decides not to await Mr. Loree's return the report will be submitted within the next few days. Although no inkling has been given regarding its contents it is known that it will recommend a number of sweeping changes in methods of taxicab control and regulation. In the taxicab industry it is freely predicted that it will urge enactment of State and city legislation placing the industry under a form of public utility control.

ASKS MILK FARMERS TO USE WHEAT FEED

Legge at Syracuse Says State Dairymen Can Cut Costs With Surplus Crop Grains.

SEES CHANCE IN APPLES

New York Product Unequalled, He Asserts, but Needs Organization of the Grower.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Emphasizing in an address at the State Fair today the necessity for farmers to form cooperatives if they are to benefit from the agricultural marketing act, Alexander Legge, chairman of the Farm Board, urged that New York dairymen use wheat and other surplus crop grains for feed to reduce costs.

"You are all sellers when it comes to dairy products and certain other farm commodities, but, on the other hand, the majority of you are buyers when it comes to feed for your dairy herds," he said.

"Today wheat is a far cheaper feed than corn, and yet those of you who have been accustomed to feeding a corn ration are rather slow to change.

"Owing to the great drought the corn crop is very small, probably a deficit of 600,000,000 bushels below the normal consumption of the country. This is indeed a calamity to those districts where the crop was lost, but it would be a far greater calamity were the country not in position to substitute other grains to make up this shortage.

"It so happens that simultaneously with this vast decrease in corn production the nation has an excessively large supply of all the small grains. Wheat, rye, oats and barley are available in large quantities and at low prices. They can be substituted for corn in the feeding ration for practically any class of feeding, although the best percentage to use would vary somewhat as between different kinds of live stock."

Mr. Legge urged development of the apple industry.

"Some of the changes that have taken place in agricultural conditions in the Empire State are a little difficult for me to understand," Mr. Legge said. "The New York State apples used to have a national and international reputation. As a boy back on the farm in a far Western State, when we were able to get a barrel of New York apples for Christmas it was a real occasion. Everybody regarded them as being the finest quality produced anywhere. Aren't you people in the Empire State rather neglecting this commodity and if so, why?

"Your land values are not high as compared to other sections of the country where this crop is raised extensively. Large consuming markets are close at hand, and certainly no one can produce a better quality of product. With a good strong marketing organization to insure the producer getting his full percentage of the consumer's dollar, it is my notion that this industry might be safely developed to considerably larger proportions than at present.

"I think we can place at your disposal men well qualified to assist in organization along sound lines the cooperative associations necessary to secure for you the best results that market conditions will justify. When so organized we can assist you in financing such organizations. You will notice that we say we can assist. The start must be made by the producers themselves."

Stressing that only through organization would the marketing act benefit the farmer, Mr. Legge said:

"Perhaps the greatest difficulty we have to contend with in accomplishing results under the terms of the act is the rather prevalent belief on the part of the people we are trying to serve that some mysterious way is going to be found where through legislative action the handicap under which agriculture is suffering will be removed and their position made secure without any action on the part of the farmer himself. My friends, this is not even a good dream. It is currently believed that dreams some times come true, but this one never will."

REPORTS YACHT BLAST BEFORE HOME BLEW UP

But Former Police Head of Norwood, N. J., Doubts Resentful Criminals Are Responsible.

Special to The New York Times.

NORWOOD, N. J., Sept. 2.—The explosion and fire of incendiary origin that wrecked the home here of Robert S. Renner, former police supervisor, early yesterday morning was preceded by a damaging explosion aboard his yacht, Mr. Renner revealed today. The police believe terrorist rum-runners and racketeers are responsible for the wrecking of the Renner home as an act of revenge because of Mr. Renner's drive for a "clean town" while he was head of the police.

Mr. Renner said today, however, that he was not inclined to take this view. He said he knew of no enemies and had never thought his activities as police supervisor might have roused bad feeling against him.

The police investigation of the explosion and fire that wrecked the Renner home revealed that thirteen five-gallon cans of gasoline had been touched off to create the explosion. It showed also that the expensive sedan found abandoned in the rear of the Renner home with the empty cans stowed in it had been reported stolen some time ago.

FILIPINO ASKS BAR TEST.

N. Y. U. Senior Will Try Status Regarding Examination.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 2 (AP).—Porforio U. Sevilla, 25, Filipino, a senior law student at New York University, filed with the clerk of the Court of Appeals today an application for permission to try the State bar examinations.

Since 1922 aliens have not been admitted to the examinations, nor have they been permitted to practice law in this State. According to Sevilla, however, a Filipino is in the anomalous position of being neither a citizen nor an alien.

He plans later to enter politics in Manila, his home, as a candidate for the Philippine Legislature.

COURT ACTS IN HOTEL CASE.

Names Referee in White Plains—Belmont Foreclosure Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Supreme Court Justice William F. Bleakley filed an order today granting a motion of the Bank of America, national association, to appoint Otto C. Jaeger referee in the foreclosure action brought against the new White Plains-Belmont Hotel.

The Hotel was opened less than a year ago under Bowman-Biltmore management and was described at the time as one of the finest hotels i nsuburban New York. The action by the mortgage holding company is against the Post Road Hotel Corporation and Naomi D. Lowthian, to whom the mortgage loan was made in 1928. The complaint said the principal of $340,000 was due with interest on portions of the loan from November, 1928, to Feb. 14, 1930, and upon the entire loan from Feb. 14.

10 FISHERMEN LOST AS BOAT IS RAMMED

Freighter and Seattle Schooner in Collision Off British Columbia Coast.

THREE OF CREW SAVED

One Swims Mile to Shore—Skipper and Nine Others of the Orient Trapped Below Decks.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Sept. 2.—Ten Seattle fishermen were dead today and the halibut schooner Orient was a total loss as the result of a collision with the Pacific Steamship Company's freighter Admiral Nulton forty miles south of Seymour Narrows, between Vancouver Island and British Columbia.

The accident occurred about 3 o'clock yesterday morning. First news of the tragedy was received here late last night from Captain F. L. Stephens, master of the Admiral Nulton, after his ship docked at Bellingham with three survivors of the Orient's crew.

Federal steamboat inspectors are arranging an investigation.

The men on the Orient who lost their lives were Captain S. E. Dolph Rudd, master and owner; First Mate Peder Paulsen, Andrew Lokke, Anton Anderson, Chris Petersen, Murray Smith, Robert Courage, Martin Burns, Don Husby and Carl Thorsen, the cook.

The survivors are Harold Hanson, Alfred Ellingsen and Edward Landness.

The dead of the Orient's crew were asleep when the crash came. The prow of the Admiral Nulton cut through the wooden hull of the schooner and she sank in a few minutes.

Captain Stephens of the Admiral Nulton ordered boats lowered immediately and the freighter stood by for six hours. Hanson and Ellingsen were found clinging to bits of wreckage. Landness had swum a mile to shore and was found there in an exhausted condition.

The Orient was returning from the Goose Island fishing grounds in Hecate Strait with a catch of halibut, Landness, the oiler of the fishing boat, said, and the lights of the schooner were burning brightly.

"It was not foggy," he asserted. "We were proceeding over calm water. It was dark, but clear. The freighter hit us before we had a chance."

His story was supported by R. M. Burghman, first mate of the Admiral Nulton, who indicated the collision might have been the result of a mix-up in signals. The Admiral Nulton was bound from Ocean Falls, B. C., for San Francisco.

Captain Rudd had been operating fishing vessels out of Seattle for twenty years. He is survived by a widow and four daughters.

SCORES PLAYLAND ROBBERY

Westchester Park Police Chief Calls Protection Inadequate.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Chief William Byrne of the Westchester County park police said today that he was disgusted with the way affairs had been handled at Playland, the county amusement park here, with the result that bandits had encountered no difficulty in staging a hold-up at the park early yesterday morning, and escaping with park receipts amounting, according to an amended check-up, to $9,965.

Chief Byrne said his men were on duty at the park from 8 o'clock in the morning until midnight. That only three watchmen, hardly calculated to be a match for desperate bandits, were on duty after midnight, Chief Byrne called inexusable and he promised an immediate erorganization.

It was learned today that William Mahon, railroad policeman, had given to Stamford (Conn.) police a "tip" that there would be a hold-up along the Sound shore last night, and that the Stamford police had passed the word along to the Westhester County Police as well as to other police forces.

URGE PORT JOB FOR LARSON

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Sept. 2.—The report that Governor Morgan F. Larson might seek appointment as engineer of the Port of New York Authority upon the expiration of his term has caused considerable excitement in political circles, it was learned today.

It was said that several of the Governor's friends were at work to obtain the post for him. The position pays $25,000 a year.

THREATENS TO WRECK BANK

But Chicagoan, Seized, Had No Nitroglycerine in Cigarette Case.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP).—Grasping a cigarette case, which he said was filled with nitroglycerin, Walter J. French, 31, threatened to hurl it to the floor of the First National Bank today unless a clerk turned over $10,000 to him.

The clerk jumped from his chair and summoned a policeman while crowds of customers looked on curiously. French was overpowered. The case was empty.

MADRID, Sept. 2.—Mariano Marfil has been named as government member of the petroleum monopoly with instructions "to prepare for its reform as he may think convenient." ASTRONOMERS MEET IN CHICAGO TODAY

American Society Will Hear Newest Theories and Results of Researches.

PAPER ON WEATHER AND SUN

Dr. P. Van de Camp Will Advance the View That Stars Are Nearer Than We Think.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—About one hundred astronomers were gathering here today to attend the forty-fourth meeting of the American Astronomical Society, which opens a four-day session tomorrow morning at the Adler Planetarium and Astronomical Museum.

In papers to be read the scientists will describe their latest researches and discoveries in the skies, and submit new theories and deductions.

While some of the discussions will be highly technical, such as new methods for determining the distances of stars, new processes of stellar photography and photometry, and the development of new apparatus to decipher the mysteries of the heavens, there will be many topics of general interest to the layman, from health-giving ultra-violet rays to forecasting the next week's weather by looking at the sun.

Paper on Solar Disturbances.

In a paper on "Solar Radiation and the Weather," Dr. Charles G. Abbott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, will present facts, according to Dr. Philip Fox, director of the planetarium, from which it may be deduced that most of the temperature variations are due to solar disturbances, and which may point the way toward long-distance weather forecasting.

Dr. P. Van de Kamp of the Leander McCormick Observatory at the University of Virginia, in a paper on "The Absorption of Light in Space," will attempt to prove that the stars may be actually thousands of light-years nearer than astronomy believes them to be.

Estimated distances to the further stars are in error, Dr. Kamp holds, because the present calculation of distances is based on the assumption of the complete transparency of space when in reality space is not entirely transparent. All the stars are somewhat nearer than is generally believed, he maintains, since some of the light is absorbed in space, thus making them seem dimmer than they really are.

Four Women on Program.

A paper by Dr. Edison Pettit of the Mount Wilson Observatory on the measurements of ultra-violet solar variation in the last six years is expected to bring out much new information on the relation between sun spots and the amount of ultra-violet rays.

Dr. C. M. Huffer of the Washburn Observatory, University of Wisconsin, will deliver a report on photo-electric studies, the ultra-modern and most accurate method developed so far in measuring the brightness of the stars.

Four women astronomers will deliver papers on topics on which they rank as leading authorities.

Dr. Annie J. Cannon of Harvard University will talk on "Spectra of Comparison Stars for Eros," a topic of much timely interest, as Eros will be nearest the earth on Jan. 30, 1931, and nearer than it had ever been since its discovery in 1898.

Dr. Dorothea K. Roberts, widow of Isaac Roberts, pioneer in astronomical photography, will discuss Herschel's fifty-two extended diffused nebulosities.

Dr. Margaret Harwood will tell of her photometric observations of Eros, while Isabel M. Lewis will describe her observations of the central eclipse of April 28, 1930, at Honey Lake, Cal.

HINT VARE AID TO HEMPHILL.

Philadelphia Reports Say 40 of 48 Ward Leaders Await Order.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—It was reported today in quarters close to the Vare organization that at least forty of the forty-eight Republican ward leaders of Philadelphia were ready to back John M. Hemphill, wet Democrat, in the Gubernatorial fight this Fall against Gifford Pinchot, dry Republican.

They are waiting only for the word from either William S. Vare or Councilman Charles B. Hall, one of the members of the Vare organization's "war board."

It is understood, however, that Mr. Hall will remain quiet until he has an opportunity to confer with Mayor Mackey, who is returning tomorrow from Europe, and who is supposed to have a personal following of eight or ten ward leaders.

Many politicians today were doubting whether the Vare organization would announce itself publicly for either candidate before the November election. It was held that a formal endorsement of Mr. Hemphill could be put through a meeting of the Republican City Committee without difficulty, but that leaders were doubtful of the wisdom of this policy from the standpoint of party regularity, despite the fact that Mr. Pinchot himself is accused of being far from "regular."

FIGHTS HESTERBERG POLL.

Taxpayer Holds Special Election for Borough Head Illegal.

An order to show cause in an injunction suit, returnable in Brooklyn Supreme Court today, was served on the Board of Elections yesterday by the attorneys of Sam Needleman, a Brooklyn taxpayer, demanding that the Board of Elections explain why a primary and general election for borough president of Brooklyn must be held this Fall.

Needleman contends that such elections are unnecessary a waste the taxpayers' money, and illegal. He cites Section 382 of the Charter of the city of New York "that a vacancy in the office of president in any of the boroughs of the city of New York shall be filled for the unexpired term by an election to such vacancy by a majority vote of all members of the Board of Aldermen then in office representing that borough." Needleman contends that when the Brooklyn Aldermen elected Henry Hesterberg borough president last Winter, they elected him to fill out the entire term of James J. Byrne, ending Jan. 1, 1934.

Arthur J. W. Hilly, Corporation Counsel, said yesterday that there was ample precedent for defeating Needleman's attempt to declare Hesterberg in office until 1934.

FRENCH GREETING IS ONE

Government in a Seven-Column Announcement Invites American Tourists—New Styles Listed.

The first airplane to cross the Atlantic from Paris to New York also established a precedent by bringing with it the first newspaper advertising to reach this city from Paris by Plane. Dieudonné Coste handed to a representative of the advertising department of THE NEW YORK TIMES last night five advertisements from Europe, which appear in this morning's TIMES.

In addition to more than twenty-one columns of advertising, the Question Mark brought to this country a special model dress created by Maison Callot of Paris, consigned to John Wanamaker, New York. The first plane delivery of a Paris creation to this city was accompanied by a seven-column advertisement by the designers of the dress, which was one of the five advertisements to arrive here.

The French Government sent with the fliers a seven-column advertisement with this message, "Come to France—Thomas Jefferson believed that every one has two countries, his own and France."

A third large advertisement is sponsored by the "Société des Hotels et Casino de Deauville et Cannes" and tells of the "charm and elegance" of the famous French resorts. The Hotel Continental and Sir Charles Higham, advertising agent, greet their clients in America in two smaller advertisements.

The French Government has taken advantage of Coste's flight to greet Americans. In its advertisement Gaston Gérard, High Commissioner of Tourism, says:

"I have asked Coste, intrepid airman, the first to fly from Paris to New York, to carry to the American people the cordial greetings of France. Welcome, then, all of you who, sailing the seas to France, pass under the vast rainbow traced by the heroism of a Lindbergh and a Coste."

WITWER QUESTIONS RIVAL.

Dry Congressional Designee Asks Fairchild's Stand on Liquor.

Charles S. Witwer, dry candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative in the Twenty-fourth Congressional District, sent a letter yesterday to former Representative Benjamin W. Fairchild, his opponent, asking the latter what he would substitute for the Eighteenth Amendment. Mr. Witwer asked Mr. Fairchild if he favored the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor by the State and added:

"If so, what is your opinion of putting within the power of Tammany Hall the opportunity of deciding who should manufacture intoxicating liquor, the opportunity of appointing supervisors and bartenders of government liquor stores, and the decision as to which citizens should have certificates permitting them to purchase intoxicating liquor?"

Examiners Check Accounts of Newark Teller, a Suicide.

Examiners yesterday started a check of the books of William T. Serbe, suicide, who was chief teller of the United Savings Bank of Newark, according to The Associated Press.

Auditing of Serbe's books was deemed necessary because of the charges by the man's brother that he knew of defalcations.

Serbe killed himself by shooting Friday, leaving a note that he was despondent because his brother, Fred, "was arrested and sued so many times." The brother faces a charge of conspiring to conceal assets in a bankruptcy case.

John Fischer, president of the institution, said any possible losses were fully protected.

WOODCOCK TEACHES DRY AGENT SCHOOL

Expounds Aims to 24 Future Instructors in Conventional Class Room at Bureau.

DEMANDS STRICT LEGALITY

Urges Avoidance of Doubtful Cases —Sets Sherlock Holmes as Operatives' Model.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The first "teachers' training course" in prohibition enforcement was opened here today by Amos W. W. Woodcock, Director of Prohibition, who told twenty-four picked men from the twelve enforcement districts that "the old day of the prohibition agent who was disorderly and gruff and tough is gone forever."

Mr. Woodcock, addressing men seated at instruction tables which they will occupy in the prohibition headquarters for the next month, expounded to them the virtues of sticking to the letter of the law; stressed honesty as a prime necessity; held up the fictional Sherlock Holmes and Philo Vance as examples to be followed and added a recommendation for "soap and water and razors and shoe polish" as aids to morale and creators of public respect.

This course of instruction, inaugurated by Mr. Woodcock and to be carried out by Harry M. Dengler, former conductor of a correspondence course for agents, is regarded by the prohibition director as the most important phase of his present work.

The men called to Washington for instruction hold various positions in the field, and they will leave here in pairs to carry the instructions they have received direct to the agents and investigators.

End of Big Violations First Aim.

The objective in his campaign he made clear when he said:

"The first objective is to get the commercial violators. Let us have no mistake about that. If we reach that objective without too many casualties we may set another one, but that is the first. * * *

"I want you to realize the opportunity of taking this force as it is and making it the best and most highly trained in the world."

The course will have two phases, the "technical" and the instructions for building "morale."

"To train men technically," he explained, "means to give them a complete knowledge of the law, in procedure and in the technique of investigating violations of the law.

"I urge you in your instructions to your men later on to urge agents not to make even border-line cases. Let's take the law as it is and not try to make new laws.

"That word means all of the values which make men decent, honorable, courageous and believers in the work of their organization. It is your work to lead these men to a higher conception of their duties."

Reiterating his demand that agents know the law and operate strictly according to its principles, he added that he "did not want agents to get in the habit of slipshod mental processes" or into the habit of trying to give testimony "apparently desired by prosecutors."

ASK LABOR DELEGATES TO FIGHT DRY LAWS

Resolutions at Hartford Meeting Favor 2.75 Per Cent Beer and Enforcement Repeal.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 2 (AP).—A resolution endorsing the action of the American Federation of Labor in urging modification of the prohibition law to permit the sale of beer with an alcoholic percentage of 2.75 was offered today at the opening session of the Connecticut Federation of Labor.

The resolution which was referred to the resolutions committee charged that the enactment of the Volstead act "has failed to meet he approval of the people" and that the Jones law "has aroused the people into acts such as no Federal law has ever done."

Another resolution offered calls for the appointment of a committee to urge repeal o fthe State enforcement act at the Democratic and Republican State conventions, which will be held this month.

Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment was recommended by President Charles J. Moore in his report.

John F. Fry, secretary of the Metal Trades Department of the A. F. of L., tol dthe 200 delegates to the four-day convention that the right of employes to organize voluntarily in the economic field has been destroyed by the twisting of laws and by the application of the "yellow dog contract." He said that efforts to compel State Legislatures to declare such acts null and void should be started.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 2 (AP).—Federal Judge Frank H. Norcross today directed the jury in the trial of five former government officials charged with accepting bribes in liquor cases to acquit C. T. McKinney, former Assistant United States Attorney.

Judge Norcross ruled that the vigorous prosecution of Roy Olmsted, once "king of the liquor-runners" of the Pacific Northwest, in January, 1926, constituted an affirmative act of withdrawal from any conspiracy.

The judge took under advisement a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal of R. L. Fryant, former dry agent.

MILK TRADE HERE UNDER FEDERAL FIRE

Trade Body Plans Inquiry Into Charges of 'Unfair Practices' Against Dairymen's League.

SAPIRO PRESSES ACTION

Repeats Complaint to Farm Board to Stop $4,000,000 Loan—Groat Begins Fish Inquiry Today.

Acting on a complaint by Aaron Sapiro charging the Dairymen's League with "unfair trade practices," the Federal Trade Commission will investigate the milk situation here, it was learned last night.

The Federal board will study the activities of the Dairymen's League, which dominates the milk market here, and Arnstein & Beckman, independent milk distributers. In his complaint to the commission, Mr. Sapiro charged that these two organizations had "completely disorganized" the New York milk market by "wholesale" violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust act and the Clayton act.

Twenty specific charges of "unfair trade practices" were made in Mr. Sapiro's complaints. That against Arnstein & Beckman cited twenty-eight instances of alleged unfair practices. The Federal commission was asked by Mr. Sapiro to investigate the Dairymen's League, which he charged "has acquired control of a group of subsidiary milk dealers and through this combination the league has effected what is believed to be an improper and illegal combination which is harmful to the public."

Mr. Sapiro's complaints were filed in behalf of the Harlem and Bronx Milk Dealers' Association, Inc. The Federal Trade Commission, after an examination of the complaints, ordered its offices in this city "to begin a preliminary investigation."

The Federal Farm Board, which recently granted a $4,000,000 loan to the Dairymen's League, was asked by Mr. Sapiro yesterday to stop the loan on the ground that "it would be used for improper and illegal purposes." Mr. Sapiro announced yesterday that the Farm Board had informed him that his previous request had been "called to the attention of the board." Desiring to know whether this meant that the Federal Farm Board also would begin an investigation of his charges, Mr. Sapiro wrote to the secretary of the board:

"This letter refers to a request made to the Farm Board to investigate certain matters in reference to a loan of $4,000,000 heretofore authorized by it to the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, most of which has not yet moved from your board to the Dairymen's League.

"We set forth a group of acts by the league against the public interest occurring primarily after Aug. 1, after the Farm Board had passed the loan. Therefore, none of these matters could have been brought to the attention of the board before the loan.

"This protest also refers to a technical matter, namely the power of the board to make loans to a cooperative association when part of the funds are to be used for the purpose of good-will.

"We ask for an investigation by the board of the points raised in the protest and likewise this separate legal issue."

The Attorney General's investigation into food profiteering in this city will be resumed this morning, when Assistant Attorney General William B. Groat will begin a new line of investigation. Mr. Groat said yesterday that he had received many reports of profiteering in fish products and would begin today an investigation of that subject. The Assistant Attorney General explained that owing to the approaching Jewish holidays, "when fish more than at any other time of the year becomes a very important part of the diet," the inquiry would have an added importance.

Mr. Groat said that he would be ready in a few days to turn over to District Attorneys Thomas C. T. Crain of New York County and George E. Brower of Kings County the record of his inquiry to date, so that the District Attorneys might begin whatever action they considered advisable to obtain indictments.

David Muchnick, independent truckman, failed to appear in Tombs court yesterday as complainant against Isidor Burkman, flour truckman, on a summons issued on the order of Mr. Groat. Burkman, a reputed member of the New York and Brooklyn Flour Truckmen, was alleged to have ruined the business of Muchnick and to have beaten him. Magistrate Leonard McGee issued a second summons yesterday for Burkman, returnable today.

Anxiety on her behalf has brought here several members of her family, in addition to Princess Julia Cantacuzene, her daughter, who for some years has divided her time in this country between Sarasota, Fla., and her mother's home in New Hampshire Avenue.

Among the relatives gathered here are Prince Michael Cantacuzene, Mrs. Grant's grandson, and his wife, who arrived from Chicago on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, and Mrs. Bruce Smith, the Prince's sister, formerly Princess Bertha Cantacuzene.

Horrner Faces Grand Jury Today.

Special to The New York Times.

STONY POINT, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The Orange County grand jury will hear tomorrow the case against William Horrner, 24 years old, who is alleged to have attacked a 15-year-old girl in a camp tent in Harriman Park. District Attorney Elmer Lemon said today that the Orange County police had been asked to surrender Horrner to the Bronx County authorities for alleged similar attacks committed here, but that the request had been refused.

Runaway Steer Routs Trenton Fair Crowds; Gov. Larson Sees Cowboy Dragged Stopping It

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 2.—A wild longhorn steer, one of the animals used in the Western stampede and rodeo at Trenton's Forty-third Interstate Fair, broke free from an enclosure in front of the grand stand at the fair grounds today and raced toward the crowded promenades lined by the judges' booths.

Cries of warning were sounded from the grand stand, where Governor Morgan F. Larson and his military staff were just taking seats. Hundreds of women and children dodged from the animal's path.

Jimmy Nesbit, 23 years old, of McLaughlin, S. D., a cowboy and star performer in the rodeo, swung on a horse and pursued the steer. He lassoed him a few feet from the door of a poultry judging booth in which a large crowd was gathered.

Nesbit's horse whirled and the lasso broke. Nesbit fell from the horse and the steer dashed away. A quick dash on foot and Nesbit seized the end of the broken rope. He clung to this and was dragged 2,000 feet through woods and underbrush on the outskirts of the fair grounds.

When other rodeo employes had captured and bound the steer, Nesbit was taken to an emergency tent of McKinley's Hospital. He had suffered a severe gash in the left thigh and was badly scratched and bruised. After treatment he was ordered to bed, and it was thought unlikely that he would be able to appear in the rodeo for the remainder of the week.

Meanwhile the heat was sending other sufferers to the hospital emergency tent. Twelve persons were overcome by heat at the fair.

There were 60,000 persons on the fair grounds today. It was children's day, and almost half of those present were under 15 years of age.

FORGED WRIT FAILS FELON.

Leavenworth Warden, Suspicious, Foils Another Escape by Van Gorder

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Sept. 2 (AP).—Hayes Van Gorder, a forger, who once escaped from the Federal penitentiary here by means of forged documents, attempted to gain his freedom again today by having a bogus court writ demanding his presence in Duluth, Minn., delivered to Warden T. B. White.

The warden said the purported writ bore the forged signature of Judge William A. Cant of the Minnesota Federal District Court. Mr. White became suspicious and telegraphed the court clerk, who replied that the writ was spurious.

Prison officials then searched Van Gorder and found on him two long knives, two handcuff keys, an imitation pistol made of wood with a metal pipe for a barrel, pepper and finely ground tobacco, a razor blade and 50 cents.

It is believed the prisoner intended to use the pepper and tobacco to blind the guard who would have accompanied him on the trip to Duluth had not the plot been discovered.

LATE VACATIONISTS SWAMP RAIL LINES

Labor Day Rush Continues Almost at Peak Till Noon—Throngs Tardy at Work.

MISHAP TIES UP NEW HAVEN

Burned Out Motor at 9 A. M. Holds Up Commuters' Train—Holland Tunnels Taxed.

Transportation lines of every kind, and particularly the railroads, were swamped again yesterday morning by a resumption of the homeward rush of 2,500,000 New Yorkers returning from Summer and Labor Day vacations. Wave after wave of returning holiday-makers rolled into the Grand Central Terminal and Pennsylvania Station.

The homeward rush continued until noon through the Grand Central, where more rolling stock accumulated than it was possible to handle. The congestion, aggravated by a burned-out New Haven electric motor, caused traffic delays of approximately an hour around 9 A. M., and thousands of commuters were late to business.

The Grand Central Terminal, according to estimates of the New York Central Lines, was used during the three-day holiday period by more than 500,000 travelers inbound and outbound. The New York Central ran thirty-eight extra trains and thirty-three extra coaches on regular trains yesterday to take care of the overflow of the Labor Day rush.

Between 550,000 and 600,000 holiday travelers passed through the Pennsylvania and Long Island Stations, according to estimates of Pennsylvania officials. Holiday return travel over the Pennsylvania was heavy all day. Thirty-five extra trains were run to accommodate the unusually heavy after-holiday travel, including six extra sections on trains from Long Branch, and two on each regular train from Atlantic City. Through trains of the Pennsylvania all came in with extra sections, including the Broadway Limited, the Norfolk Express, and the Federal and New England Expresses from Washington. The Crescent Limited from the South arrived with extra coaches.

The automobile rush of returning tourists through the Holland Tunnels continued till noon. Up to 5 P. M. 31,921 cars had passed through the tunnels, including 12,855 bound for New Jersey and 19,066 bound for New York. Over the three-day holiday period from Saturday to Monday inclusive 152,333 cars passed through the tunnel, exceeding last year's Labor Day mark of 49,133, but falling short of the record of 56,000 made on a Sunday last Spring.

Reports from the railroad terminals on the New Jersey side of the Hudson River, including the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley, the Erie, Lackawanna, and West Shore lines, were that the holiday travel continued heavy up to noon, with a dribble coming in all day and well into the evening.

Ferryboats, steamship lines, bus lines and air lines all reported that vacationists who had waited over to avoid the holiday crush were returning in unusually large numbers yesterday.

COMBUSTIONEER

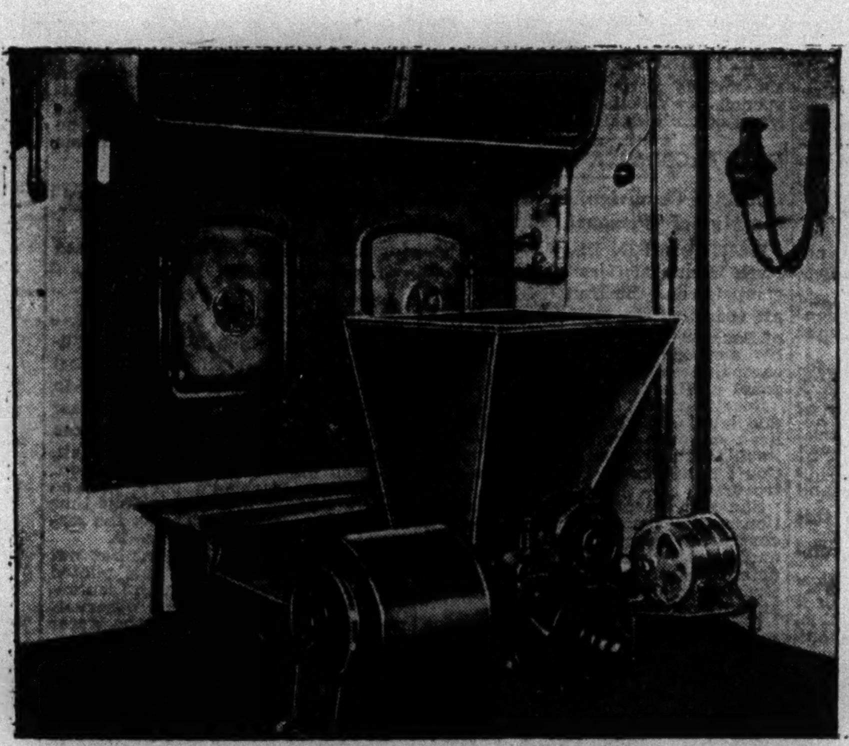
AUTOMATIC

COAL BURNER

Excerpt from specifications for automatic coal burner equipment for

U. S. GOVERNMENT

"The equipment above specified shall be equal to that manufactured by Combustioneer, Inc."



BROOKLYN-MANHATTAN TRANSIT CORP.

has completed the installation of one Combustioneer, are installing four more at the present time and contemplate certain additional installations.

The Finished Product of This Mechanical Age We Live In

Tried, tested and accepted by the United States Government, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit Corporation and hundreds of individuals here in Greater New York.

The Most Faithful Robot Yet Devised by the Skill of Man . . . . . .

COMBUSTIONEER feeds coal as heat or hot water is needed . . . . Maintains an even temperature at all times . . . . Consumes every B. T. U. in every ounce of coal . . . . Moves to one side in the fire box the ash residue . . . . Can be depended upon if left alone for hours at a time . . . . the only assistance COMBUSTIONEER asks is that someone remove the ash residue once a day and refill its feed hopper once or twice a day. . . . . In most of the Apartment houses the superintendent's wife is in charge of the COMBUSTIONEER installation.

Economical and Efficient

The Economy and Efficiency of COMBUSTIONEER is immediately apparent. . . . . Customers equipping one building invariably place their order with us to equip their other buildings. . . . . Ten minutes spent in investigating a COMBUSTIONEER will convince you of its merits and save you thousands of dollars. . . . . Talk to the person in charge and you will be told that COMBUSTIONEER has cut the coal bill in half and released that person from drudgery in the Boiler room.

Cuts Your Fuel Bill in Half

THERE is nothing hit or miss about a COMBUSTIONEER operating efficiently and economically. . . . . We survey your building and boiler plant accurately for radiation . . . . . We install the proper size Stoker necessary to carry the steam and Hot Water load. . . . . We manufacture our own hot water heaters to meet with the requirements of each building. . . . . We specify the proper grade of coal necessary for this type of equipment. . . . . And last but not least, we maintain a system of free monthly inspection for the life of the equipment. . . . . Our free inspection covers your boiler and tank equipment as well as the COMBUSTIONEER. . . . . We sell you not merely so much equipment but you really buy from us an abundance of heat and hot water to meet the fullest requirements of your tenants for approximately one half of your present costs.

A Warranted Investment

COMBUSTIONEER is a most warranted investment for apartment houses . . . . office buildings . . . . loft buildings . . . . and factory buildings . . . . low and high pressure boilers . . . . For every type of building except one and two family homes . . . . Investigate now before the heating season starts . . . . before you start paying $14.00 for Egg Coal . . . . before Buckwheat gets so scarce that you will have to take anything at any price.

One Dead, Seven Burned in Motor Boat Blast; Flaming Craft Sinks After Tank Explodes

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHPORT, L. I., Sept. 2.—Joseph A. Digan of 8,401 Ridge Boulevard, Brooklyn, was fatally burned and seven others suffered from minor burns and submersion when the motor boat Banshee II, owned by Jack Walsh of Northport, sank after an explosion on Sunday afternoon off Southold, L. I., Mr. Walsh revealed today.

The boat had put in at Northport for a brief stay on Sunday morning, and left for a week-end cruise with eight persons on board. They were, besides Digan, Mr. and Mrs. Walsh, Miss Elaine Walsn and Dr. J. E. Walsh, sister and father respectively, of the owner; Frank and Tessie Flaherty of Northport, and Anthony Castucchio of Brooklyn, all friends of the Walsh family. There was no crew.

New gasoline engines had been instilled in the boat a short time ago and apparently contributed to the accident. Soon after leaving Northport, while the boat was off Southold, a gasoline tank exploded and almost instantly the entire yacht was in flames.

The absence of a professional crew probably added to the resultant confusion, for according to the account of the accident given out today all on board became hysterical and cried for help. Several boats put out from shore and all those on the burning craft jumped into the water, from which they were rescued.

From Southold, all eight were rushed by ambulance to Mather Hospital at Port Jefferson, where Digan died yesterday as the result of his burns. The others were discharged from the hospital yesterday. Digan's body was taken to Brooklyn, where funeral services will be held tomorrow morning.

SLEUTH OFFERS NYE 'BRIBE' OF HIS 'AGENT'

Head of Agency Hired by Mrs. McCormick Vainly Tries to "Return" $150 at Chicago.

"DISCLOSURES" SHOCK DALE

Told of File-Rifling and Shadowing, Senator Says Nominee "Must Think We Are Crooks."

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—W. C. Dannenberg, head of a Chicago private detective agency retained by Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican Senatorial nominee, to investigate the Senate investigators of her campaign fund, faced the Senate committee at its session here today and offered to Senator Gerald P. Nye, the chairman, $150 in currency with which, he said, a Nye committee employe had tried to bribe a Dannenberg operative.

"I don't know whom it belongs to," Mr. Dannenberg said. "I don't know whether it belongs to the United States Senator or——"

"Well," said Chairman Nye, "it looks as though it might belong to the government in some way."

The subject was then dropped and when Mr. Dannenberg was excused for the day he returned the money to his pocket, saying he did not know what to do with it. He said it might be used to help defray the costs of the McCormick investigation of the Nye investigation, even though it might be a part of the Nye committee's own funds.

Detective on Rival's Payroll.

In his testimony, Mr. Dannenberg explained that for three weeks his operative was on the payroll of the alleged Nye agent, but turned the money over to his chief, meanwhile deceiving the rival investigator into thinking he was getting valuable information about the work of the Dannenberg agency.

As the representative of the Senate committee paying the money Mr. Dannenberg named David S. Groh, a Chicago private detective convicted in 1922 of killing a policeman and sentenced for manslaughter for an indefinite term of from one year to life.

Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont, who sat with Senator Nye, denied that Groh was working for the committee. But Mr. Dannenberg insisted upon the truth of his statement and added that he was convinced that the committee members did not know what their employes were doing in the McCormick case.

Dozen Detectives Summoned.

The currency incident came as the climax of an unexpected hearing before the campaign funds committee called by Senators Nye and Dale, following a newspaper statement by Mrs. McCormick saying that she had employed the investigators, whose activities were taken up at a sudden hearing at Senator Nye's home town, Fargo, N. D., on Saturday.

The two Senators with some of the committee staff came to Chicago and early this morning issued subpoenas for a dozen witnesses, including the personnel of the Dannenberg agency and also of the agency of Edward W. Altz, also suspected in connection with the present inquiry.

Mr. Altz appeared with one of his operatives and both denied flatly that they knew anything about the subject under inquiry except that they also had been shadowed by the committee agents, who had been shadowing Dannenberg and his men.

Then Mr. Dannenberg took the stand and testified that he had been hired by Mrs. McCormick and that the retainer was $1,500. He said that he sent C. Clark Albers to Fargo to gather "biographical" information about Senator Nye, that he had caused the Senator to be shadowed in Glacier Park and that he had investigated the chief employes of the committee.

Mrs. McCormick's Grievances.

Mr. Dannenberg said he told Albers to operate openly in Fargo, using the Dannenberg agency cards wherever he went. Senator Dale asked the witness why an investigation of Senator Nye had been thought necessary.

"It was the result of several incidents," the witness replied. "There was the breaking into Mrs. McCormick's farm office and the taking of books and papers. There was apparent interference with her telephones. There was a strange woman hidden in the closet of her room at the Drake Hotel after a hearing here. There was the shadowing and the calling on the telephone."

"Does she attribute that to this committee?" asked Senator Dale.

"To someone acting for this committee," was the reply.

"That's a pretty serious charge," said the Vermont Senator, "and if it is based on fact it is deplorable. These revelations as to the conclusions you and Mrs. McCormick have drawn are all new to me. I hadn't heard them in North Dakota."

"Mrs. McCormick felt she had to do something to protect herself," Mr. Dannenberg said, "because of things she had heard about the type and character of agents employed by the committee."

Talk of "Contemptible Crooks."

"What makes you suppose that employes of the committee broke into Mrs. McCormick's office?" asked Senator Dale.

"The nature of the articles they took and the obvious fact that the purpose was not robbery."

Senator Dale, stating that members of the committee knew Mrs. McCormick and had never heard any suggestions that could be considered as reflections upon her, added:

"But she apparently thinks we are first class, contemptible crooks—I'd like to use stronger language—since she says we employ crooks, robbers and women who conceal themselves in closets. I'd say we are if we're doing that."

"Maybe the members of the committee don't know what their employes are doing," said Mr. Dannenberg. "I don't think that the committee knew Dave Groh was using United States Senate money to bribe people with."

Several times during his examination Mr. Dannenberg said that the purpose of his investigation, which was "not yet completed," had not been to "get anything on Chairman Nye," and he denied that he had been instructed to obtain information reflecting on the North Dakotan. He said he was trying to get the "whole picture" and fix the responsibility for the action of the alleged committee sleuths.

MRS. McCORMICK SCORES NYE.

Opening Campaign, She Accuses Him of "Personal Inquiry."

HARRISBURG, Ill., Sept. 2 (AP).—Ruth Hanna McCormick opened her campaign for the United States Senate today with a bitter denunciation of Senator Nye of North Dakota and his methods in inquiring into her campaign expenditures and "personal affairs."

Speaking first at Carbondale, Ill., and later at Harrisburg, the Republican nominee promised to take the issue to the United States Supreme Court if necessary to settle the controversy.

She said that the Nye investigation was a personal one and not a committee inquiry. She told her audiences that she acted in self-defense when she employed detectives to inquire into Nye's affairs and his connections.

Her address at the opening of a State-wide two weeks' tour of Illinois was devoted almost solely to discussion of what she emphatically called the "Nye investigating committee, not the United States Senate investigating committee."

"It has turned into a personal prosecution in so far as my candidacy is concerned," she said, and continued:

"The Senate investigating committee has never actually met. Senator Nye sat alone until yesterday, when Senator Dale of Vermont joined him. There has never been a quorum of the committee present at any of its meetings.

"Under the Constitution United States Senators have the right to judge the qualifications of the men the Senate seats. I feel greatly flattered that Senator Nye assumes that I am already a Senator. As a matter of fact, I have not been elected yet."

Governor to Visit Camp Smith Again

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Governor Roosevelt is to pay a third and final visit of the season to Camp Smith during the annual encampment of the 369th Infantry Regiment of Negro troops that opens on Sunday, it was announced today. The Governor is expected some time during the second week of the encampment of the regiment.

ENVOY DEFENDS VENEZUELA

Replying to Welch Charges, Areaya Scores Alleged $500,000 Claim.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Pedro M. Areaya, Venezuelan Minister to the United States, replied today to charges made in the Congressional Record and elsewhere on behalf of James E. Welch, an American citizen, who asserts that he was falsely arrested in Venezuela and is still deprived of his 18-month-old child.

Señor Areaya declared that Mr. Welch was not interested in obtaining the child, but had filed a claim against Venezuela for $500,000, which the State Department refused to support, "finding the case unpleasant." Thereupon, he added, Mr. Welch had appealed to certain members of Congress, "who have launched the most violent accusations against the Venezuelan Government."

The envoy also denied that there was any possibility of a revolution in Venezuela and asserted that political prisoners numbered less than a hundred, instead of thousands, as charged.

Mr. Welch, in a counter statement, asserted that the Gomez Government had become alarmed by the widespread publicity given to conditions in Venezuela as a result of the Welch case, and denied that he filed a claim for $500,000 against Venezuela, asserting that he had left it to the State Department to decide what the liberty of an American citizen was worth.

FLIER'S BODY RECOVERED.

Lieut. Harbold's Plane Is Raised From Water Off New Jersey.

Special to The New York Times.

FORT HANCOCK, N. J., Sept. 2.—The plane in which Lieutenant William A. Harbold, stationed at Mitchel Field, L. I., crashed to his death in the ocean just off shore here last night was raised from the bottom this morning and towed to a dock, wrecked almost beyond recognition. Lieutenant Harbold's body was so tightly wedged into the cockpit that it was necessary to cut away the material of the plane to release it.

The cause of the accident has not been determined. The plane, piloted by Lieutenant Harbold, with Lieutenant Donald A. Baxter as observer, was flying 100 feet above the water when it suddenly dived to the surface. While it floated for a brief period, Lieutenant Baxter was able to extricate himself, but Lieutenant Harbold, apparently stunned, sank with the craft.

Lieutenant Baxter was reported to be improving rapidly at the Army Hospital today. He suffered only from shock, and will be discharged in a day or two. Lieutenant Harbold's body will be sent to his home in Lexington, Ky.

BLASTS ROCK GLASSBORO.

Two Explosions Occur at Gas Plant —Man Hurt in Flight.

Special to The New York Times.

GLASSBORO, N. J., Sept. 2.—Two explosions today in a gas producer which rocked this place and scattered bricks over a wide area and brought out the town Fire Department did not affect the supply of gas for more than seventy communities in South Jersey, officials of the People's Gas Company, a subsidiary of the Public Service Company, said today.

Raymond Fry, 40 years old, an automobile salesman and flier, heard the first explosion and dashed to the gas plant, thinking some of the workmen might have been hurt. A second explosion drove Fry and four workmen to cover, and in his hasty exit Fry pushed one arm through a glass window, severely cutting his right wrist. Joseph Seibert, a fireman, rendered first aid. Firemen extinguished the blaze in waste at the plant in half an hour.

HEARST IS EXPELLED ON VISIT TO FRANCE

or any protective pacts to involve our country in the quarrels of European powers is mainly responsible.

Also, there might have been some slight irritation at the occasional intimations in our papers that France, now being the richest nation in the world, might use some of the German indemnity to pay her honest debts to America, especially because if it had not been for America she would now be paying indemnity instead of receiving it.

If being a competent journalist and a loyal American makes a man persona non grata in France, I think I can endure the situation without loss of sleep.

In fact, the whole affair reminds me of the story of the rather effeminate young man who went to call on his best girl and found her in the arms of another young fellow.

The effeminate youth went into the hall, took up his successful rival's umbrella, broke it and said: "Now I hope it rains!"

You see, for the French national policy of "revenge" to be completely successful we will have to have rain.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Hearst Ban Dated Aug. 9.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—An order from the French Sûreté Generale, which is a department of the Ministry of the Interior, was served yesterday on William Randolph Hearst "inviting" him to leave France. The order was served by a special commissioner at the hotel where Mr. Hearst had arrived a few hours earlier from Lake Como, Italy, on his way to London.

The decision of Premier Tardieu not to permit Mr. Hearst to remain in France was taken, it is stated, on Aug. 9, following certain statements by Mr. Hearst to the German press. It was acted on automatically on his arrival.

Mr. Hearst's presence in the country is considered undesirable, it is said, because of his connection with the publication of the private note outlining the proposed naval agreement between England and France two years ago. The paper in question was, according to the official findings after an inquiry, "lent" to a French newspaper man by a junior official in the Foreign Office for his perusal and information. This French newspaper man gave it to the Paris correspondent of the Hearst newspapers, who cabled it to New York. After interrogation by the police, the correspondent in question left France. The French newspaper man and the young diplomat were exculpated by the French courts, although the latter was relieved from his position at the Quai d'Orsay and is now suing his superiors.

Mr. Hearst, who had arrived in Paris yesterday morning, was served with the expulsion order at 3 P. M. and left for London on the 4 o'clock train.

Officials Explain Expulsion.

PARIS, Sept. 2 (AP).—French officials announced today that William Randolph Hearst, American publisher, had been expelled from France because one of his agents obtained and published a secret document relative to Franco-British naval negotiations in 1928. Agents of the government requested him to leave within thirty-six hours.

The Ministry of the Interior gave out the following statement late today:

> William Randolph Hearst, proprietor of numerous American newspapers, has been expelled from French territory. This measure, taken upon order of the President of the Council, Minister of the Interior, has as its origin the rôle played by Hearst in the obtention and publication of a secret document relative to the Franco-English naval negotiations.

The Sûreté Generale, the French equivalent of Scotland Yard, which conveyed the expulsion order to Mr. Hearst, had previously stated that the action was taken because of Mr. Hearst's generally "hostile" attitude toward France.

"The French Government has always expelled foreigners who are consistently hostile to France," the police explained. "Mr. Hearst is a Francophobe and we prefer that he should do his criticizing outside of France. The Horan affair of 1928 formed only a part of the reasons why Mr. Hearst was asked to leave."

Mr. Horan was the Hearst correspondent who got possession of the secret document.

The afternoon press print briefly an announcement of Mr. Hearst's expulsion. The Intransigeant indicates the government action was due to his "inimical attitude" toward France.

Horan Action Called Unethical.

Harold J. T. Horan, a Paris correspondent for the Universal Service, one of the Hearst news organizations, was expelled from France in October, 1928, for his part in obtaining for publication in America in the Hearst papers and other members of the Universal Service Association documents connected with the secret Anglo-French naval pact.

Mr. Horan was charged with having obtained the documents from the French Foreign Office in a manner considered unethical. The Anglo-American Press Association expelled him from its membership in connection with the affair.

At the time the French press assailed Mr. Hearst as responsible for the naval accord leak. The so-called secret accord provided for a cruiser arrangement between France and England. Publication of its terms aroused a storm of protest in Europe and America, where accusations were made of a new Anglo-French military alliance. The pact subsequently was disavowed.

NO COMPLAINT TO EMBASSY.

Our Ambassador at Paris Has No Official Word on Hearst.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The State Department was informed by Walter E. Edge, American Ambassador at Paris, that the expulsion of William Randolph Hearst, American publisher, had not come before the embassy officially, and the only knowledge the Ambassador had of the case was obtained from the press.

Department officials pointed out that nations have the right to deny entry to foreigners who are regarded as undesirable.

EMPLOYERS AND PUBLIC CAN NOW SPEED RECOVERY

Employers and public can now speed recovery.

Labor Day marks the end of the summer season, and with its passing the world of industry looks ahead to the Fall months and the usual upswing in business that comes at that time. Despite the depression that has prevailed this year, the outlook is distinctly more optimistic. Information to this effect comes from nearly every section of the country.

To speed this improvement, leaders of business, the rank and file in factory and store, and the public itself must co-operate. There is no greater obstacle to the rapid recovery of business than fear—fear that the depression is not yet over, that retrenchment is not finished, that a job is not secure.

There are millions of people in the country who are comfortably fixed, who have money in savings banks, and who are well able to buy the things they need. But they are uncertain of the future, and therefore, are holding off. They fail to see that by that very course they are retarding the business recovery which almost every sign indicates is on the way.

Employers should give definite assurances to their employes that no further reductions in their forces will be made from now on. This would remove worry, establish a high morale among the workers and stimulate public confidence. A little more courage and positive resolution at this point by employers will keep up the country's purchasing power, send people back into the stores to buy and bring new orders to the nation's industries.

The public must also do its part. This is no time to hoard. The expenditures of funds in hand for needed goods would speed up industry. Savings kept up in a normal manner are desirable, but proper spending will not only help industry but the workers as well. Through these increasing purchases the retail stores as well as the manufacturers will benefit, more employment will be created and, consequently, everyone will share in the greater prosperity.

The public as well as the employers of labor should stop looking backward and look ahead. The Fall of 1930 should see more than the usual upturn that comes with the season. It should inaugurate another term of substantial progress and prosperity for all the people.

This can definitely be accomplished if the manufacturers and merchants will agree not to reduce further their forces nor to reduce wages, and if those of the public who can afford it, whether it be the working man or the millionaire, will now make purchases without fear or delay.

Why should a school child have a Waterman's?
Any writing teacher will tell you quickly enough! It's just this—the better the pen, the better the handwriting. Don't handicap your child—give him the best.
Waterman's pens write better. Ask any bookkeeper, or other steady users of pens. He'll tell you that the way a fountain pen writes depends on two things—the pen point itself, and how the ink flows to the point.
Waterman's make their own gold pen points and have done so for 47 years—no wonder they are better. Then, every Waterman's has the patented spoon feed which brings the ink to the pen point just as it is needed—no skimping, no blotting.
Every Waterman's has these features—writes better. Select the one that suits your purse and your child's hand. It will amply repay both of you for years to come. There is a wide choice of Waterman's pens suited for school use. Those illustrated are $4 and $5. Others both higher and lower in price. All are fine writing instruments. Always use Waterman's Inks—for school and general correspondence Waterman's new Blue Ink is especially good—a clear, bright blue, easy to read and easy on the eyes.
Every Waterman's is guaranteed forever against defects. Service Stations are maintained at the addresses below for the purpose of making good our guarantee and for servicing our pens as required.

ROOSEVELT ASSAILS BIG UTILITY MERGERS

People of State Have Reached 'End of Rope in Allowing Watering of Stock,' He Says.

PREDICTS EVENTUAL CURB

Citizens Will Rebel and Effect Saving of Millions in Rates, Governor Asserts.

DISAVOWS POLITICAL AIM

He Tells Rochester Democrats Problem Is Social—Attacks Light Company There.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Launching into a spirited attack on the attitude of the public utility corporations of the State, Governor Roosevelt asserted here tonight at a dinner of the Monroe Democratic County Committee that the home owners of New York could be saved hundreds of millions of dollars in rates through an equitable settlement effected by the State and the corporations.

Denying that there was anything "political" in his views, the Governor declared that the people of the State had reached "the end of the rope" as to how far gigantic utility mergers with "watered stock" could be allowed to continue. Attacking the present Legislature as "power dominated," he avowed that New York State's citizens would insist eventually on curbing the utility companies' activities and would win heavy saving in electric light and power rates.

At the same time the Governor declared that there was no intention of depriving the companies of legitimate earnings or of injuring any investors in utility companies. The problem, he said, had become a social and a governmental problem. The people of the State would gain a victory in the end regardless of politics.

The Governor went on to assert that the question of public utilities would play a large part in the discussion of the next few months, and he asked the voters of the State to determine the attitude of candidates on the question before the election.

Declares "Pace Must Be Halted."

"This fight is going on," said the Governor, declaring that the "present pace" of the public utility organizations must be halted.

The address at the Hotel Seneca here this evening climaxed an all-day tour from Alder Creek during which the executive dedicated a new building at the State Agricultural and Farm School at Industry, not far from here. His talk here met with friendly reception.

He opened his remarks on the power question by asserting that any mention of it almost always brought a counter attack from the public utility interests "even to propaganda in the schools." He proceeded to recount his experience yesterday at the village of Gouverneur in St. Lawrence County as a typical example of the operations of utility companies.

The Governor told how the village built its own plant, and while it was able to use its power to light its streets and buildings, was prevented from selling the surplus direct to the homeowner. This surplus, he said, was sold to a power company for 1¾ mills per kilowatt hour, whereas the same company sold it to the homeowners for 9 cents per kilowatt hour and also prevented the village from using any of its power to light its schools because of a legal technicality.

The people of Gouverneur, he said, wanted to get the right to sell direct to the homes, but they thought they needed legislation.

Attacks Rochester Company.

"They felt," he said, "that they would have no chance of getting it in Albany with the Legislature led as at present. Do you wonder about a Governor thinking about the people's interest in the public utilities of the State."

Mr. Roosevelt proceeded to attack particularly the Associated Gas and Electric Company which supplies light and power in this area, and through a subsidiary, also sells to Staten Island.

"I have not yet studied the situation in Rochester," he said, "but I am going to and I have only one remark to make. I am told that the Associated Gas and Electric Company in the past year, since I and the Public Service Commission have been trying to work out a fair basis for rates for home lighting, has been conspicuous for its complete failure to come forward and at least say 'at least we'll talk this thing over.

"When this question came up most of the other large utilities companies said they would cooperate, and they said, 'Sure, we will even let you see our books if you can make anything out of them,' but the Associated declined to open its books. We shall hear more about the local situation a good deal in the days to come.

"Now this is not a political question. It is a social and governmental problem. I am sure that there are large numbers of enrolled Republicans who have a sneaking sympathy with my attitude on public utilities. This fight is going to go on, regardless of politics.

"Nobody wants to put a public utility company out of business or hurt a single investor. But the people of this State have reached the end of their rope as to how far they can let the companies go in the old-fashioned process of watering stock.

"I would like to know how far we can let these big mergers go when in some instances they take over a company worth $200,000 and then write it down on their books as costing $1,000,000, and issue stock for it. The consumer has to pay for it. Of course we are ready to pay the interest on legitimate investment but $800,000 of that is pure water.

Predicts Large Saving.

"Nobody is going to be hurt. I repeat that this is a social and a governmental problem and it is going to be solved regardless of politics. There is going to be saved to the home-owners of this State millions of dollars in every section of New York."

The Governor also discussed the State's taxation, social welfare and building program, and lauded former Governor Alfred E. Smith for the part he played in developing it to its present state.

New York's $90,000,000 building program for this year, he asserted, would help some in meeting unemployment conditions. This, however, he declared was only a temporary stop-gap, and he went on to renew his suggestion for the establishment of a State-supervised system of unemployment insurance.

George S. Van Schaick, who acted as toastmaster at the dinner, was introduced by Austin Mahoney, Democratic County Chairman, as "a man we hope will get a place on the State ticket as the candidate for Attorney General."

The Governor's visit to the farm school at Industry was marked by a parade of floats and a local reception. The Governor spoke briefly about the significance of the work school and remarked that it served as a model for similar institutions throughout the country. He added that ground would be broken within a few weeks for an institution at Warwick in Orange County to handle the inmates of the present House of Refuge on Randall's Island in New York City. He said that the State hoped to have part of the Warwick institution finished within a year, so that the evacuation of Randall's Island could begin.

The Governor will visit the horse show here tomorrow and then journey to Syracuse where he will make an address at the State Fair on Thursday.

DRY LAW TEST DELAYED.

New Jersey Beer Transporting Case to Come Up Sept. 16.

Hearing on the case of William Sprague of Sussex, N. J., on a charge of transporting beer, which is to be made a test of the constitutionality of the Eighteenth Amendment, will be held on Sept. 16 before Federal Judge William Clark in Trenton, Frederic M. P. Pearse, Newark lawyer, announced yesterday.

Mr. Pearse, who with four New York lawyers is backing the move to test the prohibition amendment, said that last week District Attorney Philip Forman had told him he would be unable to prepare his case by yesterday, when the hearing was to have been held.

DEMOCRATS CONFIDENT IN OHIO AND WYOMING

Buckley and Schwartz, Senatorial Candidates, Confer at Capital With Campaign Managers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Robert J. Buckley, Democratic nominee for Senator from Ohio, and Harry W. Schwartz, the Democratic Senatorial standard-bearer from Wyoming, pictured economic conditions as unfavorable in their home States when they were here today conferring with the Democratic managers of the Senatorial campaign.

The candidates talked with Senators Tydings of Maryland and Harrison of Mississippi, and predicted strong swings away from the Republican party in Ohio and Wyoming.

Mr. Buckley, a former member of Congress, displayed a copper piece issued in 1928 which bore on one side the legend, "Good for four years of prosperity," and on the reverse, "The Hoover lucky pocket piece."

"I am here to get this redeemed, but payment has been refused," Mr. Buckley said. He explained that while the Democratic State platform would be silent on the Eighteenth Amendment, he would make his campaign chiefly for repeal.

"I am opposed to the National Government controlling this question," he declared. "I think the States ought to decide whether liquor should be sold or made in their confines. The Eighteenth Amendment has no place in the Constitution. I favor its repeal, but am opposed to the restoration of the saloon."

Mr. Buckley said unemployment was great in Ohio and that disaffection existed not only among the working men in the cities but among the farmers, who were suffering greatly from reduced prices and from the drought.

Feeling exists against the administration in Wyoming, Mr. Schwartz said, because of the oil conservation policy.

"The tourists in Wyoming this year have been more than usual, those walking from town to town for work," he added. "We call them Hoover tourists."

Senator Harrison said reports to the Senatorial committee were that the disaffection among the voters was increasing.

DE BRAGGA BACKS ASHMEAD

Queens Republican Leader Favors Banker as His Successor.

Joseph H. De Bragga, who will retire as Queens Republican leader after the primary election on Sept. 16 came out yesterday for Warren B. Ashmead, Jamaica banker, as his successor. As Borough President George U. Harvey also has announced that he would support Mr. Ashmead, Mr. Ashmead's election is considered likely, unless the frequency of rapid political shifts in Queens interferes with present plans.

"I am entirely out of politics," Mr. De Bragga said. "I am not taking any interest in the primary contests or the selection of candidates. I would like very much to see Warren B. Ashmead elected chairman of the county committee and county leader. Owing to my lack of information as to what is going on, I do not know what his chances of selection are. He understands what is required of a leader and would be able to make the influence of the country felt in State and national politics."

Mr. De Bragga denied a report that he intended to change his residence from Queens to Suffolk County. He explained that he had a Summer home at Islip but would continue to live in Queens for the greater part of the year.

POLICY OF 64 'RULERS' ASSAILED BY THOMAS

Socialist Says Those Who Replied to Questionnaire Failed to Offer Anything New.

Unless men have jobs they cannot "stop talking and work," according to Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Congress in the Sixth District, Brooklyn, speaking last night before an organization meeting of the Journeymen Tailors Union of America, Local 1, held at Labor Temple, 243 East Eighty-eighth Street.

Nearly 2,000 journeymen tailors, custom tailors and bushelmen attended the gathering, which was held as an effort to organize and better conditions of clothing makers throughout the metropolitan area.

Ridiculing the answers made by some of the sixty-four Americans named as "rulers" by former Ambassador to Germany James W. Gerard to a questionnaire sent them on how to overcome the present economic depression, Mr. Thomas said: "Many of the sixty-four could not be reached simply because they were on a vacation away from troubles that bother lesser folk.

"Those that did answer, however, offered nothing new. One of the answers was 'more work and less talk.' Men cannot stop talking and work until they have jobs," he declared.

Other speakers at the meeting were Ludwiz Lore, editor of the New York Volkszeitung; Girolamo Valenti, editor of the Nuovo Mondo and Albert Brilliant who acted as chairman.

JERMYN BEGINS SENTENCE.

Ex-Mayor in Jail for Scranton (Pa.) Slot Machine Conspiracy.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 2 (AP).—Receiving the regulation prison bath and donning the jail uniform, E. B. Jermyn, twice Mayor and wealthy member of one of this city's most prominent families, served his first day of a year's sentence for conspiracy in the operation of slot machines for gambling.

Jailed with Jermyn were Harry J. Friend, civil service commissioner in the Jermyn Administration, and Vincent Brennan, a Scranton business man.

Chief of Police James Hobbs of Carbondale, who was sentenced to three months for taking slot machine protection money, did not begin his sentence. He received a parole on condition that he would never aspire to or accept a police position in Carbondale.

WOMAN HELD AS FUGITIVE.

Arrested for Tenth Time, She Faces Check Charge in Baltimore.

Miss Elizabeth J. Littleton, 36 years old, who said she was a writer and lived at the Hotel Cadillac, was arraigned in West Side Court yesterday on a charge of being a fugitive from Baltimore, where George C. Henry charges she gave him a $100 worthless check. Magistrate Norris turned over Miss Littleton, who has been arrested nine times on similar charges in New York, Baltimore and Pittsburgh, to a Baltimore detective, who had a Governor's warrant for her extradition.

Miss Littleton showed no intention of fighting extradition and left with the detective without protest.

STEINBRINK TO OPEN DRIVE ON WALKER

Will Reply to Mayor's Defense of His Regime at Brooklyn Protest Rally Wednesday.

STARTING KINGS CAMPAIGN

Republicans to Centre on Tammany and Criticize Roosevelt for Failure to Investigate.

After more than a month's delay the Republicans have decided to make belated answer to Mayor Walker's speech in defense of his administration, delivered on July 21. The Mayor's speech came after disclosures made through the office of United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle and other agencies had begun to pile up counts in a general indictment against Tammany and the present régime in the City Hall.

Meier Steinbrink, Republican leader in Kings County, will be the Republican spokesman. It was announced yesterday that he would deliver an address, entitled "Fingerprints on the City's Walls" at the Kismet Temple next Wednesday evening before the Kings County Republican Committee at a special protest meeting that will also mark the official opening of the Republican campaign in Kings. Mr. Steinbrink is scheduled to speak from 8:15 until 9 o'clock in the evening. His address will be broadcast by Station WOR.

"I shall reply publicly to Mayor Walker's radio defense of his administration, and then we shall see how weak it was," Mr. Steinbrink said in making the announcement. "The gathering will be a public indignation meeting, open to everybody, to give residents of Brooklyn a chance to register their displeasure at the scandals and inefficiency of the present Democratic rule in the city."

Prelude to General Attack.

Mr. Steinbrink's speech will be a prelude to the general attack to be made on Tammany rule in New York City in the course of the Republican Gubernatorial campaign. With United States Attorney Tuttle, who has been so largely instrumental in creating this issue, the probable party standard bearer in the Gubernatorial fight, the Republicans expect to make "Tammany corruption," the central issue of their campaign, attacking Governor Roosevelt for his failure to assume responsibility for a general investigation of the Walker Administration and vetoing a bill passed by the Republican Legislature giving him the necessary power to institute such an inquiry.

No one would be surprised to see the Republican State platform commit the party, in the event of the election of a Republican Governor, to the removal of Mayor Walker. The power to do so on verified charges rests with the Governor under a clause in the Greater New York Charter.

No demand, it was learned yesterday, has been made on Mayor Walker for use of WNYC, the city's broadcasting centre, for the Steinbrink speech, although earlier, when it was supposed that the answer would be made by General James G. Harbord, head of the New York County Republican Advisory Committee, Mayor Walker had said that he had no objection to a hook-up including WNYC as well as WJZ which was included in Mayor Walker's radio set-up. It was explained that under the regulations of the Federal Radio Commission WNYC goes off the air at 8:30 P. M. and that for this reason no request had been made. WJZ, controlled by the Radio Corporation of America, it was explained, had commercial broadcasting undertakings that would render its use for Mr. Steinbrink's address impracticable.

Cropsey Also to Speak.

It was said yesterday that Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey, candidate for re-election in the Second Judicial District, and candidates on the Kings County Republican ticket, including Abner C. Surpless, candidate for District Attorney; Colonel Arthur V. McDermott, candidate for Borough President of Brooklyn, and Harry G. Fromberg, candidate for County Judge, would be added speakers at Wednesday's meeting. As the judiciary has been so largely involved in the recent disclosures, the address of Supreme Court Justice Cropsey is looked forward to with an uncommon degree of interest.

Irwin Kurtz, head of the New York County Republican Speakers' Bureau, who soon after Mayor Walker had made his defense speech, in an interview charged irregularities in the handling of assessment cases by the Municipal Tax Board and as a result was severely criticized by James A. Higgins, Mayor Walker's Commissioner of Accounts, made public yesterday a letter he had written in reply to one received by Stewart Browne, head of the United Real Estate Owners' Association.

Mr. Browne, referring to a more recent statement by Mr. Kurtz, called upon him to communicate to him a list of under-assessed properties he credited Mr. Kurtz with having filed with Commissioner Higgins, assuring him at the same time that if they really were found to be underassessed "I can promise you that Mayor Walker will have same rectified." Mr. Kurtz refused to comply with the request.

"I do not question your good faith but knowing as I do of your own previous experience with this City Administration as to tax inequalities, I feel that it would be only lost effort again on your part," Mr. Kurtz wrote. "Four years and eight months having passed without any action, what makes you believe that results will come now?"

Gives Reduction Figures.

Mr. Kurtz called upon Mr. Browne to ascertain and let him know why, if Section 898 of the City Charter requires complete stenographic records to be kept of all proceedings before the board upon requests for reduction of assessments, that provision had not been generally complied with by the Tax Board, and he also suggested that Mr. Browne obtain a list of counsel appearing before the board in proceedings where reductions of $100,000 or over were involved. He pointed out that while in 1925 before the advent of Mayor Walker such reductions granted had totaled $30,970,000, the total had risen to $90,800,000 in 1928 and $141,730,000 last year, involving then a loss of approximately $3,750,000 in tax proceeds. In conclusion, Mr. Kurtz wrote:

"If you really can get Mayor Walker to rectify underassessed properties as you claim, I suggest that you investigate the Wanamaker properties on Eighth Street and compare their underassessments with the valuations placed on comparable property. Let me also call your attention to the fact that unoccupied lands owned by the Wanamaker interests at 183d Street and Riverside Drive had not been raised in assessment in nine years and this year are raised but a few hundred dollars, while surrounding properties which have been improved have been greatly increased in assessment.

"If you succeed in raising the Wanamaker assessments so that they will come up to and compare justly and fairly with other similar assessments, then I will indeed admit that you have obtained some results and will be very pleased to submit to you the list requested. I wish you luck."

TO REOPEN LODI INQUIRY.

Investigator Will Apply Today for Writ Against Senator Chandless.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 2.—Harold A. Price, the Supreme Court's investigator of the Lodi township "sewer scandal," will apply to Vice Chancellor John J. Fallon, in Jersey City tomorrow, for a reopening of the dismissed writ whereby Justice Charles W. Parker attacked Senator Ralph W. Chandless for his refusal to disclose certain phases of his participation in the Lodi case.

Mr. Fallon dismissed the writ of attachment on grounds of insufficiency. The document's flaws have been rectified, according to Mr. Price, who now will seek to press it until Mr. Chandless is faced with alternatives of answering the commissioner's questions or being imprisoned.

Mr. Price wishes to obtain from Mr. Chandless his personal bank records and those of his law firm, Chandless & Weller, during June and July, 1929, and also wants the Senator to disclose what disposition he made of $10,000 which he had received from contractors engaged on the Lodi sewer project for getting a State loan of $200,000 so that the contractors could get their money and finish the sewer.

Freed in Non-Payment of Fare.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 2.—The county prosecutor's office announced today that the grand jury had failed to find an indictment against George W. Godfrey, 34 years old, of New York City, charged by Harry Nordheim, an airplane pilot, with beating him out of a plane ride between this city and New York. Godfrey was arrested on July 30 and confined in the Mays Landing jail for nearly a month.

WOMAN CO-LEADER ACCUSES STEINBRINK

Mrs. Simonson Charges "Plot" Against Third District and "Pressure" to Oust Her.

ROW AT HARMONY PARLEY

Brooklyn Chief Explains Opposition to H. F. O'Neill, but Draws Charge of Failure to Support Aides.

At a meeting of county committee members from the Third Assembly District which he called last night at Republican headquarters, 116 Montague Street, Brooklyn, to iron out factional differences within the district, Meier Steinbrink, Kings County Republican leader, was charged by Mrs. Lulu Simonson with conspiring against the district organization and with using "pressure" in an attempt to compel her to withdraw her candidacy as co-leader of the district in the primaries.

When Anthony F. De Martini resigned as leader of the district last March the county committeemen then chose Henry F. O'Neill, a deputy collector of internal revenue, to complete De Martini's term, which expires this month. Mrs. Simonson was named co-leader. Recently, however, when the committeemen nominated leadership candidates for the new term, O'Neill and Mrs. Simonson were surprised to learn that they had been defeated by Walter H. Vernie, a member of the district's younger group, and Mrs. Elizabeth Cavagnaro. O'Neill and Mrs. Simonson charged that the nomination of Vernie and Mrs. Cavagnaro had been engineered by Steinbrink and announced immediately that they would run as insurgent candidates for the leaderships in the primaries Sept. 16.

Anxious to avert strife within the district, Mr. Steinbrink called the district committeemen together last night. He told them that he wanted to see a Republican Governor elected this Fall and that he had sent for them to explain his opposition to O'Neill.

"When Anthony D. De Martini resigned as leader last March," he said, "Mr. O'Neill came to me and discussed the position of leadership. He asked me if he entered the fight whether it would be apt to cost him his position in the internal revenue office. I told him that it was my policy to avoid primary fights and as Vernie was also seeking the leadership, which automatically carries with it the post of State Committeeman, I suggested that in the interests of harmony, the office should be split; that O'Neill should take the leadership and Vernie be made State Committeeman. O'Neill agreed to this. But he didn't stand by his promise. Now I'll give him a chance to tell you why."

Mr. O'Neill vigorously denied he had gone back on his promise and cited a telephone conversation with Mr. Steinbrink as proof. His son, James O'Neill, corroborated his father's story.

The elder O'Neill declared that he had sought both offices because his supporters in the district would not permit him to do anything else. "My people would not stand for splitting the jobs," he declared, "that's why there was a fight."

Then he attacked Mr. Steinbrink. "During the time that I've been leader in this district," Mr. O'Neill declared, "I have had no support from the county leader. I sent the county leader a letter soon after I took over the district leadership asking him for patronage for the district, but I received no reply."

Mrs. Simonson continued the criticism. She said she had been co-leader in the district for ten years and a staunch supporter of Jacob A. Livingston, who preceded Mr. Steinbrink as county leader, and she openly attacked Steinbrink's tactics in displacing Livingston. She charged that Mr. Steinbrink had furthered his candidacy by bringing "pressure" to bear upon district leaders holding public offices, and said that these men had supported Mr. Steinbrink largely because they feared they might lose their jobs.

Steinbrink denied these charges, but Mrs. Simonson went on.

"Since you have taken over the county leadership you have ignored our district and you and Charles C. Lockwood, the chairman of the county committee, have conspired against our organization," she declared.

Mr. Steinbrink asserted "conditions are not healthful in your district," and added:

"Go out and have your primary fight if you must, but after the primary try to be loyal Republicans and think of your organization rather than of yourselves."

REPORT ON BUS FRANCHISES

Transit Board Experts Complete Survey in Three Boroughs.

The Board of Transportation's report on pending applications for bus franchises in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Queens has been completed and printed and will be made public this week, it was announced yesterday. The publication of the report before its formal consideration by the Board of Estimate was approved by that body last week, so that civic organizations and others interested in the bus question could have an opportunity to study it.

The report makes no specific recommendations, but analyzes the various franchise applications, with special reference to fares, financial stability, terms of franchise and the question of borough-wide operation as contrasted with sectional service.

It is understood that the applicants most closely conforming with the report's requirements are the B. M. T. in Brooklyn and the New York Railways Corporation in Manhattan. The report also contains a letter in which the B. M. T. declares its willingness to seek a franchise for borough-wide operation in Queens.

Public hearings on franchise applications will begin in October, city officials said yesterday.

Vice Chancellor Robert H. Ingersoll adjourned for one week the hearing on the application of Lee Washington, proctor for the estate, to permanently restrain the sale of the securities in the interest of other creditors.

TUTTLE CANDIDACY ENDORSED BY WARD

Westchester Republican Chief Backs Federal Attorney in Race for Governorship.

WET DELEGATION PROMISED

Millard Reaffirms His Stand for Repeal After Interview With Returned County Leader.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Entering his office at county headquarters for the first time since early Summer, William L. Ward, veteran chairman of the Westchester County Republican organization, today directed the firing of the opening guns in the organization's primary campaign against John M. Holzworth, insurgent wet candidate for Congress in the Twenty-fifth District, and Mr. Holzworth's independent wet candidates for the State convention.

Mr. Ward, who has directed the manoeuvres of the Westchester Republicans for the past thirty-four years, was welcomed in county headquarters by a display of flowers in honor of his seventy-fourth birthday. He celebrated the anniversary quietly in his Port Chester home upon completion of his work here.

It was learned from organization authorities that Mr. Ward and the forty-five organization candidates for the State convention will support United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle for Governor. This was said to be the first announcement of endorsement by local organizations north of the Bronx in the move for Mr. Tuttle's nomination.

In meeting newspaper men and political lieutenants today Mr. Ward adhered to his policy of not speaking for publication. He has made only one statement for publication within the past year.

The first bit of strategy in the fight against Mr. Holzworth was seen in the verification by organization leaders of the report printed this morning in this newspaper that the organization's delegates to the State convention would not, if elected, vote according to Mr. Ward's dictates. Each delegate will be free to express his individual opinion if the question of inserting a wet plank in the party platform comes up at the State convention.

Ward Wet Vote Held Possible.

It was reported that at least thirty-seven of the forty-five organization candidates for the State convention are of wet opinions and will vote accordingly. Mr. Ward himself may vote wet despite reports that he was unequivocally a dry. Announcement that the majority of the organization delegates would vote wet assures the registering of a wet vote for Westchester at the Republican State convention.

Mr. Holzworth entered thirty-eight independent wet candidates for the State convention on the theory that Mr. Ward was a dry and would instruct his delegates to vote dry. The purport of the organization's announcement is that no matter which way primary voters cast their ballots for Republican State convention delegates, the registering of a wet vote for Westchester is assured.

Charles D. Millard, the organization's candidate opposing Mr. Holzworth for Congress, spurred by an interview with Mr. Ward, issued a statement today reaffirming his pledge to fight for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. He declared his personal candidacy was unimportant, compared with the interests of the organization, and urged citizens to vote for the organization's candidates to the State convention.

"But there is another important issue before the electorate of Westchester County," Mr. Millard declared, "probably more important by far than my own personal candidacy. I am sure that in the minds of Westchester voters the primary election involves much more than the wet and dry situation."

He said the Republican organization for the past thirty-four years had studied the needs of the country and tried to give the people what they wanted, citing parks, public health and governmental honesty.

Endorsement Regarded as Victory.

The announcement of William L. Ward, veteran Republican chieftain in Westchester County, that he favors the nomination of Charles H. Tuttle for Governor, is regarded in Republican circles in this city as insuring his selection by the Republican State Convention, if, as is generally expected, he will agree to have his name go before the convention.

Even prior to the announcement by Mr. Ward, Mr. Tuttle, according to his friends, was assured of the support of 473 delegates, only twenty-three short of a majority in the convention. The total number of delegates will be 991 and 496 votes will be necessary for nominations.

Westchester will have a representative of forty-five at the convention, so that Mr. Ward's pledge of support should be tantamount to an assurance of Mr. Tuttle's nomination on the first ballot.

"The New York County Republicans will be happy to learn that Mr. Tuttle will have the support of Mr. Ward," was the comment of Samuel S. Koenig, president of the New York County Republican Committee.

One Saves Baby, Other Rescues Mother in Liverpool's Chinatown.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—Heroism attended a tragic fire in a three-story building in Liverpool's Chinatown today, in which three Chinese children and their pet dog perished and two other children were badly burned. A big crowd watched firemen and police rescue Chinese occupants of the burning building.

One man, blind and badly burned, was clinging to a widow ledge shouting "Save the children" when the firemen took him down. Willy Yen, 10 years old, carried his baby brother through blinding smoke to a downstairs window, where they remained with others until rescued. Robert Yen, 13, roused his mother, took her downstairs to safety, then remounted to the top floor and saw it cleared of occupants before he returned, seriously burned.

RASKOB UPHOLDS ATTACKS ON HOOVER

Says They Are Mild Compared to Criticism of the President in Congress.

SEES RIVALS IN CONFUSION

Asks Republicans to Explain How They Have Helped Farmer and Continued Prosperity.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, replied yesterday to the charge of Republican Congressional campaign leaders that he was engaged in a conspiracy through the committee's recently established press bureau at Washington to discredit President Hoover. The charge was made here Monday by Representative John Q. Tilson, Republican floor leader of the House and Eastern director of the Republican Congressional campaign committee, and previously by Representative Will R. Wood, chairman of the Congressional campaign committee.

Mr. Raskob declared that the Democratic criticism of President Hoover had been mild compared with Republican criticism of the President in Congress. He said the Democrats had attacked the Republican National Administration on the tariff and farm relief and intended to continue the criticism.

Laud's Publicity Bureau.

Mr. Raskob's statement follows:

"For the first time in the memory of many people the Democratic party has a virile publicity bureau in Washington which has been able successfully to acquaint the people of the United States with the weaknesses, false claims and failures of the Republican party when in power. The result has been great confusion, poor leadership and three changes in the head of the Republican National Committee, Work, Huston and now Fess.

"To see their party being ridden over rough-shod, their failures and false claims as to tariff and prosperity and helping the farmers exposed and exploded at the hands of an efficient Democratic publicity bureau has thrown them into a panic and they seem to know not how to act under real fire. They are now trying to distract the public mind from their failures through endeavoring to sell a 'Raskob plot to slander Hoover.' Compared with reading what the Republicans have said about Mr. Hoover as published in the Congressional Record, the articles sponsored by the Democratic National Committee at Washington about the Republican Administration read like Bible stories.

"We will not allow the Republican party to avoid responsibility for their failure to keep their promises. All further efforts to distract the public mind from the real issues present in the coming Congressional and Senatorial elections will be ignored by the Democratic National Committee because we want no distractions.

Hits at "Cry Babies."

"Let's deal with facts and be men, not babies, and particularly not cry babies.

"Let the Republicans tells us why they dealt with all tariff schedules increasing rates already too high instead of providing farm relief through the tariff or otherwise. Why did the Administration insist upon and jam through an amendment to the tariff bill transferring from Congress to the President the power to tax? Explain why this is not autocracy instead of democracy. Following the war this provision in the tariff law had some justification, but the war is twelve years behind us and the autocratic powers given a President as our Commander-in-Chief of the army and navy during war time have no place in a democracy in times of peace.

"Let the Republicans tell the people how they have helped the farmer; how they have continued prosperity—a promise they knew they could not fulfill because no political party can upset the law of economics; how they have kept labor employed. The intelligentsia of this country knew the Republicans could not meet the promises they sold our citizens in the last Presidential election and they voted the Democratic ticket. The poor farmers and laborers who were misled then have learned their lesson now through the school of experience, the only school, unfortunately, in which many of them have any chance to learn. They have learned now and cannot be misled again.

"Will the Republicans explain these things? Likely not. They never like explaining, preferring to transfer that rôle to the Democrats while they camouflage their own failures."

SUES BOROUGH OF PITMAN.

Ousted Clerk Seeks $3,000 Pay—Other Actions Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

PITMAN, N. J., Sept. 2.—What is thought to be the forerunner of at least ten similar actions was that taken this morning in the institution of a suit against the Borough of Pitman by Benjamin F. Moore. Mr. Moore is suing for $3,000, the equivalent of six months' salary as a clerk in the Borough Hall.

Mr. Moore was made a clerk in the Water Department Jan. 1 by a faction in the Borough Council headed by Elmer E. Bone. He served under Borough Clerk George P. Mayhew until July 1, when, by action of the New Jersey Supreme Court, another faction, headed by Mayor William B. Brown, was placed in control of local governmental affairs. At the time Mayhew was ousted as borough clerk all employes hired by him were discharged.

Pitman was shaken by one of the most unusual Borough Council fights ever recorded in the State when Brown took his seat as Mayor. Despite efforts to clear the condition, it hung fire, with two councils, two borough clerks, two highway departments and two solicitors functioning for six months. It is understood that several other employes, discharged by Brown, will enter suit for salaries.

Ask Chinese About Newark Slaying

Wong Lun of 48 Iron Street, Toms River, N. J., was taken to Newark yesterday for questioning in the murder of a Chinese identified as Low Sang Hung of 6 Allen Street, New York, found slain late Monday night in a Newark alley. The police said they merely wanted to question Lun because he knew Hung. He was arrested when he showed great reluctance to go to Newark.

SHOUSE SAYS TILSON FAILED PRESIDENT

Statements in Congress Criticizing the Administration Were Not Answered, He Asserts.

'REGULARS' ' ATTACKS CITED

Senator Goldsborough Calls on the Democrats to Bolster Criticism With a Program.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The "battle of hand-outs" between members of the Republican and Democratic national organizations was continued today with Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, and Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough of Maryland commanding the heavy artillery of their party forces.

The hot shot which Mr. Shouse's batteries delivered into the enemy's camp was aimed directly at Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut because of the charge made by the latter in New York yesterday that the Democratic publicity bureau had been guilty in twenty-seven instances of misrepresenting President Hoover in statements whose contents, according to Mr. Tilson, ranged all the way from insinuations to slander.

Senator Goldsborough, whose declarations were issued by the Republican National Committee, used Senator Tom Connally of Texas for his target. In a radio address last night Senator Connally attacked the Hoover Administration and the Republican Congress for lack of accomplishment.

Senator Goldsborough twitted the Democrats for failing to follow up their criticisms by offering a plan of action to overcome the Republican defects of which they complained.

Denies Tilson Statement.

Representative Tilson, who is the majority leader of the House of Representatives, issued his Labor Day statement in his capacity of Eastern director of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee. He aimed particularly at Charles Michelson, publicity director of the Democratic National Committee.

Like other Republican artillerists, Representative Tilson stressed an article by Frank R. Kent of The Baltimore Sun in a recent issue of Scribner's Magazine, which represented that Mr. Michelson had been engaged by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic National Committee to "smear the President."

In taking up this part of Mr. Tilson's attack, Mr. Shouse intimates that the Kent article involves a matter of personal controversy between writers, between Mr. Michelson and Mr. Kent, and for that reason Mr. Michelson regarded it as neither interesting to newspapers nor as having any connection with the political campaign.

Mr. Shouse denies flatly that Chairman Raskob was responsible for the appointment of Mr. Michelson by the National Committee, and emphasizes this with a statement that at no time did Mr. Raskob discuss with Mr. Michelson the work he would be called upon to do for the Democratic party.

As to the charge that Mr. Michelson's instructions were to assail President Hoover, Mr. Shouse characterized it as a "figment of the imagination" of a Hoover partisan.

Recalls Republican Attacks.

Attacks on the Hoover Administration "were based on the whole record of official reports and the transcripts of proceedings under oath," Mr. Shouse said, adding:

"These articles were issued over a period during which Congress was in session. There was abundant opportunity for the Republican members of both Houses, including Mr. Tilson, to reply to them. Certainly, if they were misleading, or inaccurate, or untrue, such devoted supporters of the President as Mr. Tilson would have answered them on the floors of Congress to make the record straight. Their silence during all this time that the President was being assailed—not by the Democratic committee, but by members of Congress—might be interpreted as giving consent to the charges of their colleagues.

"Certainly it must seem to the average man a little late to make the first attack on these statements at the opening of a campaign months after the adjournment of Congress.

"Moreover, the reflections on the Hoover Administration, and on the President himself, in utterances by Democratic members are not comparable to those made on the floor by members of the President's own party, and even these attacks by the so-called Republican insurgents were not comparable in virulence and reflection on the President to those which in the past emanated from such eminent Republicans as Vice President Curtis, majority Senate leader Watson, or Chairman Will Wood of the Congressional Campaign Committee, for example."

Calls for Democratic Program.

Stressing his point that Senator Connally did not accompany his criticisms of President Hoover and the Republican Congress by submitting a Democratic program for overcoming the alleged deficiencies of which he complains, Senator Goldsborough said:

"The Republican administration and the American people have a right to demand of the Democratic party that in asking for the suffrage of the American people it submit a bill of particulars as to what it will do in event it is given control of the legislative branch of the government.

"Why this strange silence? Why have the Democrats again failed to bring forward a plan of action for the cure of the evils over which they shed their crocodile tears so copiously?

"The answer is that there remains for the Democrats only a picked-over heap of discarded and defeated issues. They can offer nothing.

"The policy of Raskobian ranting no longer wins sympathy. The public demands constructive action."

Arctic Explorers on Way to Brigus, Newfoundland, Says Radio.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—A message picked up by a local wireless station, broadcast by Captain Robert Bartlett, stated that the schooner Morrisey, bearing an arctic exploration party, had left Amgassillik on the morning of Aug. 31.

The explorers expected their next stop to be Brigus, Newfoundland, which they hoped to reach in twelve to fifteen days.

POLICEMAN SHOT IN MISHAP.

Wounds Himself in Target Practice in Brooklyn—Condition Critical.

Patrolman Frank J. Johnson of the Sixty-eighth Precinct in Brooklyn accidentally shot himself through the abdomen with a pistol yesterday during target practice in the 101st Regiment Armory, Brooklyn.

Last night, his condition was so critical that two friends, Patrolman James J. McCauley and Patrolman James Bowles volunteered to give a pint of blood each in an attempt to save his life.

Patrolman Johnson told detectives of the homicide squad who questioned him that he was unable to explain the accident and was inclined to blame a defect in the mechanism of the weapon. Dr. Robert Tubey of the Swedish Hospital operated on Johnson yesterday afternoon and later ordered blood transfusions. Johnson, who lives at 1,613 Eighty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, is married and has a 4-year-old son.

SETS NEW STUNT RECORD.

German Aviator Flies on Back With Passenger 31 Minutes.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BREMEN, Germany, Sept. 2.—A new world record was established here today by Gerd Achgelis, who flew with a passenger thirty-one minutes on his back in the Focke-Wulf plane Kiebitz, fitted with a 100-horsepower Siemens motor. Herr Achgelis is a well-known stunt flier, also holds the world's record for inverted flight alone with thirty-seven minutes.

The same airplane constructors have also developed a "fool-proof" plane, the Habicht, which was demonstrated at Berlin last Fall and which could not be brought into a spin. Chief Engineer Wiehler, with a passenger, flew the Bussard, a plane similar to the Habicht, from Bremen to Fuerth, Bavaria, a distance of 262 miles without touching the stick once after starting.

REMOVES GREASE SPOTS WITHOUT LEAVING A "RING"

Most silks are now "weighted" or "loaded" with foreign substances to make them appear of better quality. Liquid cleaners dissolve this "weighting" or "loading," and this causes "rings" on Silks. We have therefore created Carbona Grease Absorbent Powder for use on Silks only. This Powder will not affect "weighting" or "loading" in any way—it absorbs Grease Spots instead of dissolving them, and no "rings" can result from its use on Silks.

Skeletons Then Will Be Taken to Sweden for Burial—Investigators Authenticate Discovery.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 2.—The bodies of Salomon August Andrée and one of his companions were brought back today to the little Northern harbor from which they sailed on their great adventure thirty-three years ago.

Their coffin was nothing but a rough wooden box wrapped in black. It lay, covered with canvas, on the deck of the tiny vessel Bratvaag, which had found them on frozen White Island. Four sailors lifted it reverently and carried it ashore. On the quayside stood an honor guard of sailors at salute and officers with lowered sabres.

In dead silence the box was placed on a black carriage drawn by two small Nordfjord horses. Two relatives of the dead explorers, Dr. Gunnar Horn and Captain Eliassen of the Bratvaag, took their places behind the hearse. Then through a crowd of bare-headed townspeople the little procession moved silently to the Coastal Hospital, where the bodies were examined. Like a Viking hero, Andrée had returned and was welcomed with no ceremony, but with the austere dignity of an old-time saga.

The night of fog and rain had gone when the Bratvaag, escorted by the official vessel Michael Sars, was first sighted in the Tromsoe Fjord. The morning air was so transparent that it seemed to bring the distant glaciers nearer. The gabled roofs of Tromsoe were bathed in the cool sad light characteristic of the North in early Autumn. As the ships edged close to the pier the haze vanished in mild Summer warmth. Slowly all the fishing vessels in the harbor lowered their flags in salute and every flag at Tromsoe was lowered to half-staff. As soon as the crowd caught a glimpse of the wooden box on the deck there was an instinctive movement and all hats came off in salute.

To the blue-clad sailors of the Bratvaag's crew who had found the bodies went the honor of taking them ashore for their last tribute.

ONLY TWO BODIES FOUND.

By ODD ARNSTEIN,

Correspondent for The Associated Press and The Aftenposten of Oslo Aboard the Sealer Bratvaag.

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 2 (AP).—Scientists tonight cleared up a point that has been somewhat in doubt since Dr. Horn in early August found the remains of the Andrée expedition.

Only two bodies were brought back. Some bones, assumed to be those of the third adventurer who sought to fly over the North Pole in a balloon in 1897, were revealed tonight as those of a polar bear.

When word of the discovery of the Andrée camp first was flashed to the world it was taken for granted that the bodies of Andrée and of both his companions, Nils Strindberg and Knut Fraenkel, had been found.

Later it appeared that the bones of Andrée and one companion were aboard the Bratvaag, while some bones in a boat owned by the party had been assumed to be those of the third.

Tonight experts examined the boat after it had been taken ashore and pronounced the bones those of a polar bear.

Thus the Horn party has returned with the bodies of Andrée and Strindberg, but that of Fraenkel presumably is still somewhere in the icy North. It is believed that he perished in a long march across the ice, unable to keep up with his companions to the point where they were found.

Another Trip Doubtful.

While some persons have suggested another trip to search for Fraenkel, experts say that this would hardly be possible this year, as much snow has already fallen.

The other things in the boat—a package of newspapers, a boot, a gun and a camera lens—are being scrutinized carefully by scientists.

The investigators reported that they found many evidences that the discovery was authentic. "Among the objects we found," said their statement, "was photographic apparatus marked 'Andrée's Polar Expedition No. 1,' two ice sledges, a pair of high boots, instruments, an anemometer, a star map and a piece of canvas which possibly was part of a tent."

There is no mourning in Tromsoe. There is a longing for the handclasp of old friends, but, Tromsoe's hardy folk, who wage constant warfare against the dangers of the frozen North, are proud of that indomitable courage which is symbolized by the relics resting in the hospital.

Many Knew Andree.

Tromsoe is proud. Whispered tributes were paid tonight to Andrée and his companions by youngsters who long for the time when they will be old enough to follow in the footsteps of their seafaring fathers and challenge the polar ice.

Aged men, their faces stamped with the indelible bronze of the Arctic, paced the cobbled streets today with heads held high and the gleam of adventure showing in dimming eyes. Many of them knew Andrée personally.

Some, indeed, accompanied him to Spitsbergen, whence he set out in his balloon in an attempt to fly over that mysterious spot which long has lured the adventurous and until a few years ago eluded them.

As soon as science has done what it can with the bodies these people of Tromsoe will gather in their church for a memorial service to honor the intrepid trio. Then the skeletons will be carried back to Sweden, there to find a final resting place.

The coffin, which was made of plain boards, contained all of the supposed human remains, sewed in canvas. It is a large box, six by seven feet, constructed by direction of Captain Eliassen of the Bratvaag.

Scientists Debate Cause of Disaster.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 2 (AP).—The question of what caused the failure of the Andrée expedition is being debated throughout Scandinavian scientific circles. The opinion among those best qualified to hazard a guess is that it was due to the leakage of gas from the balloon.

Eye-witnesses to the departure from Danes Island, Spitsbergen, agree that the balloon was injured as it left the temporary building in which it had been inflated, and though the drag lines parted at the very start the balloon sank so low that the gondola touched the water a few minutes after being set free.

This was in spite of the fact that the weight of the rope lost was more than half a ton. Normally the balloon should have shot up in the air.

Previous Injury Indicated.

Notes left by Andrée himself indicate that the balloon was probably injured during a storm on July 7, or four days before the start. He wrote in his diary, sent back before the start:

"It seems to me that after so much delay we are entitled, if not obligated, to make our departure."

The year before he had felt much humiliated by the necessity of returning without making a start, because of unfavorable winds, and it is probable that he had made up his mind to get off regardless of circumstances. In his determination to start, his two companions and the alternate, Captain Svedenborg, fully shared.

Professor Nils S. Ekholm, who was a member of Andrée's party that was to have left in 1896, told the Swedish Geographical Society on Nov. 19, 1897, four months after the departure of the expedition, that Andrée's balloon could not have reached the northern coast of Alaska or Eastern Siberia in less than twelve days.

Could Stay Up Only 15 Days.

He said it was doubtful whether any balloon could stay up that long. Under the most favorable circumstances, he believed, the balloon could not have stayed aloft more than fifteen days.

Dr. Ekholm then advanced the theory that the explorers had decided to come down near what was then known as Franz Joseph Land and had some hope of returning on foot with their sledges, as Fridtjof Nansen and other explorers had done.

It was on account of gas leakage that Dr. Ekholm decided not to accompany the expedition in 1897. He had originally stipulated that he would go only on condition that the balloon could stay afloat five times as long as the minimum period required for the transit to Bering Strait, or sixty days.

His calculation was that it would stay up at most nineteen days, while Andrée himself figured twenty-six or twenty-seven days. On this point the two men decided to disagree and parted company.

Scientists Report on Bodies.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 2 (AP).—The experts, Hedrén and Lithberg, representing Sweden at Tromsoe, notified the government tonight that they had examined the effects of the Andrée Arctic expedition and had identified the bodies of Salomon August Andrée and Nils Strindberg.

ANDREE CAMP DETAILS SHOWN IN PHOTOGRAPHS

Pictures Brought Back by Horn Provide Unusual Records of the Discovery.

Copyright, 1930, by The Associated Press. All rights reserved in North and South America and Japan.

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 2 (AP).—One of the most unusual collections of pictures ever taken is scattered about the desk of The Associated Press correspondent as he writes this dispatch. They are photographs which Dr. Gunnar Horn, finder of the Andrée polar expedition, took of the Andrée camp on White Island.

Among them is one which chills but still grips the imagination. It is that of Andrée himself—or at least all that remained of the explorer after a long succession of Arctic freezings and thawings had done their work.

As Dr. Horn remarked, the remains were just bones with clothes on.

Andrée was found leaning against the side of a hill near his camp. It was seen that he died as he would have wished—on his feet, fighting to the last breath against exhaustion and the killing Arctic ice. Beside him is shown an oil stove with which he perhaps was trying to keep the frost from his body.

It would appear, too, that he was the last of the trio to perish after they had dragged themselves over drifting ice to White Island through many cruel days after their balloon met disaster.

As one looks about the desk one sees a picture showing that Andrée's skull was separated from his body.

Other pictures show the navigation book found in Andrée's canvas boat, a diary that was in his pocket, his pencil and pedometer, his reflex camera, the camp as a whole, two rusted files, an Arctic boot, a writing pad and a brand new mitten.

There are many other intensely interesting photographs, including pictures of the members of the Horn expedition and the sealer Bratvaag, which carried them.

CANADA EAGER FOR DATA.

Rigors of White Island Regarded as Comparable With Western Zone.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—To Canadian Government scientists word of any success experts may have in deciphering Salomon August Andrée's diary is eagerly awaited.

White Island is regarded as comparable with Canada's own far northland. Dr. R. M. Anderson, chief Dominion biologist, who was himself in the Arctic two years ago, said today it was with the greatest difficulty that life could be sustained in such regions. The warm period of the year is decidedly short, he explained, and food hard to obtain. Unless Andrée and his companions were equipped with harpoons to land walruses they would probably have to depend for food on the few birds that frequent the Far North.

As to Andrée, the opinion of such other explorers as Markham, Greely and Amundsen was recalled that "he was a competent scientist and a brave man, but he chose too difficult a task."

ARCTIC 'FRIENDLY,' STEFANSSON SAYS

Water Can Be More Dangerous Than Ice if One Is Lost, Explorer Writes.

TELLS OF MANY RESCUES

He Points Out That Several Persons Were Dying of Heat at Time Andree Camp Was Found.

By VILHJALMUR STEFANSSON.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—To one who would rather have the sea about him white with drifting floes than with tumbling waves it seems strange that the unfolding of the romance of Salomon August Andrée and his men is being used by many commentators to reinforce those traditional views which facts really contradict. Seemingly, in current American and British thinking, whatever ice or cold does is of itself, and for that mere reason is considered terrible.

Are we Polar explorers then the only people capable of seeing a different angle? One would think the case of Nobile and Amundsen when compared would prove to the Italians, no less than to the Norwegians, that there is a golden lining to the silver clouds that hover above the northern seas.

Nobile and his comrades—airmen rather than seamen, Southerners with little polar experience—were thrown from their airship two years ago on a drifting ice field northeast of Spitsbergen, far within the Arctic Circle. One man was killed by the fall and two were seriously injured, but half a dozen suffered little damage. Had they fallen into the liquid sea the best swimmers would have been drowned within a few hours and the rest sooner. But they prowled about on the ice, gathered the wreckage in Crusoe fashion, made fires, cooked meals, tinkered up their radio and were finally able, after many days, to send a message that led to their rescue.

Amundsen Lost in Water.

Next, turn to Amundsen. There was a man of northern birth and great experience. Fundamentalists said, that when he was lost, the frozen North had at last taken its revenge, but that was mere talk. Amundsen was flying toward the North, but fell into the iceless waters at least 100 miles short of reaching the first drifting ice.

Had the plane carried him to the edge of that ice, with which he was familiar, he might have clambered on to it and have been safe until it was carried south and melted. From his viewpoint in such a position it would have been the warm Gulf Stream and not the ice cake that was cruel. Had Amundsen landed 200 or 300 miles further north and within the ice he would have come down to the same conditions that preserved Nobile, and they would have preserved the veteran Norwegian for a greater reason.

Although the Andrée story is not yet completely told, it seems from Dr. Horn's narrative published this morning that he and his men walked from where their balloon fell 300 miles across the floes to the small Spitsbergen island. No airman who has fallen into the southern ocean has as yet been able to abandon his craft and make land from any comparable distance.

That Andrée and his men lost their lives after reaching land and the real friendliness of the northern pack ice is difficult to see through the emotions stirred up by the tragic last act. Earlier scenes of the drama would have appeared in a different light had there been a happy ending.

Tells of Wilkins's Flight.

Wilkins and Eielson, flying even deeper within the Arctic than Andrée went, did manage a happy end. They made two forced landings on the drifting floes, 550 or 540 miles from land over an ocean three miles deep. Both times they repaired their engine and flew again. But the third forced landing was caused by a lack of fuel and they were then still 100 miles from shore. After they had drifted on that particular ice cake 160 miles parallel to land the floes slowed up temporarily and they walked ashore, nearly 100 miles, in eleven days.

The ice which saved Wilkins from an ocean grave and bore him landward seemed friendly because he managed later to reach land and won to a life of continued achievement. It was the same sort of ice which in a similar way carried Andrée to land, and it should therefore receive similar credit.

Why not try to realize that in the North as well as in the South there is both a credit and a debit side? On the Southern ocean you sail, but cannot walk; on a Northern ocean you walk, but cannot sail. You have good chances of rescue if you live long on a frequented iceless sea, but it is difficult to live long enough. Rescuers are few in the North, but the marooned have a chance to bide their time—successful in Nobile's case, though with failure in Andrée's.

Radio Changes Circumstances.

Things are changing with the radio, but in Andrée's time the North was constantly a field of self-help. The Tyson party drifted half a year on an ice cake and was more numerous at the end than at the beginning, for a child was born and lived.

An Americal naval officer belonged to a ship which sank more than 500 miles from the Lena delta. There were invalids in the party and a blind man. Yet they made their way safely across hundreds of miles of drifting floes and lost no lives until long after taking to boats, and then by drowning in the Atlantic. The British naval officer, Markham, with half his party disabled, brought them all, including the body of a man who had died from illness, ashore over ice floes.

Even I can speak from experience. Two men in a sledge party of four became seriously ill more than 100 miles from land. The other two of us brought them safely ashore on an island further north than the one where Andrée landed. Illness prevented our hunting on the way ashore, and our food was gone, but as soon as we could afford to halt we secured plenty of game to enable us to nurse the invalids back to health. This was more than 500 miles from the nearest human being and equally far from any depot or rescue which the country did not of its nature provide.

Nansen and Johansen, two Norwegians, without provisions landed in an easterly island of the Franz Joseph group in the Autumn of 1895, killed game, built a house and lived through the Winter in perfect health and were in the pink of condition when they met the Jackson-Harmsworth party the following Spring.

Cites Heat Deaths.

Andrée, Strindberg and Fraenkel, all three Swedish, landed on the westerly islands of the same group two years later and for reasons we don't yet know failed to live through the Winter. People live and die from various causes on various lands. A score of Englishmen died from the heat during the week which brought us the news from Spitsbergen.

We take as a matter of course the heroism and tragedies of the Atlantic, but go into thrills and chills of ecstacy and horror about those of the Arctic. Is that perhaps due to the same curious though familiar trait of mind which foments a world panic out of a dozen cases of parrot fever, but leaves us somnolent under the cancer threat destined to come to the home of at least one in eight of those who live past 50? If we were logical, panic would result from the cancer threat, not from parrot fever. Andrée's long and perhaps never to end line of flying successors should dread the Atlantic more than the Arctic. The best informed of them do now; it is the public that fails to join in that realization.

BYRD LAUDS ANDREE IN STATE FAIR SPEECH

First Flier Over Pole Says Snow Storm Probably Forced Down Balloon of 33 Years Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Admiral Byrd, speaking at the New York State Fair here today, which was attended by 15,000 persons, paid tribute to Salomon August Andrée and his men, whose bodies reached Norway today after thirty-three years locked in the Arctic silences. As the first man to fly over the North Pole he has evinced a special interest in the sequel to the first attempt to fly over it.

"I have been very much interested in the news that those first great adventurers to attempt a flight to the pole have been found after thirty-three years," he said. "It has been one of the greatest mysteries of exploration."

He advanced the theory that Andrée's party, in their great balloon, was trapped in a snowstorm and forced down, helpless, with inadequate equipment and food, to escape.

Admiral Byrd came to Syracuse as the guest of Jerome D. Barnum, publisher of The Post-Standard. He received a great reception at the State Fair Grounds, and made two addresses, one in front of the grand stand and the other before 3,000 boys and girls from all parts of the State assembled to open the Boys' and Girls' Building.

He was honored with a special eagle war dance by the tribesmen at the Indian Village. He also viewed the pictures of his expedition in Antartica in THE NEW YORK TIMES exhibit at the fair.

After his visit, he flew late this afternoon to Glens Falls Airport in a plane owned by John G. Hunter of Syracuse and piloted by Lieutenant Harold Mull of Cortland.

BALCHEN MUST WAIT FOR NATURALIZATION

Byrd Pilot Faces Delay of 10 Months—First Entered Country in July, 1926.

The naturalization of Bernt Balchen, Rear Admiral Byrd's aviator on his Antarctic expeditions, which has caused active agitation by United States Senator Shipstead, the Hackensack (N. J.) Chamber of Commerce and friends of the aviator, will be impossible for at least ten months, it was revealed in Newark yesterday. The reason is that Balchen's first entry into this country was only four years and two months ago.

For weeks the issue was widely discussed. Balchen, it was argued, was in all respects qualified to receive full citizenship, provided the time spent on the Byrd Antarctic expedition was allowed as part of his period of residence here. It was outrageous, it was claimed, that he should be forced to wait on the ground that he had been absent from the country when his absence was in connection with such a high patriotic enterprise as the expedition to the Antarctic.

On Monday, however, when Balchen was asked by Divisional Director of Naturalization Harold P. Wordendyke in Newark how long he had been in this country, he said he first entered the United States in July, 1926. Consequently, even with full credit for the time spent with the Byrd expedition, which officials seem unanimously disposed to concede, Balchen still cannot be eligible for citizenship until next July.

It seems that until yesterday it had occurred to none of those interested in the matter to ask Balchen how long he had been here. Meanwhile, the immigration authorities had reported that Bernt Balchen, employed at the Teterboro Airport, had come here in 1922. Balchen himself explained the matter yesterday, revealing that a cousin, bearing the same name and employed by the same company, who is also an aviator, had come to this country several years earlier.

Indo-China Mob Forces Mandarin to Sign Paper Granting Concessions.

PARIS, Sept. 2 (AP).—The Ministry of Colonies announced today that 1,000 manifestants had invaded the offices of a native mandarin in charge at Nam Dang, Annam, French Indo-China, and had forced him to sign a document granting certain concessions.

The announcement said the manifestants then opened the jail, permitting the escape of a number of prisoners and destroyed a wine shop. The communiqué added that the manifestations were the work of Communists who sought to halt the series of arrests going on recently as a result of disorders in French Indo-China.

BLACKMER ATTACKS LEGALITY OF FINE

Exiled Oil Man Questions Validity of Act Under Which He Was Convicted.

DID NOT OBEY SUBPOENA

Had Failed in Effort to Get Review in Highest Court of Judge's Actions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Harry M. Blackmer, exiled oil man, through his counsel filed an exhaustive brief in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia today in which he attacks the validity of the act of Congress under which he recently was found guilty of contempt of court and fined $60,000 for failing to obey subpoenas to appear as a witness in the oil trials in District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Efforts were made some time ago to have the United States Supreme Court review the action of Justice Frederick L. Siddons of the District Supreme Court in finding Mr. Blackmer guilty and fining him, but that tribunal refused. The move to take the case to the highest tribunal instead of to the Appellate Court was instituted by the government.

Mr. Blackmer's counsel at the time of the hearing argued that the Walsh act under which the oil man was found guilty was passed to fit a particular case and gave to the courts extraterritorial jurisdiction to serve summonses in foreign countries. The oil man's lawyers assert that the act violates the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Amendments to the Constitution.

At the time the contempt charges were instituted against Mr. Blackmer, United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder seized bonds belonging to Mr. Blackmer in the sum of $100,000 and these are now being held in a safety deposit vault of a local bank to meet the $60,000 fines in case the action of Justice Siddons is sustained on appeals.

The attorneys representing Mr. Blackmer are George Gordon Battle of New York, Karl C. Schuyler and Eugene D. Millikin of Denver, Col., and Frederick D. Faust and Charles F. Wilson of this city.

Mr. Blackmer, according to testimony brought to the hearing in the District Court, failed to answer subpoenas served on him in France by American diplomatic representatives.

THIRD ATTEMPT ENDS LIFE.

Paterson Man Dies of Two Shots and Knife Wounds.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 2.—Fear of an impending throat operation is believed by the police to have caused Richard Koeller, 33 years old, a sign painter and interior decorator, to shoot and stab himself to death today at his home, 55 Barbour Street, Halledon Borough, here.

He went into his bedroom this afternoon and fired a shotgun into his head. He staggered down to the kitchen, where his wife was, and she ran to call a doctor. Seizing a kitchen knife, he stabbed himself in the abdomen and then started back to the bedroom.

When his wife returned with a policeman, having failed to find a doctor, another shot was heard. Koeller was found dead, having fired the second barrel of the shotgun.

6,425,000 LICENSED TO HUNT

New York Headed 1928-29 List With 677,137.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—More than 6,425,000 licenses were issued in the United States for the hunting of wild game in the season of 1928-29 while the revenue to the States from these licenses was more than $9,390,000. This includes receipts from combined hunting and fishing licenses.

New York State, with 677,137 licenses and $703,047 in returns, and Pennsylvania, with 517,793 licenses and a revenue of $998,834, head the list.

New Jersey issued 195,191 licenses and received $314,071, and Connecticut issued 35,936 and received $99,959.

Palmgren Hearing Deferred.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Albert Palmgren, held without bail in the county jail charged with felonious assault in connection with an attack on Ida Engberg, 17-year-old New York girl a week ago, will not go before the grand jury until Miss Engberg recovers from her injuries sufficiently to testify, according to an announcement today by Assistant District Attorney Walter Ferris.

SUGGESTS PAGE CRASH WAS CAUSED BY GAS

Chicago Health Official Says Dead Air Race Fliers' Blood Showed Carbon Monoxide Poisoning.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP).—Discovery of carbon monoxide in the blood of Captain Arthur Page Jr. led Arnold Kegel, Health Commissioner, to express belief tonight that the gas may have been responsible for the Marine Corps flier's fatal crash at yesterday's National Air Races.

Dr. Kegel based his opinion on the report of Dr. William D. McNally, Health Department toxicologist, that a sample of the Captain's blood, taken befre he died and about three hours after the accident, contained 0.47 per cent of carbon monoxide.

"Our tests show that there was not enough of the gas to kill a man," Dr. Kegel said, "but a pilot flying a plane at 207 miles an hour and turning posts would not have to be very dizzy or sick to have a serious accident."

Dr. McNally recalled that Al Williams, famous racing pilot, had crashed in similar fashion after being overcome by accumulated gases in the cockpit of his ship.

DENIES DIRIGIBLE POOL.

Dr. Eckener Says Germans Have No Plans for Joining With British.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Sept. 2.—Dr. Hugo Eckener emphatically denies the report from London that the Zeppelin Works will pool construction plans with English dirigible builders and that he is negotiating with an English financial group for cooperation.

Neither he nor Dr. Duerr will attend the experts' conferences at Bristol, England, tomorrow.

Smoky Joe Martin Back at Work.

Joseph B. (Smoky Joe) Martin, ranking deputy chief of the Fire Department, returned to work at the Municipal Building yesterday after an extended vacation and leave of absence. He will become acting chief of the department today and will hold the post until Chief John Kenlon returns from his vacation in Ireland. Fire Commissioner John J. Dorman said that in a conference with him Martin had again scouted reports that he was planning to resign and said that he "never felt better or more fit in his life."

TORONTO FLIER KILLED.

Captain Sutton's Racing Plane Falls in Lake Ontario—Mechanic Hurt.

TORONTO, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—Caught by the wind as they banked around a marker on the course, Captain Charles Sutton of Toronto was killed and his mechanic, Claude Mills, also of this city, was injured when their Royal Canadian Air Force plane crashed into Lake Ontario today.

The crash occurred early in the evening in view of thousands of persons who lined the sea-wall to witness the aeronautic program of the Canadian National Exhibition. According to witnesses, the plane was roaring down the stretch in preparation for the races and was just banking around the turn when the wind appeared to catch the tail and sent the machine spinning downward. It struck the water with terrific force, but remained afloat.

The pilot was thrown into the lake. Mills appeared to be only slightly injured, although suffering from shock. He was rushed to the emergency hospital on the grounds.

Immediately following the crash life-guards and speed patrols scurried to the scene, but could find no trace of Captain Sutton's body. The crash occurred about a mile and a half off shore and on account of the depth of the water dragging operations for the body were made difficult.

CHARGES LYNCHING TO 27.

Negro Group Here to Press Case Against Indiana Suspects.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced yesterday that it had forwarded to Attorney General James H. Ogden of Indiana the names of twenty-seven persons who it charges with participating in the lynching of two Negroes in Marion, Ind., on Aug. 7. Walter White, acting secretary of the association, made an investigation on the scene. The organization has received word from Mr. Ogden that he will be represented by two men at the lynching inquiry before the grand jury this week.

The men lynched were Thomas Shipp, 18 years old, and Abe Smith, 19. They were accused of attacking and shooting to death Claude Deeter of Fairmount, Ind., and attacking his fiancee, Miss Mary Ball, of

FRENCH WOMAN STARTS AIR ENDURANCE FLIGHT

Mlle. Maryse Bastic Asks Watchers on Ground to Signal Coste's Arrival Here.

LE BOURGET, Sept. 2 (AP).—Mlle. Maryse Bastie, noted French woman aviator, took off on a new endurance flight tonight as hundreds below her on the field were awaiting news of the arrival of Captain Coste and Maurice Bellonte in the United States.

She went up at 7:31 P. M. (2:31 P. M., New York Time) and dropped a note asking that when news of Captain Coste's landing at New York was received it be marked in huge letters on the field for her information.

Mlle. Bastie made an attempt at the woman's endurance record in light craft on another occasion when Captain Coste was figuring in the news. This was on Aug. 17, when Captain Coste was preparing to start over the ocean but postponed his trip because of bad weather.

She came down on that occasion after nearly twenty-eight hours because of poor flying conditions. Another attempt was begun on Aug. 26, but she came down the next day because of the intense heat, having been in the air eighteen hours.

ALFONSO'S FOE YIELDS.

Sanchez Guerra's Decision to Talk With King Is Triumph for Monarch.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Sept. 2.—King Alfonso today won one of the outstanding political triumphs of his reign when it was announced that José Antonio Sánchez Guerra, former Premier and leader of the Republican movement in Spain, would visit him at San Sebastian for a friendly chat over the political situation. The announcement was made by Premier Berenguer today, but it was regarded everywhere as a masterpiece of diplomacy on the King's part.

An about face already has been made by Santiago, Alba and other anti-government leaders, but no one believed Señor Sánchez Guerra could be induced even to discuss affairs with King Alfonso. The echoes of his anti-monarchist speech last Spring still are ringing among Republicans in Spain, who are reported to be bitter at his approaching visit to San Sebastian.

BROMLEY HUNTS FIELD.

No Place Found Near Tokyo for Take-Off on Tacoma Flight.

TOKYO, Sept. 2 (AP).—After inspecting beaches and plains within a fifty-mile radius of Tokyo in search of a suitable place to take off with a full load of gasoline on their projected non-stop flight to Tacoma, Wash., Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty decided today to look elsewhere for a starting field.

Mr. Gatty boarded a train for Hachinohe, in Aomori prefecture, where there is much prairie, hoping to find a suitable stretch. Mr. Bromley and Mr. Gatty asserted they still were determined to make a non-stop flight.

The fliers received a week's extension of their permit to use Kasumigaura Naval Air Field, whence they attempted a take-off recently, but failed to get their heavily loaded plane into the air. They said the field was not long enough to permit a take-off with a full load.

Ultimately they may be obliged to use the Kasumigaura field, starting with a lighter load and making a one-stop attempt.

$2,000 AWAITS NAVY FLIER.

Unidentified Airman Helped to Find Drowned Youth's Body.

HADDONFIELD, N. J., Sept. 2 (AP).—A reward of $2,000 was waiting to be claimed today by an unidentified naval airplane pilot who last Friday discovered the body of Joseph E. Roberts 3d, 20 years old, floating in the sea off Atlantic City.

The body was recovered by five members of the beach patrol after their attention was attracted by the airplane circling over it. They will divide with the airman half of the $4,000 reward offered for the recovery of the body by the dead youth's father, Dr. Joseph E. Roberts of Haddonfield.

Roberts was drowned at Ocean City Aug. 24.

Endurance Rider's Body Sought.

Special to The New York Times.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 2.—Shoremen along the local waterfront of Staten Island Sound continued their search today for the body of George Finn, young endurance bicycle rider, who is believed to have committed suicide by drowning some time on Saturday. Meantime the local police are investigating every angle of the strange case in the belief that it may be hoax of some kind.

INVESTIGATING THE INVESTIGATOR.

As Mrs. McCormick asks, What is Senator Nye going to do about it? He, as chairman of the Senatorial committee authorized to look into campaign expenses, looked into hers so critically that she decided to do some investigating of her own. That is why "the men who were sent into "North Dakota made no mystery of "their actions." They "called on "citizens openly, told what they "were after and left their cards and "addresses." The lady who is the first candidate of her sex to be designated for United States Senator by a major political party feels that the persons who "broke into my offices "and rifled my private and business "correspondence files" did not behave well. She resolved to make a study of Senator Nye's "methods and affiliations." They are both members of Congress, both are held loosely together by the same party label. The sister from Illinois is by no means afraid of the young brother from North Dakota. When next they meet officially the reporters' notebooks should be filled with highly entertaining matter.

Mrs. McCormick does not say that Senator Nye knew anything about the "rifling" of her files and the tapping of her telephone wires. But she implies that for this reason she appointed agents to look into his methods. She resents his evident unwillingness to be satisfied with "the most complete campaign ex- "pense statement ever submitted to "a Senate committee by a candi- "date," and supplemented by a later full report of "expenses incurred by others in my behalf." And Illinois, she is certain, stands behind the chosen of the Republican party.

It is not a new idea to keep a watch on watchers. But thus far no objective of a Congressional committee of inquiry has been revealed in the practice. If Mrs. McCormick were merely a candidate, she might now be trembling in her slippers, for these committees of inquiry are very sensitive and very high-handed with every one but persons like Bishop James Cannon Jr. Being a Congressman-at-Large, however, she can boast as many prerogatives as a Senator can find, and get as much space in the Congressional Record. Really, what is Senator Nye going to do about it?

LEAVING IT TO THE VOTERS.

September is to be a month all astir with politics. Among the many events scheduled, none is attracting, or is likely to attract, more attention than the State convention of the Republican party of New York. What it does, or fails to do, about the prohibition issue will almost certainly have a profound effect upon public sentiment throughout the whole nation. In preparation for the convention, party politicians and committees have been uncommonly active for weeks past. Many delegates are already selected, but there are indications that some of the "hand-picked" gentlemen will have a fight for it. This is particularly the case in Westchester County, where the Republican organization has been driven almost distraught by the conflicting claims of Wets and Drys. For many years, of course, Westchester Republicanism and the Hon. William L. Ward have been as two minds with but a single thought. Whatever he said was final with the County Committee. But this year affairs are so mixed, the rival claims and clamor are so shrill and insistent, that Boss Ward has issued the unprecedented order that he will issue no orders whatever. Let every Westchester Republican vote as he wishes, both in the choice of delegates to the State convention and in the nomination of a member of the House of Representatives. Instead of leaving it to the organization or to the convention, in the fine old hypocritical way, it is to be left to the voters.

It is probable that this liberty would not have been granted them had they not shown plain signs that they intended to seize it. Unexpectedly, a party leader has found that his customary pretense that the people rule is taken as a reality and is used against him. There is nothing for him to do but to yield as gracefully as possible. What the electors will do with their newly accorded privilege in the Republican primary the political wise men do not tell us. Perhaps many voters will feel "the weight of too much liberty." In proclaiming liberty to the former captives of the machine Mr. Ward has not added the blessing of opening the eyes of the blind. Hence the present fumbling and confusion in the Republican circles of Westchester. It is reported that Senator Wadsworth and President Butler are soon to speak to Westchester Republicans in a great public meeting, and are looked to for guidance which the local leaders decline to give.

Too many of them have tried to be neither Wet nor Dry. But this year they are confronted with the dire necessity of making a choice. The same cruel dilemma will be forced upon the Republican State Convention of New York, and all the signs now are that every suggested compromise and search for an ambiguous formula about prohibition will be rejected, and that a clear and unmistakable decision, one way or the other, on the question of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment will be forced on the delegates. This is as it should be.

NEW TRAFFIC RULES.

The no-parking rule is again in effect in the theatre district. Between 7:45 and 9 P. M. and between 10:30 and 11:30 P. M. the streets in and about Times Square will be kept clear for moving vehicles. One spectacular feature of the Whalen régime has been abandoned, however. Street-cleaning trucks will no longer tow off offending cars. Patrolmen will wait patiently to serve summonses on their owners. The courts will have to deal sternly with them if the experiment is to be a success. For the rest, we believe that no-parking has come to stay in the theatre zone. It restores the streets to the use for which they were primarily intended, and has proved a boon to theatregoers.

Some years ago it was the fashion in one circle of amateur traffic advisers to say that regulation had reached its limit. The intervening months have shown the folly of that contention. Conditions in Times Square have been greatly improved, not only by the new night rules inaugurated while Whalen was Commissioner, but by Commissioner Mulrooney's improved plan for handling daytime traffic in that centre of congestion. Local regulations, adapted to what might be called regional requirements, have eased the traffic flow at Columbus Circle, in Central Park and around the great railroad terminals. Crosstown traffic has been staggered and light cycles shortened, both to good effect.

The future will probably see regulation still further expanded. Commissioner Whalen's attempts to control pedestrians were a flat failure. His rules were too sweeping. Perhaps his successors, approaching this difficult problem in a chastened spirit, will be able to solve it, at least so far as the most congested and dangerous crossings are concerned. A number of streets where traffic is heavy—Forty-third between Grand Central and Times Square, for example—cry out for special treatment. In the course of time the ban on parking which has afforded so much relief to the theatre district at night will have to be applied to other congested areas, vertical parking in the new skyscraper garages gradually displacing horizontal parking in the streets. Regulation cannot take the place of intelligent city planning, but it can go a long way to alleviate the evils resulting from the absence of such planning.

CAPTAIN COSTE'S TRIUMPH.

The distinction of making the first non-stop flight from Paris to New York over the Atlantic has been achieved by the master pilot Dieudonne Coste. He had specially fitted himself to overcome its difficulties. His long flights in Europe, Africa, the Americas and Asia, his passage of the South Atlantic three years ago, his intrepidity, hardihood and genius for taking pains indicated him as the aviator most likely to succeed in an undertaking in which others had failed and that had cost still others their lives. It was splendid for Captain Koehl and Kingsford-Smith, with their companions, to make the westward passage of the North Atlantic, in spite of storm and fog. If they had to come down short of their destination, it was because they lost their bearings, had to fly blind and were handicapped by dwindling fuel. They were pioneers, defeated almost on the threshold of success by a maze of adverse conditions. By their experiences Captain Coste profited.

The French pilot greatly reduced the odds against him by test flights in the Question Mark, fitted with a new and more powerful motor, and particularly by waiting with a patience that provoked criticism for the best weather the Atlantic could offer. He found it necessary to open a press bureau to answer the hundreds of question asked daily about his plans. Kingsford-Smith and Captain Gronau were satisfied to make a start in moderately good weather. Coste had once been beaten back by head winds. If he must do so, he was prepared to fly blind in Newfoundland fogs with the help of the gyroclimometer, which had served so well before when Le Brix had been his companion in the South American adventure. But he wanted following winds, or winds on the quarter, to get most of the way across the Atlantic, and at last the day came when they were promised him. With fuel enough for a flight of 5,000 miles, Coste was so sure of his engine, tested both for distance and altitude, that he was ready to go. Although a man of unusual vitality, he trained himself for the new ordeal. He could count on a proved companion, Maurice Bellonte, sharer of other hazardous ventures. If genius "means the "transcendent capacity of taking "trouble," Coste is so gifted.

He has always talked sensibly about the difficulties of Atlantic flying. He attributes most of the fatal casualties to ill-advised departures in the face of unfavorable reports by weather bureaus. It has been his ambition to be the first Frenchman to return the visit to Paris of Colonel Lindbergh by flying to New York. The two pilots have many qualities in common: dexterity at the controls, intimate knowledge of mechanism, extraordinary skill in flight, and daring qualified by the caution that comes from experience. The Government and the people of the United States, who welcomed Captain Coste on his flight to the Americas in 1927-28, have not forgotten the enthusiasm with which Colonel Lindbergh was received in Paris and the honors there accorded him. Captain Coste's achievement will be similarly celebrated on this side of the Atlantic.

MEXICO'S BALANCE SHEET.

For President Ortiz Rubio's cheerful message to the Mexican Congress on the state of the nation, there may be found, in the course of events in Mexico during the last two years, as much justification as one has a right to expect on such occasions. In the absence of the unforeseen it does seem that the country has entered definitely on an era of "peace, hope and reconstruction." The swift and decisive defeat of the Escobar militarist adventure in the Spring of 1929 indicates, though it does not prove, that Mexico is being weaned away from government by insurrection. The religious settlement has removed the gravest cause of civil dissension. Relations with the United States, admittedly a factor of first importance for the welfare of Mexico, are excellent. Finally, the spirit of "patriotic optimism" in which Señor Ortiz Rubio met his Congress would be due in considerable measure to the recent agreement with Mexico's foreign debtors by which the country's external obligations were nearly cut in two.

In normal circumstances it does not argue an encouraging state of affairs when a country must ask its debtors to scale down their demands and practice generosity in the matter of interest payments. But there are more striking instances than Mexico of the post-war truth that a nation's economic and political reconstruction may be facilitated by bringing down foreign claims to the debtor's capacity to pay. The agreement by which Mexico's foreign debt is cut down from very nearly $500,000,000 to $275,000,000 calls for an annual interest payment during the next five years ranging between $12,500,000 and $15,000,000. Mexico is pledged to maintain a balanced budget, and Finance Minister Montes de Oca is in a position to inform Congress that whereas earlier budgets going back to 1925 had been "amplified" by anything from 7 to 31 per cent, the 1929 excess was less than 1 per cent. National expenditure has hitherto averaged something more than $150,000,000 annually, but the 1931 budget is held down to $140,000,000. Economies are sought by reducing army and railroad personnel and public building expenditure.

Many nations would be happy with a national debt slightly more than twice the nation's annual income. Mexico's revised foreign obligations plus the specific internal debt would amount to about $350,000,000. But there are two other items that weigh heavily upon the Mexican Treasury. Foreign claims for losses suffered in the course of the nation's revolutionary troubles amount to about $150,000,000. The agrarian debt, incurred by the expropriation of large estates for distribution to the peons, has recently been estimated as high as $750,000,000, though only a small portion of this sum is represented by government bonds actually issued. The greater part is still awaiting definite agreement between government and former owners. From the latter have come intimations that the foreign creditors of Mexico have no monopoly of claim on the government's attention. A recent statement by the Ministry of Finance announces that a comprehensive plan for the entire indebtedness of the country is now being formulated. Altogether Mexico's debts would approximate a billion dollars. A debt burden seven times the annual revenue is a serious matter for a country at peace, and still more for one racked until recently by civil conflict. But, on the other hand, three-fifths of this burden of debt would represent the cost of a great social reform, the endowment of the Mexican peon with land, and might not improperly be regarded as a productive investment.

REFUSING A DIAMOND.

Why are certain foreign countries so inhospitable to an eminent American citizen on his travels? Mr. "Legs" Diamond is one of our most active business men and sportsmen. His skill with a racket is unexcelled. No crime survey is complete without him. As a test of police efficiency it is his habit to be arrested frequently. His innocence invariably compels his discharge. Few students have pondered more deeply the transportation problem in prohibition, or the great American question of homicide. When the hectic life of cities palls upon him, he retires to his Sabine Farm in the Catskills. There he leads the simplest of lives, near to nature, the countryside and the cowside. His neighbors adore him. He patronizes local industry. His hand is ever free to relieve distress. There are few more idyllic characters.

In the embowered shades of Acra Mr. Diamond heard the voice of the great deep. Like Lord Bateman, he would go abroad strange countries for to see. Unlike him, "Legs" is an experienced Continental traveler. Ever striving for self-improvement, he set forth on an "educational trip." Such is his modesty and such his fame that he was reported to be a passenger on two steamships. Listening to what dictates of calumny or ignorance we know not, Scotland Yard waited on the English shore to wave him away, and even warned the Irish Free State against him, supposing him to be on the Baltic. The Belgenland was the happier ship that bore him. It was his purpose to study the rural architecture of West Flanders, after inspecting the Antwerp Rubenses and Van Dycks. Though his passport was in order, he was detained. Belgium did not appreciate the treasure come to study hers.

He had to consent to be escorted to the German frontier. The prospect of Aachen, with its relics and memories of Charlemagne, consoled him. Carl the Great is the favorite historical personage of "Legs" the Great. It will be remembered that Carl took a goodly number of Saxons "for a ride." Alas! Again pitiless fate seized the traveler. German detectives "pinched" our "Legs." Why? The guileless candor of his nature would overcome any being less suspicious or thick-headed than a detective. "Legs" wore himself, so to speak, in his buttonhole in the shape of a little diamond badge figuring a triangle in a square. The triangle symbolizes Mr. Diamond's interest in the Y. M. C. A.; the four equal sides and right angles denote that he is always on the square. Moreover, Mr. Diamond is endeared to many friends and some reporters by his "kindly, soft manner."

The extraneous cause is said to be that the New York police want him. They say they don't. They ought to know. But see the penumbra of woe that falls about this brisk, enterprising citizen, this gracious ruralist. Nobody wants him. Is he to wander from port to port, everywhere rejected and shut out, another Man Without a Country? It is ominous that his birth-name or traveling incognito is said to be "Nolan."

"FIRE-WEATHER SERVICE."

In the language of Weather Bureau and Forest Service men, the drought of August was "fire-weather." It is not necessary to be a trained meteorologist or forest ranger to recognize the influence of weather on the occurrence and behavior of fires. Any one can tell that dry, windy weather and intense lightning storms accompanied by little or no rain will cause them to start and spread. All the conservation agencies in the country are interested in an experiment which has been tried for the first time this year during the "fire-weather" season in California to keep fires from starting and to check them speedily if they do start.

L. G. Gray, who has been in charge of field work of this kind in California since 1926, has an article in the current issue of American Forests explaining the need for further preventive service and the new attempt of his office to make every use of available reports. Knowledge of general climate and special information of weather conditions come to all areas where fire is likely to occur. The forecasts issued daily from San Francisco are made up from data collected twice a day from observation stations throughout the continent, on the Hawaiian Islands and on ships in the Northeast Pacific Ocean. The eighty-five "fire-weather" stations of California and fifteen "upper-air observation stations" in the Far West are at the same time supplementing this data with their local reports. Often less than an hour elapses from the time information is received until forecasts and warnings are on their way to areas likely to break out in forest fires. Occasionally the time is as much as an hour longer, but telegrams and telephone messages are sent very promptly, as a rule, to hazardous districts.

These general forecasts have been valuable to the fire-fighters, but are not specific enough to be of maximum use for direct fire-suppression work in areas where fires are small. The district forecaster has not sufficient data to be of much help, and moreover his work consists chiefly of forecasting for other purposes than fire-prevention. To give small districts the same help that is generally broadcast, the Weather Bureau is cooperating with the Forest Service of the United States and of California to equip traveling weather bureaus. A truck with two men, one a meteorologist and the other a radio operator and weather observer, is being used. It goes to fires and to the scenes of possible outbreaks, and the men aid in directing the work. If a fire is coming under control, and fogs or storms are forecast to the radio operator, most of the men can be promptly shifted to places where they are more sorely needed. The truck with radio equipment has been found the quickest, cheapest and most successful means of making district weather information available to the men on the ground. One year's experience does not provide conclusive proof of its efficiency, but enough material assistance has already been given to enlist the interest of all forest-fire fighters.

THE FOURTH OFFENSE.

The fourth-offender law, making a sentence for life mandatory in the case of a man convicted four times of a felony, is meeting with more and more public criticism. Only the other day Senator Baumes, author of the law and chairman of the Crime Commission, declared publicly that he thought it ought to be modified. Dr. Thayer, Commissioner of Correction, and an expert on prisons and prisoners, states that he agrees with him. The law is arbitrary. It is bad psychology. It is hard to enforce. It creates new problems of prison discipline. There is now every likelihood that something will be done at the next session of the Legislature to moderate its rigors.

There may come a day when even lesser offenders of some types may spend the rest of their days in jail. But that day is far off. We must first learn a great deal more about the criminal mind than we know today, and be able to say with assurance, "This man has a chance to "reform; that man is certain to re- "turn to a life of crime." The incorrigibles may have to be kept permanently behind prison walls. Meanwhile, the best plan is probably neither compulsory life imprisonment nor complete freedom at the end of a shorter term, but control, first in prison and then through parole. The whole parole system of this State has recently been rehabilitated, and may prove an aid to the solution of many of our penal problems.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Who Said It?

Since even Homer nods, it is possible that a university president may. In Dr. Butler's speech last Sunday evening he quoted Lord Salisbury, when speaking as Prime Minister "a long generation ago," as saying: "We are all Socialists now."

It is hard to imagine a stern and unbending Conservative like Lord Salisbury ever having said that. As a matter of fact, the saying has long been attributed, so that it has become a commonplace in England, to the burly and jovial Sir William Harcourt. When a certain piece of legislation which he was driving through the House of Commons was attacked as being socialistic, he turned the matter off lightly in the phrase cited above.

The matter is really of slight consequence. It does not make much difference who first said anything. Perhaps Sir William had reason to curse those who had said his good things before he did. In such cases it is always the sentiment more than the speaker that counts. There is always room for applying the doctrine laid down by one of the reverend fathers in Pascal's "Provincial Letters"—namely, "In another mouth this would have been orthodox."

In the Lack of Duller News.

Romance had it all its own way on the front pages of Labor Day and yesterday. It was not romance in the somewhat forced sense of the Romance of the Clothes-Pin Industry, or the Romance of Sutton Place Real Estate, but rich in the older colorful ingredients of human daring and far places and treasure trove and tragedy, or heroes and villains.

On a single page of yesterday's New York Times two French aviators were completing the westward passage of the Atlantic, and the body of the Swedish Arctic pioneer Andree was being brought back from the frozen wastes amid circumstances straight out of young Victor Hugo, and international complications were gathering about a New York City gangster. On an inside page divers 400 feet under the sea were preparing to bring to the surface $5,000,000 in gold from a sunken treasure ship.

Recently there has been a theory that romanticism is a reprehensible exercise indulged in by slack-fibred persons as an escape from the realities of life. Possibly it is weakness to thrill with Coste, or visualize countless doubloons and dead men's chests in the Bay of Biscay, or ponder the fate of Andree, when one should be concentrating on the Ewald case. But atavistic appetites are hard to overcome.

A Task for the League.

We are a nation which, as we are constantly saying, likes to do things on a big scale. And we have a city, Chicago, which dreams in vaster dimensions than do other American municipalities. The other night they had, at a music festival sponsored by The Tribune, choruses of one thousand voices and auditors running to 150,000. It is therefore possible that at any time Chicago, or even more timorous New York, will plan to have fifteen symphony orchestras all playing the "Eroica" at once.

Never do that, is the advice of Dr. Haslbruner, president of the Austrian Musical Association, in conversation with a Vienna correspondent of The New York Sun. For there is no such thing as a standard, international "A," though nothing is needed more.

"Why, if any two orchestras, even the best ones, were suddenly brought together, they'd be out of tune. * * * And all because one man in an orchestra, usually an oboeist or a clarinetist, sets the 'A' higher or lower, to suit his own whim."

There have been reports in the past of such national lacks as a good five-cent cigar, and international deficiencies as a means to enforce respect for peace pacts, such as the League Covenant. But until Dr. Haslbruner spoke out, only the musically initiated knew the desperate international situation of the "A." Geneva should at once do something about this.

Picking Up Money in the Streets.

Among the minor professions should be classed the work of the pavement artist. In the busy streets in the heart of London it is a common thing to see a man armed with colored crayons putting out his one-man show on the pavement. His subjects are generally conventional—a glorious sunset, a plate of salmon, a soldier boy, a mountain scene. Sometimes the news of the day finds its way into his gallery, and no doubt the crossing of the R-100 was celebrated in chalk and stone.

The lowly artist must depend on the voluntary offerings of passersby who like his work. Recently a London newspaper man checked up on the takings of a sidewalk decorator who had his stand on the Embankment. "On an average fifty people passed every minute, and one, usually a man, threw a coin into the hat which the artist contrived to keep appealingly empty." At a rough estimate, the man's earnings for the day were calculated at something like ten dollars. Yet it must be remembered that a shower washes out the pavement artist's stock, and on the days of continuous drizzle he can do no business at all.

It is curious that in New York, where so many rackets and near-rackets flourish, this line has apparently been overlooked. Perhaps Americans are always too hurried to make pavement art pay.

A PERPETUAL MEMORIAL.

Legion Will Pay Weekly Tributes to Unknown Soldier.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

At Saratoga Springs this week—Sept. 4 to 6—the New York State Convention of the American Legion will be held. One of the outstanding reports will be the one advising the Legionaires and all American citizens that the resolution adopted last year at Utica and brought before the national convention at Louisville last October was unanimously adopted.

The special tributes and pilgrimages to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier will henceforth be a national custom. Each of the fifty-two departments of the American Legion—the forty-eight States and the four colonial possessions from which we drew troops during the World War—will have one week of the year, thereby assuring a perpetual memorial during the entire year from some part of these United States.

New York's first official pilgrimage since the adoption of this national custom will be held on Sept. 28, under the chairmanship of Colonel Edward A. Simmons, assisted by six vice chairmen from up the State and the writer, founder of this thought and an overseas war worker.

This custom will, no doubt, be a memorial to our World War dead, similar to Memorial Day, handed down to us as a memorial to our Civil War dead. It insures a proper and fitting ceremony and memorial as can only be rendered by the buddies who might have marched along with our national hero. Furthermore, the generations to come should be made to realize the sacrifices made by this generation for a lasting peace we are all hoping to realize.

BEFORE WINTER.

The wind-witch rolls her ragged sleeves—
Oh, shut my door against the dawn!
Tonight the yellow tide of leaves
Will lap the jetties of the lawn.

There's still a song on the south lagoon,
And still a leaf on the lower bough;
But if a hope be dying soon,
Give it a grave in the black hills now.

Oh, shut my door on the naked nest
A song once built in the high, green leaves;
But call a name to east, to west,
Before the witch saws down my eaves.

OHIO ARIDITY INCREASING.

Figuring One Way, Democrats Are Drier Than Ever.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Following the prohibition speech of Representative Fort, which was featured in The Times several months ago, The Times editorially pooh-poohed the assertion made by him that news reports in responsible American newspapers were biased in opposition to the present attempt at prohibition of liquor as a beverage.

Realizing that individual instances by no means prove cases, I should like, nevertheless, to bring to your notice a report appearing in a recent Sunday edition of the one of the nations outstanding newspapers. I am particularly interested in this report, because it refers to the recent Democratic Senatorial primary in Ohio, the State in which I reside.

This dispatch is heralded in headline: "Ohio Goes Liberal in Primary Voting; Bulkley Victory Held to Indicate 80 Per Cent Democratic Anti-Dry Sentiment."

The quotation from the dispatch on which the headline is based is: "Bulkley carried half the counties of the State and was either first or second in 80 per cent of the counties. * * * Interpreting the vote as an expression on prohibition, the party is approximately 80 per cent liberal."

The official returns on this five-cornered Senatorial race were:

Robert J. Bulkley...	68,677	68,677
W. W. Durbin.......	35,096
John McSweeney....	30,270
George S. Myers.....	16,760	16,760
Charles V. Truax....	31,506
	182,309	85,437

Majority, 91,155.

The two avowed wet candidates—Myers coming out for modification, but not repeal—totaled a vote which does not equal a majority of the primary vote, although it is perfectly true that Bulkley had an enormous lead over his nearest opponent. Now if one is to take the Senatorial primary as the index of moisture—and the correspondent here overlooked the Gubernatorial race, which had the opposite outcome in this regard—it is apparent that Ohio Democrats have become more dry in the past two years; for in 1928 Graham Hunt had no difficulty in securing a majority in the primary over the dry Democratic incumbent, Cyrus Locher.

It is perfectly possible to get excellent juggling of figures in almost any political race, but my point is that here a wet newspaper has published news from a decidedly wet bias. As you may realize, the publishing newspaper is The New York Times and the correspondent Herbert R. Mengert of Cincinnati.

URGING A NEW WORD.

"Kitsch," It Is Suggested, Could Be Applied to Many Things.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Before the war the art metropolis of Central Europe was indisputably Munich, so much so that no Anglo-Saxon visitor would have considered his European vacation complete without a souvenir of that city. As a result, the art dealers of Munich found themselves overwhelmed by demands for cheap pictures, hundreds of young artists in Schwabing back garrets sharpened their pencils, and mass production began in a class of merchandise which was called "kitsch," this word representing the attempt of the Bavarian tongue to reproduce the minced syllables of an English spinster asking for a sketch. The use of the expression spread, and now in Germany it is applied to all articles turned out to pander to a not very elevated public taste.

The régime of Hollywood has enriched the American language by the word "hokum," but I wish to advance the claims of the German word as having a far wider scope. "Kitsch" almost rivals the polyconsonantal appeal of "bortsch" and, apart from these esthetic claims to consideration, it may usefully be applied to the following, inter alia:

Wedding-cake architecture and the use of rosebud ornamental motifs for skyscrapers.

The spire and cupola of the new Chrysler Building.

The majority of magazine covers.

Guest towels which even guests dare not handle.

Most "realistic" books.

"Period" furniture, with glued-on "carving."

The list might be extended indefinitely, but the above examples will suffice to explain the use of a word which should form a very welcome addition to our critical vocabulary.

The Stars on the Flag.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

By way of comment on the suggestion of Henry Dill Benner in your paper of Aug. 31, that "it would be a fine thing for the flag and for them if the children and the grown-ups of each State knew the position of their star on the flag," let me say that this valuable information is appealingly depicted pictorially in the book, "A Review of Time," a school reader published by D. C. Heath & Co. This illustration gives in each star the name of the State, the date of its admission into the Union and the position numerically speaking. These stars have an identical arrangement with those in the field of our own Old Glory.

May I add that another interesting chapter in this book is entitled "Service—Progress?" And in the contents will be found several interesting stories, with illustrations, from The New York Times.

DROUGHT SPREADS TO NEW SECTIONS

Latest Dry Period Hits Middle West, Making Conditions Worst Since 1901, Hyde Says.

RELIEF WORK CONTINUES

1,500 Carloads of Supplies or Stock Are Moved—Oklahomans to See Hoover.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Despite sporadic rainfall in various parts of the country, the drought is continuing in the worst affected areas and spreading into new ones in the Middle West, which heretofore appeared to have escaped, Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, told newspaper men today.

"Rainfall as a whole for the month has been way below normal," the Secretary said, "and it now is hurting sections of Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and other areas that had not been hurt before."

"It looks as though a new drought may be starting," he added.

The continuance of bad weather has definitely created a condition considerably worse than that recorded for 1901, the record drought year prior to 1930, Secretary Hyde said, basing the statement on a detailed statistical table prepared for him by the Weather Bureau. This table showed that 1930 surpasses 1901 in both area and duration.

Relief Plans Go Forward.

Little public reaction to the condition has been felt, however, Mr. Hyde went on, saying he believed that the portion of the public which has not been directly affected lost interest in conditions as soon as assurances were given out that human food supplies would not be lacking.

Meanwhile, plans for relief work are going forward, although it is coming to be recognized more and more, and openly stated, that no suffering area can expect any form of charitable aid from the government.

This has been reiterated by every government official whose duties are connected with agriculture, it being explained repeatedly that the government's sole prerogative lies in making it easier for farmers to obtain loans.

About 600 counties are listed in the regions which have been hurt badly by the weather, Secretary Hyde said, and the most notable relief measures so far were described as the movement of some 1,500 carloads of supplies or stock, which would benefit drought sufferers, at reduced freight rates.

The Red Cross is ready to extend aid where necessary, it was added, and is considering a few requests which have been received. However, no large number are expected before cold weather sets in, and then it is generally thought that the local organizations will be able to cope with necessary relief demands.

Oklahomans to See Hoover.

A caller at the office of Secretary Hyde today was Governor William J. Holloway of Oklahoma, who was accompanied by a delegation including John S. Puterbaugh of McAlester, Okla., a banker and chairman of the State relief organization.

Following his conference with Secretary Hyde, Governor Holloway told newspaper men that the Southeastern and Southwestern sections of his State, the cotton-growing regions, have been hurt most, adding that relief undoubtedly would be required there this Winter. As for agricultural aid alone, he said that financing for seed grain would also be necessary.

To meet this situation, Oklahoma is going forward with the formation of a relief corporation, designed on the pattern laid down for all States, although none have become active as yet.

The Oklahoma delegation will call on President Hoover tomorrow and also confer with officials of the Red Cross later.

ORDERS BROOKLYN CLEANUP.

Drive Opens Tomorrow With 200 Inspectors in Coney Island.

A drive to wipe out violations of the tenement house law in Brooklyn, supplementary to the intensive campaigns in Manhattan, will be carried out in Brooklyn for ten days, beginning tomorrow, Commissioner William F. Deegan announced yesterday. In order to make the drive thorough the commissioner has ordered fifty men from Manhattan, ten men from the Bronx and ten from Queens to report to Brooklyn for this work. It is expected that about 200 inspectors will be used altogether.

The most intensive part of the Brooklyn campaign will centre around Coney Island, Commissioner Deegan said. Accordingly, he has ordered that the first three days of the drive—tomorrow, Friday and Saturday—be devoted to the Coney Island area. Mr. Deegan declared that he had heard that in some Coney Island tenements there were as many as ten persons in a single room. If such conditions exist, he said, they call for immediate action, and he intends to rectify the condition.

After Coney Island is thoroughly inspected, Mr. Deegan said, his force will go to South Brooklyn, the Navy Yard district, Brownsville, Williamsburg and sections of Greenpoint. The commissioner expressed a doubt that his men would find many stills in Brooklyn, as he said that by far the largest number of complaints of stills had come from Manhattan.

SEE OPEN MARKET IN INDIA.

Germans Believe Boycott of British Goods Makes Time Ripe to Act.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 2 (AP).—Authorities on international trade said today the time is ripe for German manufacturers to seize Indian markets closed to the British as an outcome of Mahatma Gandhi's boycott movement.

Spokesmen said Germany enjoys a unique advantage in the Orient because she has no colonies there and so avoids the racial frictions hampering other nations. Admitting that the Indian boycott for the time being affects German beer as well as British alcoholic beverages, they said numerous trade inquiries furnished ample evidence that India is willing to do business with Germany in lines of merchandise hitherto monopolized by the British.

WARREN M'CLELLAN, EX-WARDEN, IS DEAD

Former Head of Westchester Penitentiary Succumbs in 62d Year.

HAD BEEN ILL FOR A YEAR

Became Interested in Welfare Work as a Young Man—Served in Red Cross During War.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Warren McClellan, former warden of the Westchester County Penitentiary, died early this morning at the White Plains Hospital, where he had been a patient for the past two weeks, suffering from an acute kidney affection. Mr. McClellan was in his sixty-second year. He had been in ill health since his resignation from the wardenship of the penitentiary last year.

Mr. McClellan was born in Cambridge, N. Y., Jan. 5, 1869. He became interested in welfare work among wayward boys when he was a young man and served on the staff of the House of Refuge in New York City, as well as with other institutions there. He came to the Westchester County Penitentiary in 1917, served in the Red Cross stationed at Governors Island during the war, and returned to the penitentiary as warden in 1919.

Mr. McClellan is survived by his widow, Anna; one brother, Dr. Howard McClellan of Greenwich, N. Y., three daughters: Mrs. Stanley Henshaw of Cincinnati, Mrs. Lida Barnett of Bedford, Mass.; Mrs. Julia Barrows of Boston, and one son, Reed of Medford, Mass. He was a Mason, a member of the White Plains Lions Club and of the National Prison Congress.

H. SCHNITZEL, GOLD MINER.

Authority on Metallurgical Research Dies in Baltimore.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 2.—Henry Schnitzel of Lead, S. D., one of the prominent gold miners of the Northwest, died today at the Brady Institute, Johns Hopkins Hospital, which he entered a month ago.

Born in Germersheim, Bavaria, in 1860, Mr. Schnitzel came to this country twenty years later. He went into the Black Hills country in 1886 and since then had been active in mining affairs.

During his career Mr. Schnitzel gave much attention to the solution of difficult metallurgical problems in connection with the recovery of gold from unoxidized blue siliceous ores of the northern hills of South Dakota and was largely instrumental in bringing about the investigation made of these ores about three years ago at the State School of Mines under the supervision of the United States Bureau of Mines.

C. S. HILL, LAWYER, DEAD.

Boston Man Was Noted for His Psychical Research Work.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 2.—Charles Stanton Hill, a national figure several years ago in connection with the Keeley Motor litigation in Philadelphia, known in various parts of the world for his connection with psychical research and a trial lawyer, died at his home here today of pneumonia.

He had much to do with the controversy regarding the famous spirit medium Margery during the investigation by The Scientific American of her ability to receive and deliver messages from the spirit world. He also was a trustee of the American Society for Psychical Research.

Mr. Hill was a grandson of the noted Methodist divine, Thomas Greenhalge of Clitheroe, England. Mr. Hill, the son of Charles W. Hill of Auburn, Me., was graduated from the Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., in 1892, and studied law at Harvard.

JUDGE JOHN J. SULLIVAN.

Funeral of Prominent Cleveland (Ohio) Jurist Largely Attended.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 2.—Many lawyers, city and county officials and friends from all walks of life gathered today to pay final tribute to Appellate Judge John J. Sullivan, who died suddenly last Saturday.

The Rev. Sheridan B. Salmon, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who was Judge Sullivan's pastor when the latter lived in Warren, was in charge of the funeral. He and Paul Howland, an attorney, spoke briefly.

The Cuyahoga County Bar Association, through its president, Harry F. Payer, adopted resolutions today eulogizing Judge Sullivan's service in the courts of the county.

The funeral cortège was escorted by two mounted policemen and seven motorcycle patrolmen. Interment was in Lake View Cemetery.

MRS. J. C. BEACH, NOVELIST.

Dies at West Newton, Mass., in Her Sixty-second Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 2.—Josephine C. (Alligood) Beach, novelist and short story writer, is dead at her home here in her sixty-second year. Mrs. Beach had lived in Boston for thirty-five years. Among her books were "Disciple of Plato," "The World and the Devil" and "The Flesh Is Weak." In recent years she had devoted herself to short stories. She wrote under the name of Alligood Beach.

STEEL MERGER DATA ASSAILED BY EXPERT

"Mathematical Absurdity" Is Laid to Auditors for Foes of Youngstown-Bethlehem Union.

$17,000,000 CUT ATTACKED

Accountant, Witness in Ohio Suit, Calls Methods of Estimating Depreciation Unfair.

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 2 (AP).—George O. May, senior partner of Price, Waterhouse & Co., today testified that Ernst & Ernst, auditors for the group opposing the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel merger had failed to make proper adjustments in re-writing Bethlehem's income account and had committed a "mathematical absurdity" in treating new Bethlehem financing in 1929.

Testifying as a defense witness in the suit brought by the Cyrus S Eaton interests to enjoin the merger, Mr. May disparaged the calculations by which Ernst & Ernst reduced the 1929 Bethlehem earnings by approximately $17,000,000.

He said that the Ernst & Ernst system of placing both companies on a 4 per cent depreciation rate, without making what he termed necessary adjustments in Bethlehem's depreciation and maintenance accounts, as compared with Youngstown, was an improper and unfair procedure.

He testified that at the time Price, Waterhouse & Co. made an audit for executives of the two companies early this year he recommended an exchange of one and one-fifth shares of Bethlehem for one of Sheet and Tube.

Mr. May said he still believes this was fair, on the basis of the figures, although negotiations raised the exchange to one and one-third shares of Bethlehem. The anti-merger group, using Ernst & Ernst figures, contended Sheet and Tube stockholders were entitled to one and four-fifths shares of Bethlehem, or about 600,000 shares more than were allowed them.

Mr. May's description of what he called the Ernst & Ernst "mathematical absurdity" was portrayed in a hypothetical accounting of Bethlehem stock values before and after the steel corporation issued 600,000 new shares, bringing its total common stock to 3,200,000 shares.

The audit of his firm, he said, made no attempt to estimate new stock earnings, as was done by Ernst & Ernst, but took that out of the picture entirely.

DAVIS URGES JURISTS TO AID WORLD PEACE

Acclaims International Law's Advancement in Welcome to Foreign Lawyers.

WARNS OF SLOW PROGRESS

Scores "Statesmen" Who Ask for Codification Before Providing Tribunals.

SIMON PLEADS FOR PEACE

Sir John Urges Lawyers to Pledge Themselves to Amity if War Clouds Arose.

Welcoming 200 foreign jurists to the opening of the convention of the International Law Association at the Bar Association Building yesterday, John W. Davis, former Ambassador to England and Democratic candidate for President, declared that more minds were concentrated now on formulating the rules of world conduct than at any other single period in the world's history.

Admitting, however, that the task of forming international law was a slow one, Mr. Davis hit at those "statesmen," interpreted as including United States Senator William E. Borah, who insist on a complete codification of world law before setting up international machinery to settle disputes.

The opening day of the convention was marked not only by Mr. Davis's welcome and responses from the delegates, but by two other formal functions and one business session. At an afternoon reception, Charles C. Burlingham, president of the New York City Bar Association, introduced local judicial troubles to the convention by referring to the magistrate scandals, while Attorney General Hamilton Ward and Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan listened in silence.

"We expect to clear up the situation in short time," Mr. Burlingham declared.

At a dinner later in the Hotel Plaza, given by the six bar associations of the city, Sir John A. Simon of England, chairman of the Indian Commission, made his first speech here on the importance of lawyers in cementing international bonds. Henri Decugis, French advocate; Lord Macmillan of England, Lord of Appeal in Ordinary; Joseph P. Cotton, American Under-Secretary of State, Mr. Justice Hanna of the Irish Free State High Court, and Mr. Davis were other speakers.

Simon Pleads for Peace.

At the dinner at the Plaza last night Sir John Simon recalled that the New York City Bar Association was founded to expose a scandal, adding:

"It is one of the bonds which unite honorable men in all countries who practice the profession of the law that they have to stand in the face of temptation and sometimes of obloquy for the purpose of proclaiming and enforcing the truth that no community is safe where the meanest of citizens is exposed to the danger of a dishonest advocate or a venal judge."

He also appealed to the 700 lawyers at the dinner to pledge themselves to the cause of peace and understanding when international storm clouds arise, which brought unanimous support. When he closed his speech the entire audience rose, and Mr. Davis, acting as toastmaster, said: "You may take that not only as applause but as the pledge for which you asked."

Under Secretary of State Cotton spoke of the numerical supremacy of the United States in lawyers, saying there were thousands here for tens and hundreds in other countries. One reason for this, he said, was that the law in this country embraced many activities not included elsewhere.

"The law here is a door to many avenues," he said. "It is a way to public service. It is a training ground, too, for business men. There are so many who have left our ranks for business."

Law schools here also differed in the scope of their activities, now even undertaking studies looking to revision of whole law systems in line with social needs, he said.

At the business session the convention immediately went to work by moving to speed the wheels of justice in legal matters involving two or more countries. It voted a radical simplification in the legalization of documents to aid the use of papers originating in one country but wanted for court or administrative action in another.

Mr. Davis made his opening address to the convention after he had been elected unanimously as president of the conference and Lord Tomlin of England, Lord of Appeal in Ordinary, had been named vice president. Lord Tomlin is one of the group of British and French members of the bar who have been touring the country under the auspices of the American Bar Association and have been invited to join in some of the sessions of the International Law Association.

Mr. Davis's speech, ending with an optimistic prediction of the rise of the "majestic" structure of international law, was largely a warning of the slow progress to be expected. He cited the delays attending uniform legislation in the United States as an example of the sterner difficulties facing efforts to codify international laws.

With a reference to an original member of the association, who in its early days had hoped for a complete code of laws in a short time, Mr. Davis made his attack on "some present-day statesmen who have expended far less personal labor on the subject but express hopes equally high."

"Some of these," he said, "insist that all effort to set up international machinery for the settlement of disputes or the preservation of peace must be preceded by the codification of international law, and that nothing else can or should be done until that simple task is finished. But fifty-seven years of effort on the part of many other laborers in the same vineyard have shown that the thing is by no means so simple as it might appear."

Mr. Davis did not comment on the construction placed on his remarks by some of the American delegates, who believed he was referring to Senator Borah.

"I voice the common wish," said Mr. Davis in his address, "that wisdom and harmony may attend our deliberations and that this conference may advance the cause we seek to serve—the great cause of law and order among the nations; of a law rooted in justice and of an order bearing the fruitage of peace. Ours the task to plant and to water, trusting the future to give its increase.

Cites State Difficulties Here.

"However much popular assemblies have contributed to the advancement of human liberty, and however much the growth of democratic institutions has tended to the preservation of world peace—and I profoundly believe that they have done both—it may be questioned whether they have made easier the conclusion of international compacts, whether special or general.

"No matter how soundly constructed or wisely conceived an all-embracing code of international law might be, only the sublimest confidence could expect it to emerge without amendment—or, at the least, interpretative reservations—from the various parliamentary bodies whose approval it must seek."

Mr. Davis, "by way of comfort as well as warning," spoke of the slow progress in obtaining uniform State laws in this country. Out of forty-four proposals of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, only two had met with universal adoption and two others had been accepted by slightly more than one-half the States, he pointed out.

"To suggest, however, that the task of establishing rules of international conduct is arduous is not to confess that it is impossible," he said.

"Can it be doubted that more minds are engaged in the effort to formulate the rules of international conduct today than at any single period in the world's history; that more labor is being expended as well as more agencies provided for its expression than has heretofore been known? The Conference on Codification at The Hague, under the auspices of the League of Nations, the American Institute of International Law, working by direction of the governing board of the Pan American Union, the Institute of International Law, your own society—these and many others are bending their energies to the undertaking."

Mr. Davis pointed to the World Court as the potential source of a growth of legal precedents and urged patience in the work of codification. "An agreement," he concluded, "upon any single subect will make easier the approach to the next, and little by little the structure of the law will rise, majestic and serene, a monument to those who have labored upon it, a beacon and a landmark to those who shall follow."

Making the first response for the delegates from abroad, Lord Tomlin spoke of the importance of the legal profession in international concord because "it stands for certain principles calling for the settlement of every question on lines of justice."

Dr. Walter Simons of Germany, former Minister of Foreign Affairs, expressed regret at the loss to the World Court of Charles E. Hughes, who resigned to become Chief Justice of the United States, but hailed the possible advent of Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, who is up for election to the World Court bench.

"We hope that it will not be long before America not only sends its lawyers to the World Court but will participate in it," he said, adding that he thought it wiser to have one world court than "a separate stream of international law" of Pan-American scope embracing the Western Hemisphere.

Visitors Laud American Spirit.

Commendatore Giuseppe M. Pallicia, special attaché of the Royal Italian Embassy, speaking of international accord, observed that "more than a change of machinery, we need a change in men." Pierre Arminjon of France, former judge of the Mixed Court of Cairo, in the final response paid a tribute to the success of the American political system.

"If the civilized world is to become really pacific, animated by common spirit," he said, "it must be more and more after the fashion of the United States. You have all climates; you have States which represent many different social systems and juridical systems characterized by a special legislation quite distinct, and yet all that works with admirable harmony greater than that of many centralized countries. May the civilized world, as soon as possible, with the aid and under the rule of international law, model itself after the United States."

At a meeting of the council of the association before the formal opening of the convention, elections of officers, including Chief Justice Hughes as honorary vice president, were reported and accepted. Additional elections were those of Arthur K. Kuhn of New York as vice president, and Hollis R. Bailey of Boston and Oscar R. Houston of New York as additional members of the executive council.

At the afternoon business session the convention adopted with minor changes a recommendation of a committee on the legalization of documents headed by Commendatore Palliccia looking to the severance of red tape on the international use of papers, such as judgments and registration of wills and real estate.

The discussion of social insurance was postponed until tomorrow.

In his reference to the magistrates at a late afternoon reception at the Bar Association Building, Mr. Burlingham said: "This association was organized in 1869 when that great American product, William M. Tweed, flourished. You may imagine from our newspapers that New York is reverting. No; it is true we are having a little trouble with our magistrates, but we shall clear that up before long."

Besides Attorney General Ward and Chief Magistrate Corrigan, George Z. Medalie, John Kirkland Clark, Court of Appeals Judge Frederick E. Crane, Appellate Division Justice Edward R. Finch and several Supreme Court justices were on hand to greet the foreign visitors.

Celebrates 101st Birthday, No Formula for Long Life

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Sept. 2.—Thomas J. Earley, a bachelor who will be 101 years old tomorrow, revealed himself today as one of the few centenarians with no formula for longevity. For himself, he said today, he believes only in the "eternal necessities, alcohol in moderate quantities, wholesome food, gentle exercise, fresh air and sleep."

While he supposes that these may be recommended fitly to any one, he said today that they were "hardly a secret to surprise the world."

His main interest seems to be in the local volunteer firemen, with whom he marches in all their parades. The veteran vamp is fond of recalling the days when he himself was active at fires and tells often of the spectacular fire that destroyed the Crystal Palace, on the site of the present Bryant Park, Manhattan, in 1852.

He will celebrate his birthday by a walk about town.

HOTTEST DAY HERE SINCE EARLY AUGUST

Vivid Thunderstorm Fails to Bring Relief as Mercury Climbs to 86.

12 OVERCOME AT TRENTON

Prostrations Reported at Interstate Fair—Cooler Weather Predicted for Today After Rain.

The highest temperature recorded at the local Weather Bureau since early in August and oppressively high humidity combined yesterday to make residents of New York and its surrounding territory thoroughly uncomfortable. Twelve heat prostrations were reported in Trenton, N. J.

A sharp thunderstorm which swept over the city in mid-afternoon failed to clear the air noticeably, but furnished the city with a vivid display of lightning. The Weather Bureau predicted last night that similar storms may be expected this morning, followed by cooler weather later in the day.

During the storm yesterday afternoon a lightning bolt struck the 150-foot steeple of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the Saviour, at Lexington Avenue and 111th Street, and knocked loose about 100 pieces of slate which showered down into Lexington Avenue. Because of the downpour of rain the thoroughfare was almost deserted and no one was injured.

The police of the East 104th Street station roped off the sidewalks below the steeple last night, and an examination will be made today to see if it has been weakened. John Hall, sexton of the church, said that he believed that deflection of most of the bolt by a lightning rod on the steeple was all that had saved it from destruction.

The highest point reached on the official thermometer yesterday was 86 degrees, at 1:45 P. M., and the average for the day was 78, eight degrees above normal. The low mark for the day was 70, at 3 A. M. Although the rain fell fiercely for several minutes in many parts of the city, the Weather Bureau recorded the precipitation as only .01 of an inch.

Those overcome at Trenton were part of a large crowd which attended Children's Day at the annual Trenton Interstate Fair. They were revived at a hospital tent on the fair grounds and all were able to go home after treatment. To add to the excitement there, a steer broke loose during a rodeo performance, but it was captured before any one was injured.

Freak Storm in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2 (AP).—A freakish rainstorm, accompanied by high winds, hail and severe lightning, swept over the Philadelphia area tonight, leaving a wide trail of damage. Trees were uprooted, wires torn down and windows blown in, and in several instances small buildings were blown from their foundations. Hail fell for ten minutes in some sections of the city.

SITUATION IN BRAZIL REVIEWED BY BANKERS

Foreign Credits or New Capital Needed to Protect Currency, Iselin & Co. Conclude.

Brazil is one of the difficult problems facing the American investor today, according to the current Latin-American bulletin of A. Iselin & Co. Most Brazilian securities are selling much below prices prevailing a year ago, and more than $300,000,000 of these securities are held in this country.

According to the bankers, Brazilian bonds have not shared appreciably in the moderate improvement that has occurred in the standing of some other Latin-American issues, although they are generally above the levels to which they were carried by the panic of 1929.

"The reasons for the market depression are plain enough," the bulletin says. "The coffee crisis, of which Brazil is the focus, has attracted much attention, and the weakening of the milreis, Brazil's unit of currency, has received consequent publicity. Aside from published news of business difficulties and financial stringency, pessimistic reports have been in circulation regarding the ability of the country to get through the current economic depression without damage to its credit. In addition, there have been reports of sporadic civil disorder or acts of violence originating in bitter political feeling."

The fall in the value of the milreis is by no means unwelcome to the producers of coffee and other exportable products, and will stimulate exports temporarily, according to the bankers, and at the same time imports will be kept at a minimum. While the finances of the Federal Government and the States and cities probably face a period of considerable difficulty, they conclude that foreign credits or an inflow of new capital are essential if payments are to be made on the foreign debts without unsettling the currency and banking systems.

URGES DRIVE ON SLAVERY.

Lady Simon Here Tells Women 6,000,000 Are Still in Bondage.

Lady Simon of London, wife of Sir John Simon, the British statesman, was the principal speaker at the meeting yesterday afternoon of the English-Speaking Union, held at its national headquarters at 19 West Forty-fourth Street. Addressing about 100 members and guests of the union, she pointed out that despite the popular belief that slavery had been abolished over seventy years ago, it still existed in nineteen areas and that the number of slaves throughout the world has been conservatively estimated at 6,000,000, and urged that the women of this country form an organization to combat slavery, or that they join the London organization. The majority of slaves, she said, are in Arabia, China and Abyssinia, and the last named being the only Christian country that allows human beings to be sold as property.

She expressed the hope that slavery would soon be non-existent through the activity of the League of Nations.

The speaker stressed the part the Anti-Slavery Society has played in slavery's abolition and pointed to the freeing of 200,000 of these people in the British Protectorate of Sierra Leone through the society's effort in arousing the Colonial Secretary of England to order anti-slavery legislation in that part of the British domain. In the past ten years the society has assisted in freeing almost 500,000 slaves, she asserted.

Schroeder to Direct Gas War on Rats Swimming From Riker's Island to Roslyn

Because many of the large rats that for years have been infesting the city garbage dumps at Riker's Island have become adventurous, swimming Long Island Sound to the exclusive colony at Roslyn, L. I., Dr. William Schroeder Jr., chairman of the Sanitary Commission, has decided that there is not room enough on Riker's Island for both representatives of his department and the rats. So he has decided that the rats must go.

A regular war, with liquid poison gas the ammunition of the invaders, will be opened against the rats next Wednesday, with the entire Sanitary Commission, Dr. Schroeder, Leonard C. L. Smith and Charles S. Hand, commanding the attack. Employes have been ordered to wear gas masks.

The Riker's Island rats have on several occasions successfully defied attempts to exterminate them. Early last month officials of the Department of Correction complained to Dr. Schroeder that some of the dogs kept on the island to protect workers of the Department of Street Cleaning from rats were killing pigs belonging to the Department of Correction.

After investigation by the Department of Sanitation three of the dogs were killed, but Patrick Hinds, supervisor of the city dump at Riker's Island, blamed the rats. Dr. Schroeder also has recently come to the conclusion that the rats were probably to blame for killing the pigs. He has also been disturbed by reports that the rodents were swimming the Sound to Roslyn.

Commissioner Hand expressed the opinion yesterday that his department should spare no efforts to get rid of the rats, which he feared would in the future be a nuisance not only to Riker's Island but also to Long Island, and possibly later to other parts of the city. He said he believed that the poison gas would get rid of the rats if anything could.

BIG STORES TO HIRE IDLE AT CITY BUREAU

Six Here and One Chicago House Pledge Cooperation in Placing Applicants.

MACY'S TO RECRUIT 1,000

6,000 Job-Hunters Swamp Office After Holiday—234 Get Jobs at Unskilled Work.

Six of New York's largest department stores and the local branch of a Chicago house yesterday promised to cooperate to the fullest extent with the City Free Employment Agency, 54 Lafayette Street, in engaging help through the municipal bureau.

Employment managers of R. H. Macy & Co., Gimbel Brothers, Hearn & Co., Best & Co., James McCreery & Co., B. Altman & Co. and Marshall Field & Co. declared they would contribute toward alleviating New York's unemployment situation by giving every consideration to job-seeking applicants registered at the city agency.

Macy officials informed canvassers for the agency that they expected to add 1,000 men and women to their staff this month, it was declared at the bureau, and that they would be recruited mainly from the agency's applicants who were suited to the jobs.

Edward C. Rybicki, director of the bureau, said Macy's promise and pledges from the other stores were the first definite response received to requests sent out last week to all large concerns in the city. Hotels and office buildings also have expressed intentions to recruit any additional help required through the city bureau.

Six thousand jobless again swamped the offices of the employment bureau yesterday after the Labor Day week-end. Of these, 1,000 were new registrants, the others having returned again and again to seek work. Two hundred and thirty-four persons were rewarded with work, 176 being men, 58 women. Unskilled labor was mainly in demand among the men, only thirty-seven skilled workers obtaining employment.

Women who obtained jobs included thirty-four office workers, eighteen domestics, several factory workers and saleswomen and a model at $40 a week.

While the bureau was attempting to give jobs to the jobless, members of the Communist Trade Unity League again harangued crowds in Leonard Street near the agency in an effort to convince them of the futility of seeking aid through the bureau. The speakers denounced the agency as "a fake."

It was said at the city bureau that a formal reply to charges by Heywood Broun, Socialist Congressional candidate, declaring that Tammany domination, favoritism and inefficiency governed the bureau, would be held in abeyance, Department of Public Welfare officials being satisfied, for the present, with the reply made Saturday by Mrs. Florence Grant, assistant director of the bureau.

Among the men placed yesterday were iron workers, pattern makers, building trades workers, mattress stuffers, radio salesmen, floor polishers, hat makers and common laborers.

Mrs. Grant said that several requests had come in to the agency from individuals seeking missing persons. One communication enclosed a photograph reproduced in a newspaper, showing a crowd of men in line awaiting entrance to the bureau. The writer, Mrs. Josephine Eberle of Jamaica, Queens, said she believed a man in the line was her brother, William Kraemer, 49, who had been missing for two years.

Mrs. Grant said it was virtually impossible to identify missing persons from the agency's records because they were filed according to occupation, instead of by name or alias.

Advertising Agencies to Merge.

The H. K. McCann Company and the Erickson Company, advertising agencies, will be merged on Oct. 1, according to an announcement yesterday by executives of both companies. Organization plans have not been completed, the announcement having been made, it was said, to confirm rumors of the merger.

SCHOOLS HERE BEGIN ENROLMENT TODAY

More Than 60,000 New Pupils Are Expected to Register in First Grade This Week.

2,300 OFFICIALS ON DUTY

Teachers Will Report Tomorrow for Final Orders Before Fall Term Opens Monday.

Registration of new entrants for the Fall academic semester will begin this morning at 9 o'clock in more than 1,000 public schools throughout the city and will continue through tomorrow.

Only kindergarten, first-grade elementary school pupils and children newly arrived in the city will be enrolled during this week, as the bulk of the enrolment, consisting of pupils promoted last June, are automatically registered in the next grade.

About 2,300 principals, assistants to principals and teacher clerks will be on hand today to register the newcomers. The rest of the staff—more than 33,000 teachers—will report to the schools tomorrow morning and receive supplies and final instructions on the organization of classes.

Nearly 60,000 new pupils are expected to be enrolled for grade 1A. In addition there will be thousands of pupils transferred from school to school. The term will start formally with the opening of sessions on Monday.

The addition of nineteen new schools to the plant of the system on Monday and the opening of five additional buildings at the beginning of next month is expected to effect a considerable reduction of short-time schedules.

Last June there were 62,123 pupils still on short-time lists. Brooklyn, which has the heaviest short-time schedule of more than 19,000 pupils, will get the greatest relief, as the new buildings will add more than 17,000 new sittings to the borough's accommodations. As the location as well as the size of the schools is an important factor in reducing part time, there can be no certainty as yet as to the effect the new sittings will have.

More than 15,000 pupils are on short-time schedules in the Bronx, nearly 18,000 in Queens and more than 8,400 in Manhattan. In the latter borough, only high school pupils are on brief schedules.

Throughout the city, 31,126 elementary school children are on part time. Special schedules, which are of the regular length but begin before 8:30 A. M. or extend after 3:30 P. M., care for more than 53,000 pupils, of whom more than 33,000 are in the high schools. Part-time work is considered the more critical problem and will be attacked before the special schedules are done away with.

DEATH OF 3 ACCIDENTAL.

No Inquest to Be Held in New Jersey Auto-Train Crash.

WINSLOW, N. J., Sept. 2.—There will be no inquest into the deaths of Jack Archer, 24 years old; his wife, Ruth, 19, and their 1-year-old daughter, Lorraine, who were killed here yesterday when their automobile was struck by a Reading Railroad express at the Fleming crossing, Coroner Frank Foster announced tonight.

The Coroner has classed the deaths as accidental.

Funeral services for the three will be held on Friday at the home of Archer's parents here.

Identified as Knifer in Prison Riot.

Confronting a line-up of eight men yesterday in the penitentiary on Welfare Island, Frank Young, alias Fred Thomas, 24 years old, a Negro, picked from among them Dominick Massaro, 20 years old, of Mariners Harbor, S. I., as the man who stabbed and fatally wounded John Henry, 26 years old, a Negro, during a race riot in the penitentiary yard on Aug. 5. Warden McCann ordered Massaro transferred to the west side prison. It was announced that the grand jury would be asked to indict him for homicide.

WIDE SURVEY TO AID JOBLESS TEACHERS

Prominent Educators to Meet in Washington Next Week to Decide on 3-Year Program.

HOPE TO END OVERSUPPLY

Committee to Cooperate With Federal Department in Work Authorized by Congress.

A three-year program of study to cover the whole field of teaching in the United States, with the ultimate aim of working out ways to reduce the large over-supply of trained school teachers in this and other large cities, will probably be adopted in Washington next week when a group of prominent educators from all parts of the country meets for the first time to launch the Teacher Training Survey authorized by the recent Congress, it was learned yesterday.

The conference at the Capital is to be held on Sept. 12 and 13, at the Office of Education of the Department of the Interior, according to Professor William C. Bagley, in charge of the Division of Teacher Preparation at Columbia University, one of ten specialists in education appointed in July by Secretary Wilbur as a board of consultants to act as advisors in the survey.

Dr. Cooper in Charge of Work.

Dr. Edward S. Evenden, a colleague of Professor Bagley at Teachers College, was named associate director of the survey, working under Dr. William John Cooper, Commissioner of Education, who will act as director. Dr. Ben Frasier of the Office of Education will be administrative assistant in the study.

The undertaking, it was announced, will include a study of "the qualifications of teachers in the public schools, the supply of available teachers, the facilities available and needed for teacher training, including courses of study and methods of teaching."

Realizing the seriousness of the overcrowding in the teaching field and its relation to general conditions of unemployment, the last Congress provided $200,000 to be used in the study of teacher training. Of this, $50,000 was said to be available for this year.

In attempting to solve the problem of teacher preparation, particularly in New York and other industrialized States, Professor Bagley said yesterday, the educators will make a comprehensive study of the supply and demand in the teaching field to determine methods for regulating the output of teacher training and normal schools and eventually to end the excess of licensed teachers over the positions available.

"The time is now ripe for raising the standards of teacher training," asserted Professor Bagley. "This city is certainly justified in raising the requirements for admission to the training schools and otherwise regulating their output. Definite steps should be taken to fix some better basis on which the entrants to these schools may be selected."

4,000 Reported Jobless Here.

He referred to the more rigorous selective process adopted here three years ago for the city's training schools by the Board of Education. According to a recent report, more than 4,000 men and women eligible for teaching positions in the city's elementary schools are still unappointed, with the number unplaced mounting steadily.

Professor Bagley explained that the program for the survey likely to be approved next week would aim to adjust the problem of teacher preparation in the country's urban areas in relation to the teaching situation in the rural districts.

Those on the board of consultants for the survey, besides Professor Bagley, are:

JOHN A. H. KEITH, Superintendent of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania and member of the National Council of State Superintendents and Commissioners of Education.
W. P. MORGAN, president, State Teachers College, Macomb, Ill.; past president, North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and of the American Association of Teachers Colleges.
D. B. WALDO, president, Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo, Mich.

REFORM GROUP QUITS AT ATLANTIC CITY

Committee of 100 Announces It Has 'Practically Retired' on the Strength of Mayor's Promise.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 2.—The Committee of One Hundred, which for two years has been the most persistent reform group in the fight against alleged corruption and vice in Atlantic City, has "practically retired from business" since Mayor Harry Bacharach has promised to clean up the resort. This was announced tonight by Samuel Comley, treasurer of the organization, which at one time employed private operatives to get evidence for the grand jury, and always took the stand that it was inspired by a moral purpose.

"Call us anything you like, unpatriotic, useless or ballyhoo reformers, we hold no malice. We only endeavored to perform the task placed upon us by that element who believe that righteousness exalteth a nation and the end justifies the protest," Mr. Comley declared in ending the statement announcing the organization's retirement from active reform agitation.

Chief Doran Going on Vacation.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 2.—Chief of Police Patrick J. Doran, who will leave tomorrow for a vacation of several weeks, asserted tonight that he expected the concerted drive against law violators to be continued during his absence. Inspector S. M. Lippman will be acting chief during Mr. Doran's absence, it was announced.

Will Rogers Gives a Cheer For Coste and One for Andree

To the Editor of the New York Times:

TAHOE TAVERN, Cal., Sept. 2.—Hurrah for the Frenchmen, they sure deserved it and the nation did, for they had made so many sacrifices, and during their well-deserved plaudits, it seems rather a coincidence that they are bringing back to civilization Andrée's body. When you write your list of air heroes, put that fellow at the top, not because his name begins with an A., but when he shoved off in that thing thirty-three years ago, he knew that even if he got where he was going there was not going to be any cheering crowds, or reporters, or Grover Whalens. He was the original chance taker in the air, and no man will ever take as big a one.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

DEMANDS INQUIRY BY WARD IN QUEENS

H. J. O'Brien, Insurgent in Race for Surrogate, Charges Wide Sale of Public Offices.

GAMING PROTECTION SEEN

A. C. Surpless Asks Brower Why He Does Not Investigate Conditions in Coney Island.

Attorney General Hamilton Ward was asked yesterday to extend to Queens his investigation of the alleged purchase and sale of nominations for and appointments to public office. The request was made by Herbert J. O'Brien, insurgent candidate for the Democratic nomination for Surrogate, in a letter to the Attorney General.

"The source of all corruption that fouls and corrodes our public officials is the enormous sum exacted by politicians from candidates and office holders by means of which nominations and appointments to public office are bought and sold," Mr. O'Brien wrote.

Against Closed Inquiry.

"The sale of nominations for judicial and other offices and the corrupt practices which degrade the public service and destroy our institutions lie bound up in these secret records of collections and contributions. As Attorney General, the proper representative of the State of New York having supervision over the political bodies created by the State, of which the Democratic County Committee of Queens is one, you have the power and right to examine these records. For some unexplained reason it is reported Queens County is not to be investigated, but that any inquiry into the sale of nominations is to be confined to Manhattan.

"Public sentiment in Queens will not tolerate this exemption. Queens County has been exploited by politicians for years, and still is for that matter. There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that nominations are bought and sold in Queens County.

"Unless the investigation includes Queens County the public will conclude that sinister political influences of great power and wide connections have been able to avert the disclosures which it is the duty of the authorities to reveal.

"Nor should this investigation be conducted either by any Appellate Division justice or by the bar association. It should be conducted by some special body whose proceedings shall be open to the public so that the whole rotten system of boss-controlled appointments will be revealed without fear or favor."

Gambling Protected, He Says.

The charge that Democrats of influence were protecting gambling at Coney Island was made by Abner C. Surpless, Republican candidate for District Attorney of Kings County, in a letter to District Attorney George E. Brower, Democrat, in which Mr. Surpless asked why Mr. Brower had not started his movement to rid Brooklyn of gangsters long ago.

"Are you ready to proceed with all the powers of your office against the gamblers of Coney Island, even though it may lead you into direct conflict with some of your own party leaders?" Mr. Surpless asked.

ELECTRIC LINE OPENS TO MONTCLAIR TODAY

First Train on D. L. & W. Branch to Leave Hoboken at 11 A. M. With Many Officials.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Sept. 2.—Engineers of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad on its Montclair branch are ready for the change from steam to electricity tomorrow, when the first electric passenger train leaves Hoboken for Montclair at 11 A. M.

The regular and special engineers of the branch have been drilled in the operation of electric locomotives during the past month, making short trips on the lower line. Among them is Theodore Smith of Newark, who for seventeen years has driven a steam locomotive on the line.

Beginning tomorrow one or two new electric trains will be added until the steam service is entirely replaced.

Officials of towns along the line will ride the first electric train with officials of the road.

He was taken to the Hospital for the Ruptured and Crippled. Frank was operating the elevator. As the car passed the third floor he slipped through the safety door.

WARD DROPS FIGHT FOR A WIDE INQUIRY

Decides He Must Limit Himself to Ewald Case After Meeting Bar Leaders Here.

CONFER ON PANKEN CHARGE

Socialist Leaders Send Letter to Governor—Walker Scoffs at "Impeachment" Plan.

TOMMANEY QUITS ON LOAN

Farley Aide Bitter Over Enforced Resignation—Crain Moves to Prosecute Cash.

Attorney General Hamilton Ward, after a conference with leaders of the local bar associations, announced yesterday that he had no choice but to confine his investigation of graft charges to those centring about former Magistrate George F. Ewald's appointment in 1927.

Under "the present terms" of Governor Roosevelt's appointment of him to supersede District Attorney Crain in the Ewald case, Mr. Ward said, lack of funds would prevent his delving into the charges that have been made against other magistrates, judges and justices.

While Mr. Ward said he would be unable to devote all his time to the investigation of charges that Ewald was appointed by Mayor Walker after the former magistrate's wife, Mrs. Bertha Ewald, gave Martin J. Healy, a Tammany leader, $10,000 on a non-interest-bearing, unsecured note, which she cannot produce, he added that he intended to "supervise" the inquiry. He intimated strongly that he would call upon some prominent local attorney to assist him.

What is to become of the investigations already begun by the Attorney General's office into the charges that have been made against more than a dozen members of the bench was not made clear in Mr. Ward's formal statement, which he declined to amplify. Most of the charges are against members of the bench of the higher courts and are beyond the scope of the inquiry into magistrates and magistrates' courts which the Appellate Division has empowered Samuel Seabury to conduct as referee.

Hope for Wide Inquiry Dim.

Lawyers pointed to the phrase, "present terms of the Governor's designation," as an indication that Mr. Ward is hoping that by delving carefully into the facts connected with the Ewald case, evidence will be unearthed to cause Governor Roosevelt to order an investigation along broader lines at some subsequent date. It was said positively on his behalf, however, that he would make no such request.

Some such demand or request, it was believed, might be contained in a letter drafted yesterday at a conference of Socialist leaders late in the afternoon in the office of Jacob Panken, former justice of the Municipal Court. The meeting was attended by Norman Thomas, Louis Waldman, co-chairman of the party's committee on public affairs, and by McAllister Coleman, representing Heywood Broun, Socialist candidate for Congress from the Seventeenth District.

"I was never so outraged in my life," Mr. Panken said, "as when the Mayor called in the heads of 100 civic organizations and said 'please help me eliminate petty graft. I know there is petty graft.'

"Why does he stop at petty graft?"

When Mr. Walker was informed that charges against him might be forwarded to the Governor and asked for comment he shrugged his shoulders and said:

"I'm not very anxious even to find out what the charges might be. So long as they get to the Governor it's all right with me.

"Let's see—what month is this—September? Well, that's usually the month for charges."

Tommaney Quits Under Fire.

Meanwhile, Thomas T. Tommaney, his lips still sealed on the part he played in negotiating the loan from Mrs. Ewald, resigned as Sheriff Farley's chief clerk to relieve the Sheriff "of further embarrassment," as he phrased it. Tommaney has been busy during the past month while he was on vacation refusing the questions of United States Attorney Tuttle and the Federal grand jury on the ground that to do so might incriminate and degrade him.

All the principals in the case now have relinquished the positions they held in the city government when Mr. Tuttle first began delving into the affairs of the Cotter Butte Mines, Inc., in an investigation which has resulted in Ewald's indictment for mail fraud and in an indictment against Healy for failing to report his income for 1927. Healy, who resigned ten days ago as Deputy Commissioner of the Department of Plant and Structures, still remains Tammany leader of the Nineteenth Assembly District.

Crain Moves to Prosecute Cash.

District Attorney Crain re-entered the case yesterday, although not exactly in the manner that had been expected. He issued a statement saying that he was studying the record of Jacob Cash, a former city marshal, to determine whether in making an overcharge of $1.56 in connection with one of his commissions he had committed a felony or a misdemeanor. Cash, in a controversy with Mayor Walker, charged that grafting was done at City Hall under the nose of Mayor Walker, and declared that he had given Healy $2,000 in cash the day after his appointment as marshal, but Mr. Crain made no mention of this charge.

Attorney General Ward, who arrived from Albany Monday night, began his day by visiting the Bar Association Building at 42 West Forty-fourth Street. There he met Charles C. Burlingham, president of the association, and Henry W. Taft, president of the New York County Lawyers' Association.

I. The wedding originally had been planned for Oct 4 in Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia, but owing to serious illness in the family, the date has been advanced. The ceremony will be witnessed only by relatives and a few intimate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Cortlandt Godwin will give a buffet supper on Friday in East Hampton for Miss Gazzam and her fiancé.

Banister—Scott.

Miss Ruth Ross Banister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chadwick Banister of South Orange, N. The Rev. George A. Edmison, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. Joseph Elsworth Curry of Cranbury, N. J., uncle of Mr. Scott, will perform the ceremony.

Miss Banister is a graduate of Columbia High School, South Orange, and Wellesley College, where she was a member of the Tau Zeta Epsilon Society. Mr. Scott was graduated from Princeton University in '29. He is a member of the Princeton Elm Club.

Robert—Cramer.

Miss Natalie K. Robert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Robert of 906 Park Avenue, will be married to Ralph S. Cramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Cramer of Glen Rock, N. The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Edwards, daughter of Mrs. James H. Edwards of 130 Lafayette Avenue, Passaic, N. J., and the late Mr. Edwards, to Richard Wallace Schabacker, son of Martin J. The church was decorated with regal lilies, evergreens and white phlox.

The bride wore a gown of tea rose chantilly lace with lace mitts and a brown velvet turban. She carried a bouquet of butterfly roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Margaret Russell of New Britain, Conn., was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of larkspur blue chiffon with a blue velvet hat and carried a shower bouquet of garden flowers.

George B. Roberts of Larchmont, N. Y., was best man for Mr. Schabacker, whose ushers were Ralph A. McLemore of Douglaston, L. I., and David A. Edwards, brother of the bride.

The ceremony was followed by a small reception at the Summer home of the bride's mother. More extensive plans for the wedding were cancelled owing to the recent death of the bride's father, who for many years was chief engineer of the American Bridge Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Schabacker have gone on a short wedding trip and on their return they will live at 25 Valley Road, Larchmont. He is financial editor of Forbes Magazine.

Pigeon to Fly 100 Miles Today With Plea for $20,000 Surety

Bobby Jones, a pedigreed carrier pigeon, may not know much about finance, but he's a Lindbergh in the air and that's all that matters to F. W. Mark, Philadelphia contractor, who will dispatch him from Camden to New York today with an application for a $20,000 bid bond to the National Surety Company, which, if granted, will cover the construction of a $500,000 annex to the Schuylkill County Court House at Pottsville, Pa. Bobby will land, the company predicted yesterday, on the roof of his owner's home, 428 West Nineteenth Street, at 1:30 P. M., thus completing the first big business pigeon flight, a distance of 100 miles, in two hours.

Bobby is a $1,000 blue checker splash male and has won many first prizes for good looks and long-distance flying. His owner, Frank J. Weins, proprietor of the Service Loft, is a member of the Riverside Homing Pigeon Club.

DENIES RECEIVER ACTION.

Rose Steinberg Says She Does Not Seek Vineland Trust Order.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 2.—When application was made to Vice Chancellor Robert H. Ingersoll here today for the appointment of a receiver for the bankrupt Vineland Trust Company, already in the hands of the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, former Judge Herbert C. Bartlett, representing the bank, read an affidavit from Rose Sternberg, the alleged petitioner for a receivership, in which she declared that she had no desire to seek a receiver and had not empowered any one to act for her.

The Vice Chancellor deferred further hearing in the case for three weeks to give Israel B. Green and Samuel Leber, Newark lawyers who said they represented Miss Sternberg in the action, a chance to explain why they were asking for a receiver if their client wanted none. Mr. Green accused Mr. Bartlett of having obtained an affidavit under duress. This was denied by Mr. Bartlett.

ENDS OTT WILL FIGHT.

Dr. Clarence Ott to Permit Probate of Mother's Testament.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 2.—Former Judge Clarence L. Cole, attorney for Dr. Clarence Ott, withdrew his client's caveat, which had been filed here with Surrogate Albert C. Abbott, protesting against filing for probate the will of his mother, Mrs. Mary Ott. Mrs. Ott was the widow of Henry Ott, the inventor of the porcelain process for finishing plumbing fixtures and a principal stockholder of the Standard Plumbing Company.

The will, according to Mr. Cole, disposed only of royalties which accrued from the process patents since Mrs. Ott's death. The $10,000,000 estate had been disposed of by a deed of trust before her death, Dr. Ott said. The royalties amounted to about $150,000, Mr. Cole added.

Mrs. Ott was a resident of Louisville, Ky., and died here June 23. Dr. Ott has homes in New York and in California.

The Ott will has not yet been filed for probate.

How to plan the family's financial program
What is a woman's investment?
How should a woman invest her insurance?
Should a woman follow the investment practices of business men?

A book that will help women increase their knowledge of Sound Investment

QUESTIONS asked by women investors—and answered by the Old Counsellor on the Halsey, Stuart & Co. radio program—form the basis of this unusual booklet. It is therefore practical—drawn from actual experience gained in serving women investors.

Each subject is approached from the woman's point of view. The text is free from technicalities—presenting the essential information in an understandable way.

For the woman who may have been tempted to pattern her investments after those of some successful business man, this booklet explains the pitfalls of such procedure. It shows how the individual needs govern the proper selection of suitable securities. It points out the importance of diversification and the ways to diversify.

A particularly interesting section takes up the problem of how to plan the family's financial program, and offers a practical solution.

Women who are now investing money—whether in large or small sums—or who are ambitious to become investors, will find this twenty-page booklet of real help to them. We shall be glad to send a copy on request.

BOLIVIA AND PERU NEAR RECOGNITIONS

Reciprocal Action by Military Governments With Like Aims May Be Taken Today.

LIMA FORBIDS GAMBLING

President Sanchez Cerro Organizes Court for Trial of Offenders Under Leguia Regime.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 2.—Negotiations for reciprocal recognition of the Bolivian and Peruvian military governments have advanced to the point of virtual recognition and the fact probably will be announced tomorrow.

Both of the new governments have the same revolutionary aims. After success in overthrowing tyrannical governments which never took into consideration popular sympathy in foreign policies, the new régimes plan relations more in accordance with the close bond between the people of both countries and their common history.

Licensed Gambling Stopped.

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 2 (AP).—The revolutionary junta of President Sánchez Cerro issued today a decree supressing all licensed gambling. Gambling was suppressed in 1920 but was permitted a year ago by the Leguia Government.

The new government announced today that junta decrees will have the same force as laws passed by Congress and the government will have the same powers as the Legislature.

The junta decreed today an organization to be known as the National Tribunal which will be a trial court for all offenders under the administration of the deposed President, Augusto B. Leguia.

The tribunal will be composed of the President and four Justices and will have the services of a special prosecutor. There will be no appeal from sentences.

Popular accusations will be admitted, but these must be duly proven. The body will carry on its work during the next eight months, although its life may be extended indefinitely.

Grow Still Held in Prison.

Lieut. Commander Harold B. Grow, an American who commanded the Peruvian flying forces under the deposed President Leguia, is still held in prison at Arequipa by the new government, but his status is difficult of interpretation.

Lieut. Col. Sánchez Cerro, head of the new government, has said Commander Grow would be tried and punished on charges of violating the military code, but it is understood the case is complicated by Commander Grow's American citizenship and the fact that he is a reserve officer in the United States Navy.

Officials of the American Embassy are reluctant to comment on the affair, although it is reported that communications have been passing between the embassy and the Peruvian Foreign Office.

Meanwhile, Lieut. Col. Federico Recavarren visited Grow's quarters at the Aviation Ministry yesterday, taking possession of the official documents and delivering personal papers to Mrs. Grow.

The government also is reticent regarding what will be done with Charles W. Sutton, American engineer under charge of mishandling funds on an irrigation project. He is held in the national penitentiary here.

Envoy Aids Sutton and Grow.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP).—State Department officials said today they could report no change in the status of the cases of Harold B. Grow, American Naval Reserve aviator, and Charles W. Sutton, American engineer, imprisoned by the Peruvian military junta.

No reply had been received to the note dispatched Saturday to Ferdinand L. Mayer, American Chargé d'Affaires in Lima. It was said officially, however, that Mr. Mayer was doing all possible to protect their rights.

A Negro was struck by a Central train at Cliffwood and fatally injured Sunday night. He died at the Perth Amboy City Hospital. The fourth death occurred near Union Beach, where an unidentified man was struck and killed by a train.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 2 (AP).—It cost Senator Joe T. Robinson $9,268.25 to be renominated in the August primary, his expense account, filed here today with the Secretary of State disclosed. The greater part of the expenditure, $6,141.95, was listed as having been spent for printing and postage.

Theatre Zone Parking Ban Works Smoothly, Police Find

Police Commissioner Mulrooney expressed gratification yesterday with the results of the no-parking, no-turn regulations which were again put into effect on Monday night during the early theatre hours between Thirty-ninth and Fifty-second Streets, west of Sixth Avenue and east of Eighth Avenue, after being lifted for the Summer. The restrictions went into effect "smoothly," he declared.

Parking, under the regulations, which were originated by former Commissioner Whalen, is prohibited in the district between 7:45 and 9 P. M. and from 10:30 to 11:30 P. M. During the Summer it was allowed in the early period. No turns are permitted on Seventh Avenue or Broadway between Fiftieth and Forty-second Streets. The ban applies to buses and taxicabs as well as to pleasure vehicles, and the restriction against trucks in the district continues.

TAR AND OIL SPRAY TOWN.

Still Cap Blows Off at Marcus Hook, Pa., Causing Huge "Gusher."

MARCUS HOOK, Pa., Sept. 2 (AP).—This little port on the Delaware River was spattered from end to end tonight by thousands of gallons of tar and oil, due to an exploding still at the plant of the Sun Oil Company. No one was injured by the blast, which could be heard for miles.

When the explosion occurred five boats were pumping crude oil into a still simultaneously. The combined pressure, officials said, blew off the still cap.

Startled by the blast, residents rushed from their homes and saw a huge gusher of tar and oil shoot high into the air and spread out into an immense cloud that darkened the sky. The mixture then descended in a steady drizzle and lasted for several minutes before the "gusher" was brought under control.

RUTH HALE TO HELP BROUN'S CAMPAIGN

Candidate Names Wife Manager of Non-Partisan Section of Congress Drive.

SHE AIMS TO GET OUT VOTE

Declares She Deems Husband a Far Abler Feminist Than His Rival, Mrs. Pratt.

Heywood Broun, Socialist candidate for Representative in the Seventeenth Congressional District, an office now held by Mrs. Ruth Pratt, announced yesterday at his headquarters in the Hotel Algonquin the appointment of Ruth Hale, his wife, as manager of the non-partisan section of his campaign. According to Mr. Broun this is the first time a woman, particularly a wife, has been named as a campaign manager in New York City.

"How do you think the selection of your wife as your campaign manager will work out?" Mr. Broun was asked.

"I'll tell you at the end of the campaign," he replied.

A Smith Democrat.

Mr. Broun added that Miss Hale, as a Lucy Stoner, had kept her own individuality and name and that he believed she would be an excellent campaign manager. Miss Hale said she was not a Socialist and classed herself as an "Al Smith Democrat," but not a Tammany Democrat.

"I believe that if every one in the Seventeenth Congressional District who would like to see Broun in Congress could either be cajoled or pestered to the polls in November he unquestionably would be elected," Miss Hale said. "I must put up the signs on the path to the finest mouse-trap because however certainly the world will finally find its way there, we haven't any too much time.

"My personal motive in helping in this campaign is that I believe Mr. Broun is a far abler feminist, a much more whole-hearted one, than Mrs. Ruth Pratt is, and that it is important to keep that to the fore as much as possible since ordinarily I would not campaign against a woman Representative."

Candidate Talks to Strikers.

Mr. Broun spoke during the day at a meeting of striking members of Waterproof Garment Makers' Union, Local 20. His offer to do picket duty was accepted, and he is expected to report for such duty within a day or two.

Herbert Bayard Swope, under whom Mr. Broun formerly worked on The World, nearly became the Democratic candidate for Representative against Mr. Broun instead of Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky. Yesterday Alexander Woollcott learned that Mr. Swope's son, Herbert Bayard Swope Jr., 16 years old, wished to support Mr. Broun. The younger Mr. Swope joined the Broun non-partisan committee and made a contribution to the campaign fund. Mr. Broun said this was welcome because, although pledges of personal support had been numerous contributions have lagged and now amounted to only $350.

Other new members of the non-partisan committee follow:

Stuart Chase	Charles Butterworth
Paul U. Kellogg	Harry Richman
Lee Simonson	Sidney Blackmer
Maurice Wertheim	Erin O'Brien-Moore
Floyd Dell	Lenore Ulric
Eda L. Walton	Carolyn Hancock
Gilbert Gabriel	Mary Servoss
Elmer Rice	Millicent Green
Keith Morgan	Amos R. E. Pinchot

Veteran Tries to Die in Leap.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 2.—Andrew Hopkins, 34 years old, a World War veteran, attempted suicide today by leaping from the roof of the unoccupied plant of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company here. Found by a policeman, Hopkins was taken to the General Hospital suffering from fractures of both feet and the right shoulder. He told the police he was out of work and "disgusted with life." His condition is serious.

THOMAS AIDS PRISONER.

Efforts Result in Bail for Man Whose Car Struck Woman.

Joseph F. Viola, 40 years old, who described himself as a radio announcer, of 2,047 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, was arraigned before Magistrate Weil in night court last night on a charge of assault growing out of an accident at Thirty-eighth Street and Fifth Avenue yesterday in which Mrs. Anna Birenbach of 86 Columbia Street was injured when struck by Viola's automobile. The woman was taken to the Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled suffering fro mlacerations of the scalp and a fractured knee.

Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, appeared in court to supply a bond for Viola, but the papers he showed to prove ownership of property were made out in his wife's name and Mrs. Thomas is out of the city. Magistrate Weil said he would release Viola in $100 cash bail and as Mr. Thomas prepared to leave the courtroom to get $100, Sidney Hartnett, a bondsman, offered to provide the $300 bond. Asked by Mr. Thomas what his fee would be, Hartnett said, "I'll contribute that to the Socialist cause."

Magistrate Weil adjourned the case to Thursday for hearing in Yorkville Court.

FACE JAILBREAK CHARGES.

Three Indicted for Attempted Escape at Camden.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 2.—Stephen F. McKiernan and Jack Wiernan, both of Philadelphia, and William Solinski of Camden, cell-mates in the county jail until Aug. 27, when their attempt to escape by sawing bars of the jail was discovered, were indicted today, charged with breaking jail.

McKiernan and Wiernan also were indicted jointly on a charge of robbery, and on a third charge of threatening death to the victim of a hold-up.

Three weeks ago McKiernan and Wiernan were arrested in Jersey City and through fingerprints found on the automobile of William Lloyd, West Jersey-Parkside Trust Company messenger, were charged with holding up Lloyd with a sawed-off shotgun last May and taking $6,746 from him.

Due to the jail being crowded they were placed with Solinski in the young men's section. They had succeeded, according to officials, in sawing through the bars and had lowered a rope with a hook outside the building for their friends to pass up pistols, according to Warden Edmund B. Powell. A tip from another prisoner led to the frustration of the alleged jailbreak plot.

Y., was fatally injured near here early this morning when the motorcycle on which he was riding crashed into an automobile driven by Anthony Montecalvo of Hoboken. Norman died on admission to St. Peter's Hospital. The motorcycle on which Norman was riding was driven by Theodore Siim of Passaic, who was taken to Middlesex Hospital here in a serious condition.

Giants and Cubs Win; Robins Lose—New York Colleges Start Football Drills

25 HITS BY GIANTS ROUT THE PHILLIES

Homers by Terry and Hogan Help Account for 18-5 Victory in Final of Series.

OTT GETS THREE DOUBLES

Fitzsimmons Goes Full Distance for Victors and Contributes Three Safe Wallops.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—Appreciating the fact that this would be their last chance of the year to rattle basehits around in Baker bowl, the Giants fairly smothered the Phillies with twenty-five blows today to win the final game of the series, 18 to 5.

Two of those blows popped out of the park to give Bill Terry and Frank Hogan a pair of homers, but all the other wallops bounced off the fences and the shins of the Phils.

In fact, with the Phillies wearied from chasing the ball and the Giants worn to a frazzle running the bases in the torrid atmosphere, the closing innings looked like a scene in the last quarter of a football game when coaches rush replacements to the firing line in battalions.

Fitzsimmons Stays Till End.

The stout Freddy Fitzsimmons, however, stuck it out to the end. Fitz pitched better than necessity demanded, got three singles himself, and appeared to be the only man in the park who was thoroughly enjoying himself.

For the big clouters of the McGraw machine it was just a field day. Terry, in addition to his homer, got a double and two singles; Hogan warmed up on two singles before depositing his circuit clout into the left-field bleachers and Mel Ott touched off three doubles and a single as the Giants belabored Collard, Sweetland, Elliott and Phillips.

Lindstrom Back in Line-Up.

Lindstrom felt sufficiently recovered from the shaking up he received yesterday to get back into the line-up. He was still limping slightly, though this did not prevent him from finding the right-field wall for a double in the third and again in the sixth.

It being an open date in the schedule for the Athletics, Connie Mack and several of his players viewed the proceedings from the stand. Connie declined to say he was present for any scouting purposes.

"You know," he said with something of a twinkle in his eye, "it isn't at all certain yet that we'll be in the next world's series."

ROOT BAFFLES REDS AND CUBS TRIUMPH

Holds Losers to Three Hits in 8-2 Victory as Cincinnati Ends Season at Home.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs today accomplished something they had been unable to do since last April—win a baseball game in Cincinnati. Charlie Root pitched a three-hit performance, which subjected the Reds to an 8-to-2 defeat. The game closed the National League season here. The Reds won eight of the eleven games on their home grounds against the champions.

Chicago scored three runs on only one hit in the first inning. Two errors, a walk and Taylor's triple figured in the scoring. Hartnett and Cuccinello hit home runs, the former's being his twenty-ninth circuit blow of the year. It scored Wilson ahead of him in the fifth. Not a man reached first off Root until the fifth inning.

BRANDT OF BRAVES SHUTS OUT ROBINS

Permits Only Four Hits to Gain 6-0 Victory as Misplays Mar Vance's Chances.

VICTORS GET EARLY LEAD

Score 2 Runs in First Without Hitting Ball Out of Infield—Neun Steals Home.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The backsliding Robins settled a trifle more firmly into fourth place by losing the final game of the series to the Braves today, Lefty Ed Brandt shutting them out with four scattered singles while his mates gathered six runs on only six singles.

Dazzy Vance, losing pitcher, saw three runs scored in the first inning without a ball being hit out of the infield. He, too, gave only four hits. Clark, who gave one and pitched to only two men, was responsible for two runs, and the sixth scored on Moss' erratic heave.

In the first inning the Braves started with Richbourg's grounder, which Finn fielded deep in his territory but which went for a hit. Maranville then drew a pass and Johnny Neun's intended sacrifice bunt toward Gilbert was beaten out for another infield hit, to fill the bases. Berger struck out, but the pitch went cleanly through Lopez, and Richbourg scored, the other runners advancing.

Maranville Turns Neat Trick.

Welsh followed with a pop fly to Finn, Maranville standing innocently on third until Finn started to return the ball to Vance, whereupon the veteran trickster broke swiftly for home. Finn's hasty throw to Lopez went wild and the Rabbit scored.

Then, with two strikes on Chatham, Neun, who had advanced to third on Finn's error, dashed for the plate as Vance was winding up. Lopez dropped the throw, although he wasn't charged with an error, and the third run had been scored.

Thereafter the Dazzler's fast one went past the Brave batters, and by the end of the fifth they had scored no more runs and five had been struck out.

But Ed Brandt was even more effective, and when the Robins had finished marching to the plate for seven innings only three singles, two by Rube Bressler and one by Babe Herman, had been registered off the big southpaw and a Brooklyn runner had got as far as second base only once.

Vance Retires in Seventh.

Vance went out for a futile pinch hitter in the seventh and Watson Clark started pitching in the eighth. He lasted long enough to grant a single to Chatham and to make a wild heave of Spohrer's sacrifice bunt into the right-field foul section for a two-base error. Whereupon Manager Robinson summarily dismissed him from duty and sent Ray Moss to the rescue. Both runners scored off Moss, Chatham on an infield out and Sphorer on Richbourg's single.

Wimbledon Cup, in Competition Since 1874, Won by Guardsman at Camp Perry.

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 2 (AP).—Sergeant L. C. Genter, 20 years old, of Grant Pass, Ore., National Guard, led 1,460 competitors today to win the Wimbledon Cup rifle match when he scored 100 with 10 "V's" in the inner circle of his bullseye. P. A. Ronfar of Norwood also had 100 but had only 9 "V's" on his target. Captain Joseph Jackson, Washington, D. C., member of the United States Marine Corps, was third with 99. The Wimbledon Cup was presented in 1874 by the National Rifle Association of Great Britain.

The winner of the Wright Memorial match was announced late tonight as Captain C. R. Peck, United States Infantry, who had a possible score of 75.

Ronfar Is a Winner.

In the short-range small-bore match, with 180 contestants, Ronfar won with 398 out of 400, outranking Therman Randle of Fort Worth, Texas, who also had 398, but who fell short of Ronfar's score on his last string.

One of the principal matches for the small ranges went to Vere Hamer of Prighar, Iowa, who scored 196 out of 200. He outranked Quenton Foster of Delaware, Ohio, who also had 196.

On the pistol ranges, Miss Arlayne Brown, 14, world's champion girl revolver shot, scored 88 out of 100, qualifying for an expert's medal. She also totaled 270 in slow, timed and rapid fire.

Upshaw Rifle Victor.

Competing in a field of 421, Gairie M. Upshaw of Pasadena, Cal., won the individual civilian club members' match on a 200-yard range with a .30 calibre rifle. His score was 96 out of 100.

In the small bore test, Henry Adams, Fostoria, Ohio, scoring 198 out of 200, was winner of the individual long range match in which 150 contestants were entered. Frederick Kuhn of Stratford, Conn., and Edward Doyle of Hamden, Conn., also had scores of 198, but were outranked by Adams on his last string.

FOOTBALL DRILLS BEGIN AT FORDHAM

Cavanaugh Greets 26 Candidates at Opening Session of Maroon Campaign.

Despite a heavy rainfall, Fordham's varsity football candidates reported to Coach Major Frank Cavanaugh at New Fordham Field yesterday for their opening practice session of the training campaign. Of the thirty-seven players who were scheduled to report, twenty-six put in an appearance and received uniforms and equipment in the morning and then returned to the field for limbering-up drills in the afternoon. Hiker Joy, Dennis McNamara and Paddy Creedon are the coaches who are assisting the Maroon mentor.

The eleven candidates who failed to report are all veterans of the undefeated 1929 outfit with the exception of Connie Murphy, promising prospect for one of the guard positions. Marion Zaleski, substitute fullback, is reported recovering from a broken leg, which he suffered during the Summer, while John Healey, a guard, sent word that he will not be able to start training until the end of the month. The other veterans, who are expected to arrive during the week, are Jack Fisher, quarterback; Bill McMahon, Jim Murphy and Red Conway, halfbacks; Frank Davis and Adam Elcewicz, ends; Ray Hurley, a tackle, and Walter Tracey, guard and star punter.

Coach Cavanaugh finished the initial practice session with a lecture in which he stressed the importance of team work and the necessity for strict training.

The pre-season campaign will get under way more seriously tomorrow, when two drills will be held. Law will call the first session at 9:30 A. M. and will follow with another period at 2:30 P. M.

The team will open its regular season on Sept. 27, when it will oppose Rider College.

Ninety-Minute Signal Drill Ends First Session at Farmingdale Camp.

SQUAD OF 43 TURNS OUT

Group Includes 23 Veterans—Sargisson, Guard, and Schneider, Centre, Fail to Report.

Special to The New York Times.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., Sept. 2.—Forty-three candidates for the New York University football team reported to Head Coach John F. (Chick) Meehan today for the opening practice, most of which was held in a driving rain.

Twenty-three veterans were in the group, which is scheduled for two workouts daily except Sunday until Sept. 22. George Sargisson, regular guard, and Harry Schneider, star centre, failed to make their appearance but are expected tomorrow.

The squad assembled at the University Heights campus and arrived in camp shortly after noon. Meehan had his charges on the field in full uniform within two hours. Today's drill was devoted largely to calisthenics, passing, charging, and a closing signal drill which lasted for 90 minutes.

Coach Meehan was assisted by his entire staff, composed of Mort Starobin, Syracuse; Stafford J. Connor, New Hampshire; John J. Connor, N. Y. U.; John V. Weinheimer, N. Y. U.; Charles D. Vye, N. Y. U.; Leo V. Collins, N. Y. U.; Albert Di Meolo, University of Pittsburgh's 1929 captain and a newcomer to the staff, and Arthur H. Roberts, N. Y. U., who will again coach the freshman group.

FIRST DRILL HELD BY C. C. N. Y. SQUAD

Thirty Football Candidates Start 1930 Campaign at Bedford Hills Country Club.

Special to The New York Times.

BEDFORD, N. Y., Sept. 2.—A squad of thirty candidates for the City College football team arrived at the Bedford Hills Country Club this afternoon and inaugurated the Lavenders' 1930 gridiron campaign. Coach Harold J. Parker sent the players through their first workout, despite the rain.

Donning their moleskins immediately upon arrival, the players went through a grass drill, which was followed by calisthenics and a general limbering up. Easy forward passes and practice starts completed the first day's program.

In the evening Coach Parker gave the entire squad his usual examination to test the candidates on their knowledge of the rules.

Beginning tomorrow the players will have a regular routine. The squad will rise at 7 o'clock and take a calisthenics drill. Following breakfast the men enjoy a few hours of freedom, but report for drill at 10:30. After luncheon there will be a signal drill, followed by a session in tactics.

ROCKNE BACKS SHIFT RULE.

Football Coach, in Radio Talk, Favors New Variation.

Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, in a talk over radio station WABC last night, announced he was in favor of the new shift rule this year, "provided it was properly enforced."

"The new rule," he said, "is part of the open phase of the game which we all like so well. If we did away with this phase we might as well go back to the old bruising days when there was no pageantry to lend color to the game, but merely a tug of war."

The provision requires a team using the new shift to remain stationary one second before the ball is put into play.

COLUMBIA STARTS PRACTICE WITH 34

Season's First Drill Held by Little at Baker Field—Few Regulars Present.

LONG SESSION IS ORDERED

Squad Divided Into Groups for Individual Instruction—Hewitt and Scott Expected Today.

The first football practice of the season at Columbia was held yesterday at Baker Field, with thirty-four candidates on hand. The day was spent in light workouts, but indications point to Coach Lou Little speeding up the drills within a day or two and the first scrimmage probably will come late this week or early next week.

Of the thirty-four reporting, fourteen were linemen, thirteen were backs and seven were ends. Forty men were invited to report and the full squad probably will be reached today or tomorrow. Ralph Hewitt and Harry Scott, halfbacks, were absent yesterday, but they are expected to appear today.

It is quite unlikely that Charley Joyce, regular quarterback, and Gus Banko, guard, will return to school this year. Both of these men were sophomores last year, but Columbia officials had expected for some time that they would not be in school, so that football plans have been made accordingly.

Few opportunities were present yesterday morning for any hard work, as Little, his assistants, and Trainers Doc Barrett and Jimmy Judge were kept busy fitting the candidates for uniforms. Each player will have three uniforms—one for warm weather, one for cold weather and a rubber one for wet weather.

The rainstorm in the afternoon delayed the practice a bit, but once the session got under way Little had the men drilling for nearly three hours. The squad was divided into groups of backs and linemen for individual instruction. Little was assisted by Arthur Sampson, Herb Kopf and Sam Cordovano. In addition, Paul Liston and George McCabe, assistant freshman coaches, were on hand, and Jerry Thompson and Frank Murray, former pupils of Little at Georgetown a few years ago, aided with the drills.

QUEENSBORO BOUTS OFF.

Card Featuring Jones and Smith Postponed Until Tomorrow.

The downpour of yesterday forced Matchmaker Al Weill of the Queensboro Stadium to postpone until tomorrow night the boxing show he had scheduled for last night. Gorilla Jones, Akron boxer, and Harry Smith of Harlem are to clash in the stellar bout of twelve rounds in a contest designed to establish an undisputed Negro middleweight champion.

Joe Scalfaro, Harlem bantamweight, and Vidal Gregorio, Spanish lad, are paired for the ten-round semi-final, a return engagement which will present Scalfaro with an opportunity to avenge the knockout he suffered in his last bout with Gregorio. Three five-round bouts and a four-round match also are planned.

Mineola Handicap Won by Concord; Questionnaire Gains 7th Straight Victory

CONCORD CAPTURES MINEOLA HANDICAP

Newtondale Entry Takes Belmont Feature in Close Finish With Luke Warm.

QUESTIONNAIRE, 1-5, WINS

Gains Seventh Straight Victory by Five-Length Margin Over Erin in the Hourless.

By BRYAN FIELD.

The Newtondale Stable's Concord, beaten in his previous start by Benjamin Block's Morshion, took revenge at Belmont Park yesterday on another of Mr. Block's Morvich tribe when he came galloping down the Widener chute to win the sixteenth running of the Mineola Claiming Handicap, which was worth $3,900 to the winner. Morheart, 7 to 5 favorite, finished fifth.

A heavy thunderstorm broke over the track just as the race was being run and apparently Morheart did not like the weather; in any event she could not hold the pace and quit at the end of half a mile of the six furlongs.

Concord was far back in the early running but the farther he went the better he got. At the half-mile mark he was taking the mud from Morheart's heels but kept charging on until he was running with the Sagamore Stable's Luke Warm and H. E. Talbott Jr.'s Abduction. They were in the van. Morheart could not keep pace with these three and stopped so badly that she beat only two horses.

Bethel Makes Fast Finish.

A furlong from the finish Concord still had the race to win, but a strong finish by J. Bethel sent the Newtondale representative past Abduction and up to Luke Warm. These two swept over the line together and as the finish was on the Widener chute the same old argument cropped up as to which was the winner.

Many thought that Luke Warm was first and a howl went up when Concord's number was posted. The judges were on the line, however, and were prompt in making their decision. But at best Concord's advantage could not have been more than a head or a nose. Abduction was a length further back in third place.

In the rain later in the afternoon James Butler's game colt Questionnaire scored his seventh consecutive victory when he ran in front all the way in the Hourless purse. The test was at a mile and an eighth and the race was the first for Questionnaire in more than a month.

Victor by Five Lengths.

He seems better than ever after his lay off and just galloped along to beat the Wheatley Stable's Erin by five lengths. Full Dress, the only other starter, was third, three lengths back of Erin.

Questionnaire is eligible for several of the big races here, one of them being the Lawrence Realization. There he is almost certain to meet Gallant Fox. Gallant Fox defeated Questionnaire in the Belmont, when the Butler horse ran third, but Questionnaire is a much improved horse since then and can be counted on to give Gallant Fox plenty of trouble.

His time yesterday for a mile and an eighth was 1:51 and he passed the mile mark in 1:37 2-5. Raymond Workman was the rider and he broke the son of Sting on top. Going to the front smoothly he held the horse together all the way around and Questionnaire had plenty of speed in reserve. He was a very short price of course, paying only 1 to 5.

Zeal, showing improvement, broke well in his stride, opened a wide lead, saved ground and just lasted to win. Frumper got away slowly, was kept on the rail all the way, and closed with a rush in the final furlong. Coin Collector was kept close to the early pace and weakened fast in the stretch. Montferrat showed good speed for six furlongs. Juggler lacked early speed. Swatter broke very slowly and trailed far back, but closed a big gap.

Volunteer, going in his best form, opened a long lead in the first half mile, fenced well, showed speed and held on gamely. Toreador II was probably best, but was allowed to drop far out of it in the early part. He moved up fast in the last half mile, but could not catch the flying leader. Friar McGee trailed far back and came with a rush in the last three furlongs. Bootland was kept well up and ran a good race. Van Dike lacked speed and was never a factor.

Concord, badly outrun for the first five furlongs, closed with a rush on the inside and was up to win in the last stride. Luke Warm was out in the firm going, displayed good speed and held on well. Abduction, well up from the start, held on gamely. Kensington was running strongly at the end. Morheart had speed for half a mile, then quit badly. Robot finished with a rush. Deedie was running strongly at the end.

Scratched—Easter Stockings.

Milkman was much the best. He was kept well up all the way, came to the middle of the track and, finishing fast, won nicely in hand. Patroness broke running, set a stiff pace, saved ground and held on gamely. Polish ran a good race. Dunlin's Son slipped through on the inside and finished fast. Sonnelli tired under the weight. Martis was outrun from the start.

Questionnaire was much the best. He just galloped along in front and drew away in the stretch to win galloping. Erin was well up for half a mile, dropped back on the turn, but came with a rush in the stretch and was an easy second. Full Dress made a determined bid on the turn, but quit to a walk.

Glastonbury was at home in the sloppy going, closed with a rush and won going away. Boys Howdy jumped into the lead, showed good speed and held on well. Knight's Call was well up from the start and ran a good race. Ra Horus closed a big gap. Fleet Flag stepped in a hole and almost fell.

$10,000 TROT WON BY DODGE'S ENTRY

Empire State Stake Goes to Hollyrood Harrod in Two Heats at Syracuse.

RAIN MARS THE PROGRAM

Main McElwyn and Hanover's Bertha Split Heats in American Horse Breeders' Futurity.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Although the third and final heat was put over until tomorrow because of rain which again marred the program, Hollyrood Harrod, the favorite, clinched the honors in the Empire State Stake, the $10,000 trotting handicap at the State Fair Grounds today.

Dodge merely sent his entry out in front in each heat, leaving it to the others in the field to make a race of it. Athlone Guy and Tronia Britton staged a race of their own, with Tronia Britton having an edge over the Cox entry. Tronia Britton finished second in each of the two heats, with Athlone Guy third.

When the downpour came the 3-year-old trotters had failed to settle the issue in the American Horse Breeders' Futurity and Main McElwyn and Hanover's Bertha were tied for the honors. Hanover's Bertha, winner of the Hambletonian, broke while in second place in the first heat, finishing fifth. In the next, however, she went to the front at once and won easily. Main McElwyn won the first heat and was second in the next.

U. S. Yacht Mars Wins Second Straight Race in Series With British

MARS AGAIN VICTOR OVER BRITISH CRAFT

Takes Second Straight Race in International Six-Meter Cup Series on the Sound.

LUCIE, U. S., HOME SECOND

Prudence, Great Britain, Third—United States Leads in Points, 48½ to 24.

By VERNON VAN NESS.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 2.—Great Britain again bowed to the United States this afternoon in the second race of the British-American international six-meter cup series in a thrilling battle on Long Island Sound. For the second consecutive day it was Mars, skippered by Van S. Merle-Smith, which showed the way home, and once more it was the American entrant Lucie, sailed by Briggs Cunningham, which captured second place.

Today, however, the United States, which placed a boat in third place also yesterday, saw that place preempted by the Britons. The point score today was the same as yesterday, 24¼ to 12 in the American skippers' favor, so that now the United States leads, 48½ to 24.

The finish was a stirring one, with the result in doubt until almost to the end of the leg, a close reach of the triangular course, with Lucie and Mars fighting it out for first place. Lucie, to windward, was overhauled with the finish line almost attained, Mars creeping up to beat the Cunningham boat by 29 seconds.

Lucie Sets Early Pace.

Up to the point where Merle-Smith sent his beautiful craft to the front, Lucie had been the pace-maker, and a one time had such a commanding lead that it looked as if she had the race clinched. But on the next to the last leg, another close reach, Mars closed up most of the big advantage.

At the scheduled starting time of 1:30 there was a flat calm and the postponement signal was hoisted. The race committee almost despaired of getting enough air to start. The skies were somewhat overcast and rapidly grew darker. Then thunder boomed and the haze that had obscured the shore grew thicker. In no time at all a stiff breeze kicked up, attaining thirty-seven miles an hour, accompanied by a slashing rain.

The little six meters dropped sail for the most part, while the committee changed the course. By the time the start finally was made the wind had dropped to ten miles an hour, though it continued to rain for some time. The sun finally came out hot and bright and had almost set when the race finished.

Prudence Passes Cherokee.

The British boat Prudence, sailed by K. H. Preston and which finished fourth yesterday, was fourth at the first mark today, but at the finish was third, in fact, she overhauled Cherokee on the second leg and was third thereafter.

Aphrodite, skippered by C. Sherman Hoyt, was next to last at the first mark, but due to some fine manoeuvring, came up to pass Cherokee to take fourth place. After Cherokee came Felma, Coral and Fintra of the British team.

Own World's Speed Boat Mark Is Shattered Twice by Dodge

DETROIT, Sept. 2 (AP).—Horace E. Dodge returned to the scene of his earlier speedboat triumphs today and twice bettered his own official world's record for displacement boats.

During the afternoon he drove Horace III at an average speed of 56.022 miles per hour in six laps over a measured mile course on the Detroit River. That shattered the average of 54.685 miles per hour made by Miss Syndicate with Dodge at the wheel in 1927.

Later when the water quieted down he sent his boat over the same course for six laps at an average speed of 60.299 statute miles per hour. His best lap was 61.738 miles per hour.

ENTERPRISE TAKES A THREE-HOUR SAIL

Shamrock V Has Trial Spin of Same Duration Off Mooring in Newport.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 2.—For the first time in four days Enterprise, the America's cup defender, and Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock V, were able to get out for a trial spin today.

The wind having shifted around to the southwest this morning and freshened a little, it drove away the fog that had persisted for the past three days, and finally when the sun came out what was left of the haze was soon burned up and it was almost a perfect day for sailing, though outside Narragansett Bay it was still somewhat smoky.

With the appearance of the sun, Harold S. Vanderbilt, who returned from New York yesterday, lost no time in ordering Enterprise made ready for a sail. Not long after that, orders were given to drop the mooring line in Brenton's Cove and the big white sloop slid away in the breeze for a trip up Narragansett Bay.

Shamrock Follows Enterprise.

Captain Ned Heard, at the same time, was having Shamrock made ready and she soon followed the Enterprise up the bay. At times the boats were fairly close together, but not near enough, however, to get any idea of their relative speed.

After sailing about the bay on a sail-stretching expedition, both sloops were taken outside for a while, and after both had been out for about three hours they returned to their moorings in the cove.

Prospects are for another good sailing day tomorrow, and there is a persistent rumor that a brand new set of sails is to be used by Shamrock on her next trial spin. The sails, it is said, have never been used and whether or not there is any radical change in the cut remains to be seen.

Colonel R. G. S. Crawford, Vice Commodore of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, and Major Robert Workman have arrived to be guests of Sir Thomas Lipton on his yacht Erin.

Radio Tests Are Made.

It looks now as though two national broadcasting systems will announce the progress of the races between the challenger and defender. Representatives of the National Broadcasting System were out aboard the Coast Guard destroyer 243 today, going over the official course making tests, and it is understood that they found that these worked out most satisfactorily.

The trials of both sloops, from all appearances, worked out to the satisfaction of the two skippers, and after the boats returned to their moorings the crews lost no time in getting ashore.

FERNBROOK FARM PONY SCORES AT ROCHESTER

Wins Blue in Saddle Event—Lawler's Entries Triumph in Harness Classes.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 2.—A saddle pony class in which four sterling entries battled for honors for half an hour was one of the high points of the Rochester horse show today.

The blue finally was awarded to the Fernbrook Farm's little bay gelding Fernbrook Drumfire, which has won so many prizes for Miss Nancy Haas of Mount Kisco. His victory was attained, however, only after he and the other ribbon winners had been sent out time after time and stripped for conformation.

Second went to Tip Top, a 4-year-old that A. E. Buyers of Buffalo is exhibiting for the first time. He gave Drumfire a great contest for the blue. The Green Valley Stable's Irene Peavine was third, and William H. Nicholls's Cristal, an entry from Roslyn, L. I., was fourth.

P. J. Lawler's Knight Bachelor and Danum Woodbine won two good harness pair classes, coming to the front ahead of the entries of the Killearn Farm and Seaton Hackney Farm in both events.

The class for harness horses owned and driven by amateurs went to the well-known Newton Victor, formerly exhibited by Miss Jean Browne Scott and now owned by Miss Marty Louise Kittinger of Buffalo. Alfred B. Maclay drove Killearn Magic into second place, while the Alassa Farm's Perfect Knight was third and Danum Woodbine fourth.

A. ROARK'S CONDITION GOOD

Reported as Favorable Following Operation on Sunday.

The condition of Aidan Roark, British international polo player, was reported as favorable yesterday by Dr. Hugh Blackwell, who performed an operation on Mr. Roark for mastoiditis at the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary on Sunday.

Due to his brother's illness Captain C. T. I. Roark, playing captain of the British polo team, was forced to postpone a radio talk on the forthcoming international matches. Roark and Captain Charles H. Tremayne were scheduled to speak over WMCA last night, but have deferred their broadcast until tomorrow night, when they will talk from the same station. Tommy Hitchcock, captain of the United States polo team, also will broadcast on the same program.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

Dissension as a Boon to a Ball Club.

ABOUT a month ago secret agents reported that the Cardinal ball club was split wide open by dissension in the ranks. Good-natured Gabby Street, the manager, had to put on his glasses and read the riot act in the clubhouse every day. He was on the warpath, threatening to suspend some of his stars and send others to exile in Rochester, Houston or Fort Smith.

Jim Bottomley was quoted to the effect that he didn't want to play in St. Louis any more. Sunny Jim explained later that his remark was made in a fine spirit of fun and that his words were to be taken in a Pickwickian sense. St. Louis was his home town. He would burst into tears if they sold or traded him to any other club. He loved to wear a uniform with a redbird embroidered on it.

The names of Frank Frisch, Chick Hafey, Taylor Douthit and Jimmy Wilson were coupled with trade rumors. Evidently there was more or less family quarreling going on and attention is called to it for the purpose of showing how beneficial such bickering can be in a pennant campaign. Hardly had the first battle bulletins appeared when the Cardinals started a winning streak. Evidently they carried the fighting spirit from the clubhouse to the field. They have been rushing along at a rapid pace ever since and, starting from nowhere in particular, they now have the Cubs guessing and the Giants worried.

Too Much Harmony.

Probably the trouble with the Robins is that they had too much harmony on the club. That is, among the players. For that matter, the Ebbets-McKeever factions were bound over to keep the peace and the armistice hasn't been broken yet. But a little warfare in the dugout or the clubhouse might have kept the Robins up on top where they perched so prettily for some months.

Alas, there was no warfare in the dugout or the clubhouse. Instead of bickering and battling when they started to slip and slide, they patted one another on the back. They sighed and said it was just hard luck when an infielder booted away a victory or a heavy hitter spent the afternoon hitting line drives to the catcher or long flies to the third baseman.

If the Cardinals were right, the Robins were all wrong. They should have been heaving bats at one another and exchanging insults at point-blank range. Uncle Robbie was commiserating with them when he should have been threatening them with fines and suspensions. There was harmony on the Cardinals once. That was when they were advancing to play a world's series with the Yankees in 1928. They took a terrific beating and looked about as helpless as any club that ever took part in a world's series. So much for harmony. It is overrated as a beneficent influence in baseball matters.

Rules for Clubhouse and Dugout.

In view of the family quarreling which seems to have put the Cardinals on the way to their long winning streak, it is suggested that certain general rules should be adopted by ball clubs owning and operating losing streaks of imposing proportions:

After losing ten games, the manager should announce hopefully that the team is split by dissension and that three of his stars are on the market.

When the hit-and-run goes wrong, the runner who is thrown out should glare at the batter who failed to hit and indicate to the crowd that if the batter had half a brain, he would be half-witted.

When a second baseman boots an easy grounder, the first baseman or shortstop should stroll over and spike him on the spot.

When the slugger of the team strikes out for the third time in one afternoon, all the players on the bench should burst into peals of laughter.

If a pitcher is being hit hard by the players on the opposing team, he should be taken out and hit hard by at least one player on his own team.

A little of this would lead to a hot time in the clubhouse and a winning streak would naturally follow.

Recruits to the Fore.

The teams that are out of the pennant hunt are now tossing rookies into the fray to test them under big league fire. Thus the Pirates sent "Spades" Wood to the mound a couple of times and Bucky Harris trotted out Tom Bridges to pitch for the Detroit Tigers. Bridges won his first two games and so did Wood.

This Wood is the chap who got his nickname of "Spades" through a strange occurrence that led to his ejection from college and his signing by the Pirates. He was a student and varsity ball player at a southern college where card playing is frowned upon, especially on Sundays. One Sunday Wood was engaged in a game of bridge and drew a hand that was made up of thirteen spades. That was too good to keep secret. It got into the local newspaper and thus the college prexy discovered that Master Wood had been breaking the college rule. His dismissal from college followed and he embarked on a baseball career immediately.

Since he joined the Pirates his success has been remarkable, but nothing less could be expected from a youngster who started his professional career by holding thirteen spades in a bridge hand.

A Good Man Gone Wrong.

The Great Shires is quiet these days. Owner Charley Comiskey of the White Sox did no service to baseball and certainly took some of the joy out of life when he put the permanent damper on chesty Charles Arthur. Here was a fellow who was a real gate attraction and a fairly good ball player into the bargain. His battles with Lena Blackburne and his later adventures in the pugilistic field made him a famous character from coast to coast.

But Comiskey called it all a lot of nonsense and set out to put the crusher on the vastly amusing young fellow with the cane, the spats and the three wardrobe trunks full of fancy scenery. Sad to say, Mr. Comiskey succeeded. Shires folded up completely with the White Sox and was further humiliated by being traded to the Senators as excess baggage in an unimportant deal. The Great Shires may recover in time, but for this season it appears that he is "down."

From the evidence at hand it would seem that Comiskey was so intent on curbing Shires that he didn't mind hurting his own club to do it. The White Sox are now on a hunt for a first baseman who can hit a little bit. Shires fills that bill, but Comiskey let him go and kept Clancy, who is one of the weakest hitting regulars in the big leagues. In this scorebook Mr. Comiskey is charged with a glaring error.

TWO TEST MATCHES TO BE PLAYED TODAY

British to Appear at Meadow Brook and U. S. Four at Sands Point.

With the opening contest of the international series only three days away, the polo teams of Great Britain and the United States will engage in what is likely to be their last serious workouts today. Originally, only the British were scheduled for a test match today, but yesterday's rain prevented the Americans from playing and caused their game to be put over.

The British will play a picked team at Cochran Field, Meadow Brook, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The line-up switch which was made in last Sunday's game against Roslyn and which added so much to the scoring punch of the invaders will be tried again today.

On Sunday the British started with J. B. Balding at No. 1, Gerald Balding at No. 2, Captain C. T. I. Roark at No. 3 and Lewis Lacey at back. In the sixth period, however, Gerald Balding went to No. 1, Lacey to No. 2 and Lieutenant Humphrey Guinness to back.

Changes Proved Effective.

The changed line-up proved exceedingly effective, and in three periods it accounted for nine goals against Roslyn. Today Gerald Balding, Lacey, Captain Roark and Lieutenant Guinness, riding in that order, will face a team made up of Stephen Sanford at No. 1, James P. Mills, Old Aiken star, at No. 2; Robert E. Strawbridge Jr. at No. 3 and J. C. Rathborne, also of Old Aiken, at back. Stewart Iglehart, who was scheduled to ride in both the British and American test matches, will play in the American match today.

Yesterday's American test match, scheduled for the Piping Rock Club at Locust Valley, was to be the last for the defenders. It will be played today, starting at 4:30 P. M., at the Sands Point Club, Port Washington. Incidentally, the United States is to send into action today the team which most likely will take the field against the British on Saturday. E. A. S. Hopping has returned to No. 2. Last Saturday he played No. 2 against the United States side, which was beaten by 8 to 4 at the Meadow Brook Club.

Team Totals 26 Goals.

A twenty-six-goal team will provide the opposition for America's four at Sands Point today. G. H. Bostwick, Cecil Smith, Stewart Iglehart and Elmer Boeseke Jr., all members of the international squad and who will ride in the order named, will play against Eric Pedley at No. 1, Hopping at No. 2, Tommy Hitchcock at No. 3 and Winston Guest at back.

An easy workout for the Americans is planned after today's match, and the British may possibly arrange another test game, but both teams are now looking ahead to the start of the international series.

TILDEN IS SEEDED FIRST IN TOURNEY

Hunter, No. 2 Ranking Player, Placed Tenth in List for Title Tennis Play.

YOUNGER STARS MOVED UP

Wood Is at No. 4 and Sutter at No. 5—Former Notables Excluded—Draw Announced.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Significant of the upheaval that has taken place in the ranks of the premier players of the country during the current season, the draw for the men's forty-ninth annual national tennis championship, which was made yesterday at the Hotel Vanderbilt, finds many of the high ranking performers relegated to the background in favor of youthful newcomers who have usurped the spotlight during the past two months.

When the tournament gets under way at 1:30 o'clock Saturday at the West Side Tennis Club, Forrest Hills, with an unusually attractive field of ninety-five players that includes Jean Borotra of France and representatives of England, Canada, Ireland and Cuba, three members of the first ten will be found to be excluded from the seeded list of twelve Americans, while three others who rank within the first five were seeded from sixth to tenth.

William Tilden, the national champion, who will seek to break a record that has stood since 1887 by winning the title for the eighth time, is given the place of honor in the list of designated favorites. In turn, he is followed by Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, runner-up to him at Wimbledon, and George M. Lott of Chicago, No. 2 single man on the Davis Cup team. Allison ranks seventh and Lott fourth.

After these three, rankings mean little in the seeding. Sidney B. Wood Jr. of New York and Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, neither of whom enjoys a national ranking, but both of whom have been arresting figures during the grass court season, follow at Nos. 4 and 5, respectively.

Then come John Doeg of Santa Monica, third in the ranking; Gregory Mangin of Newark, ranked tenth, and John Van Ryn of East Orange, who ranks fifth. Ellsworth Vines, the unranked Pasadena youth who defeated Frank Hunter and Frank Shields each twice in a row, is seeded next and is followed at No. 10 by Hunter, the second ranking player of the country. Shields, twelfth in the national ratings, is seeded eleventh and the list ends with Bryan Grant, the diminutive Atlantan who won the clay court championship.

Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, sixth in the ranking; Junior Coen of Kansas City, eighth, and Berkeley Bell of Austin, ninth, who was drawn against Borotra in the first round, all are left out of the seeding.

The draws follow:

FREETH'S 77 WINS LOW GROSS AWARD

Playing in Rain He Leads Field in One-Day Golf Tourney at Garden City.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, Sept. 2.—Sammy Freeth of Salisbury was the winner of the low gross prize in the one-day tournament of the Long Island Golf Association held at the Garden City Golf Club today.

Despite the fact that he was caught in the drenching downpour of rain when he was only half-way through his round, Freeth recorded a 77, only four strokes above par figures.

With his fifteen strokes handicap, F. D. Hutton of Old Westbury took the first low net prize with a net 69, while Greene, who had an allowance of nine strokes, was second with a 70.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

THE SECOND LITTLE SHOW, a revue in two acts and twenty-six scenes. Lyrics mostly by Howard Dietz and music mostly by Arthur Schwartz. Dances arranged by Dave Gould; sketches directed by Monty Woolley; numbers staged by Dwight Deere Wiman; costumes designed by Raymond Sovey; settings by Jo Mielziner; produced by William A. Brady Jr. and Mr. Wiman in association with Tom Weatherly. At the Royale Theatre.
PRINCIPALS—Al Trahan, Jay C. Flippen, Ruth Tester, Kathryn Hamill, Joey Ray, Davey Jones, Helen Gray, Tashamira, Yukona Cameron, Ned Wever, Gloria Grafton and others.

Little Show the Second.

Toward the conclusion of "The Second Little Show," which appeared at the Royale last evening, an old-fashioned girl with a pert manner makes a plea for simplicity. "Sing Something Simple" is the burden of Ruth Tester's song. Enervated by clever rhyme schemes and bizarre grace notes, she pleads for the familiar banalities of the "I Love You" school of music hall serenades. Since the tune of her song is merely a tin-pan jingle and the lyrics are as inevitable as a dash of common sense, "Sing Something Simple" emerges as the most exhilarating turn of the evening.

This reportorial item is set down at the top of this column to point a moral. What makes "The Second Little Show" infinitely inferior to its illustrious predecessor is the skill with which its producers have shunned the simple course they might have followed. Working feverishly to avoid a mere repetition they have permitted "The Little Show" to degenerate into a routine Broadway revue, undistinguished in talent, lacking in sketches and humor. After all, a capital light revue like the first "Little Show" must be an accident. Otherwise, the same producers would not fabricate another so different and so commonplace.

As a workaday revue, "The Second Little Show" has its virtues. It is handsomely costumed and briskly paced. Arthur Schwartz and Howard Dietz have written several Broadway songs that are pleasant and anything but simple. "What a Case I've Got on You," indicating musical stage infatuation, and "Foolish Face" are the most likely of their numbers. The sultry melancholy of "Tired of Love," by Del Cleveland and Ted Fetter, gathers heat from the skill with which Gloria Grafton sings it. Although the revue is overloaded with song numbers, the excellent staging and the crisp backgrounds give them a dramatic quality, and Dave Gould's imaginative dance schemes rescue several of them from obscurity. His work is the most resilient in the production. Using a small chorus of diminutive girls, he has set lively steps to the music and invented excellent pantomime. What his chorus does has some relation to the words and music.

If the singers and steppers are not conspicuously accomplished they are at least fresh and promising. Ruth Tester's disarming gaucherie has a fund of unexploited humor. Helen Gray tap-dances remarkably well, and Davey Jones does the loose-jointed stuff with good spirit. The only seriously-intended dance is by Tashamira, an exotic fantasy abounding in strange imagry. What these performers do has genuine merit, though it can hardly carry a show unassisted.

Is it a misdemeanor to expect an abundance of humor in a revue? Sometimes you would think so. "The Second Little Show" may not be entirely flat in its comedy, but it has none of the buoyancy of its parent. There is one good sketch, "The Guest" by Marc Connelly. Lodged in a service-plus hotel where gadgets are supposed to make every guest a personal friend, Mr. Mercer of the Middle West is unable to make a telephone call, get back his one suit from the valet and get a single cup of coffee for breakfast. Some of the satiric implications of this sketch are lost in the dullness of the acting but "The Guest" has an idea and a manner.

For the rest, there are Jay C. Flippen, with the long cigar, the blurted speech and the sequence of jokes, and Al Trahan with an unsifted piano act out of vaudeville. Mr. Flippen is the professional entertainer, and an agreeable one, especially when Fay Brady comes on to make a few points herself with a grave manner. Mr. Trahan is the slapstick clown who can be uproariously funny one moment and tepidly silly the next. If the first "Little Show" had not set such a high standard for nimble-fingered fooling the professionalized comedy of "The Second Little Show" might not be so invidious—and disappointing.

85 HIRED AT HIGHER WAGE.

Kansas City Garment Firm Starts New Plan to Aid Business.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 2.—Three hundred women and girls and some men were at the offices of the Liberty Garment Company when A. B. Passman, president, knowing that there would be a crowd, opened at 6:30 o'clock this morning.

At 9 o'clock Mr. Passman had employed eighty-five of the women applicants and sent the remainder away until tomorrow morning, when others will be taken on, up to about 150.

The jam was due to his announcement Sunday morning that today he would increase the wage scale of his 450 employes 25 per cent, and take on 150 more workers at the new scale. Under the old scale of $14 to $30 a week the payroll was about $200,000 a year.

"At least one large employer told me he also would increase wages," Mr. Passman said. "He sees it just as I do, that if we all keep crowding wages down our customers soon will have nothing with which to buy our product.

"I believe others will fall in with the idea. At least it is going to be interesting to watch what follows this experiment."

SUES BORG FOR $100,000.

Reilly, Candidate for Sheriff, Also Names Publisher's Newspaper.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 2 (AP).—Harold V. Reilly, Republican candidate for sheriff in Bergen County, has instituted suit against John Borg, publisher, and the Bergen Evening Record Corporation for $100,000, alleging in papers filed in the office of Sheriff Harry Harper, Aug. 30, that The Bergen Evening Record, owned and controlled by Borg, has held him up to public hatred, ridicule and contempt and "induced the people to believe that he was a criminal."

Borg has not yet been served, but officials said tonight that service would be made tomorrow.

The suit is a development of Borg's fight against State Senator Chandless of Bergen County. The Evening Record has printed many editorials directed against the candidacy of Reilly, who is friendly with State Senator Chandless. Borg announced a few weeks ago that he would sue Chandless, Reilly and several others for $100,000 each on charges of having conspired to bring about his indictment by a Bergen County grand jury.

SON ACCUSES FATHER.

Yonkers Man Arrested on Gun Charge After Family Argument.

Constantine Kossifos, 65 years old, of 230 Ashburton Avenue, Yonkers, was arrested and arraigned in Yonkers City Court yesterday charged with possessing a revolver in violation of the Sullivan law after he had an argument with his estranged son, Peter, of 257 South Broadway, Yonkers.

The son said he went to the father's home to invite him to a christening party and that the father seized a .32 calibre revolver and threatened his life. Nicholas Kossifos, another son, denied there was any threat. As the revolver contained no bullets, and a detective found none, a suspended sentence was given.

BALLOON DROPS ON AUTO.

New Yorker and Vermont Man, in Car, Hurt at Rutland Fair.

RUTLAND, Vt., Sept. 2 (AP).—A deflated balloon used in an act at the Rutland Fair dropped 5,000 feet here today and smashed through the roof of an automobile traveling along the road to the fair.

William Vaughan of Pittsford was seriously injured and Howard Chandler of New York, who was riding with him, suffered a scalp wound. Mrs. Vaughan suffered shock.

Thugs Raid Dice Game, Get $1,500.

It was reported in Yonkers yesterday that a crap game was raided Monday night by racketeers near the corner of the Saw Mill River Road and Roberts Avenue, Yonkers. It was said gunmen rushed the players and took $1,500. Those indulging in the gambling game were reluctant to give much information, the police said.

SAYS ACTRESS PIRATED 'WELL OF LONELINESS'

Paris Publisher of the Novel Accuses Willette Kershaw on Stage Production.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—J. Holroyd Reece, who published Miss Radclyffe Hall's suppressed novel, "The Well of Loneliness," here, voiced a protest tonight against the action of the American actress Willette Kershaw in producing at a Paris theatre what he terms a pirated dramatic version of the novel.

Mr. Reece said that the novel had been withdrawn in England by its original publisher, Jonathan Cape, upon an understanding with the Home Secretary and that it was afterward published by Mr. Reece in Paris with the author's permission. Mr. Reece contends that it is this edition that Miss Kershaw has used in the dramatized version, which had its première showing in English tonight.

"What makes her offense serious," said Mr. Reece, "is that Miss Kershaw applied to the author for permission and when she failed to reach an agreement proceeded to produce the play in disregard of the author's protest."

Mr. Reece declared that legal authorities in London who had handled suits over the novel there had been advised and that they were considering whether it was possible to take action against Miss Kershaw.

The lawsuits in England and America were concerned with an author's right to express himself freely, said Mr. Reece, while the situation here, in his opinion, should arouse the interest of authors everywhere to prevent works of their creation from being exploited by unauthorized persons.

EQUITY BARS ACTORS FROM SUNDAY PLAYS

Forbids Members to Act in Brady's Proposed Forums Unless Receipts Are Given to Charity.

Members of the Actors' Equity Association will not be permitted to appear in the short playlets which William A. Brady plans to offer as part of his proposed Sunday night forums next month at the Playhouse. Frank Gillmore, president of Equity, declared yesterday that the Equity constitution expressly forbade members to play on Sundays except in cities "where Sunday performances are customarily given." Equity, Mr. Gillmore said, would sanction the forum presentations only in the event that all the proceeds were turned over to some bona fide charity. Mr. Brady plans to charge admission, ranging from 50 cents to $5.

When informed of Equity's stand on the Sunday night question, Mr. Brady reiterated his contention that the constitution does not prevent an actor from working on Sunday in New York City except in a full-length play.

As already announced, Mr. Brady will start a series of Sunday night forums on Oct. 12. Discussion of the accomplishments of the League of New York Theatres will be the subject of the first forum.

TO FIGHT BROOKLYN BAZAAR

Tranportation Board Aims to Bar Affair From City Property.

The Board of Transportation will apply to the Supreme Court in Brooklyn today for an order vacating an injunction issued to the Thirteenth Assembly District Democratic Club of Brooklyn on Saturday by Justice MacCrate barring the board and the Police Department from interference with a "bazaar" on city property. The board declared yesterday that it had received and refused in the last few months more than 200 applications for use of city property for such "bazaars."

Investigation has disclosed, the board announced, that these ventures are fostered mostly by operators of "charity rackets." A statement by the board yesterday declared that men who said they represented the Democratic club "forced" themselves on the property at McKibbin Street and Bushwick Avenue after their applications for permission to use the premises had been rejected.

When representatives of the board learned that the paraphernalia for a bazaar had been placed on the property they sought police aid to oust the operators, but then learned that a restraining order had been obtained, returnable today before Justice Dunne.

It was explained that property owners and residents near where these affairs are conducted have complained that noisy crowds gathered during the night and early morning hours.

PLANS TO SUE HELEN KANE.

Receiver to Demand Actress Return $50,000 Paid Her by Posner.

A suit against Helen Kane, stage and screen actress, to recover $50,000 paid to her by Murray Posner, partner in the bankrupt Bond Dress Company, and $20,000 worth of jewelry, allegedly bought for the actress by Mr. Posner out of the company's funds, will be entered in the Federal court following the appointment of a trustee for the bankrupt firm on Sept. 9, C. Edward Benoit, attorney for the Irving Trust Company, the receiver, announced yesterday.

Mr. Benoit, at the bankruptcy hearing on Sept. 25, had demanded that Miss Kane pay back the money. After the hearing yesterday, in the office of Referee Peter B. Olney Jr., Mr. Benoit said the suit would be entered.

Jack Eisen, partner in the dress company, testified that he never had objected to Mr. Posner's withdrawals, but that he would have protested had he known the money was being given to Miss Kane.

GETS JOB BACK, MUST QUIT.

Suspended Atlantic City Police Sergeant Promises to Retire.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 2.—Suspended on Aug. 15 for alleged dereliction of duty, Police Sergeant Edward Ehringer has been reinstated with the understanding that he will apply for a pension at the next meeting of the police board on Sept. 24, it was announced today from the office of Director of Public Safety William S. Cuthbert. Sergeant Ehringer received back pay for the time he was suspended.

Detective Clarence Jeffries, who was also suspended on Aug. 15 on charges of failing to report irregularities in his district, waived a hearing before Director Cuthbert and received a thirty-day suspension.

ARGENTINIANS LIKE O'NEILL.

Three of American Dramatist's Plays Produced in Buenos Aires.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 2.—Eugene O'Neill's plays are an important part of this year's theatrical offerings in this capital. A Russian company tonight presented, under the title "The Negro," his drama "All God's Chillun Got Wings," this being the third O'Neill drama produced here this season.

A Spanish company presented "Anna Christie" with great success a few weeks ago and the Russian company now playing recently produced "Desire Under the Elms" under the title of "Love Under the Alamos." "Anna Christie" also is having a long run here in moving pictures.

"NINE TILL SIX" COMING.

English Play, With All-Feminine Cast, at the Ritz, Sept. 29.

"Nine Till Six," the English play by Aimee and Philip Stuart, which will be one of two all-feminine productions on Broadway early this season, will come to the Ritz Theatre, recently vacated by "Cafe," on Monday, Sept. 29. The Shuberts are bringing over an English cast for the play, which deals with affairs in a London dressmaker's shop. Auriol Lee will have the leading rôle and will direct the production.

"Blind Mice," the other all-woman play, is currently trying out in Atlantic City. It will probably arrive here the week of Sept. 15.

GIRL IS CHAMPION SPELLER.

Carol Hallock of Riverhead Wins State Laurels at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 2 (AP).—After five hours of competition, Carol Hallock of Riverhead, champion speller of Suffolk County, emerged as State champion in the annual spelling bee at the State Fair here today.

Ethel Baum of Calicoon, Sullivan County, was second; Philip Malone of Pittsford, Monroe County, third, and Jane Nichols of Auburn, fourth.

"Tyrannical," "impecunious" and "panacea" were too much for Ethel. Her rival stumbled on "absorption" in the final test.

A written test of fifty words eliminated thirty-seven entries at the start, including all the boys but Malone, who won third honors in competition with nineteen girls.

GET 1,445 IN HOLD-UP.

Two Gunmen Flee After Binding Owners of Silk House Here.

Boldly walking into the office of Rout and Rosenthal, silk manufacturers at 20 West Twentieth Street, yesterday afternoon, two unknown men tied up the members of the firm and escaped with the weekly payroll, amounting to $1,455. After rifling the safe, the thieves took the watches and pocket cash belonging to David Rout and Joseph Rosenthal, the partners, and made their escape.

Although the manufacturing plant, with sixty employes, adjoins the office, no one there heard the thieves enter or leave.

Before leaving, the two gunmen tied up the partners with neckties, gagged them and warned them not to call the police.

FREED IN FLORIDA "PLOT."

Three Accused in Story of Plan to Kill Governor Are Dismissed.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 2 (AP).—Justice of the Peace J. C. Madison today dismissed on the ground of insufficient evidence charges of conspiring to cause the assassination of Governor Doyle E. Carlton, which had been preferred against Fred O. Eberhardt, Tallahassee publisher, and Frank Ralls and Henry Halsema, both of Jacksonville.

In ordering the dismissals, the Justice of the Peace declared:

"The State has failed to make a case sufficiently strong to justify binding these men over to criminal court."

Man Killed, 2 Hurt in Car Upset.

KEARNY, N. J., Sept. 2.—Nicholas Rupetti, 21 years old, of 292 Neptune Avenue, Jersey City, was killed today when his automobile skidded into a girder of the Lincoln Highway bridge over the Hackensack River and overturned. The car, according to the police, was driven by Albert Babcott of 48 Wade Street, Jersey City, who was slightly injured and after treatment was held on a charge of technical manslaughter, pending investigation. Allan Muller of 132 Romaine Avenue, Jersey City, also was hurt and was treated at the Jersey City Hospital.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The new Bayard Veiller play, "That's the Woman," will open tonight at the Fulton Theatre.

The 1930 edition of Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds" will have a postponed premiere at the Majestic Theatre, Brooklyn, tonight. The Negro revue was supposed to have opened there on Monday evening.

Recent casting engagements include Dorothea Chard for "The Cinderelative," which the Hymans are producing; Herbert Rawlinson for the new Cohan play, "A Well-Known Woman," and Enid Menhinick and Alice Belmore Cliffe for "Stepdaughters of War," which Chester Erskin is rehearsing for the Frohman Company. Miss Menhinick is an English actress who was seen here in "The Middle Watch."

"With Privileges" will not open next week in Philadelphia, as scheduled, but at the Boulevard Theatre, Jackson Heights.

Under the direction of Nathan Goldberg, the Yiddish Repertory Players will take over the Shubert-Riviera Theatre, Ninety-sixth Street and Broadway, on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 23. The company plans a weekly change of bill and will give Sunday night performances.

The new Gotham Theatre, Third Avenue and 125th Street, is to open on Sept. 12 as a burlesque stock house.

87% OF SHOWS RATED AS FAILURES IN YEAR

Last Season's Statistics Show Eva Le Gallienne Appeared Most Frequently.

Of 175 dramatic productions which opened in New York between Aug. 1, 1929, and July 31, 1930, 87 per cent were regarded as failures, or 2 per cent more than in the preceding season, according to a tabulation published today in the annual theatrical index of The Billboard, the weekly theatrical review.

The tabulation, which assumes that 100 or more performances are necessary to establish a hit, declares that, of fifty-four musical shows produced in the season of 1929-30, 69 per cent were rated as failures, an increase of 10 per cent over the 1928-29 season. Exclusive of productions still running on Aug. 1 of this year, twenty-two of last season's plays and twelve of the musical shows could be classed as hits, according to The Billboard. Thirty-five plays closed after only eight performances.

Further statistics gathered by The Billboard find that 2,865 players acted in dramatic productions and 2,854 were seen in musical shows. Two hundred and fifty-five authors were represented, as were fifty-five librettists, 101 composers, eighty-six lyric writers and ninety-three scenic designers. Eva Le Gallienne, with performances in fifteen plays, and Robert Ross, who acted in fourteen plays, were the most frequently seen actress and actor. Both are members of the Civic Repertory Company. One hundred and sixty producing offices were represented by productions during the season.

WYNN BUYS 'SIMPLE SIMON.'

Gets From Ziegfeld Music and Picture Rights.

Ed Wynn yesterday purchased from Florenz Ziegfeld the production, music and picture rights to "Simple Simon," in which he appeared at the Ziegfeld Theatre in the late Winter and Spring. Mr. Wynn said last night that after revising the production he would take it on tour, with himself as star, probably opening Oct. 6 in Newark. Harriet Hoctor has been re-engaged for the company, which will start rehearsals next week.

The comedian said that he alone was interested in the financing of the "Simple Simon" tour. The cost of the production at the Ziegfeld Theatre was, he stated, $197,000, but he declined to reveal how much he had paid for it.

Mr. Wynn's return to actor-managership will probably be made in the Shubert road theatres. The star and Lee Shubert quarreled at the time of the actors' strike in 1919, and it is only in the last few weeks that their differences of more than ten years' standing have been adjusted. The Erlanger circuit, Mr. Wynn said, had also offered to book the show, but he believed he would accept the Shubert proposition.

SCREEN NOTES.

"Dixiana," a musical film with Bebe Daniels, Everett Marshall, Wheeler and Woolsey and Dorothy Lee, will be presented at the Globe Theatre on Thursday evening.

Constance Cummings, a hitherto unknown musical comedy performer, has been selected by Samuel Goldwyn to appear as leading lady in Ronald Colman's next film, "The Prodigal," which is Frederick Lonsdale's first story written especially for the screen.

An Economic Necessity

Electricity is a daily economic necessity. Its use is universal and it has become so closely identified with almost every phase of our commercial, economic and social life that the demand for it is little affected by temporary adverse business conditions.

For stability of earning power and liberal yield we recommend the bonds and preferred stocks of well-established electric light and power companies.

Confused Movement in Stocks, Advances and Declines Intermingled—Grain Prices Decline.

The familiar and quite unwarranted tradition that the first business day of September will set the dial for the Autumn stock market did not get much help from yesterday's swing of prices. The picture was entirely confused. Half of the market moved slightly higher, the other half declined, and neither movement was of a character to indicate any definite trend. On the whole, declines predominated in stocks of the better class, but that may easily have resulted from the fact that the same stocks had been advanced rather persistently in the last half of the preceding week. In other words, yesterday's drift of prices probably signified nothing more than the day-to-day readjustment of accounts by professional speculators, in a market whose natural disposition would have been not to move at all.

There was nothing in the outside developments of the day to change that attitude, or to alter the seeming probability that no real movement will occur except on visible signs of a changing business situation. The market has had abundance of forecast or analogy, based on general principles; it appears in its present mood to be waiting for something more tangible. Most of the changes yesterday, whether upward or downward, were only slight. As a rule, the movement in one direction was partly reversed before the close, and this was perhaps more especially true of the declines. The bond market again gained ground; even the Argentine loan recovered a fair part of last week's 3 or 4 point decline.

As it turned out, grain prices rather than Stock Exchange movements occupied the centre of interest as the September market opened; all grains declined. Wheat set the example with a further fall of 2⅜ cents to 83 cents a bushel, bringing the September delivery nearly 2 cents below its previous low price, reached on Aug. 2. The lowest price of 1930 for any delivery was the 83⅝ cents for July contracts, at which the market sold on July 20; so that yesterday's figure was actually low mark for the year to date, also the lowest since July of 1914.

Yesterday's weakness in wheat was based, apparently, on expectation of a high estimate on this country's yield in the forthcoming Washington report and on favorable news from Canada's crop—two influences which, British grain authorities seem to think, will offset the decrease of some 150,000,000 bushels in the whole world's "carry-over" from the harvests of 1929. This is still partly conjecture, and it would have to be effected in the face of substantial reduction in Europe's yield this year. But the market is plainly shrinking from the prospect of actual increase in the unsold surplus on this continent.

The action of corn—which touched $1 a bushel for the first time since Aug. 7, then declined to a price 1½ cents under last week's closing—was less easily comprehensible. The one new influence of the day, publication of the private experts' estimates, appeared to favor higher prices. Their average forecast was for a crop of about 1,950,000,000 bushels, as against nearly 2,500,000,000 predicted from the same source a month ago. But the early private estimates of August plainly underrated the damage already done by drought, and the government on Aug. 11 cut its own estimate as of Aug. 1 to 2,212,000,000. Unless the Department of Agriculture then made large allowance for continuance of the drought, a government forecast next week of less than 2,000,000,000 bushels would not be illogical. On the other hand, the corn market's action yesterday seemed to reflect skepticism of even that much reduction.

NEW MINE PACT IN EFFECT.

Nearly All Lackawanna Fields Resume Operations.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 2 (AP).—With nearly all mines in this region operating on a full-time basis, the Lackawanna section of the anthracite fields saw the new wage pact between miners and operators become effective today under most favorable conditions.

The contract runs for five years and seven months and affects wages and working conditions of more than 150,000 men. The two principal features of the contract are that the miners retain the old wage scale and obtain a modified form of check-off. One concession won by the operators is that, whenever possible, the union agrees to the payment of wages by check rather than in cash.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

With a new high-speed ticker recording its operations, the stock market advanced with some vigor during the greater part of yesterday's trading, although irregularity in the last hour erased the earlier gains in many parts of the Stock Exchange list. Some of the outstanding market leaders were depressed by the selling. As a result, the final quotations did not present an altogether cheerful picture. Such stocks as United States Steel, Westinghouse Electric, American Can, General Electric and J. I. Case ended the day with moderate losses. The more striking price changes, however, were on the up side. There were sharp gains in Allied Chemical, Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific, Worthington Pump, Western Union, Warner Brothers, Atlas Stores and Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies, to mention only a few of the strong spots. The turnover on the Stock Exchange was 1,773,920 shares.

The "Little Stocks" Advance.

To the rank and file of traders it seemed significant yesterday that the low-priced stocks sprang to life for the first time in some weeks. This was of particular interest to those speculators who are obliged to consider margin requirements in their market calculations. The action of some of the stocks in the lower brackets suggested, however, that trading in them was not confined to the "small-fry" margin operators. There was heavy trading in such issues as Kelvinator, Texas Pacific Land Trust, American Commercial Alcohol, Briggs, Independent Oil, Continental Baking A and Standard Brands.

Change in Speculative Taste.

An indication that traders have adopted a less romantic attitude toward the aviation stocks than that which ruled for an extended period following the famous flight of Colonel Lindbergh was provided yesterday by the lack of any sentimental response to the Coste adventure. Although details of the voyage were awaited eagerly in brokerage offices, they apparently aroused no burning desire on the part of speculators to buy into the airplane companies. Shares of this group were marked by no special activity yesterday, and were somewhat softer than recently.

⁂

A Glorious Hope.

The important expansion in the use of electricity which the Pennsylvania Railroad is pushing to completion has served to call attention recently to this new potential outlet for companies that make electric rolling stock. Not even the most optimistic toward the new power, however, were prepared for the rumor circulated yesterday that an important industrial leader had urged or would urge before the administration a plan for electrifying "all the railroads in the country." In view of the fact that both of the country's great electric manufacturing companies stress the fact that electrification of railroads is applicable only in regions of dense traffic and then only after careful determination of the economics involved, interest in the rumor was directed chiefly at its possible source and the reason for its circulation.

Money Market Stays Easy.

Bankers were surprised at the continued ease in the money market yesterday. It had been generally supposed that the effects of the month-end settlements and the withdrawals of extra cash for holiday disbursements, not having been felt at the close of last week, would have their influence on the market yesterday. However, call money remained at 2 per cent at the money post of the Stock Exchange and was freely offered at 1½ per cent outside. Owing to the large currency demands over Labor Day, the beginning of September usually ushers in a period of noticeable firmness. The fact that there has been thus far no sign of tighter conditions calls attention once more to the extraordinary relaxation of the money market this year. It was remarked by bankers yesterday that the market may yet feel some reflection of the first-of-the-month turnover of funds. Frequently such demands do not exert their influence until four or five days after the actual peak of the demand when out-of-town transfers of funds occur.

Unfavorable News Ignored.

Brokers cited the market's indifference yesterday to unfavorable news. Among the developments were a decline in wheat prices to new low levels for the season, a decline of 16 per cent in August sales of Montgomery, Ward & Co., compared with sales for August, 1929; reports that third-quarter earnings of many industrial companies would be the lowest for any three-month period of this year, to date; and impending dividend meetings for some of the copper and motor equipment companies whose share distributions are considered generous in view of current earnings. In the absence of tangible news of business recovery, Wall Street continued to lay emphasis upon hopes and predictions of improvement.

Copper Dividend Meetings.

Several important dividend meetings in the copper group are scheduled for the next few days. As a result of the prevailing low prices for copper, the earnings of some producing companies have been reduced to the point where directors are likely to decide to "conserve cash" for the time being. Following the reduction in the dividend rates of most copper companies at the end of the June quarter, the consensus at that time was that no further reductions were likely in the immediate future. However, the recent weakness in the price of metal with little, if any, improvement in sales has materially changed this viewpoint. Since most of the copper stocks are selling at or around their low levels for the year, adverse dividend action is generally discounted, it is believed.

MONEY.

Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Contrary to general expectations, the money market continued extremely easy yesterday, showing no reflection of the turnover incident to the month-end and holiday. Inside the Stock Exchange call money continued at 2 per cent and outside money was plentiful at 1½ per cent.

9,000 TICKERS BEGIN HIGH-SPEED SERVICE

New Stock Exchange Machines, Installed in Fifteen Months, Start Fast Operation.

TO CARRY 9,000,000 SHARES

But Only 1,773,920 on First Day Result in Long Pauses, Confusing Tape Watchers.

Followers of the stock market throughout the United States and Canada were served yesterday for the first time by the new high-speed ticker system which the New York Stock Exchange and the Western Union Telegraph Company have installed during the last fifteen months at a cost of many millions of dollars.

The new ticker service, geared to a speed that will insure the prompt recording of between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 shares a day, replaces a quotation system which was found wholly inadequate in the big bull market which ended with the collapse of prices last Autumn. Since that time the capacity of the old tickers has been taxed on only a few days, but the new service is designed to meet any extraordinary demands that may be made upon the Exchange's facilities in the future. The Exchange, in installing the new system, is believed to have anticipated any reasonable expansion in trading during the next few years.

9,000 Tickers in Use.

More than 9,000 of the new tickers have been installed and were placed in operation yesterday. Of these, about 2,800 are operated by the New York Quotation Company, a subsidiary of the Stock Exchange, and about 6,200 by the Western Union Telegraph Company. The former serves member firms and their branches and the latter non-members.

Installation of the new tickers was necessarily a gradual process. As they were installed, the old tickers were discarded, but the entire service was geared down to the same pace so that no subscribers had an advantage in the receipt of quotations. At the opening yesterday morning, however, the whole system was placed on a high-speed basis.

As it happened, there was little need for the new service on the first day of its operation. Only 1,773,920 shares were turned over on the Stock Exchange, a volume which the old system could have recorded on a part-time basis. As it was, the new tickers remained motionless during awkward periods in which there was not enough trading to keep the machinery going. Many tape-watchers, unapprised of the fact that the new system was operating on high speed for the first time, thought that the machines were running into difficulties and drew their brokers' attention to the long pauses.

Early Revival Expected.

Brokers, who have been complaining for some months of dull business, were hopeful yesterday of an early revival in trading.

"At least, we are prepared for whatever may happen," one of them said. "Let's hope that it won't be long before the new system is obsolete." He voiced the sentiments of many of the brokerage community.

The new ticker, although designed to carry a load of 9,000,000 shares in a day, would fall behind were the volume to reach such heights as were seen in the big days of last Autumn. The Exchange's engineers have not been able thus far to work out a system that will carry without delay 12,000,000 and 16,000,000 share turnovers such as were handled at that time.

The new tickers have been installed in nearly 9,000 offices throughout the United States and Canada.

BACKS CHANGES IN CELOTEX

Management Urges Proposal for New Financial Program.

The management of the Celotex Company has sent a letter to stockholders urging them to act favorably upon the plan recommended by a group of stockholders providing for the creation of a voting trust and a revised financial program. The letter says the plan is designed to take care of the cash needs of the company and carry the business forward with increased earnings, as well as to re-establish a proper market value for the common stock.

The detailed announcement of the plan discloses new interests in the company, which include White, Weld & Co. and the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company. In addition to underwriting at $9 a share the 55,302 shares of common stock that are to be offered to stockholders at $10 a share, White, Weld & Co. and associates are to receive options to purchase 100,000 shares of stock at $15 a share for five years. W. S. Gray Jr. of the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, C. S. Mott of Flint, Mich., a vice president of the General Motors Corporation, and T. A. Burt of Urbana, Ill., are to be named voting trustees.

P. R. R. Cuts New Yorker's Time.

By cutting the running time of the New Yorker, eastbound, the Pennsylvania Railroad will increase the number of its twenty-hour trains between New York and Chicago to seven on Sept. 28. The New Yorker now makes the eastbound run in twenty-one hours and twenty-five minutes. The time of the Rainbow westbound will be cut one hour to twenty hours and fifty minutes on that date, giving the road thirteen trains operating between the cities on schedules of less than twenty-one hours.

Lehigh Valley's Assets.

Assets of the Lehigh Valley Railroad on June 30 totaled $251,074,000, against $253,513,000 a year previously. Current assets were $12,404,000, against $13,431,000, and current liabilities $8,908,000, against $8,685,000. Profit and loss surplus was $58,977,000, against $62,230,000. Road and equipment totaled $109,148,000, against $111,207,000.

Sees Southern Ry. Dividends in 1931

In a recent statement to Redmond & Co., Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway, said that "we believe we have the formula to provide for dividends in 1931." As quoted in THE NEW YORK TIMES, the year was given as 1930.

Buy INCOME Now

■ The true purpose of investment is to obtain income either present or future. If that were not the case, money would be cached in tin boxes and safety deposit vaults.

When a man buys common stocks presumably for capital appreciation he is still in the last analysis buying income—a rising income—because the market value of a stock rises in the long run only because of increased payments to stockholders. There would be no market for the stock at higher prices unless the prospective purchaser was satisfied that the income to be obtained through it immediately or later was going to be worth the price.

It is apparent if the fundamental purpose of investment is kept in mind that this is an exceptional time to invest. The income obtainable from bonds and stocks is unusually good. Not only is it high on a straight dollar basis, but the steady decline in the cost of living has made the dollar worth more in purchasing power than it was worth last year.

Among the securities we recommend at this time are the following investment stocks whose yields at present prices afford a distinct buying opportunity:

■ Abbott Laboratories Common Stock Yielding about 6.00%
■ Construction Materials Corporation Preference Stock Yielding about 8.50%
■ John Morrell & Co., Inc. Common Stock Yielding about 8.30%
■ National Securities Investment Company Units Yielding about 6.75%
■ The Parker Pen Company Common Stock Yielding about 7.60%

KANSAS LAND BANK TO BE REORGANIZED

Federal Farm Loan Board Approves Plan Detailed for $48,000,000 Institution.

A. O. STEWART IS SPONSOR

Cravens, Who Wrecked One-Time Prosperous Bank, Is Serving Six Years in Penitentiary.

Details of the reorganization plan of the Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank, which went into receivership in 1927, were made public yesterday, opening the way for the solution of one of the most difficult problems of the Federal Farm Loan Bureau. The plan, which has the endorsement of the protective committee of the bank's bondholders and of the Federal Farm Loan Board, provides for the sale of substantially all the legally salable assets of the present bank and the establishment of two new corporate structures: a joint stock land bank and a liquidation company, to which will be transferred the entire capital stock of the new bank and all acquired assets remaining after carrying out the other provisions of the plan.

The plan was submitted by A. O. Stewart of San Francisco, capitalist, after consultation with the bondholders' protective committee. Its acceptance is conditional upon the approval of holders of 95 per cent of the aggregate principal amount of the bond obligations of the present bank or such lesser amount as Mr. Stewart may elect to accept as satisfactory. As the bondholders' committee represents considerably more than a majority of the bondholders, acceptance of the plan is regarded as assured.

According to the terms, it is contemplated that substantially all assets of the present bank will be offered for sale. The committee and Mr. Stewart will bid and, if the successful bidders, will use as far as possible the dividends available on the participating bond obligations for acquisition of these assets. If they acquire the assets and then find that the dividends available are insufficient to provide the entire payment, Mr. Stewart will provide at his own expense such cash as may be necessary to supply the deficiency and will thereupon become entitled to the benefits of certain options available to the bondholders to the same extent as though he had deposited under the plan a principal amount of bond obligations equal to the principal amount, if any, of such obligations which do not participate in the plan.

Assets to Pay Bondholders.

The assets of the bank so acquired are to be utilized, in so far as they consist of cash on hand or in banks or United States Government securities, to make payment to bondholders under a 60 per cent cash surrender option, which is to be extended. If the assets should be insufficient, Mr. Stewart will provide the necessary additional cash. In addition, the assets are to be utilized for the establishment under the provisions of the Federal Farm Loan act of a new joint stock land bank with headquarters in Kansas City and a corporation referred to in the plan as the "Liquidation Company."

The new bank will have a lending territory inclusive of Missouri and Kansas. It will have assets consisting of a sufficient amount of government securities and cash to provide a paid-in capital equal to not less than one-fifteenth of the amount of new bonds required to be issued by the new bank in order to carry out the plan and a paid-up reserve amounting to not less than 20 per cent of such capital. It will also have as assets as many of the mortgage loans of the present bank, classified as of Dec. 31, 1928, by the receiver of the present bank as Grade A and Grade B loans, as in the opinion of the Federal Farm Loan Board shall be eligible and in good standing at the time of the issuance of such new bonds and as may be required by the board, together with additional assets to provide for the issuance by the new bank of new bonds to the extent necessary to carry out the plan.

In the event that the assets of the present bank should, in the opinion of the Federal Farm Loan Board, be insufficient to meet these requirements, Mr. Stewart will, at his own expense, provide the new bank with whatever additional assets may be necessary.

All assets of the present bank that are not used for the foregoing purposes, together with all the capital stock of the new bank except organizers' and directors' qualifying shares, are to be vested in the liquidation company. Mr. Stewart and the bondholders' committee may determine the corporate set-up and the State in which the liquidation company is to be incorporated.

Method to Bolster Bonds.

To augment the soundness of the bonds of the new bank in its earlier years the liquidation company is to be obligated for three years to purchase from the bank any farm mortgages that shall have been in default for ninety days. This obligation will extend to a principal amount of not more than $1,500,000 in the three years and not to exceed $500,000 in the first year or $1,000,000 in the second. Payment of these mortgages may be made with other farm mortgages approved by the Farm Loan Board, in cash or in government securities at par. Any assets of the liquidation company not required in the judgment of its directors for these purposes will be distributed to stockholders.

Holders of bond obligations of the present bank who become a party to the plan are to have the choice of exercising one or more of three options, designated by the letters A, B and C. Under Plan A they may receive 60 per cent in cash of the principal amount of their holdings. Under Plan B 85 per cent of the principal amount will be offered to bondholders in the form of new 5 per cent bonds of the new bank. These bonds are to have a maturity of not more than thirty-one years and not less than thirty years, and are to be subject to payment and retirement at any time after ten years from the date of their issue.

Bondholders who elect Plan C may receive 85 per cent of the principal amount of their holdings in bonds of the new bank bearing interest at 4½ per cent and having a maturity and call date similar to the 5 per cent bonds, and in addition may receive a share of the capital stock of the liquidation company. This share will consist of so much of 40 per cent of the capital stock of the liquidation company as is represented by a fraction whose numerator is the principal amount of the bond obligations surrendered under option C and whose denominator is 44,376,500.

All stock of the liquidation company not required for the purposes of option C shall be issued to Mr. Stewart under the terms of the plan. Any holder of participating bond obligations may surrender them under any one of the three options or he may divide them among all three in whatever proportions he prefers.

In submitting the plan to bondholders the protective committee says it believes the offer to be the best means of promptly turning the present inactive investment of the bondholders into cash or into an interest-bearing investment. The time limit for participation in the plan and the selection of an option will expire on Dec. 15. Bondholders are notified that if they fail to designate an option choice but signify their desire to participate in the plan, they will be deemed to have elected participation among the three options as nearly equally as the committee shall determine to be practical.

Members of Protective Committee.

The members of the Bondholders' Protective Committee are:

W. S. McLUCAS, chairman, Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City.
W. E. STANLEY, Mitchell-Hutchins & Co., Chicago.
FREDERICK A. CARROLL, National Shawmut Bank, Boston.
P. T. WHITE, Cleveland Trust Company, Cleveland.
ROGER K. BALLARD, Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, New York.
EDWIN K. HOOVER, First National Company, Detroit.
FRANK C. BALL, Ball Brothers Company, Muncie, Ind.
ARTHUR W. BRADY, Union Traction Company of Indiana, Anderson, Ind.
RUEL W. POOR, Chase National Bank, New York.
JOZACH MILLER, secretary.
JAMES A. REED and MASSEY HOLMES, counsel for committee.

In signifying its approval of the plan, the Federal Farm Loan Board in a letter to the bondholders' committee states that it has also been informed that the stockholders' protective committee of the bank has approved the plan and will cooperate in its consummation. The board's approval was conveyed in a letter by Chester Morrill, secretary and general counsel, in which it was said:

"In view of the fact that these two committees respectively represent considerably more than a majority of the bondholders and stockholders of the bank, and there has been furnished satisfactory assurance that the obligations of Mr. Stewart in connection with the carrying out of the plan will be performed; that participation in the plan is to be offered to all bondholders of the bank, and that it is contemplated that it will become operative only upon assent thereto by a large percentage of such bondholders, the board has requested me to advise you that the proposed reorganization, if carried out in accordance with the plan (or any modifications thereof approved by the board) and the obligations of Mr. Stewart in connection therewith, will receive the approval of the board."

WILL BE BOON TO KANSAS.

Reorganization of Land Bank Will Restore Facilities Once Enjoyed.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 2 (AP).—Rehabilitation of the Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank, announced here tonight, would restore land bank facilities to Kansas, which has not been included in the territory of any joint stock land bank since the one here was wrecked under the presidency of Walter Cravens. Cravens was sentenced June 2, 1928, to six years in the Federal Penitentiary and fined $25,000 for misappropriating funds and making false entries. The new bank would operate also in Missouri.

With bonds totaling approximately $48,000,000, it was rated at one time as the second largest bank of its kind in the nation.

ROY. A. YOUNG IN NEW POST.

Heads Boston Federal Reserve Bank —Comments on Credit.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Roy A. Young today took up his duties as governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston. He had little to say regarding business and banking conditions in New England and intimated that he preferred to wait until a later date before commenting on them.

In a prepared statement Mr. Young said it was too soon to make any interesting report on business, but that his best efforts would be exerted on behalf of the people of New England, from both a local and a national standpoint.

Pressed for some further statement, Mr. Young said there was an easy and exceptionally strong credit structure in the country today.

"The Federal Reserve banks throughout the country are in excellent condition," he said. "They are all ready and willing to function, and as soon as business returns to normal they will function."

Mr. Young came here from Washington, where for three years he was governor of the Federal Reserve Board. He resigned this position to take up his duties here.

Mr. Young is 48 years old. He entered the business world as a telegraph messenger. He was born in Marquette, Mich. At the age of 37 he was appointed governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

Bank's Funds Increased $4,000,000.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 2 (AP).—The Marine Midland Corporation has made a further investment of $4,000,000 in the Union Trust Company of Rochester, an affiliate of Midland. It has purchased 20,000 shares of Union Trust stock at $200 a share, which Frederick W. Zoller, president of Union Trust, says gives his bank the largest capital and surplus of any bank in Rochester.

Foreign Sales for Rainbow Light.

Rainbow Light, Inc., operating subsidiary of Rainbow Luminous Products, Inc., has made arrangements with United Aircraft Export, Inc., a division of the United Aircraft and Transport Corporation, for the sale abroad of the neon airport lighting equipment of the Rainbow company, it was announced yesterday. This contract covers all foreign territories except those in which Rainbow Light already has licensees.

CHANGE IN CAPITAL FOR FAIRBANKS CO.

Readjustment Committee Plan Includes 50% Reduction in Bonded Indebtedness.

CUTS PAR VALUE OF STOCK

Common to Be $1 Instead of $25, With Increase From 60,000 to 170,000 Shares.

Readjustment of the capital structure of the Fairbanks Company through which its bonded indebtedness will be reduced almost 50 per cent, the dividend rate on its first preferred stock lowered from 8 per cent annually to 6 per cent, and that on the preferred stock from $6 annually to $2, and the par value of the common stock reduced from $25 to $1 a share has been agreed upon by the readjustment committee, which includes representatives of all classes of stock. The company manufactures valves, trucks, wheelbarrows and Dart-Unions.

The plan also includes the payment to the first preferred stockholders of seven shares of common stock for each share of first preferred stock now held, in settlement of accumulated dividends, and the reduction in the redemption price from $110 a share to $100 and accrued dividends. The preferred stockholders will receive two shares of common stock in payment of accumulated dividends on each share and the redemption price will be lowered to $25 a share and accrued dividends from $100.

It is also proposed to increase the authorized common shares from 60,000 to 170,000, of which 60,000 will be issued to present common stockholders on a share-for-share basis and the balance to the first preferred and preferred stockholders, with the exception of 11,557 shares to be reserved for issuance by the management for other corporate purposes.

"No dividend has been paid on any class of stock of the company during the past nine years," a letter from the committee to stockholders says. "Due to continued efforts and rigid economies in management, the company, from an operating standpoint, has demonstrated during recent years that its business can be carried on profitably. However, the excessive capitalization and the large deficit continue to impair the company's financial strength and to retard its development. The readjustment of the capital structure on the basis contemplated in the plan will permit the normal growth of the company's business and should materially increase the value of the holdings of all stockholders and put the company in a position to resume dividend payments."

NEW GAS LINE TO FLORIDA.

$1,000,000 Project to Link Louisiana Fields With Pensacola.

A natural gas pipe line linking Florida with the Louisiana gas fields has been authorized by the Southern Natural Gas Corporation, and work on it will be begun soon, it was announced yesterday. The line will connect with the company's main line near Mobile, Ala., and will run to Pensacola. It will cost about $1,000,000.

The Natural Gas Engineering Corporation, which will build the line, plans to have natural gas available for distribution in Pensacola about Dec. 1. About 1,000 men will be employed. The line will consist of 12¾-inch acetylene-welded pipe.

Among difficulties to be faced by the builders are ten miles of swamps southeast of Bay Minette, Ala., and the crossing of the Tensas and Mobile Rivers. The line will be sixty-seven miles in length.

Callable in whole or in part on the first day of any month on sixty days' notice at 105 and interest through September 1, 1935, the premium decreasing 1% for each five years or fraction thereof thereafter elapsed through September 1, 1955, and thereafter prior to maturity at 100 and interest. Coupon Bonds of $1,000 denomination registerable as to principal only, and interchangeable with fully registered Bonds in denominations of $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000 and authorized multiples thereof. The Chase National Bank of the City of New York, Trustee.

TAX PROVISIONS: The Company will agree to pay interest without deduction for any Federal Income Tax not exceeding 2% per annum which it may be required or permitted to pay thereon or retain therefrom, and to reimburse the holders of these Bonds, upon application within sixty days after payment, for the Pennsylvania personal property tax not exceeding 4 mills per annum.

Mr. Franklin T. Griffith, President of Portland General Electric Company, has summarized in part his letter to us as follows, copies of which will be furnished on request:

Company: Portland General Electric Company, incorporated in July 1930 under the laws of Oregon, will own and operate directly or through subsidiaries electric power and light properties now owned or controlled by Pacific Northwest Public Service Company, in Portland, Salem, Oregon City, Hillsboro, St. Helens, Silverton and over 70 other communities in western Oregon and in Vancouver, Washington. The Company and its subsidiaries will serve over 109,000 electric customers located in a territory having an estimated population in excess of 460,000. Portland, Oregon, one of the largest and most important cities in the Pacific Northwest, is a substantial financial, commercial and industrial center. The Company's properties will include electric generating plants having an aggregate capacity of 227,850 hp. Of this total, 126,650 hp. (over one-half) will be hydro-electric, including a 38,000 hp. generator now being installed, which should be in operation about November 1, 1930. Through interconnection with other large power companies, the Company's transmission system will be an integral part of the extensive superpower system of the Pacific Coast.

Security: The First and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, upon redemption of outstanding bonds to be called or prior discharge of mortgages securing the same, for which funds from the proceeds of this issue will be deposited, will be secured by a direct first mortgage on the major portion of the fixed properties to be owned by the Company and will be further secured by a direct mortgage on the remainder of its fixed properties, subject only to $6,813,000 of underlying bonds (due July 1, 1935).

Capitalization: The capitalization of the Company upon completion of this financing and application of the proceeds thereof will be as follows:

	Authorized	To be outstanding
Common Stock (No Par)	500,000 shs.	250,000 shs.*
First Mortgage 5% Bonds, due July 1, 1935	Closed	$6,813,000
First and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds, 4½% Series due 1960 (this issue)		$40,000,000

* All except directors' qualifying shares to be owned by Pacific Northwest Public Service Company.
 To be limited by restrictive provisions of the Mortgage.

Earnings: Consolidated earnings for the twelve months ended June 30, 1930 derived from the properties to be owned by the Company and its subsidiaries upon completion of this financing were as follows:

Gross Operating Revenues and Other Income	$8,105,991
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes (excluding Federal Income Taxes)	3,495,649
Net Earnings before Interest, Depreciation, etc.	$4,610,342
Annual Interest Requirements on Funded Debt to be outstanding (including this issue)	$2,140,650

Net earnings, as shown above, were equal to approximately 2.15 times annual interest requirements on the entire funded debt of the Company to be outstanding upon completion of this financing. The above earnings do not reflect any income to be derived from the 38,000 hp. generator now being installed. The operating properties to be owned by the Company are used solely for an electric power and light business and the revenues therefrom are derived entirely from the sale of electric energy.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds to be derived from the sale of these Bonds will be used to retire approximately $29,000,000 principal amount of 5, 5½, 6 and 7½% mortgage debt now outstanding against the properties to be owned by the Company, to refund advances for the installation of additional generating capacity, to provide the Company with working capital and for other corporate purposes.

Argentine and Brazilian Loans Recover From Their Slump of Last Friday.

PERUVIANS ALSO IMPROVE

All Active Mexican Issues Reach New Tops for Year on the Stock Exchange.

Dealings in the listed bond market yesterday were marked by substantial recoveries in several Argentine and Brazilian government and municipal loans, which were depressed on Friday on the Stock Exchange as a result of the news of the political unrest. Recoveries in Argentine Government bonds ranged from ¾ to 1¼ points, although four issues of this group showed fractional losses. Two Brazilian Government issues regained ¼ point and 1¼ points, respectively, and two others were off the same amounts.

City of Rio de Janeiro (Brazil) 6½s were up 2 points, while the 8s were off ½ point. State of Rio Grande do Sul (Brazil) 7s were up 2½ points and the 8s of 1946 ⅞ point, while the 6s of 1968 sold off 1¼ points to a new low at 63. City of Sao Paulo (Brazil) 6½s of 1957 moved up 2½ points, while the State of Sao Paulo issues were up ¼ point to down 2⅝ points.

Further recoveries were scored by Peruvian Government bonds, the first 6s moving up ⅝ point and the second 6s ¾ point. Other South American loans were irregular.

All active Mexican issues rose sharply to new tops for the year. The gains ranged from 1 to 3½ points. Mexican railway issues were up ½ point to 2¾ points. French Government 7s moved up ¼ point to 120¼, the highest price at which this issue has ever sold.

Although several leading railroad and public utility issues touched new high marks for the year, domestic bonds averaged slightly lower. The heaviest losers included Seaboard Air Line 4s of 1950, off 10 points to a new low at 56; Cuban Dominican Sugar 7½s of 1944, stamped, off 15 points to a fresh bottom at 20 on a single transaction; Dold Packing 6s, off 4 points to a new low at 59; Illinois Steel 4½s of 1940, off 3⅞ points; Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad consolidated 5s, off 2⅜ points to a bottom of 27⅝; Missouri, Kansas & Texas adjustment 5s, off 2 points to a new low at 98, and Richfield Oil, off 2 points to a new low at 84.

United States Government issues were quiet. Final prices were up ⅟₃₂ to off ⅟₃₂.

Reports of Business Done in August and Eight Months Compared With Year Ago.

Montgomery Ward & Co.—August: $20,966,819, compared with $24,955,313 last year, a decrease of $3,988,494, or 15.9 per cent. Eight months: $169,820,545, compared with $167,571,196 last year, an increase of $2,249,349, or 1.3 per cent. In connection with the decrease in August the company said: "August, 1929, was an abnormal month, with sales 46.73 per cent ahead of August, 1928, due to the stimulus of a prepaid freight policy. In July, 1930, the company announced substantial price reductions and ceased the prepayment of freight. The decrease in August dollar sales was in large measure accounted for by these price reductions, which became effective with issuance of the New Fall and Winter catalogue late in July."

GENERAL THEATRES ADDS TO EARNINGS

Equipment Company Reports 47c a Share Additional From Loew's and Fox Films.

TOTAL $1.88 FOR HALF YEAR

H. L. Clarke, President, Says Orders Booked by Subsidiaries Are Breaking All Records.

In a statement supplementary to the recent report of earnings of General Theatres Equipment, Inc., for the six months ended on June 30, Harley L. Clarke, president, announced yesterday additional earnings of 47 cents a share arising from the company's equity in the earnings of Loew's, Inc., and the Fox Film Corporation. The report issued last Saturday showed for the six months a net profit of $4,024,333, or $1.41 a share on the common stock. The amount added yesterday brought the net profit to $1.88 a share.

Neither statement of earnings, it was said, reflected any income from the ownership by General Theatres of all the Class B common stock of the Fox Theatres Corporation, which has no corporate relationship with the Fox Film Corporation.

Mr. Harley's statement said in part:

"It is interesting to note that General Theatres Equipment, Inc., has readily marketable stocks which at current quotations show an excess over cost (at which they are carried) of more than $20,000,000. General Theatres Equipment, Inc., not only owns more than 50 per cent of the voting or Class B common stock of Fox Film Corporation, but also owns a large block of Class A stock, the two together being over 48 per cent of the total outstanding Class A and Class B stock of the Fox Film Corporation. General Theatres Equipment also owns warrants to purchase additional Fox Film Corporation Class A stock at $35 per share, which, if exercised, would give the General Theatres Equipment, Inc., over 51 per cent of the combined Class A and Class B common stock.

"The first six months of the year are always the poorest in the theatre equipment business and this condition was accentuated this year by the reluctance of theatre owners generally to make any purchases unless absolutely necessary. This hesitancy in buying, however, is now over by force of necessity, as is evidenced by the largest orders ever before reported booked by subsidiaries of the General Theatres Equipment, Inc."

Every Investor Should Consider Bonds

Debenture bond prices have not advanced appreciably above the levels of 1929—the year of lowest prices since 1925. Present market conditions and low interest rates indicate a strong bond market in the near future accompanied by rising bond prices.

For safety and a good return we recommend Associated Gas and Electric Company Gold Debenture Bonds, due 1968—priced to yield over 5¼%.

North American Trust Shares
Massachusetts Investors Trust

AFTER studying several of the leading investment trusts, we selected one of the fixed type and one of the management type. We believe each possesses features which strongly commend it to every investor.

A short time ago, we became distributors of NORTH AMERICAN TRUST SHARES. This is the largest fixed investment trust, over $100,000,000 having been purchased by investors. The 28 common stocks which underlie these Shares represent equities from among America's greatest corporations.

We are now also pleased to announce our new association as distributors of

Massachusetts Investors Trust

MASSACHUSETTS INVESTORS TRUST was organized in 1924, and has attained wide distribution and an excellent reputation. Shares in this Trust represent a sound method of compounding capital. The investment of the original shareholders increased from July 15, 1924 to June 30, 1930 at an average rate of 13.55% per year while also yielding 6.7% average annual income.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

Cheerful Conditions Prevail on English Exchange—Bears Less in Evidence.

FRENCH STOCKS ADVANCE

Prices Show Marked Improvement but Trading Is Quiet—Fairly Steady in Germany.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Cheerful conditions prevailed on the Stock Exchange today, many brokers having more buying than has been usual on a Tuesday for some weeks. Bear operations were less in evidence. In British Government funds the feature was the firmness of Indian stocks. Other securities in this market were heavy owing to resumption of gold withdrawals for France.

One of the most active spots was Hydro-Electric, which advanced to $38½, with buying mostly from the Belgian capital. This issue, however, reacted to $38¼ after midday. All the international issues were better priced, having been marked up in anticipation of a firm opening in the American markets after the Labor Day holiday. Columbia Graphophone rose to £1 1-16 and His Master's Voice Gramophone to £3 3-16. Brazilian Traction was active and higher, $36¼, and there was a further half a point advance in Radio Corporation.

Rayons were good, Courtaulds advancing 1s 3d and British Celanese 6d. Renewed support was given Imperial Chemical, and cables and wireless showed rises of 2½ to 3½ points. Rubber slipped back to 4 11-16d a pound, but shares ignored this movement and prices of stocks in several instances were higher.

Apex had an early rise 18s 1½d in oils, but reacted in the afternoon. In the mining group there was considerable activity in the chartered 15-shilling shares. Buying lifted the price to 32s 10½d.

Credit was in ample supply. Short loans and old day-to-day renewals were both obtainable at 1½ per cent. Rates in the discount market kept firm despite the ease in money. Sterling exchange on New York was $4.86 25-32@$4.86 27-32.

Trend Upward in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The Bourse showed marked improvement today, although trading was only scattering. Because of the prolonged inactivity, however, stocks responded quickly to any tendency toward exchanges just as they seemed to be adversely affected by sales which at other times would be insignificant. The tendency was upward throughout the session and most stock closed at the day's highest prices.

Rentes were fairly well traded, closing as follows: The 3 per cents, 89.20; 1918 4s, 101.20; 1920 amortizable 5s, 136.35; 1928 5s, 104; 1920 6s, 103.75; 1927 amoritzable 6s, 106.05.

CANADIAN BANK DEBITS SHOW MARKED DECLINE

Total for Seven Months Put at $22,119,000,000, Drop of 17% From Year Ago.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—Financial transfers reflecting the business depression of the current period showed a marked decline for all Canada last July. After seasonal adjustment, bank debits were 8 per cent lower than in June, the drop without adjustment being from $3,398,000,000 to $3,094,000,000, or nearly 9 per cent, says a report issued today from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

After the usual adjustment for seasonal tendencies the greatest proportional decline was shown in the Prairie Provinces. The decrease in the aggregate for the three Provinces was nearly 15 per cent. The decline in Ontario and Quebec was 6.4 per cent each, while British Columbia was down 7.2 per cent.

Bank debits during the first seven months of the present year amounted to $22,119,000,000, a decline of 17.6 per cent from the same period of 1929. The drop in Ontario was $2,071,000,000, or nearly 19 per cent, while debits in Quebec during the first seven months were down nearly 17 per cent. The Prairies Provinces showed a drop of 15.5 per cent, and British Columbia was down nearly 20 per cent. The decrease of 13 per cent in the Maritime Provinces was relatively less than in any other economic area.

NATIONAL CITY BANK SEES TRADE GAINING

Worst of Depression Viewed as Ended, With Autumnal Rise Over Summer Expected.

THREE FAVORABLE SIGNS

Recovery Held Back by Slow House-Building and Auto Making, Suffering From Over-Output.

The business situation affords a basis for belief that the worst months of the depression have been seen although changes have been irregular, according to the current review of economic conditions by the National City Bank of New York. Business has held up under a combination of unfavorable conditions—seasonal relaxation, a serious crop scare and a world-wide reaction in full swing—the review says. It continues:

"Nevertheless, in the last week of the month (August), an upturn in steel mill operations, construction contracts and car-loadings quite offset earlier and unfavorable reports from the same quarters, and strengthened confidence that at least the usual gains of Fall over Summer will be experienced.

"Two important industries hold back the recovery, and affect the prospects for Fall business, house-building and the manufacture of automobiles. The reason, of course, is that they had been previously overdone.

"Industrial construction and public works are making a good showing. There was a sharp rebound in automobile production during the early part of August. For the first seven months this year the production of motor vehicles of all classes was 2,481,911, against 3,726,283 for the same months in 1929, a decline of 44 per cent.

"Such a drastic curtailment in production has enabled dealers and branch distributers to reduce inventories of new and used cars from the rather excessive level that prevailed early in the year."

BANKERS SHORTEN MEETING

Investment Group Also Plan One Closed Session at Convention.

The official program of the nineteenth annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, which will be held in New Orleans from Oct. 12 to 15, was announced yesterday. It reduces the traditional six-day meeting to four days and abandons the open house custome by providing for one closed session of the association, at which all delegates will be urged to express their opinions in a discussion of the more urgent problems of the investment banking business.

Heretofore all sessions of the association's conventions have been open to the press as well as to delegates, with verbatim transcript of the proceedings available to all interested each day. It is said no record of the closed session will be distributed, either to the press or to members. The purpose of the closed session, it is explained, is to encourage a wide participation in the discussions.

C. O. Pietsch to Take Rest.

Charles O. Pietsch, who has been associated with the secretary's office of the New York Produce Exchange for fifty-six years, received yesterday a six-month leave of absence with full pay from the board of managers of the Exchange. He is 72 years old. Failing health has made his physicians advise a long rest.

A
Central Hanover Estate Plan Concentrates On Economy

You may not realize how great a shrinkage may occur in your estate when your property passes to your heirs. The average on 32,668 estates analyzed by Central Hanover from Government records was 18.48%; many ran much higher.

Central Hanover knows that in a majority of cases much of this shrinkage can be avoided.

The major ways to estate economy developed by long experience in passing property from one generation to another are presented in a Central Hanover Estate Plan. Its object is to increase the net value of your estate and at the same time carry out your wishes.

Without cost, you may have a Central Hanover Plan for your estate, including the actual figures for comparison with your present plan.

Our trust officers are always available for consultation with you and your attorney on any estate matter.

"How a Central Hanover Plan May Increase the Net Value of Your Estate"

A STERN AND ROCKBOUND PURPOSE

Perhaps the sturdiest business sentiment to be found in this country today is that prevailing in the New England States.

Having faced and conquered many business obstacles throughout the post-war period, New Englanders accept adverse odds as natural hazards—to be overcome, not helplessly deplored.

Commercial Credit awaits with high expectations the day when all sections of our country adopt the same constructive point of view. On a sound operating basis today, and in a state of high efficiency in all departments, this company looks forward to unprecedented growth and new levels of prosperity from the time when grim determination supersedes self-pity universally.

Earnings First

No one can deny that earnings are a better index of a corporation's worth than is the value of its plant. Nor can anyone deny that earnings cannot be correct unless accounting for expenditures on property, for depreciation and other fixed charges has been correct. American Appraisal Service provides the facts with which to assure correctness of such accounting.

NEW CHICAGO CURB OPENS.

Growth Points to Fourth Largest Exchange Soon, Says Troup.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP).—Clarence G. Troup, president of the Chicago Curb Exchange, formally opened today the new quarters of the market at 332 South La Salle Street. He reviewed the market from its beginning, a little more than a year ago, with 596,000 shares sold in its first six months, 6,643,201 in the first half of 1929 and operations running 250 per cent larger thus far this year.

"The volume of business," he said, "is increasing at a rate which will make us the fourth largest Exchange in the country before the end of another year."

UNLISTED SECURITIES ACTIVE AND IRREGULAR

AUTO MAKERS ORDER STEEL

Indications Seen of Increased Output of Motor Cars.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Sept. 2.—Expected improvement in operation of automobile plants in the last four months of the year will be followed by an acceleration in activities of flat-rolled steel departments of properties in the Youngstown district, officials of the Republic Steel Corporation said today.

Orders for alloy steels from some large buyers indicate improvement in automobile production in the last quarter of 1930. Business in August from some of these buyers was the best of any month in 1930. It is explained that alloy steel purchases reflect conditions in the automotive industry six to eight weeks ahead.

Takes Over Durant Plant.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 2.—Control of the huge Durant motor factory here was taken over today by the Bayway Terminal, Inc. The deal involved $5,000,000. Carey L. Allen, manager of the Durant plant, who will remain with the terminal concern, said no further details in connection with the transfer were ready for public announcement.

Standard Motors Elects Chairman.

Lawrence R. Wilder has been elected chairman of the board of the Standard Motors Construction Company and Samuel H. Kaufman has been elected a director of the company.

Buick Motor Reports Production.

The Buick Motor Company, a division of the General Motors Corporation, produced 20,004 cars in August, compared with approximately 15,600 in July and 28,971 in August, 1929. Its schedule calls for around 14,000 cars this month.

OFFERINGS IN SOUTH SEND COTTON DOWN

Close Is Near Bottom at Losses of 9 to 17 Points, With Prices Barely Steady.

THREE CROP REPORTS VARY

America's Staple Sells Below Normal Parity With India's First Time in Three Years.

An opening decline in prices on the Cotton Exchange yesterday was followed by rallies on covering and scattered buying, which seemed to be promoted at that time by reports of comparatively small Southern offerings. Prices eased again, however, and the lowest levels were reached late, when hedging seemed to be more active. New October contracts, which had sold up from 11.02c to 11.23c, broke to 10.97c and closed at 10.98c, while May, after advancing from 11.63c to 11.80c, dropped to 11.57c, where it closed. The finest was barely steady at net declines of 9 to 17 points.

Influences conflicted in the day's trading. The opening decline was laid largely to relatively easy Liverpool cables, coupled with reports of some rain over the holidays in the Central and Western belt sections. A tropical storm south of Porto Rico and moving northeastward caused some uncertainty. The main factor on the early bulge was supposed to be the failure of Southern hedging to develop on a more important scale. Prices though weakened quickly on increased Southern offerings in the late trading.

Three private crop reports were issued. One put condition at 52.4 and indicated crop at 13,740,000; the other estimates were, respectively, 54.0 and 14,664,000 and 52.5 and 14,347,000. The lower figures were supposed to have brought in some buying in the morning, but the range between the high and the low figures suggested continued uncertainty over the government report due on Monday.

Liverpool cables reported some hedge selling and liquidation over the holidays, which evidently outweighed the rather more favorable tone of reports from the Manchester goods market. Reports from the domestic goods market were considered more favorable, with a large business in gray goods last week.

The weekly report of the New York Cotton Exchange Service said American cotton for the first time in three years is now selling below a normal parity with Indian cotton, which would point to an increased proportion of American staple in the world's consumption for this season.

Southern spot markets were generally 2 to 24 points lower. Middling quotations ranged from 9.85c at Montgomery to 11.19c at Norfolk. Spot sales reported to the New York Cotton Exchange amounted to 49,319 bales in the leading markets, compared with 49,750 a year ago.

WHEAT OFF, IGNORES BULLISH FEATURES

All Deliveries Decline to Low Marks on Crop, With Losses 2 to 2¼ Cents.

CORN IS WEAK AT FINISH

Hedging Offsets Buying as Prices of Oats Fall—Rye's Setback Led by September.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Bullish influences had little effect today on the wheat market, and, while estimates of the North American crop were reduced 18,000,000 bushels in private reports, hedging pressure and scattered liquidation were in evidence from the start. All deliveries dropped to new low marks on the crop and closed within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of 2 to 2¼ cents, compared with Friday's finish.

Winnipeg was 3¼ to 3⅝ cents and Liverpool 1½d to 2d lower than on Friday, and their breaks had considerable influence here. No. 1 Northern at Minneapolis ended at the same price as Chicago September, suggesting that readjustment between the American and Canadian markets has been completed and that foreigners could obtain choice Manitobas at virtually the same figures as No. 1 hard Winter.

Support at times was noticeably lacking, although houses with Eastern connections were buyers early, and made a good rally, but when pressure increased toward the last the best purchasing was by shorts. At the inside figure September at 83 cents was the lowest at this season since 1906, when it sold at 69⅛ cents, although in June and July, 1914, sales were made below 77 cents.

Foreign Buying Still Backward.

Refusal of foreigners to take hold is creating a bearish sentiment. The predictions of heavier export takings by Europe are being confirmed in the large shipments from leading countries, but apparently there is little or no removal of hedges against the grain, which tends to weaken futures.

More than 6,000 cars of wheat were received over the holidays at Minneapolis, Duluth and Winnipeg. Hedging sales were persistent, while longs in the September liquidated freely, putting the near-by future to almost 6 cents under the December at one time.

Private reports estimated the American Spring wheat crop at 237,000,000 bushels, or 14,000,000 above the government returns of a month ago, compared with 228,000,000 bushels harvested last year. The local experts showed an average of 347,000,000 bushels for the three Canadian Provinces, against their figures of 379,000,000 a month ago and 282,000,000 harvested last year.

An increase of 5,230,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply brought the total up to 187,505,000, against 182,275,000 in the previous week and 182,400,000 in the week last year.

Primary receipts were 7,725,000 bushels; a week ago, 2,533,000, and a year ago, 3,819,000. Shipments, respectively, were 2,867,000, 1,093,000 and 1,836,000 bushels.

Corn Is Pulled Down by Wheat.

Corn made a firm start and a weak finish, closing at net losses of 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents, due largely to sympathy with wheat. An early advance of ½ cent brought in profit-taking sales and local pressure. The reaction was easily attained, as outside support was noticeably lacking.

Private estimates showed an average of 1,948,000,000 bushels for the crop, the smallest since 1901. This compared with 2,212,000,000 a month ago and 2,614,000,000 harvested last year. While some local experts feel that the indicated yield is probably a maximum, others say they feel the damage is being exaggerated. The reports failed to have any effect on the market.

An increase of 653,000 bushels was shown in the visible supply, with the total 3,940,000, against 3,287,000 the previous week and 5,417,000 in the week last year.

Primary receipts were 1,788,000 bushels; a week ago, 876,000, and a year ago, 1,184,000. Shipments, respectively, were 848,000, 609,000 and 458,000 bushels.

Oats closed 1⅛ to 1¼ cents lower, with hedging pressure and selling by scattered longs offsetting commission-house buying. Private reports showed an average crop of 1,348,000,000 bushels, against 1,316,000,000 a month ago and 1,234,000,000 last year.

Rye lost 1½ to 2⅝ cents, September leading. Scattered longs sold the near-by delivery, while cash houses bought September and sold December.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

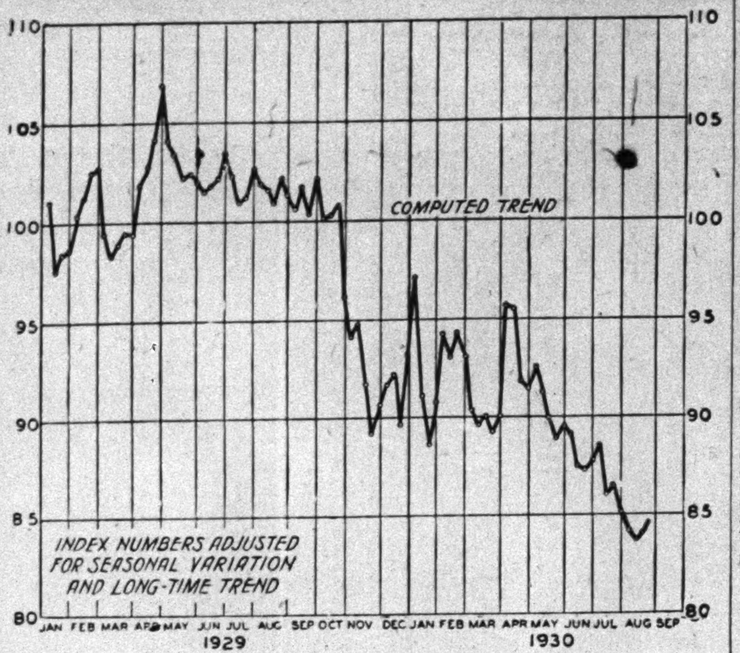
Car Loadings of 940,549 for Week Show Gain; Seasonal Increase Exceeded and Index Rises



The adjusted index of freight-car loadings for the week ended Aug. 23 shows a gain over the preceding week, as previously estimated; the revised index being 84.6 as compared with 84.1 for the preceding week and 102.2 for the corresponding week last year. The gain, though not especially large, makes the week the second in succession that the index has risen, in which connection it is pertinent to observe that only on three previous occasions this year has the car-loadings index risen for two consecutive weeks.

The total number of cars loaded for the week was 940,549, a greater-than-seasonal increase over the preceding week and about three-tenths of 1 per cent higher than the estimated figure used in the computation of the preliminary index of business activity. The revision changes the combined index of business activity for the week ended Aug. 23 from the provisional figure of 88.0 to 88.1 as compared with 87.6 for the week ended Aug. 16 and 105.4 for the week ended Aug. 24, 1929.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended on Aug. 23 were 940,549 cars, the American Railway Association announced today. Increases were reported in all commodities except ore, coke, grain and grain products.

The car loadings in detail were:

	Week Ended Aug. 23.	Change from Prev. Week.	Change from Same Week 1929.
Misc. freight	367,279	+ 6,578	—88,669
Mdse. less than car-load lots	236,423	+ 2,332	—25,337

PLANE CARRIER BIDS READY.

Navy Department to Open Them Today—New Craft to Cost $19,000,000

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Bids for constructing the 13,800-ton aircraft carrier authorized by Congress on Feb. 1, 1929, will be opened at the Navy Department tomorrow. It is expected that the carrier will be completed in about three years from the date of awarding the contract. Its cost is limited to $19,000,000 including armor and armament.

The new craft will be the first aircraft carrier especially designed for aircraft work in the fleet, the 33,000 ton carriers Saratoga and Lexington being converted battle cruisers and the experimental carrier Langley being a converted collier. Appropriations for the new carrier totaling $600,000 in the past fiscal year and $3,450,000 for the current year have been provided by Congress.

Not counting the Langley, a craft of 10,280 tons, with the completion of the new carrier the tonnage for this class will total 79,800 tons for the United States whereas the total permitted under both the Washington and London naval limitation treaties is 135,000.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—3 per cent for the best names. Saturday—3 per cent for the best names. The quotations are for 4 to 6 months' paper.

Holiday Reduces Buyers Here.

Due to the holiday the number of buyers in the market for the past week was lower in comparison with the preceding week and for the same period a year ago, according to the lists published in THE TIMES. The total reported was 426 buyers, the lowest this year, as against 1,125 for the previous week and 511 for the corresponding week a year ago. The buyers reported yesterday numbered 80, while last Tuesday's total reached 413.

Berkshire Hosiery Prices Cut.

Price reductions in silk hosiery ranging up to $2 a dozen were announced yesterday by the J. R. Beaton Company, Inc., leading distributers of hosiery for the Berkshire Knitting Mills. The outstanding numbers were revised as follows: No. G10, from $15 to $13; No. 300, from $9.75 to $8.50; No. 725, from $10.50 to $9.25; No. 1000, from $13.25 to $11.75. The Beaton company stated that this was the most radical reduction in prices made since the break in raw silk prices in 1920. The reductions were reported to be in line with the downward revisions made by the Berkshire Spinning Mills yesterday and averaged about 12 per cent.

Reorders Hold Recent Gains.

Reorders received through the mails by buying offices here yesterday were reported substantial. Much of the purchasing was of college, school and junior wear, indicating that many stores have had good initial business in this merchandise. The return of many from their Summer vacations is expected to be productive of additional consumer buying this week and next. Fur merchandise is also showing up well in reorders, the buying, in fact, being a great deal better than was expected in many quarters. Not a great deal of activity has as yet developed in women's apparel, most of the early buying being centred on misses' wear.

Dress Activity Gains Headway.

With the opening this week of a number of additional collections of dresses based on the models featured at the recent Parisian showings, the trade is now definitely launched into what is expected will be the most active period since the start of the Fall wholesale season. Many of the new collections were opened yesterday and were said to have attracted an improved showroom attendance. Much of the business placed to date has been by the group offices. While much is made of the Russian trend, it was said to have one drawback in that it is rather easily copied into cheaper lines. Difficulties with quick deliveries are already growing noticeable.

Trading Up in Kitchenware.

Staple merchandise in the medium and better price ranges is being purchased by stores now stocking kitchenware for Fall. The stores are not emphasizing cheap goods to the extent they did two months ago, but are striving to purchase good-quality merchandise at special prices. Although prices on kitchenware for Fall have been reduced by an average of 5 per cent, they have firmed at that level and will not go lower, according to selling agents. In enameled kitchen utensils the cream-colored pieces decorated with green are the best sellers. A good demand developed last week for roasters retailing from $2.50 to $3.50.

Men's Wear Sales in August Off.

August sales of men's clothing and furnishings, while regarded as satisfactory by most retailers, were not as large as those enjoyed in the preceding month, it was reported yesterday. The recession was suffered mostly by medium and higher price stores, while the popular-price retailers did a volume of business as good if not exceeding the previous month, it was said. One large national chain reported that its sales for August were 5 per cent ahead of the corresponding month last year, in contrast to July, which declined 10 per cent from 1929. In the higher-class stores the demand centred on the cheaper lines of merchandise, it was said.

Less Resistance to Lower Prices.

In most stores resistance to lowering price levels appears broken, according to the results announced yesterday of a survey made by the sales promotion division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. These stores feel, Frank W. Spaeth, manager of the division, explains in the current issue of the Data Book, that an effort to build better quality into each old price line will be contrary to customer expectation. In many successful stores, he added, instalment selling has proved the most formidable single weapon in approximating last year's result. The majority of stores will not curtail their advertising expense, the survey brings out, and many merchants feel the corner has already been turned.

Fall Glassware Buying Slow.

The hesitancy being shown by many stores in placing orders for glassware for regular Fall business has created uncertainty in the local market, selling agents complained yesterday. While a few buyers have placed orders for October and November delivery, the majority are seeking specially priced goods for immediate shipment and refuse to indicate when they will be in the market for regular stocks. In stemware the buying has been almost exclusively for immediate delivery. Gift pieces, such as glass bowls, fruit dishes, vases and similar articles, are selling best for later delivery. Articles retailing under $10 are wanted in this class.

Fancy Pillow Orders Up Sharply.

Coming into the market a full month later than usual, buyers of decorative pillows have now started their Fall buying with a rush and manufacturers are finding it difficult to keep up with demands. Most of the stores are taking a wide selection of styles and types, with the result that no definite trends have been observed, selling agents said yesterday. Pillows decorated with pleated bands and embroidered tops are featured in most of the Fall offerings and are expected to be favorites this season. Most of the volume at present is being done on pillows which can be retailed around $2.95. Buying has been confined to immediate needs with little attention paid to Christmas goods.

Gray Goods Prices Advance.

Prices continued to advance yesterday in the gray goods market and, while no large volume of trading appeared, there was a general demand for goods and buyers appeared to be interested in more diversified lines. The call for printcloths was good, with 38½-inch 60-48s quoted at 4½ cents and 64-60s at 5¼ cents. Buying of 39-inch 68-72s was active at 6 cents and 39-inch 72-76s were traded at 6⅝ cents. In 39-inch 80-squares orders were filled at 7¼ cents. Sheetings were quiet.

ECONOMIC BREAKDOWN IS SEEN BY THOMAS

He Declares Collapse of Present System Is Indicated by Unemployment Crisis.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Representative in the Sixth Congressional District, Brooklyn, declared last night that the unemployment crisis and the inability of industry to care for the jobless indicated a break-down in the present economic system. Mr. Thomas spoke from radio Station WEVD.

Mr. Thomas said he intended to stress honest government, unemployment insurance and public ownership and control of public utilities in his campaign.

"A McCooey-Tammany government in city, State and nation makes it dangerous to give over to the government they control the powers it should have," he said. "When Tammany and McCooey Congressmen and legislators vote for increasing government services there is always a chance that they are merely voting for increasing the opportunities for loot or patronage. We cannot trust the processes of socialization to thieves.

"We must have a Federal system of unemployment insurance, at least to the extent of supplementing what States may do and supplying unemployment insurance when States refuse to act. Otherwise industries will run away from States that go in for unemployment insurance to the South.

"Society must own and control public utilities and basic industries in services. The Federal Government in connection with States and cities must take over the power trust as rapidly as possible. Such a matter as control of the milk supply which worries New Yorkers will call for helpful action from the Federal Government. Part of the cost of milk in Brooklyn and Queens, especially, is due to the stranglehold the Pennsylvania and New Haven railroads have on traffic facilities which they will not share with the big milk, carrying roads."

Carnegie Steel Officer Resigns.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2 (AP).—John S. Oursler resigned today as vice president of the Carnegie Steel Company because of ill health. William G. Clyde resigned as president last week for a similar reason. Mr. Oursler was named vice president in April, 1928.

INVESTORS WARNED ON OIL ROYALTIES

Better Business Bureau Points Out a Weakness and Urges Buyers to Be Alert.

The second quarterly report of the Better Business Bureau of this city, made public yesterday, warned prospective investors in oil royalty corporations to be on the alert against poor investments.

"The sale of stock in oil royalty companies has increased tremendously during the past year," the report said. "To the average investor in the East, an oil royalty is an unfamiliar proposition, but he is impressed by the idea that he can buy stock in a corporation which will pay him a return in the first month he makes his investment.

"An oil royalty represents a part or all of the price which the oil-purchasing companies pay to the owner of a piece of land for the mineral rights thereto. Custom and in some cases law have decreed that the oil purchaser shall pay the landowner an amount equivalent to one-eighth of the total production from the property, except in certain States where the fixed ratio accruing to the landowner is one-sixth.

"It is a fact that a stockholder in a corporation engaged in the oil royalty business gets a return on his investment as early as the first month after he makes his commitment because settlements are made by the oil purchasers monthly. However, many stockholders in a corporation of this nature fail to realize that the disbursement which is made to them is not, as they usually believe, fully entitled to be designated as a dividend, because it is in fact a return of his principal.

"The usual weakness of the average oil royalty company from the viewpoint of a permanent investment arises from the fact that the flow of any oil well is limited in point of time, and the royalty which it yields constantly decreases as the volume of oil produced diminishes, until the income stops entirely."

Swimmer's Body Recovered.

The body of an unidentified bather, who was drowned in the gap, at the foot of Washington Street, Jersey City, Monday afternoon, was recovered yesterday by members of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps under Commodore Fred Keller, after twenty-four hours of work.

FAILURES IN AUGUST AT NEW LOW LEVEL

Dun & Co. Report 1,913—Less Than 2,000 in Month for the First Time This Year.

INCREASE IN LIABILITIES

Total of $49,180,653 Is 23.5% Greater Than in July—Tabulated Statement.

Business failures reported to R. G. Dun & Co. for August numbered 1,913, the first time this year that they have fallen below the 2,000 mark for a full month. This number was 5.7 per cent smaller than the total of 2,028 in July, but was 8.6 per cent greater than the 1,762 of August last year. It was, however, 30 per cent below the 2,759 failures reported for January, the maximum for any month of this year, and a little more than 3 per cent above the number of failures reported in August, 1928.

The liabilities for the month were $49,180,653, an increase of 23.5 per cent over July, which had the smallest total of any month this year, and fully 45 per cent above the $33,746,452 reported for August last year.

VOTES ON FARM MARKETS.

United States Chamber of Commerce Is Taking a Referendum.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—A referendum on the place of commodity exchange trading in the economic structure and as a facility for marketing agricultural products was submitted today by the United States Chamber of Commerce to more than 1,600 member organizations.

The questions to be passed on were in the form of four recommendations as follows:

1. That commodity exchange trading should be supported.
2. That trading in futures on commodity exchanges should be supported.
3. That intelligent and wisely regulated speculative buying and selling on commodity exchanges should be supported as a necessary factor in the economic distribution of agricultural products.
4. That commodity exchanges should adopt such changes in their rules and regulations as will promote not only the interest of the producer, the merchant and the manufacturer of agricultural commodities but also the general welfare of the public.

MACHINERY EXPORTS RISE.

Seven Months' Shipments Exceed Those of Period in 1929.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Exports of industrial machinery for the seven months ended July 31 amounted to $149,483,812, as compared to the former high mark made during 1929 of $148,134,032, the Department of Commerce said today.

Decreases were noted, however, in exports of textile machinery, a decline of 34 per cent being shown for the seven-month period, and one of 46 per cent for the month of July alone.

Exports of well and refinery machinery for the seven months are still nearly 15 per cent above those of last year. The exports included: Oil and gas well drilling apparatus, $6,271,000; other oil well and oil refinery machinery, $10,442,000; other well drilling apparatus, $766,000.

Foreign shipments of construction machinery for the seven months were valued at $12,363,000, as compared with $10,126,000 for the same seven months of 1929.

The trade in road-making machinery increased in the seven months, amounting to $2,565,000, as compared with $2,145,000 for that period last year, while trade in dredging machinery nearly doubled.

Greenwich Construction Gains.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Sept. 2.—Building last month surpassed the July total by more than $100,000, Inspector Charles D. Crosby reported today. An August volume of $485,600, with forty-five permits, compares unfavorably, however, with a volume of $854,875, with sixty-four permits, for the same month last year. This year's August figures surpass a $328,250 volume for 1928, which had sixty-four permits.

Iron Plant Resumes Operations.

READING, Pa., Sept. 2 (AP).—Increased operations by the Reading Iron Company took definite form today when the charcoal iron plant was reopened and about 175 employes went back to work on a full-time basis, averaging ten hours per day. These men had been idle for the last two months. Within another month, 300 employes at the puddle mill of the Oley Street mills are expected to return to work.

FALL IN MAIL VOLUME HITS POSTAL CARRIERS

Substitutes Getting Only 3 to 4 Hours Work a Day, Says Coleman—Heavier Mailings Expected.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (AP).—Arch Coleman, Assistant Postmaster General, today attributed unemployment conditions among substitute carriers and clerks to an "unusual slump" in mail volume.

"Mail in the last three months has fallen off as much as 20 per cent in some cities," Coleman said. "The offices in New York and Chicago have fallen off about 15 per cent this August as compared with August a year ago, an unusual discrepancy. As a result, substitutes are working on an average of three or four hours a day instead of five to seven hours a day."

Coleman said the government was powerless to furnish additional work for mail clerks and carriers, but added his department had made a survey which indicated heavier mailings would be resumed about the middle of September.

"During such a period as this there is bound to be a smaller amount of work for substitutes and they come into the service with that knowledge," Coleman said.

He attributed the practice in some cities of having carriers make collections which hitherto have been made by truck to the slump.

$1,250,000 GOLD ARRIVES.

Also 90,000 Bags of Coffee, Record Shipment, Here From Brazil.

The Munson liner Southern Cross docked from Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires yesterday with $1,250,000 in gold and nearly 90,000 bags of coffee, the largest shipment of coffee to come to this country from South America since 1923.

Nearly all of the gold was a shipment from the Banco Bovista of Buenos Aires to the Chemical National Bank and Trust Company. The remainder was sent from the Rio de Janiero branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce to the New York branch of the same bank.

The liner brought among her passengers, the United States soccer team which took third place in the South American championship matches. The Yale University debating team under Professor E. F. Hall of the Department of Spanish, returned after a Southern tour.

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN THE REALTY FIELD

Light Activity Marks Resumption of Trading After the Holiday.

FIFTH AVENUE HOME SOLD

Eliza Guggenheimer Estate Disposes of Residence Near Seventy-third Street to Michael Paterno.

Real estate trading was resumed yesterday, following the Labor Day week-end holiday period, with only a few scattered deals in the metropolitan area. The leading Manhattan transaction involved a Fifth Avenue dwelling near Seventy-third Street.

Leasing for residential and business purposes was slow, although brokers and renting agents expect to sign up many tenants in the next few days for Fall occupancy. New Jersey again took the lead in the suburban areas with sales of housing properties in Jersey City, Kearny and Union City.

Higher prices were obtained on the Real Estate Securities Exchange on turn-overs. Five bonds were sold.

In the leading Manhattan transaction of the day the residence at 923 Fifth Avenue will pass to a new owner for the first time since 1898. The house is a five-story structure, thirty-six feet north of the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and East Seventy-third Street. It was sold by the Eliza Guggenheimer estate to Michael F. Paterno, builder of many large apartments in the Fifth Avenue area. The home of Mrs. Laura Palmer is on the immediate corner, and the Guggenheimer house occupies a lot 28 by 100 feet.

As part of the transaction Mr. Paterno had to purchase the lease and option on the property held by Nicholas Partos. F. V. Calder & Co. and Brett & Wyckoff, Inc., were the brokers in the transaction.

The furnished residence of Alice Stone Farmer at 333 West Seventy-sixth Street was leased to a client of the Wood, Dolson Company. The house is five stories and occupies a lot 20 by 100 feet, between Riverside Drive and West End Avenue.

The Legqui Realty Corporation, which owns the Village Theatre at 115-119 Eighth Avenue, has purchased from the I. R. L. Realty Corporation, Benjamin Lazasoff, president, the leasehold on the adjoining three-story building at 113 Eighth Avenue, and now controls a frontage of 86 feet between Fifteenth and Sixteenth Streets.

Old Dwelling in Ossining Sold.

A Colonial type house in Brayton Park, Ossining, said to be 150 years old, has been sold by Victor E. Meerts to H. Augustus Haight, who intends to occupy it. The fifteen-room and five-bath dwelling is on a five-acre plot. W. H. Oliver was the broker.

House in Brooklyn Is Leased.

L. D. Atkinson has leased to J. Rathjen a twenty-room and ten-bath house at 42 Seventh Avenue, near St. John's Place, Brooklyn, through L. L. Yearsley.

SUES TO PROTECT FORMULA.

Phonograph Record Company Wants to Enjoin 3 Professors.

The Durium Products Corporation, 460 West Thirty-fourth Street, manufacturer of flexible phonograph records, applied in the Supreme Court yesterday for an injunction restraining three Columbia professors from carrying out alleged threats to disclose and sell secret processes for the manufacture of the records to the R. C. A.-Victor Company, 233 Broadway. The professors named are Hal T. Beans, head of the Chemistry Department at Columbia University, and his associates, George H. Walden Jr. and Louis P. Hammet.

The complaint asserts that the professors were called in to improve a heat-hardening coating material used for the discs and were paid $100 a day for their services and received jointly 1,147 shares of preferred and 2,676 shares of common stock in the Durium company. They were also employed by the company at a joint salary of $6,000 a year, the complaint said. Subsequently, the professors perfected other improvements on the process for the manufacture of the records and demanded additional compensation, the plaintiff declared. When this was refused they are said to have threatened to sell the secret formulae and processes to the R. C. A.-Victor Company. The Durium company says it is now selling about 400,000 records weekly and expects to sell 1,000,000 weekly by 1932. The suit also asks, in addition to the injunction, for a judgment requiring the professors to assign to the Durium company any patents they may seek on the basic processes.

MANHATTAN MORTGAGES.

The rector and church wardens of Grace Church have agreed with the Seamen's Bank for Savings that the mortgage for $108,000, which is held by the bank on 80 and 82 Fourth Avenue shall be extended to May 15, 1933, at 5¼ per cent.

On the property at 524 West 151st Street, owned by Cecelia Schwartz, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has extended its mortgage for $35,675 to May 1, 1935, at 6 per cent.

When Max Haas bought from the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, 30 Norfolk Street, he gave back a purchase money mortgage for $20,000, payable Aug. 15, 1935, at 5½ per cent, and will pay off $300 of the principal semi-annually.

Alice M. O'Connor sold to Joseph and Minnie Takats, 111 East 121st Street, 17 feet front, and she took back a purchase money mortgage for $6,500, to be paid off $250 quarterly at 6 per cent, subject to a first mortgage for $7,500.

The Seamen's Bank for Savings took an additional mortgage for $5,000 from the 28 West Twenty-eighth Street Holding Corporation, Sol Becher, president, combining this with another mortgage to make one lien of $105,000 on the parcel on the south side of Twenty-eighth Street, 350 feet east of Sixth Avenue, 50 feet in width, payable May 18, 1935, at 6 per cent.

Katharine C. and Henrietta L. Herrmann gave a mortgage for $24,000, due five years hence at 5½ per cent, to the Bowery Savings Bank on the property on the north side of Twenty-ninth Street, 125 feet east of Eighth Avenue, 50 feet in width.

Two mortgages aggregating $427,500, held by the Bank for Savings from 125 East Sixty-third Street, Inc., Charles N. Blakeley, president, have been consolidated as one lien for that amount on 125 to 135 East Sixty-third Street and extended to Sept. 25, 1935, at 5½ per cent for the next year, and 5 per cent thereafter.

The Bank for Savings made an additional loan of $7,000 to the Phillips Weeks Estate, owner of 136 and 138 East Forty-first Street, and consolidates this with another mortgage to make one lien thereon for $35,000 due Aug. 25, 1935, at 5½ per cent until Aug. 25, 1931, at 5 per cent thereafter.

When the Seventh Avenue Realty Company sold to Second Avenue Properties, Inc., Richard J. Comerford, president, the southwest corner of Second Avenue and Forty-fifth Street, 25 by 75 feet, the buyer gave back a purchase money mortgage for $65,000, payable Aug. 15, 1933, at 6 per cent, subject to a first mortgage for $35,000.

On the property on the south side of 115th Street, 75 feet west of Broadway, with a frontage of 100 feet, the Kentucky Holding Company, Inc., Joseph Newmark, vice president, gave a mortgage for $24,000 to Miriam Jacobs, payable Aug. 27, 1935, at 6 per cent, this being subordinate to a first mortgage for $192,500.

Forced Out Twelve Years Ago, Textile Firm Returns to Loft

A. A. Smith & Son, Inc., knit goods, is returning to the former New York Life Building at 346 Broadway, having leased an eighth-floor unit.

Arden A. Smith, head of the company, rented space in the structure thirty years ago. Due to expansion of the New York Life Insurance Company, the Smith concern twelve years ago was forced out of its quarters and rented its present store at the southwest corner of Broadway and White Street.

The former insurance building, since vacated by the underwriters, recently was renovated.

The Charles F. Noyes Co., Inc., arranged the lease.

EXTENDS BUILDING SITE.

Houston Properties Corporation Adds to East 38th St. Holdings.

Through the purchase of the four-story building at 25 East Thirty-eighth Street, interests representing the Houston Properties Corporation are understood to have completed the assembly of a large building site which includes the easterly block front on Madison Avenue, between Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth Streets.

The property at 25 East Thirty-eighth Street was transferred by the executors of Charles Duggan to the East Thirty-eighth Street Club, of which A. B. Jones, a director of the Houston Properties Corporation, is president. The plot measures 21 by 98.75 feet. The buyer gave a mortgage for $60,000 for three years at 6 per cent, and has the right to demolish the existing building. Mr. Jones stated yesterday that the purchasers have made no plans yet for the erection of a new building.

Some time ago the East Thirty-Eighth Street Club acquired the two five-story buildings at 27-29 East Thirty-eighth Street, and it was reported that an office skyscraper was planned.

Jesse H. Jones is head of the Houston Properties Corporation, which has erected several large Manhattan structures.

MEN—SALESMEN—MEN,
Tonight is the night.

If the fellow who says times are hard and people don't buy, and that he can't make a living selling, would come into my office and see the happy bunch of men drawing down big commission checks every week they would talk differently—there's a reason why.

We spend the money advertising, big full page display ads day after day, week after week; that's what makes it possible for us to load a special train every Sunday. Twelve cars loaded with people left the Penn. Railroad Station last Sunday to visit our property. Not satisfied with that we loaded another train with prospective buyers yesterday Labor Day; it's the same every Sunday.

Because—We are selling property at a railroad station at popular prices, and on terms that fit the average pocketbook.
Because—Every man in our organization gets new fresh newspaper leads.
Because—He is not asked to sell his friends or relatives.
Because—He works for a firm that has built up and maintains a reputation with its clients that spells continued success.
Because—We merchandise real estate, and maintain the high standard of ethics the profession deserves.

NEW LINE TO SPEED SOUTHERN SHIPPING

Lykes-Ripley to Operate 22 of 34 Government Vessels From Texas Ports.

PLANS REGULAR SCHEDULES

Unification of European Routes of Three Lines Designed to Improve Export Service.

Of the thirty-four ships of the United States Shipping Board which are being taken over for operation by the Lykes Brothers-Ripley Steamship Company under recently negotiated contracts, twenty-two will operate regularly in the service from Galveston and Houston areas to European ports, officials of the company said yesterday.

Four of the twenty-two vessels, the Narbo, West Tacock, Oakman and Mashaba, already have been taken over by the Lykes Brothers-Ripley Company and the others will be inducted into the services as they return from their present voyages to Continental Europe. The vessels will operate to Bordeaux, Havre, Dunkirk, Antwerp, Ghent, Bremen, Hamburg, Rotterdam and Amsterdam.

It was said the company plans to maintain service from the west gulf ports to European continental ports on definite sailing schedules.

Under the new plan of operation there will be weekly service to Bremen, ten-day service to Havre, one direct sailing at the end of each month for Rotterdam, and regular service to all ports on the continental range which will be served by the Southern States Line, the name assigned to the service under the consolidation effective Aug. 16.

The Southern States Line, operated by the Lykes Brothers-Ripley firm, under the new operating contract has taken over the services formerly given by the Southern States, the Texas Star and the Mississippi Valley-European Lines, the latter operating from New Orleans. The object of the consolidation is to centralize and unify service, it was said.

Most of the vessels which will come under the operative control of the company in the service from Galveston are well known to shippers from the Southeast. Two of the ships still are to be named. The others in the west gulf-continental service are the Brave Coeur, Conness Peak, Effingham, Endicott, Oakman, Tripp, Westmoreland, Youngstown, West Tacock, Deer Lodge, Waban, West Camak, West Chatala, Western Queen, Narbo, Meanticut, Nishmaha, Elkhorn, Mashaba and West Queechee.

The decision to adhere to definite sailing dates was to enable shippers of cotton and other commodities to handle their export business on a more efficient basis, giving them assurance that sailing dates would be arranged to insure delivery on the other side within definitely determined periods.

The consolidation of several other lines is expected in the near future.

VENTURA MEN HONORED.

Navy Joins San Francisco in Tribute to Sea Rescuers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2 (AP).—San Francisco paid homage today to the officers and crew of the Matson liner Ventura, who upheld sea traditions two weeks ago in a thrilling race across the South Pacific to rescue 317 passengers and crew of the British liner Tahiti.

Captain W. R. Meyer, the officers and crew of the Ventura and several of the Tahiti passengers were carried up Market Street in automobiles at the head of a parade.

Acting Mayor Angelo Rossi met the captain and his officers at the City Hall and escorted them to the rotunda, where naval officers and civic officials had gathered.

Mr. Rossi congratulated the Ventura's company and the men of the Tahiti and Penybryn, Norwegian freighter, first to arrive at the side of the foundering British liner, and Admiral W. D. Cole, commandant of the Twelfth Naval District, read a citation of honor from the Navy Department for the Ventura crew.

Captain Meyer in a brief response said the honors belonged to the captains and crews of the Tahiti and Penybryn, and explained his vessel's part as a "routine of our calling."

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING.

August Tonnage of 3,350,677 Was Drop From Year Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Total tonnage arriving at and departing from the port of San Francisco for the month of August was 3,350,677 tons, a drop of 278,936 tons as compared with the corresponding month of 1929, when the total was 3,629,615 tons.

The Panama Pacific liner Pennsylvania arrived here yesterday from the East Coast with 193 passengers, after landing twenty-nine at San Diego and 231 at Los Angeles. The Matson liner Maui, from Honolulu, and the 'round-the-world Dollar liner President Johnson dock today.

TUBERCULOSIS TOUR TODAY

60 British and Canadian Doctors Will Inspect Institutions Here.

Sixty British and Canadian physicians, who formed the group for the discussion of tuberculosis at the recent British Medical Association's convention in Winnipeg, arrived in New York last night as guests of the National Tuberculosis Association. They will leave the Hotel Victoria this morning for a tour of several of the city's institutions. The itinerary has been planned by Dr. H. E. Kleinschmidt of the association. Dr. R. E. Wodehouse, executive secretary of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, is in charge of the party.

The institutions to be visited include the New York Orthopedic Hospital, Bellevue Hospital, Neponsit Beach Hospital for Children at Rockaway Park, L. I., the Bellevue-Yorkville Health Demonstration, the National Tuberculosis Association and the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association. The doctors will return to Canada tonight, whence they will sail for England Sept. 5.

BIDS FOR 4 NEW SHIPS OF PANAMA LINE OPENED

Contracts for $16,000,000 Turbo-Electric Vessels Expected to Be Awarded Next Week.

Bids submitted by leading shipyards here and in San Francisco for the construction of four new turbo-electric passenger and cargo liners for the New York-California service were opened by officials of the Panama Mail Line yesterday in the offices of W. R. Grace & Co., the owners. It was said that the contracts for the ships, which may cost $4,000,000 each, probably will be awarded early next week.

San Francisco builders, the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation and the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock Company are said to be pressing to win the contracts for the West Coast. However, it is understood that the Grace Line favors construction of the liners in the East.

Specifications for the new ships reveal that they will have a displacement of 15,600 tons, a length of 508 feet and a beam of 70 feet, and that they will be built to maintain a speed of nineteen knots in the intercoastal run, with reserve power for a speedier passage when the occasion arises. Each of the vessels will have accommodations for 201 first and sixty-six tourist class passengers.

Cox & Gibbs, marine architects, designed the ships. Nine transverse bulkheads will be provided and the ships will be of the two-compartment type, meaning that any two compartments can be flooded without seriously affecting the buoyancy of the vessels.

Space for 7,000 measured tons of cargo will be provided in each of the liners. Most of the cargo space will be designed to hold perishable and semi-perishable products.

LOAD-LINE LAW IN EFFECT.

New Ship Statute Sets Maximum on Cargoes for Safety.

Eighteen hundred vessels flying the American flag are affected by the new United States loading law approved by Congress in March, 1929, which went into effect yesterday. The law applies to all ships of more than 250 gross tons, the only exemptions being ships engaged in trade on the Great Lakes and in the intercoastal trade.

Under its provisions, the Secretary of Commerce is directed to define load lines and indicate the maximum depth in which ocean-going vessels may be loaded safely. It also applies to all flags entering United States ports, except the Great Lakes, although the Secretary of Commerce may exempt foreign vessels already complying with load-line laws similar to the present American statute.

The American Bureau of Shipping is assigned as the authority on load lines and all applications must be made to that body.

Testify Today on Crash in Narrows.

Officers and owners of the Mallory freighter Neches and the scow Mulligan 3, which were in collision at the entrance to the Narrows last Wednesday, will appear before the United States Steamboat Inspection Service in the Custom House this morning for questioning.

500 APPLY IN CITY FOR OLD-AGE RELIEF

Superannuated Men and Women File Appeals for Benefits Under New Law.

SOME HAD LOST WEALTH

Others Give Tales of Distress and Inability to Obtain Work as Need for Aid.

More than 500 superannuated men and women, coming within the provisions of the State old age relief law effective next Jan. 1, filled out applications for benefits under the law at special bureaus in different parts of the city yesterday.

Three hundred applied at the division established by the Department of Public Welfare at 50 Lafayette Street, while 150 presented themselves at the offices of the American Association for Old Age Security at 22 East Seventeenth Street.

Commenting on the first day's results, Abraham Epstein, executive secretary of the association, declared last night:

"The need and justification for the State's new old age security law was amply demonstrated today, the first day when aged people filed applications for aid, when thousands of men and women 70 years of age and over flocked to special pension bureaus and organizations to petition for aid.

"More than 150 persons visited our office. One hundred applications were fully filled out to be filed with the Department of Public Welfare.

"Universally there was repeated the old story of lost fortune, inability to find work, lack of family connections and dire distress. In each case there was eager expectation that the petition would be granted and that aid would come on Jan. 1, when the first payments are scheduled to be made throughout the State. The group included artists, former actresses, formerly well-to-do business men and a sprinkling of other professions. The bulk of the applications were from the working masses."

Mr. Epstein said that 65 per cent of the applicants were between 70 and 75 years old, 35 per cent were 75 years old and over, and 13 per cent more than 80 years old. One applicant was 90 years old, he added.

FLORIDA BONDHOLDERS SUE

Ask Special Levy to Care for Boom Period Obligations.

Special to The New York Times.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 2—Thirteen alternative writs of mandamus, returnable Sept. 16, directed to city officials of West Palm Beach, Sanford, and Sarasota County, were filed with the Supreme Court today by attorneys representing numerous holders of Florida bonds throughout the country.

Alleging that the municipalities had either defaulted, or were about to default, in payment of obligations issued during the "boom" period, the writs asked for court orders to compel the levy of sufficient taxes to care for these bonds.

The Supreme Court has held aloof from the problem for some time, but today took cognizance of the desperate plight into which many communities are said to have thrust themselves by issuing bonds, which, since the passing of an abnormally prosperous period, they find themselves unable to liquidate.

At the conference today the petitioners described conditions in the Southern part of the State as being most unusual, and declared that rebellion against local high tax rates had caused some to move for repudiation of bond obligations.

Arguments in the case will be heard here Oct. 2.

OPENS MORROW CAMPAIGN.

Ex-Judge Carey Calls Ambassador Choice of People, Not Politicians.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 2.—The selection of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow as New Jersey Republican candidate for the United States Senate was accomplished by the people rather than by the politicians of the State, former Judge Robert Carey, a leading New Jersey attorney, said at a meeting of the Neil McLeod Association held at 120 Broad Street here tonight. About 100 were present at the meeting.

"New Jersey is lucky this year to have so outstanding a world leader as Ambassador Morrow as its Senate candidate," said Mr. Carey, who will stump the State for Mr. Morrow later in the campaign. "Morrow is rich, but what of that? We have a chance to put an extraordinary man in an important office where his full understanding of world problems will give great value. Let us show the other States that we appreciate our good luck."

DARTMOUTH MAN A SUICIDE.

Roy Brackett Jumps to Death From Albany Hotel.

Special to The New York Times.

He was a graduate of Dartmouth College in the class of 1924 and held a professorship in the Amos Tuck School of Business and Finance. He was also a member of the New Hampshire State Bar and had been a practicing lawyer for several years. He was until recently a member of the local insurance firm of Gile & Brackett. PLAN TO SAVE YACHT CLUB.

Creditors of Great Captains' Meet Tomorrow for Reorganization.

Members of the Voluntary Creditors Committee of the Great Captains' Island Beach and Yacht Club will meet tomorrow afternoon at the Alexander Hamilton Institute to discuss re-organization plans decided upon two months ago when the club was turned over to its members by its organizer, William Meehan, vice president of Starrett-Thompson Company, Inc. Mr. Meehan was also president of a holding company which turned over to the members, the club property, valued at $500,000, John P. Booth, attorney, and one of the members, said yesterday.

The club was opened last June and had incurred obligation of more than $200,000, exclusive of the cost of the property, it was learned. The Voluntary Creditors' Committee already had realized more than 50 per cent of that amount, Mr. Booth said. The restaurant attached to the club was closed Monday night, Mr. Booth reported. He added that the cafeteria would remain open until the club was closed for the season.

The club is located on an island near Port Chester. A. W. W. Marshall, vice president of the Greenwich Trust Company, is president of the club.

RETORTS TO GOVERNOR.

F. L. Carlisle Disputes Advice to Gouverneur, N. Y., on Utilities.

Entry by the village of Gouverneur into the business of selling light, heat and power, as suggested Monday by Governor Roosevelt, would "increase its bonded debt and quite probably its taxes" was the statement made by F. L. Carlisle, chairman of the board of the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, in a letter to Oruis Baldwin, Mayor of Gouverneur, yesterday.

Mr. Carlisle added, in part:

"If your village board considers acting upon the Governor's suggestion, will you kindly give me the opportunity of attending the meeting, which I hope will be public and to which all the citizens of Gouverneur will be invited, so that all the facts and the whole truth will be made available to the people. If you hold such a meeting, I wish you would invite the Governor to attend, so that the citizens may hear all sides of the discussion, which is not political but solely economic."

BANK'S OFFICERS ACCUSED.

Mismanagement Charged in Court in Port Newark National Case.

Charges that at least two officers of the Port Newark National Bank, which was closed on Aug. 8, mismanaged the funds of the bank, and that there were gross irregularities in the management, were made yesterday by Theodore Ackerson, receiver, in a statement read by Arthur T. Vanderbilt, counsel for the receiver, at a hearing before Federal Judge Runyon in Newark.

An application by Leonard J. Guiler and Horace S. Cory on behalf of the bank for an injunction to restrain the receiver from further activity in the bank's affairs, pending an appeal, was denied by Judge Runyon.

In opposing the injunction application, Mr. Vanderbilt read from the receiver's affidavit, which said that depositors had borrowed money for stock investments and that their profits were split with at least two officers of the bank, who were not named. Another charge was that an officer had been drawing money without the knowledge of the directors.

WIFE SUES REGINALD LEWIS

H. F. Guggenheim's Stepdaughter to Get Reno Divorce Today.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., Sept. 2.—Charlotte Potter Lewis, the former Charlotte Morton Potter, step-daughter of Harry F. Guggenheim, Ambassador to Cuba, and sister of Jean Potter Soldwedel, will receive a divorce here tomorrow from Reginald M. Lewis of New York.

The complaint in the case will be filed early tomorrow morning and the case heard soon afterward. They were married Aug. 12, 1926, at Ridgefield, Conn., and have no children. A property settlement has been made out of court.

Mrs. Lewis's complaint alleges mental cruelty, charging Lewis with constant fault-finding, that he provided her with no amusement and that when he did accompany her anywhere he did so in "a most disagreeable manner."

Mr. Lewis is the son of Mrs. Frederic E. Lewis. In April, 1917, he married Miss Claire Bird in this city, the marriage ending in divorce. Mr. Lewis is a member of the Racquet and Tennis, Brook, Westminster Kennel, Piping Rock and City Midday Clubs.
